ROYAL GREETING

Ohio's Great Governor, William McKinley, Given a Magnificent Reception by Republicans in Duluth Today.

Breakfasted at the Kitchi Gammi Club and Driven About the City in the Forenoon.

Large Crowds from the Ranges Came in on the Iron Range Train at Noon.

Immense Car Barn Filled to Overflowing—Great Demonstration Given Gov. McKinley When He Appeared.

This is the greatest day Republicanism has ever seen in Duluth. Every one, whether Democrat, Republican or Populist, was anxious to catch a glimpse of the famous protectionist, Governor McKinley. He arrived this morning on the St. Paul & Duluth train from St. Paul. With him were Tams Bixby, chairman of the Republican state central committee, Secretary Harris Richardson, of the central committee, Mayor Lewis and Judge Carey. Associated and United Press correspondents also came up.

Upon his arrival Governor McKinley was escorted to the Spalding hotel, where he was met by Judge Ensign, C. E. Lovett, Thomas S. Wood, Luther Mendenhall and others. About 8 o'clock he was taken to the Kitchi Gammi club and a breakfast was tendered him by Mr. Mendenhall. The guests were

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

Mayor Lewis, C. A. Towne, G. G. Hartley, W. W. Billson, D. G. Cash, Maj. Sears, C. H. Graves, Judge J. D. Ensign, C. E. Lovett and T. S. Wood.

After breakfast Governor McKinley was taken for a drive, accompanied by several prominent citizens. A call was made at the high school and Governor McKinley briefly addressed the students.

The governor delivered a short talk to about 1500 of the school children and teachers at the High school this morning, in Assembly hall. There was not a breath of politics in his remarks. He told the little folks how he once addressed a meeting of school children in Galena, Ill., in 1857, when the then comparatively unknown Capt. U. S. Grant was in the audience. He told the children how the pathway, through the common schools, was open to all American children to rise to any heights their merits entitled them to. The governor was much pleased with the building and said it was the finest public school edifice he had ever seen.

Crowds From Outside.

Incoming trains brought large crowds from the range and elsewhere. The Duluth & Winnipeg brought in a large number but the Iron Range carried the largest number. The train had seven coaches. From Ely there were fifty people and the Ely band of eighteen pieces. From Tower there were about sixty people. At Allen Junction another loaded car was switched on. In all fully 250 people came.

During the morning the big street car barn was being placed in condition. The pits were covered over. A big stage was erected against the west wall and chairs for 200 people were placed thereon. Fourteen hundred chairs were placed on the floor for ladies. The space in the rear of this was for standing room and was sufficient to accomodate about 17,000 people. The stage was appropriately draped in national colors. Altogether it made a fine audience hall.

About 1:30 o'clock the parade was formed under the direction of Maj. Braden. The City band, Harris Military band and Ely band were all in line. The Republican Marching club made a fine appearance. Members of the St. Louis County Republican club and the Colored Republican club were in line and altogether there were several hundred people.

An Immense Crowd.

The street car barn was packed long before the hour set for the meeting arrived. Every chair was filled, and standing room around the outside of the tiers of seats was nearly all filled. The glee club sang several selections appropriate to the occasion. The selections were amusing, and were well received by the crowd, which numbered fully 10,000 on the start and which increased during the progress of the meeting.

As the governor entered the hall at 2:25 the band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner," and the immense crowd united their voices, men and women and children, in a magnificent ovation to the Napoleon of Ohio. When he took his place on the platform he was accompanied by Mayor Lewis, C. A. Towne and Judge Ensign. A selection by the glee club followed. A mention of C. A. Towne in the song was received with cheers.

Mr. Towne Speaks.

Mayor Lewis then spoke briefly, introducing C. A. Towne, who was received with cheers. He spoke briefly and to the point, alluding to Congressman Wilson and his return from his "English constituency." He spoke of the magnificent gathering as a surety of the permanence of American institutions. "You are here," he said, "because you believe that the first duty of every government is to protect its own business, and because you believe in returning to power the party that has and will protect the American market."

"You are here finally, because the magic of one only name among all the statesmen of America could bring together such a magnificent gathering of the wealth, beauty of the country. You are here to greet the man who above all has been instrumental in preserving the principle of protection. If he should die today that great man would have that principle engraved upon his heart."

"For all time he will go down to posterity with the McKinley bill in his hands. Your are not here today to hear me, but to hear the greatest representative of the party of which I am a humble follower." He closed by predicting Republican victory this fall and in greater measure than ever before. His speech was greeted with cheers all through.

Mayor Lewis then spoke briefly, introducing Governor McKinley. He said: "Fellow citizens: We welcome today a distinguished guest. The Zenith City gives greeting to the governor of Ohio, and the Republicans within her borders receive with loud acclaim and hearty affection one of the greatest leaders of their party. We are here to listen to argument and counsel as to our political duties by an authority without a superior; and now, in accordance to custom, and not because it is necessary, I introduce to this magnificent audience William McKinley, not of Ohio only, but of the United States."

Governor McKinley's Speech.

When Governor McKinley arose to speak the building fairly shook with the enthusiastic applause which greeted him. No such demonstration was ever before seen in Duluth. When the storm of applause finally ceased, Governor McKinley began his speech, which extended over an hour. He paid his respects to Chairman Wilson's claim that he had garbled his London speech, and among other things said:

"In November, 1892, a Republican national administration, able, efficient and patriotic, which had been in control of the government for nearly four years, and at the head of which was one of our greatest American presidents, Benjamin Harrison (applause), was, by the voice of the American people, voted out of power and a Democratic administration voted in. That administration has been in control of the federal government, in all of its branches, for now nearly nineteen months. And during that period it has employed the greater part of its time in revising the tariff. That long period, for it has seemed very long to the American people, has given to us an opportunity for sober reflection, steadied by the discipline of adversity. The people have been reflecting, for they have had little else to occupy their attention. The people have been thinking and those who have not been thinking have been feeling—feeling the stress of the times wrought by the great change. It must have been apparent even to congress, that while they were engaged in revising the tariff the people were employed in revising their views and were impatient with anxiety to pass judgment upon their work. It did not take the people so long to revise their views as it has taken congress to revise the tariff. And they are only awaiting an opportunity to express those revised views in a constitutional way at a national election. The people of this country never were so anxious, in all their history, to vote as they are at this hour. And I have been looking for some one who would move the previous question and stop all debate so that a vote might be taken at once. Not only do I think that the people are anxious to vote, but I am sure they are ready to vote and have already made up their judgments upon the work of the present administration and the present congress.

All Eyes Are Opened.

"Even the eyes of the blindest partisans have been opened, and those who hitherto never saw any good in the Republican party and who for years have been voting its policy a fraud and a robbery and its laws as the culminating atrocity of class legislation are now burning with impatience for a reconsideration and a change. Those who voted the present administration into power and those who were opposed to its taking control of the government are equally regretful and unhappy. There probably never has been in the political history of this country a greater revolution in public sentiment than that which has taken place within the past two years. Every state of the North that has had an opportunity to vote has voted a condemnation of the present administration and an approval of Republican policies and Republican principles.

"Commencing in 1893, less than a year after its inauguration, every election, commencing with the great state of Massachusetts in the East, which the year before had elected a Democratic governor, in the following year reversed that decision and gave the Republican candidate for governor more than 35,000 majority. Then the state of Iowa, which had had a Democratic governor elected by a plurality of more than 10,000, was replaced by a Republican governor who received 38,000 plurality. And Ohio, which in 1892 had given but a little over 1000 for the Republican ticket, in 1893 gave to the Republican party a majority of more than 80,000. Then came the election in the state of New York, in two congressional districts. One of them was carried by the Republican candidate by a majority of over 900, which a year before only had given to President Cleveland more than 6000 plurality. And in the other district, in the very stronghold of Tammany, a Democratic majority of 11,900 was reduced to a Democratic plurality of less than 4000. Then sweeping along we came to that great state of Pennsylvania, the Gibraltar of Republicanism, in the special election for congressman, at which that veteran Republican, that magnificent man, Galusha A. Grow, received a majority of more than 180,000. Then came the same glad news from Oregon on the Pacific. And then in Vermont. And then Maine, the state of Blaine and Reed, gave an unprecedented majority for the Republican party.

The Same in the South.

"Not only, my fellow citizens, has this revulsion of public sentiment taken place in the North, but there are the same evidences in the South. In the state of Louisiana, less than two weeks ago, the great sugar planters of that state met in convention—men who had all their lives been Democrats, leaders in their party, Democrats by tradition, and Democrats by practice, who for years had been attempting to make themselves believe that the Democratic party could be trusted by the material interests of the country, and they were at last compelled to abandon that position and to publicly proclaim their allegiance to the principles of the national Republican party.

"What, my friends, has been the cause of this mighty revulsion of public sentiment? It is answered in a single sentence. The Democratic party has been running the government for nearly nineteen months, and during that time little else has been running. Every industry in this country has been disturbed, every investment has been imperiled. Men have found little employment in their accustomed places, and when they have been employed it has been at greatly reduced wages. There has been no cessation in the waste of wealth and wages and profit. It has cost this people more than it cost this government to put down the mighty rebellion, for the preservation of the Union and the honor of the flag.

"The appeals to charity were never so universal, and their necessity never was so apparent as now. Congress has trifled with the sacred trusts of the people, imperiled their investments, disturbed their occupations; they have quarreled and compromised, and upon their own testimony have themselves been compromised. And at length we got a tariff law—such as it is—a tariff law which nobody approves, certainly nobody who lives beneath our flag; a tariff law which the president of the United States refused to sign. A tariff law which he characterized before its enactment as an act of party perfidy and party dishonor, and which he said if it passed, the Democratic party could not look the people of the country in the face, and which, after the enactment of that law, he declared to be the very communism of pelf.

Product of a Trust.

"A law, my fellow citizens, which the chairman of the committee on ways and means of the house declared to be the product of a most gigantic trust, which held the congress of the United States by the throat; a law which the senior senator from New York, Mr. Hill, declared was in violation of party pledges and party promises—and as a reward for his vote the Democracy of the great Empire state has nominated him for its governor; a law, my fellow citizens, which is sectional in every part. It has some protection and some free trade. It has some protection for the southern section of the country; it has a good deal of free trade for the northern section of the country. It gives to the cotton planters of the South free cotton bagging; it gives to the farmers of the North tariff bagging for their products. It gives to the Southern planter hoop-iron free, which goes about his bale of cotton; and it puts a tariff upon the hoop-iron that goes around the barrel and the bucket and on the wagon bed of farmers of the North. It makes wool free and puts a tariff on sugar. Wool is a Northern product, sugar is a Southern product. That law was made, not in answer to any demand from the American people, not in response to any public sentiment, not after hearing the representatives of the vast interests of this country; but it was made by three senators—one from Arkansas, one from Missouri and the other from Tennessee. Thirty-seven Democratic senators in caucus agreed to vote for any bill that that committee might prepare.

The only six more votes were required to secure forty-three, a bare majority of the senate; and Mr. Jones himself tells he went from senator to senator and asked, 'What must you have to get your vote for this bill? Not what the people want; not what the state wants, not what is best for the industries of the country, not what is best for the farmers of the country, not what will subserve the best interests of the wage earners of the country; 'but what must you have by way of concession to secure your vote for this great tariff bill?' And so it was passed—the public not taken into the conference, the public not taken into confidence of the senators who had the mangement of the bill.

The Law of 1890.

"Ah, but they say, 'Bad as the bill is, iniquitous as the law of 1894 is, it is better than the law of 1890.' Better than the law of 1890? Better for what? Better in what particular? Better for whom? Better for any American citizen? If it served any American interest at all it was the sugar trust and the whisky trust. Has it opened up any new factories? Has it built up any new industries? Has it lighted a single new fire in a furnace? Has it given an additional day's work to the workingmen of the United States? Has it increased their wages? How many men who were employed in 1892 are idle today? How many men are receiving today the wages they received in 1892?

"I remember, when the great national convention was held in the city of Minneapolis, that there came before the convention representatives of the laboring people of the country, asking that that convention put into its platform a declaration in favor of eight hours for a day's work. The working men were then discussing the wisdom of shorter hours. You haven't heard any suggestion about eight hours a day since November, 1892. It is not shorter hours they want now, it is longer in order to protect the family and keep the wolf from the door. Better than the law of 1890? Why, under the operation of that law every industry in this country was working to its fullest capacity. Not only was every industry working at its fullest capacity, but every man in this country who wanted work could get work at remunerative wages. New industries were builded up under that law, and they were built up in the United States.

"New industries were started in this country under the stimulus of that law;

TAYLOR'S SCALP

Report That Maj. Baldwin Will Have Register Taylor Removed from His Land Office Job.

Taylor Got His Appointment by Making the Major Believe That He Secured His Election.

A Large Number of Democrats Asking His Removal as their Price for Supporting Baldwin.

Baldwin Said to Have Agreed to This, and Taylor Will be Fired Before Election.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 8.—The Pioneer Press of today has the following: "Congressman Baldwin has got a bad job on his hands in the matter of the Duluth land office," said a prominent Democratic politician, who for very obvious reasons refuse to allow himself to be named in connection with the affair, to a Pioneer Press reporter yesterday. Asked to elucidate he continued:

"It's about the question of whether or not he will ask for the removal of Register Taylor, of the land office, who was appointed on his endorsement. Taylor has somehow managed to make himself obnoxious to a large body of the Democrats of the Sixth district, and they are asking for his removal as the price of their support for Mr. Baldwin. Taylor is not without strength and his friends may get ugly if he is removed.

"Taylor used to cut some figure in local politics and so did Maj. Baldwin. When the major was brought out and, to the surprise of himself and everyone else in the district, found himself elected, Taylor told him that he (Taylor) was the man who made it possible and Baldwin rather believed it. He knew that there was something about it that he did not understand, and he accepted Taylor's theory and had him appointed to the land office. As soon as Taylor got his place he told everyone he knew that he was entitled to it, because he had discovered Baldwin, had brought him out and taught him all that he knew about politics and got him elected. This came to the ears of the major and he didn't like it or like Taylor to talk of it, especially when there was a kick from a certain element of the Democracy.

"The other day, when a proposition was made from the anti-Baldwin crowd to support him if he would agree to have Taylor fired, he gave ear to their proposal and there is a prospect that the days of Mr. Taylor will be very short in the very fat thing that he has found in the land office during the rush into the northern part of the state. It is generally understood that Baldwin has agreed that Taylor should go and there will be no lack of independent gentlemen who want his job, to make the complaint necessary to give Baldwin an excuse to move.

"The question will not let the matter stand as it is until election is over; they want the deal made now, and no deal, no support. As the stronger element of the Democracy would rather see Taylor out than in, he will most certainly get his conge, and then there will be a bad time in store for Baldwin anyway."

THE CZAR MUCH WORSE.

A Sudden Change Has Taken Place in His Condition.

BRESLAU, Oct. 8.—The Schlesische Zeitung publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg which says that a sudden change for the worse has taken place in the condition of the czar.

The dispatch adds that the minister of war has ordered prayers for the preservation of the life of the czar to be offered up in all the garrison and regimental churches.

Fainting fits are reported to have supervened and have rendered an operation immediately necessary.

Breckinridge for Senator.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—The Times-Star's Lexington, Ky., special says the friends of Breckinridge are bringing him out for senator. Secretary Carlisle, Senator Blackburn, Governor Brown, Gen. Buckner and Henry Watterson are among the other men named. The friends of Owens are insisting on Senator Blackburn taking the stump immediately in the Ashland district for Owens.

A Sudden Death.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Andrew Shaw, a wealthy and prominent board of trade man died suddenly last night. It is said that Shaw committed suicide. He was 59 years old, a brilliant but eccentric man, not in business of late years.

A Fatal Fast.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Professor William Sloan died at his home today after a fast fifty days. Professor Sloan, who was a prominent educator and newspaper man, had been subject for many years to attacks of a strange disease which, he said, compelled him to fast.

Received With Enthusiasm.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Hon. W. L. Wilson arrived here at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the East. He was met at Harper's Ferry by a special train crowded with enthusiastic Second district Democrats, who escorted him to his native town. A great mass meeting was convened and Mr. Wilson spoke.

Fear an Early Attack.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A despatch from Johannesburg to the Pall Mall Gazette says that the report is current there that the inhabitants of Laurenzo Marquiz, Deloaga bay, are in fear of an immediate attack on the part of the Kaffirs. The hostile Moahzulis are now said to be within a mile of the town.

RECOVERED AT LAST

Four Very Valuable Paintings, Which Were Stolen Nine Years Ago, Restored by a Burglar.

The Manner of the Recovery of the Paintings as Mysterious as Was their Robbery.

A Reward of Fifteen Hundred Dollars Was Paid by the Ames Family for Them.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A World special from Boston, says: Four paintings valued at from $15,000 to $18,000 that were stolen from the residence of the late Frederick A. Ames, at North Easton in the summer of 1885, have been recovered by the family within a week, and the recovery has been as mysterious as was the robbery, nine years ago. The family are still in the dark in regard to where the pictures have been all these years. They have no ipea of the identity of the burglars nor do they know the lawyers who were chiefly instrumental in the recovery of the pictures.

At the time of the robbery Mr. Ames offered $1500 for information that would lead to their recovery. Last week inquiry was made as to whether the reward was still good. The reply was in the affirmative, and after some mysterious negotiations the pictures were given into the possession of the family, and $1500 were paid to a lawyer in this city to be turned over to the man who gave the information. Everybody connected with the transaction was pledged to secrecy in regard to the identity of the others concerned in the deals.

In the fall of 1885, forty-four houses, stores and banks in New England were robbed. Among them was ex-Governor Claflin's house at Newtonville where about $8000 worth of diamonds and jewelry were secured. But the robbery of the Ames house at North Easton was the most mysterious and peculiar of them all. The house, which is one of the most beautiful and costly residences of New England, is situated in the center of North Easton. Next morning one of the housemaids found several empty picture frames lying about. Money was spent liberally in trying to get a trace of the pictures and private detectives worked steadily on the case for over a year but without coming upon a clue of any value.

A short time ago a man was arrested in New York for murder. He had no money with which to pay his lawyer. In this extremity he told the lawyer that he could get $1500 for some pictures that had been stolen by a gang of which he had been a member and he unfolded to him the story of the Ames robbery. Negotiations were opened with a Boston lawyer and the representative of the Ames estate agreed to pay the money provided the pictures were as good as when taken.

This proved to be the case and the pictures are now in the possession of the Ames family again. It is supposed that they had been left with some pawnbrokers as the burglars said they were indebted to the dealer $1000 and this sum he had to pay.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

The Aged and Popular Poet and Author Passed Away Yesterday.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, famous as a poet and author, died at his residence on Beacon street at 12:15 p. m. yesterday. He was 85 years old.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The afternoon papers published sympathetic articles on the death of Oliver Wendell Holmes. The Westminster Gazette says: "His death is one of those literary losses which will be felt as a personal one right across the broad lands and seas where English is spoken."

The Globe says: "It is no exaggeration to say that the news will be received by the English speaking people throughout the world with a feeling of almost personal bereavement. He was among those few authors who endear themselves to their readers by winning love before admiration."

ASK THEM Why?

Ask the men who are making imitations of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening, why they give up lard and try to trade on the merits of COTTOLENE? Perhaps you can guess why.

ASK HIM Why?

Ask the grocer who attempts substitution, why he tries to sell an imitation when people call for that pure, palatable and popular vegetable shortening, COTTOLENE? Perhaps you can guess.

ASK YOURSELF Why?

Why should not YOU use COTTOLENE, instead of Lard for all cooking purposes? It has the highest possible endorsement; from Physicians as to healthfulness; from Cooking Experts as to superiority; from housekeepers as to economy. Use COTTOLENE and stick to it.

OPEN WARFARE ON THE A. P. A.

The American Liberal League Has Been Formed in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Open and organized warfare against the American Protective association has been commenced in this city. Meetings have been held in every precinct and an organization called the American Liberal league has been formed by a number of prominent lay members of the Roman Catholic church to devise plans for the defeat of candidates in the coming election who may be supported by the A. P. A.

The organizers of the American Liberal league have employed every available means to learn the plans and methods of the A. P. A. They claim to have obtained accurate accounts of the A. P. A. meetings in this city, with the rituals and oaths of the various lodges. James F. Smith, an attorney who is a prominent mover in the American Liberal league, said:

"Our league is an organized body; it is only by combination that we can fight the A. P. A. movement. By thorough, direct and central organization we will try to see that none of the A. P. As. are elected. The local Populist ticket is largely A. P. A. in its make-up, and the municipal non-partisan ticket also contains many A. P. A. names. In the recent Republican municipal convention there were sixty-seven members of the A. P. A. and its ticket also has many A. P. A. names which the American Liberal league will openly denounce."

EVANGELIST WANTS A DIVORCE.

He Has Filed a Suit Giving Desertion as the Ground.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Capt. R. Kelso Carter, evangelist and lecturer, is the complainant in a divorce suit. The complaint was filed on June 2 of this year and the summons is printed in a weekly journal, but the judge was not satisfied with this method of giving publicity to the case and ordered summons to be inserted in a daily publication and a marked copy sent to Mrs. Carter, who is a resident of Chester, Pa.

Capt. Carter came to this state in 1891 alone, and after he was settled, sent for his wife to join him. This she refused to do and hence the divorce on the ground of desertion. No answer has been filed to the complaint.

SUICIDE AT SEATTLE.

A Dentist Who Used Cocaine Shot Himself in the Head.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—Dr. W. E. Giddings, a dentist of wide reputation and ex-president of the State Dental association, was found in his office with the whole left side of his head blown off by a shotgun. He had placed the muzzle of the gun in his mouth and when the shot went off blood and his brains were scattered over the ceiling and the walls of the room.

Giddings was prosperous and happy in his domestic relations, but his health had become impaired by the excessive use of cocaine.

Never by Conquest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Minister Romero, of Mexico, says of the recent reports that Mexico contemplated founding a new republic taking in Nicaragua, Salvador, Guatemala and all the territory down to the isthmus: "Certainly Mexico will never inaugurate such a policy against the wishes of the governments. Possibiy it might come about at their request for annexation to Mexico, but it will never be by conquest."

Trotters to be Sold.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Forty-seven trotters from the Palo Alto farm, owned by the Stanford estate, will be shipped East, next to be sold at auction in New York. SUBMITTED LIKE LAMBS.

Daring Robbery of Six Men in a St. Louis Saloon.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—A daring highway robbery took place last night at the saloon of Herman L. Feucht, at 8:45 o'clock. At that hour there was P. T. Feucht and several quarry laborers in the place. The front door suddenly opened and a tall man, wearing a slouch hat and a bandkerchief over his face as a mask, walked in and was closely followed by five more men, all wearing masks.

The men held drawn revolvers and quickly covered Feucht and the men in the saloon. The entrance of the robbers was so sudden that the saloonkeeper and his companions were taken completely unawares, and were so frightened that the thought of offering resistance never entered their minds. They submitted like lambs to the dictates of the leader, who ordered them to throw up their hands.

The victims, six in number, were then placed in line, and while five of the robbers kept them covered with revolvers, one of them went through their pockets. From the pockets of Feucht, together with the receipts of the day's sales which were taken from the till, $85 was secured.

Eugene Flecker, a quarryman, contributed $4 of hard-earned wages to the welfare of the freebooters. Thatch Leonard handed over $12. J. W. Furr gave up $4. Con Wilson and John Delaney for good reasons lost nothing, because that was the size of their piles. The men, on completing the robbery, dashed out the way they came, and ran quickly into the railroad yards, where they were lost among the many cars standing on the tracks.

The mounted district police were quickly notified, and the robbers are being closely pursued.

ROOT GOES ON THE STAGE.

Engineer Root Signed for Two Weeks With a Dramatic Company.

A New York dispatch says: James Root, the brave engineer of Hinckley, Minn., has signed a two weeks' contract with the "Ride for Life" company, which will open at the Grand Opera house this (Monday) evening. "It happened just like this," said Root. "I didn't come East to parade myself, but that's what they'll say out home, I suppose. What they call the advance agent of that show came to see me today and said he wanted me. I laughed at the idea; my wife was indignant. So when he asked if I would go my wife said $500 a week, and he pulled out a contract. I had to sign."

The St. Paul & Duluth railroad gave Root a gold watch and chain last Friday.

St. Clement's Cadets.

The St. Clement's cadets will, with the assistance of Miss Louise Lyons, the child actress, play "Ten Nights in a Barroom" on Wednesday evening. The St. Clement's cadets are well known for the excellent manner in which they render their plays and it is sate to say that this concert will excel all others.

TIRED, WEAK, NERVOUS, Could Not Sleep.

Prof. L. D. Edwards, of Preston, Idaho, says: "I was all run down, weak, nervous and irritable through overwork. I suffered from brain fatigue, mental depression, etc. I became so weak and nervous that I could not sleep, I would arise tired, discouraged and blue. I began taking and now everything is changed. I sleep soundly, I feel bright, active and ambitious. I can do more in one day now than I used to do in a week. For this great good I give Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the sole credit.

It Cures."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1. 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

The Termination of the Reciprocity Treaty Between the United States and Guatemala is Announced.

No Protest Similar to Those Made by Spain, Germany and Brazil is Considered Probable.

The Guatemalan Minister Believes That the Reciprocity Treaty Was Very Beneficial to Both Countries.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Minister Arriaga, of Guatemala, has been officially advised by the state department here that the new tariff law terminates the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Guatemala and has transmitted the notification to his government. He has not as yet received any directions as to the course Guatemala will pursue. He says, however, that no protest or other step, similar to those taken by Spain, Germany and Brazil, is contemplated.

"There will be no discrimination against the United States as a result of the change," said Senor Arriaga. "Guatemala will merely re-establish her old duties against the United States, which will place this country on the same footing with other countries. It is my personal opinion that the reciprocity treaty was very beneficial to both countries. Guatemala used immense quantities of barbed wire material. It is chiefly agricultural country and the American barbed wire has become to be the only material used in fencing off the farms. It was admitted to Guatemala free of duty under the reciprocity treaty, which greatly stimulated its use.

"Almost all the agricultural implements used in Guatemala were also brought from the United States, as they were made free of duty by the reciprocity treaty. Other classes of manufactured iron goods, such as railroad supplies, machinery, etc., were also bought in large quantities by Guatemala under the reciprocity arrangement.

"On the other hand our country has been able to ship sugar in large quantities to the United States as that article was admitted free of duty. Now, however, the new sugar duty of 40 per cent ad valorem amounts to an absolute prohibition against all shipments of sugar from Guatemala to the United States. This is the more marked from the fact that the United States treaty with Hawaii admits sugar free of duty, so that while Guatemala is on the same footing as Brazil, Cuba and other Southern sugar countries in having an American duty of 40 per cent against them, yet it and all the Southern countries are at the disadvantage of having a sugar producing competitor, Hawaii, which has free access to this country.

"But," he added, "it is not for Gautemala or any other Southern country to do anything except acquiesce in the new American tariff. It should be borne in mind that it was the United States which inaugurated the reciprocity policy. It took the first steps and invited the Southern and Central American republics to enter into closer commercial arrangements. These countries reciprocated the kindly feeling and many of them entered into the arrangements which the United States proposed. The United States was, therefore, the moving power, and if it now sees fit to terminate that policy, it is not for the Southern countries to urge its continuance."

STABBED BY A BURGLAR.

Man and Wife Stabbed and a Burglar Fatally Injured.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Joseph Finnigan and wife, deaf mutes living at 34 Chadron street were stabbed with a knife, early this morning. Mrs. Finnigan will probably die.

The stabbing was done by Antonio Laio, who was discovered in the Finnigans' apartment. Rushing upon them before they could rise from their bed, he stabbed them and jumped from the fourth story window, breaking his arm and injuring himself internally so that it is thought he will die.

Around the World.

It was nearly 300 years after Columbus discovered the new world, that the first voyage around the globe was made. April 13, 1769, the already celebrated English navigator, Capt. Cook, sailed from the tight little isle on a voyage of discovery. His ship was the "Endeavor," of 370 tons, about one-thirtieth the size of the largest ocean-going steamers of the present day, and yet he sailed away as confidently as our summer tourists now start for a tour of Europe. June 11, 1771 he returned to England to be knighted, and to have his name written on the undying roll of fame. Eight years later, he was killed by the natives of Hawaii while attempting to regain his boat after a slight misunderstanding with the dusky islanders.

Contrast his laborious and dangerous journeys, with the trips lately made by Nellie Bly and Elizabeth Bisland, who realized Verne's fiction of "Around the World in Eighty Days." Not all of us have the time or money to go around the world, yet we may see something of our own country. A tour only over the lines of the Burlington system, will take the traveler through the greater part of eleven great states in the West and show him all varieties of scenery and all degrees of development in communities. Tickets, rates, maps and information about the Burlington route can be obtained from your home ticket agent, or you can address W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

CONSISTENT IN EVERYTHING.

A Reply to an Unjust Attack Upon George W. Stevens.

To the Editor of The Herald:

My attention has just been called to an article headed "Stevens' Consistency?" appearing in a sheet miscalled "The Search-Light." I say miscalled, because no paper worthy that name would lend its columns to an article at once so false, so contemptible and so unjust as the one alluded to. The writer has no desire to engage himself in a newspaper controversy, neither is he a politician or affiliated in any way with any political party or faith. He is, however, one of "Cranberry Stevens'" trusted office men, though neither a member of a Methodist church or the Young Men's Christian association, and as such is in possession of knowledge that justifies him in branding the "Search-Light's" effusion as a libelous falsehood.

Assuming that the Search-Light Publishing company desire their paper to be received and considered as one worthy of respect and as one entitled to admission to our homes and a place on our family reading tables, it naturally follows that they would decline to give space to articles contributed or written by any one outside of their office, unless such articles were accompanied by some sort of a signature, and inasmuch as the article in question carries with it neither name nor initials, it is only fair to believe that the Search-Light's editor is the guilty man, and for his benefit and information, as well as for those whom he may have led astray, and also that he may follow in the footsteps of reputable newspaper men and make the "amende honorable" to Mr. Stevens, I beg to state the following facts.

During the year 1893 the Cranberry Lumber company, limited, gave employment, for different periods of time, to upwards of 1000 men, from 200 to 500 being constantly employed at wages ranging from $16 to $20 a month and board. Among this large number it is possible to find only seven or eight men who received compensation at so low a rate as quoted in the Search-Light article, and in each and every case it was either in accordance with an agreement made previous to their commencing work and on account of their inability to earn larger wages or because of indifferent work done by the man receiving the wage.

In all the five years ending July 1, 1894, during which time over 7000 men found some employment in the service of the company, we had but one claim forced against us, and that one through an error that was as much the fault of the employe as of the company. Where can the editor of the Search-Light find another company engaged in a business of as many details and employing the same class of labor that can show a better record. I do not know who the men are that it is claimed have made these reports, but the author of the article evidently does, and it he will kindly produce them I will undertake to lay before him the evidence of their falseness or a reason that shall be satisfactory even to him for paying them the wages they received. No worthy man, be he Catholic, Jew or Gentile, Democrat, Republican or Populist comes to the Cramberry Lumber company seeking work that does not get a chance, if it is possible for the company to offer it and the hundreds of men we now have in our camps, many of whom have been with us for years, effectually answers every question concerning our fairness in paying wages.

I am quite as familiar with the remarks made by Mr. Stevens in his speech at the Bethel as the Search-Light can be, and I look and examine in vain for any thing said by him that could justify the attack that has been made. Has the time come, in the history of our country or in the history of the state of Minnesota, when a man—and I mean a whole man—simply because he is a good and consistent member of a church of Christ, or because he is the president of an organization that both laymen and churchmen unite in admitting to be one of the best in all the world, and because he is glad to have two of his four office men members of it, or because he is one who has trampled the curse of the world under his heels and risen up victor, or because he stands forth before all the world as a living illustration of what a naturally noble character can achieve in life—has that time come I ask, when a man such as this man and because of these honored things must not give public expression to his views concerning the vital questions and topics of the day? Questions and topics in which he has a two-fold interest—the interest of himself and family and the more important one of an employer of hundreds of hard working and dependent men?

It is only two years since that while listening to one of your best and brightest Populist speakers, I heard him bewail the fact of so few earnest Christian business men were taking prominent places in the political working field, and now because one of that very type does take the field he must needs become the target of Populist abuse. Is it the time honored old Webster spelling book tale over again? Does this question of whose bull it is that gets gored make a difference to the Search-Light and the Populist party? And the fact of the meeting having been held at the Bethel—"a house set apart for the Lord's unfortunate"—can the Search-Light point to a grander or a more nobly political work by a reformer, since our country had its birth, than the magnificent achievement commenced, prosecuted and now nearing completion by the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, of New York—a crusade commenced and carried on through addresses delivered from the pulpit of the church belonging to the people of whom he is the honored pastor? Why then not use the Bethel in the exposition of the principles of any political party when that exposition means acquainting the people with the views of those whose colleagues seek their favor?

Let us join hands in opening up to view the principles and beliefs of any or all parties but let us not forget while doing it that personalities, reflections against our brothers' attainments or questions trenching on religious beliefs or connections have no legitimate place in the political arena and that rather than give them publicity they should be buried too deep for daylight. There is enough that is valuable for all of us in the principles for which each party is striving without wasting time and space on indifferent side issues, and it is surely worth our while to be able at the close of the campaign to look backward with the fond knowledge that we have wronged no one. "To thine own self be true and it will follow as the night the day thou canst not then be false to any man."

WEST DULUTH ITEMS.

West Duluthians Turned Out En Masse on Saturday Night to Greet Governor Knute Nelson.

Great Eastern Hall Was Packed But the Crowd Outside Was Larger Than That Inside.

Fine Speech by Governor Nelson on the Republican Party and What It Has Accomplished.

Spontaneous and hearty was the reception accorded to Governor Nelson by the people of West Duluth on Saturday evening. A committee, consisting of the officers of the Republican club, members of the G. A. R. and other citizens met at the Bennett hotel to await the arrival of the honored guest and escort him to Great Eastern hall. This point was also the meeting place of the marching club and other adjuncts of the parade. Owing to the late arrival of the governor and the inclement weather the line of march was cut short and the column after passing down Ramsey street and Central avenue rested in front of the hall and the governor was ushered into the presence of the largest assembly ever gathered together in West Duluth. Although the building was packed to its utmost capacity the crowd that could not gain admission seemed to be the larger of the two and hundreds turned away in disappointment. Surrounding the governor upon the stage were Judge Lewis, Dr. Barrett, of Tower, a number of the county and legislative candidates, members of the G. A. R. and several ladies.

After a campaign song by the glee club, Mayor Lewis introduced Governor Nelson with a few words. He referred to his patriotic conduct in pushing to the front at the age of 16 to help save the Union, his services in congress and his honorable record as chief executive of the state.

As the governor arose to address his audience he was greeted with prolonged applause which must have been highly pleasing to him. Although his voice was somewhat husky from over speaking at first it soon cleared and he delivered the most forcible, clear cut and far reaching political speech probably ever listened to in West Duluth. As Dr. Barrett said who followed him, he buttonholed the whole garment of political arguement and left not a straggling end to be picked up.

The past history of the Republican party was reviewed and its service to the people in freeing the slaves preserving the Union, establishing a safe and sound currency and building up great industrial and manufacturing interests by its protective system. The prosperity of the country previous to the Democratic administration and the present condition were compared. The Democratic party, the speaker said, is governed by the solid South and the slums of the large cities, and all tariff and other legislation passed by the Democrats is inimical to the best interests of the people of the North. The cotton and sugar interests of the South are protected while the tariff on wool, iron, grain and other products of the North is reduced.

Maj. Baldwin was roundly scored for his course in congress in voting for free iron ore thereby using his influence to pass laws hostile to his district and constituents.

The Populist party came in for a good share of the speaker's attention. The Populist legislature of 1891 passed no acts for the benefit of the laboring man while the Republican legislature of 1893 passed the free text book bill, the law for the inspection of grain, established Labor day as a legal holiday, passed laws regulating railroad switching, vestibuled street cars and the act forbidding corporations to demand that their employes shall not be members of labor organizations.

One of the tonics which the Populist party proposes to give the country, said he, is woman suffrage, which is to bring prosperity, give the idle men work and restore the industrial equilibrium. Another one is to place the saloons under stote control, thereby adding an army of bartenders to the already complex political machinery of the state.

National ownership of railroads is another ignis fatuus. Squeezing out one-half of the value of watered stocks, which their orators tell about, it would cost $120,000,000 to purchase the railroads and terminal facilities of Minnesota alone. Besides, the government ownership of railways in other countries so far proves that both passenger and freight rates are much higher than under private ownership.

The financial question was touched upon and the cheap money fallacies of the day exposed with the calcium light of experience and searching inquiry.

No Moss on Him.

Sauk Center Herald: "Young Mr. Towne"—that is the way the St. Cloud Times sneeringly alludes to the Republican candidate for congress. Well, if so much of power and wisdom can attach to a young man, what may not be expected of him in his maturity? He is young in the sense that he is vigorous, progressive, growing—and his back might be searched in vain for moss.

Bullet Photography.

If only the fertile brain of the Scotchman who has recently brought out a bullet that photographs its quarry were directed aright, the world might be startled by a really useful invention. The bullet photographer is a highly magnetized piece of steel containing a piece of sensitized paper and pierced in the front with four minute holes. When within a few yards of its victim, the film is removed from the perforation and an exact reproduction of the object impressed on the sensitized paper.—Exchange.

THE TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION.

Forty-Second Annual Convention of the Union Opened.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 8.—The forty-second annual convention of the International Typographical union opened here at 9:30 o'clock this morning at Odd Fellows' hall. W. B. Prescott, of Indianapolis, president of the International Typographical union, called the convention to order.

Mayor Taylor delivered an address of welcome to the visitors. Col. R. M. Kelly, editor of the Commercial, welcomed the "typos" on behalf of the press, and H. A. Boies, president of the local typographical union, on behalf of the local printers. The following is an abstract of President Prescott's annual report:

President Prescott, in his annual report, said that the membership of the organization has increased during the past year by over 1000, exclusive of 1000 German speaking printers, who affiliated in accordance with the agreement approved by plebescite. Nearly every principal city in the country is represented by the new charters issued. Financially the union is in excellent shape, the general fund continuing to accumulate. Despite the prevailing conditions the receipts have more than equaled expenditures.

Reference is made to the failure of the Indianapolis bank, in which the funds of the union were deposited, and it is figured out that after the final dividend has been declared the union will sustain a net loss of about $12,000. With the idea of reducing this amount suit has been instituted against the directors as individuals. The report deals with the pressmen's imbroglio, with the condition of the printer's home at Colorado Springs and with the question of shorter hours. On the latter the report refers to the defeat last year of the proposition of making nine hours a day's work, and continues:

"It is evident that the causes which go to make shorter hours such a necessity at this time also serve to impart hope to the opposition and should warn us that adequate preparation is more necessary than ever. In a business where the profits are not usually inordinate, and in which the cost of material and rent are such patent factors in the cost of production, it is futile to suppose that employers will make a change so long as there is seeming opportunity for successful resistance. Therefore it will be a duty to formulate some plan for submission to the membership which contains, as a prerequisite to the adoption of a shorter work day, a means for accumulating a large fund for the purpose of prosecuting the fight. The most cursory observer of recent events in the labor world must be convinced that to overlook this most essential feature will be a prelude to a worse state than the existing one. Though the industrial outlook is not an encouraging one just now, yet this is the proper time to make preparation. Now is the time to buckle on our armor and prepare for the fray."

The convention adjourned at noon until Tuesday morning. This afternoon at 2:30 there will be a street parade.

SAVED BY A BELT OF GOLD.

The Luck of an Englishman When Attacked by Robbers In Tehuantepec.

"Gold has a variety of uses," said Mr. Thornton Decker, an English engineer, to an American who met him in Tiacalula, "but I fancy my experience when I first went over this route between Oaxaca and Tehuantepec was rather novel. A lot of $20 pieces served very well as a coat of mail—so well that they saved my life.

"As I said, I was bound down to Tehuantepec for a look at the railroad across the isthmus. I had heard that the women there use your American double eagles for jewelry and paid a very high premium for them, so I got 40 or 50 and sewed them into the form of what you might call a porous plaster. When I had them stitched into place on a bit of cotton, there were two rows across my back and a third row overlapping the other two. By putting straps over my shoulders they carried very comfortably.

"I got the gold up at El Paso, Tex., but in some way one of the beggarly crew at the hotel in Oaxaca saw that I was carrying something in the small of my back, and the result of that was I was followed when I set out for Tehuantepec. They allowed me to go on unmolested until I was within a day of San Carlos, and then one of them seems to have taken a short cut through the mountains and concealed himself in the brush until I passed. Then he gave it to me with a shotgun, loaded with slugs of lead, and I caught it in the small of the back.

"The force of the blow knocked me down over the pommel of the saddle. When there, I had presence of mind enough to keep on falling slowly, as if entirely done for. Meantime I got one of your American navy revolvers in my hand and cocked it.

"The beggar that had shot me, seeing me fall, came running from the brush, machete in one hand and gun in the other, while his partner appeared around the mountain, with his horse on the gallop. They yelled at my horse to stop and my guide to go on, and both obeyed promptly. I was still clinging to my horse's neck and could see them through its mane very well. I let them get within 10 feet of me and then dropped to my feet on the ground and took my turn at shooting. They were so close I couldn't miss, but luckily, as I think, one caught his bullet in the knee and the other in the fleshy part of the arm, while their horse was killed outright by a bullet in the head.

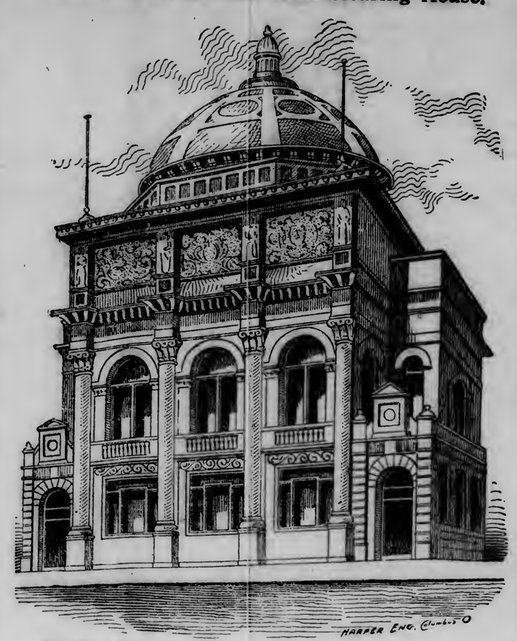

"Seeing them both down and begging for their lives I had a mind to kill them for their cowardice, but I let them off with a good kicking apiece and then called back the guide and had him carry water and wash and dress the wounds as well as possible. Then I gave the man with the hurt arm a stiff horn of brandy and sent him back for help, while I continued my journey. The slugs had hit the gold pieces—three of them. I had a lame back for a week or so, but I was otherwise unhurt. What became of them? I afterward met the one that caught it in the knee. He was going about the market in Oaxaca on a peg leg, peddling rebosos and telling people he had lost his leg in a fierce encounter with highwaymen. He said his partner was on a journey, but I fancy that meant he had been detected in some rascality and sent to prison."—New York Sun.

HE TURNED THE TIDE.

A Fakir Whose Red Salve Proved to Be a Great Thing.

The fakir had opened up business on the public square of a southern town and was going on to tell how his "red salve" would cure toothache, neuralgia, backache, rheumatism, sprains and most everything else under the sun, when a big and ugly looking colored man pressed his way into the crowd and said:

"I dun bought a box of dat stuff of yo' ober to Augusta, an it hain't wuth shucks!"

"What! What's that you're saying?" demanded the fakir as he stopped short in his appeal to a suffering public.

"Dat stuff hain't no better'n so much mud!" growled the colored man.

"Sir," exclaimed the fakir, "you have publicly accused me of being a swindler, and the case is one which must be thoroughly investigated! I warrant my red salve to cure certain ailments or the money will be refunded. What was your ailment?"

"Pain, sah!"

"Where was that pain?"

"Down betwixt my shoulders."

"And you used the salve according to the directions?"

"Yes, sah."

"And you've used it all up, and the pain is still there?"

"De pain am still wuss, I reckon."

"Then my red salve has skipped a cog, and I must refund your money. First, however, let me make an examination. Come up here till I run my hand down behind your collar and see where the pain is."

The colored man had on a woolen shirt, which was open at the throat, and he bent his head and let the fakir slide his hand down. The latter felt around for a minute and then withdrew his hand and held a bent and rusty tenpenny nail up to view and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, is it any wonder my celebrated red salve couldn't take away the pain with this nail sticking into his back? One box of it pulled the nail over half way out, and yet he declares that I'm a liar and a robber! I think I felt at least three other nails, besides a pipe stem, a hairpin, a wishbone and a gimlet, and yet he has the face to come here and demand his money back! Does any one ever hear"—

"Whar dat nail cum from?" shouted the colored man as he danced around.

"Drawn out of your lungs by the use of one box of my world renowned red salve, sir."

"An mo' a-comin?"

"Heaps more, and yet you charge me with being a robber and murderer! I guarantee to refund the money in every case where a cure is not effected, and therefore I now tender"——

"No, sah—no, sah!" shouted the negro as he flung his arms about in great excitement. "I doan' dun want my money back! I dun wants another box of dat stuff to bring out all de razzors, jackknives, cotton choppers an cornplows dat's got lodged in my system doorin de las' 20 y'ars, an if one box won't do it doan' you dun leave dis town till I'ze got fo' or five! Gimme dat salve, an you, boy Hiram, cum along an rub it on an lookout fur nails an splinters workin out!"—Detroit Free Press.

"Then Fairbanks is your last name, of course," said the teacher, eying the round eyed, vacant faced Peter with considerable severity.

"No'm," replied the child respectfully. "My name was Fairbanks when I was born, but mother says they didn't name me 'Peter' for 'most six months."—Youth's Companon.

The Reason.

"And Penman won't go? Why is it we can never get him on any of our trips?"

"Well, you know, his work never allows him to leave London even for a day."

"Why, I didn't know he was so confined as all that."

"Yes, indeed. He writes books of travel."—Tit-Bits.

His Pet Story.

Today's Demonstration.

Governor William McKinley is not an orator. He does not move the multitude by the aid of burning eloquence. He is a plain, earnest speaker. He talks of facts in a clear, intelligent and convincing manner, and those facts are eloquent in themselves. Those who attended the immense gathering this afternoon in honor of the Ohio governor and the possible presidential candidate of the Republican party in 1896, expecting to hear an eloquent speech, in the common acceptation of that term, were no doubt disappointed, but at the same time they must have been attracted and impressed by the power and force of his remarks.

"Eloquence," it has been well said, is speaking out of the abundance of the heart," and judged from this standpoint, Governor McKinley is eloquent. That he speaks out of the abundance of his heart, no one who listens to him five minutes can doubt. He is intensely in earnest. His words are the words of firm belief and staunch conviction, and what he says about the great questions before the people—and especially upon the tariff question, with which his name is most closely associated—he believes thoroughly and unreservedly. It is but natural that such a speaker should have an impressive and persuasive effect upon his auditors. Those who differ with his views cannot fail to find in his remarks much that deserves consideration. That this afternoon's speech will do much to advance the cause of Republicanism in this section there can be no doubt. Governor McKinley's speech will make many votes for Mr. Towne, and St. Louis county will respond to his appeal in behalf of a protective tariff by rolling up a majority that will ensure the election to congress of a man who stands firmly by the principles which were so powerfully presented today.

The demonstration this afternoon was the greatest political event that ever occurred in Duluth. There has never been a gathering at the head of the lakes that equalled it. Nowhere, since he started on his present speech-making tour, has Governor McKinley spoken to a finer or more intelligent audience, and nowhere has he found an audience more in close sympathy with his utterances. The enthusiasm which marked the occasion is sufficient proof of this fact. Much of that enthusiasm was also due to the personality of the speaker. Among the Republicans of Duluth, Governor McKinley ranks easily as the first choice of the majority for the next presidential nonination, and they crowded the place of meeting today with enthusiastic eagerness to see and listen to their political idol. If Governor McKinley shall be nominated for president two years hence, the Republicans of Duluth will be ready to take off their coats and work for him with zeal and earnestness, confident that under his leaderhip Republican success would be assured.

The Russian Czar.

Alexander III, czar of Russia, is in a serious condition, suffering from Bright's disease in an aggravated form which is liable to cause his death at any time. Already there is much speculation as to the effect his death will have upon Russia and upon the peace of Europe. The present czar has been very conservative, extremely so in comparison with the policy pursued by his father, who introduced many liberal measures. The death of Alexander II by the hand of a nihilist undoubtedly caused the present czar to doubt the value of the liberal measures which his father introduced and hence his extreme conservatism. He saw that the concessions made had created among the people a desire for still greater liberty.

The nihilists who killed Emperor Alexander II, says the Baltimore Sun in reviewing the present czar's policy, were in fact anarchists, and when in 1881 Alexander III ascended the throne he had, like M. Casimir Perier, after the assassination of President Carnot, to make up his mind to suppress and not humor the conspirators. Unfortunately, in his rebound from the position of reformer occupied by his father, the czar was enamored of the teaching of the Slavophil school. This school of patriots held that Russia was sufficient for itself. Its duty, they held, was to develop Russian institutions, not to import so-called free institutions from Western Europe—institutions which lacked permanency and which in their logical development meant anarchy. Russia, it was held, had already the institutions and the form of government best suited to an oriental people. What was wanted, said the Slavophils, was a consolidation of Russia and a reshaping of discordant elements upon the true Russian model.

Adopting these views, Alexander III sought to assimilate all elements in Russia proper and to expel races and creeds that would not be assimilated. The Jews and Germans have accordingly been, as much as possible, driven out. The liberal measures of his father have been, for the most part, canceled. The autocratic methods of his grandfather's time have been revived and extended, until now the control of every department is in his hand. Whether his successor will be more liberal in his ideas is not known. Whether he will, like the present czar, be averse to entering upon a war of conquest or whether he will follow the program laid down by Peter the Great for the extension of the Russian empire, is also an unanswered question that is giving the government of other nations some anxiety.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Thousands of people throughout the world will feel a sense of personal bereavement when they read the announcement that Oliver Wendell Holmes died at his home in Boston yesterday. Few literary men have endeared themselves so closely to their readers as had Dr. Holmes. Thousands who never saw the genial "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" and came beneath the influence of his kindly personal presence had grown to love and revere him, and his death will cause them to feel that they have lost a near and dear friend. His was a green old age, indeed. He had long ago passed the usual time allotted to man upon earth, and though in his 86th year retained his faculties unimpaired and a physical strength that was astonishing.

His first reputation as a poet was gained in 1830, when it was proposed to break up the old frigate Constitution. Holmes published in the Boston Advertiser his lyrical protest, beginning, "Ay, tear her tattered ensign down!" It was widely copied in the newspapers and circulated in handbills and saved the ship from destruction. When studying law at Harvard, he produced some of his best-known humorous pieces, including "Evening by a Tailor" and "The Height of the Ridiculous." The law was not to his liking, and he turned to the study of medicine, receiving his degree in 1836. In the same year he published his first volume of poems, which contained forty-five pieces, including "Poetry, a Metrical Essay," which established his reputation as a poet. In 1847 he succeeded Dr. John C. Warren as professor of anatomy and physiology in the medical school of Harvard, and about the same time became a lyceum lecturer. A number of scientific works from his pen were published between 1838 and 1862.

Dr. Holmes was one of the first contributors to the Atlantic Monthly, when it was established in the autumn of 1857, and by many readers was esteemed the most brilliant of that notable galaxy. His first contributions were in the form of a series of conversational papers entitled "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," in which were included some of the finest of his poems. The "Autocrat" was followed by a similar series, "The Professor at the Breakfast Table," and, after an interval, by "The Poet at the Breakfast Table," each of which upon its completion in the magazine was issued in book form. These papers, Dr. Holmes said in the preface, were the fulfillment of a plan that was conceived twenty-five years ago, when he published in the New England Magazine two articles with the title of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." Dr. Holmes also wrote two novels, "Elsie Venner, a Romance of Destiny," and "The Guardian Angel," which are remarkable rather as character studies than for dramatic power.

Although Dr. Holmes was successful in every kind of literature that he undertook, his most brilliant and popular work is in "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," while his longest lived is probably in his poems. His own favorite among his series of poems was said to be "The Chambered Nautilus;" but "The Voiceless," "Sun and Shadow," and several of his patriotic lyrics easily take rank with it. Some of his satrical pieces, like "The Moral Bully," are as sharp as the most merciless critic could desire, while many of his purely humorous ones, like "The Wonderful One-Hoss Shay," are already classic. As a poet of occasions it is doubtful if he ever had an equal.

Senator Hill on Saturday accepted the Democratic nomination for governor of New York. Daniel Lockwood accepted the nomination for lieutenant-governor, and Judge Charles F. Brown, of Newburg, was named for judge of the court of appeals, Judge Gaynor having declined the nomination. In his letter of declination, Judge Gaynor said: 'If I thought that the withdrawal of my name would injure Senator Hill's canvass I would try to see some way to allow it to remain, for his recent development in the national senate places him with the foremost public men of his day. Between him and his opponents he should, and I trust will, prevail." There are indications that Mr. Hill has secured harmony in the party.

Speaking in reference to the crusade of the W. C. T. U. in New York against the posters of actresses in tights, the Commercial Advertiser remarks: "Most of us are not debauched by pictures of women unhusked from her petticoats, as God made her. And to us there is something very unpleasant in the prurient shudder of those 'nasty nice' people who pretend to believe that women, like mermaids, end at the waist. Is there not something very prurient in setting the female of the human race apart as an animal too libidinous to be seen?"

According to a London cablegram, intimate friends of Mr. Gladstone say that the grand old man's restored health may justify his reappearance in politics. This is good news, especially for the friends of Irish home rule, as Mr. Gladstone could be able to help it greatly. Of course it is impossible that Mr. Gladstone will ever again assume the premiership, but he could be an imposing figure in the house of commons.

The explanation of the spokesman for the Underwriters' association that he did not say that the forest fires were set by lumber kings but by lumber pirates to cover up their stealings puts a somewhat different light upon the matter. Nevertheless the Milwaukee Sentinel still inclines to the opinion that Senator Vilas would not do anything of that kind.

The Republican candidate for mayor of New York is a Strong man, but he may not be strong enough to defeat the Tammany nominee.

His mother used to bake;
She never crowed about the men
She had a chance to take.

He never roared about the cost

The reason for this state of things
Is not so hard to find—
For neither one to marriage
Had ever been inclined.

TAX LEVY REDUCED.

School Board Cuts Last Year's Figure Over 5 Per Cent.

At the regular meeting of the board of education Saturday evening the tax levy for the year was fixed at $320,000 against $350,000 for last year. The estimates were: For the general fund, $300,000; for the sinking fund, $20,000. No provision was made for the building fund and it is probable little new construction will be done this year.

The truancy question was discussed at length, and Superintendent Denfeld complained of a growing laxity on the part of pupils in school attendance. The question was referred to the executive committee, which will confer with city officials regarding the matter. Three petitions for the establishing of kindergartens at Woodland, Hunter's Park and Glen Avon were referred to the committee on schools and teachers. The present enrollment was reported at a little over 6200, an increase of 1500 over last year. The contract for furnaces in the Lowell building was awarded to Burrell & Little. The chamber of commerce asked the board to favor home contractors in awarding contracts.

FAVORS HOME INDUSTRIES.

Chamber of Commerce Wants School Supplies Bought at Home.

At the chamber of commerce meeting Saturday afternoon a resolution was passed strongly condemning the practice of buying machinery and supplies from outside firms for the use of the schools and public departments when the same goods may be bought of Duluth firms. The subject of discrimination against home merchants and manufacturers was made the special order of business for this week's meeting.

A. Hirsch introduced a resolution favoring the establishment here of a state agricultural school. An effort will be made to get some of the state fund expended at Duluth. An invitation to send delegates to the river improvement convention at St. Louis in November was received and it will probably be accepted.

Gubernatorial Candidate Here.

W. H. Upham, of Marshfield, Wis., upon whose shoulders has fallen the task of redeeming Wisconsin from Democracy is in the city today, having arrived yesterday. AMUSEMENTS.

"Rush City" Tonight.

The general lack of attention to the minor details in farce comedy production seems to have been carefully considered by Thomas H. Davis and William T. Keogh, the proprietors and managers of "Rush City," which will appear at the Temple this evening. The Eastern press speaks in complimentary terms of the manner in which the comedy is produced both scenically and artistically. The combination of clean wholesome wit cleverly given by a capable company, with a perfect mise-en-scene is undoubtedly the main reason for the success of this production elsewhere, and its coming here will be awaited with interest. The management have collected a very capable company which includes J. Sherrie Mathews, Harry Bulger, Joseph Coyne, John Gilroy, M. J. Gallagher, T. Edward Hall, Adelaide Randall, Merri Osbourne, Gussie Hart and the Claflin sisters.

Chris and Lena.

Pete Baker appeared at the Temple in "Chris and Lena" Saturday evening before a small audience. Some of the specialties were fairly good and that is about all that can be said for the show.

"The Creation."

"The Creation," Haydn's great oratorio, will be sung at the Temple on Wednesday evening by local musicians. It has been in rehearsal for several weeks under the direction of Mme. Augusta Obrstrom-Renard. The chorus will number 100 voices and has been admirably trained.

Mark C. Baker will sing the part of Uriel. He has several times taken the role in productions in the East. J. Armour Galloway will sing the basso parts of Raphael and Adam. He is a recent orrival in the country and has been showered with praises. Miss Bessie Hunter, Mrs. Cora Aspinwall and Mme. Obrstrom-Renard will sing the soprano parts.

MISSIONS IN INDIA

Bishop Thoburn's Address at the Methodist Church Last Evening Delivered Before an Immense Audience.

Thousands Converted in the Past Years But the Means at Hand Are Inadequate.

Address in the Morning by Bishop Foss on the Text "What Think Ye of Christ."

Yesterday morning the First Methodist church was packed to overflowing. Bishop Foss preached from the text "What Think Ye of Christ." It was a thorough and profound sermon and presented the perfections of the Savior in a logical and convincing manner.

In the afternoon Bishop Foss ordained seventeen deacons and nine elders. A memorial service was held at 4 o'clock in memory of Rev. J. L. Crist, the only pastor in the conference who died during the past year, and also of Mrs. Ellery, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Bunce and Mrs. Perkins. Rev. Frank Stout and Drs. Heard, Jennings and McKinley delivered addresses. Dr. J. F. Chaffee presided.

A number of the visiting ministers spoke in the different churches of the city yesterday morning and evening.

The largest congregation ever seen in the First Methodist church listened to Bishop Thoburn's interesting missionary address in the evening. The galleries and class rooms were densely packed. The aisles were filled with chairs and standing room in open places and along the walls was all taken. Many unable to get in were turned away at the doors. It was an assemblage not often seen in Duluth.

Bishop Thoburn's Sermon.

Dr. Forbes introduced Dr. J. M. Thoburn, bishop of India and Malaysia. The bishop is a man of medium size, fine head, regular features, with a full short beard well touched with gray. He speaks in a loud, clear voice and with an earnestness that shows the work of winning souls to his Master stands before all else in his heart and mind.

"It is seven years," began the bishop, "since I stood before the conference at Minneapolis. Our church in this conference seems to have doubled its strength and position. I congratulate you on the progress you are making. I am here tonight to tell you that we also are making progress in India."

The speaker stated that his field was a very large one and likened his work to that of the disciples who toiled all night and caught no fish but who, the next morning, when the Master appeared on the shore and directed them to cast on the right hand side, caught so many that their nets began to break and were compelled to beckon for help.

"I want this evening," said the Bishop, "to tell you about our long night of toil which was not met with the success hoped for. In India there are 284,000,000 of people. In Malasia there is enough to bring the total population in my diocese up to 325,000,000 souls. That is two and a half times the number in the whole Roman empire at the beginning of the Christian era. I entered that field thirty-five years ago. My thumb will cover on the map my field at that time, yet it had 17,000,000 people in it. I have two presiding elders now who are 4000 miles apart, farther than the distance from New York to San Francisco. We are now preaching the gospel in sixteen languages and by the close of this century the number will be twenty. When I commenced by work thirty-five years ago, I had only six or seven members and probationers. After six years of labor they numbered less than 400. In our long night we cast the net on the wrong side. We made the mistake of beginning educational work before the evangelical. We never won many converts that way. The better way is to let the school follow evangelization.

Different Methods Needed.

"My second mistake was in depending too much on the methods of preaching followed in the United States. I talked as I am now talking to you—at long range. One mistake universally made is that it is thought the preacher must get up behind a piece of sacred wood, called a pulpit, to preach to his people. The greatest sermon in history was delivered while the preacher was sitting on the grass. The second greatest was preached by a well curb to a woman who would not be admitted to many of our Christian churches. In thirty-five years none of us have preached less than five times a week. In the beginning we got a convert now and then, but not many. The people heard us but did not comprehend. We got better acquainted and the people grew less distrustful. We went among them at all hours, in all places. We prayed, sang songs and talked. They listened. We got closer to them. We learned how and where to cast the net.

"We found, too, that the poor people were our special heritage. The low caste people came first. We didn't reject them but did not realize that they were the people upon which the foundation of our work was to rest. I had been there twenty-five years before I realized that Christ had been with us, directing where to cast the net, and that was among the poor.

"You don't know what a poor person is, bad as times are here. With what one American statesman wastes, I could feed a whole province for a year in India. On $25 a year, a man will support himself, wife and several children. Many are fortunate if they get two meals a day. One of those is usually made up of weeds boiled for greens. Coarse rice and millet meal are staple articles of food.

"Among these poor are many professional thieves. Here it is a disgrace to steal unless it is done legally, on a large scale. There it is not so much a disgrace. Some of our first converts were among those thieves. Until then it never occurred to me that Christ was crucified with a thief on each side. I have seen two ministers ordained from the ranks of those outcasts. I have seen them elevated socially. I have seen their neighbors forget that they ever were thieves and none of the converts have ever been arrested even on suspicion.

"We feared so many low caste converts would keep out the high castes but the year we made 1800 low caste converts, saw also the largest number of high caste converts."

An Interest Awakened.

Then, in a very interesting manner, the bishop told how, just as he was opening up a promising field of 1,100,000 people, he was compelled to come to the United States in the interest of a book concern that was in financial trouble. As a result, he had an opportunity to tell of his great work. An interest was aroused. At a meeting held with Moody's young men's class at Northfield $3000 were pledged in one day. That night the bishop telegraphed his associates in India to put 100 new preachers in the field. In that one field 18,000 children were baptised in twelve months and the number has never been less since.

"Since my visit to you seven years ago," continued the speaker, "our members, work and territory have doubled twice. I received word that seven days after I left, a native preacher baptised 200 people. That month 9000 were added and 2000 more are ready, but there is no provision for their education."

The bishop next narrated the story of a converted Mohammedan whose life was despaired of. As he lay on his sick bed, his mind was filled with a desire to convert 100,000 men. Unexpectedly the man recovered. He already has converted 8000 people and hopes to live until he gets the whole 100,000. "The fact that a converted Mohammedan wishes to convert 100,000 souls means a religious revolution. In India, as in America, we must widen our horizon and feel that this world is redeemed.

"But our nets are beginning to break. Our best missionaries are breaking down. We now have ten who have been in the field not less then thirty-two years each. We need forty new American missionaries. Our nets are breaking because we cannot provide for our people. There is not a day when there are not 20,000 of them looking us in the face and asking how to be Christians.

"The tendency is to go back to idolatry just as the tendency here on the part of converts is to go back to wine, cards, theaters, etc. The net is breaking because the people cannot be told how to do after baptism. More teachers and preachers are needed. The people in the United States don't understand that they are on the threshold of one of the greatest opportunities ever gazed on by human eye.

Progress of Education.

"We have men working as preachers at $2.50 a month. We make converts, take the best man among them and tell him we want him to sing and pray among his people. He says he has to work all day and cannot. We offer him the $1.50 a month, perhaps. Then he says he cannot read. We tell him that we will teach him the first six letters and then he can teach those to the rest. He makes the letters in the sand. Thousands then are learning by writing in the sand. Thousands of boys learn all their arithmetic by writing in the sand. I wish I knew what Christ wrote in the sand. I believe it was something that would tell me how to help this people. Some say to me:

"'You baptise at night and set the men to preaching the next morning.'

"'Oh no,' say I, 'we dont. We set them to preaching that night.'

"We take the men just as you do in your conference. We examine them. Make them pass on that and on character. Some fail, some are average and some are extra good. When a man is ordained he gets $100 a year. A few get more. Not over twelve in all India get $200 a year.

"When I get home 2500 Christian men and women must be assigned to work within the next five months. At the close of the century they will number 10,000. We have men and women but lack money. My appeal is, come to our aid. We ought at once to put out 100 workers at $30 a year, 100 at $50 and 25 at $100 a year. We want support for boys and girls in schools. In blocks of ten we can pay all their school expenses for $10 a year. Singly it costs about $15."

In conclusion Bishop Thoburn said: "I bid you farewell for seven years, perhaps for always. I have not seen my family since March. I shall not see it until December. I now turn my face eastward and homeward. As you pass out I should like to shake hands with you. If there is anything in them I'll not refuse it."

TOO MUCH FOR HAMLINE.

Duluth Ex-Collegiates Won at Football in a Hard Struggle.

Saturday's football game at Glen Avon between the ex-collegiates, of Duluth, and the Hamline university eleven, was witnessed by about 300 people and resulted in a victory for the Duluth team by a score of 4 to 0. The first half resulted after twenty minutes play in a blank for both elevens after some very brilliant and hard work on both sides, the Hamline men reaching dangerously near the Duluth line on two occasions. The play in the second half was limited to fifteen minutes and was marked by hot work from start to finish, Watrous scoring the only touchdown after twelve minutes of the time had elapsed.

During the first half A. J. Wallace, the Hamline full back had his nose broken in one of the rushes and Stocking, their full back had his ankle sprained. The former was replaced by E. Wallace and Teague took Stocking's position. E. P. Towne and B. N. Wheeler were chosen referee and umpire respectively for the first half, their positions being reversed in the second half. The visitors had the ball at the beginning. A little disappointment was expressed at the umpire not allowing Duluth a goal on Thurman's kick, but the decision was a very close one. The visiting team left for home Sunday and a return game may be played in the near future.

Duluth Presbytery Meeting.

The Presbytery of Duluth is holding its semi-annual meeting at the Lakeside Presbyterian church. Every church is represented by its rector and one elder, as delegates, and there is quite a large attendance of visitors. S. A. Jamieson, the retiring moderator preaches this evening and tomorrow evening addresses will be made br Mr. Hackett, of New Duluth; Mr. Keithly, of West Duluth; Mr. Semple, of Glen Avon and Dr. Cleland, of Duluth. This is the first meeting of the Presbytery in Duluth for some time.

The Power Is Great.

George B. Burbank, of New York, the engineer who came with J. M. Butler to examine the water power of the St. Louis river, returned to the East on Saturday evening. Mr. Butler remained here. Mr. Burbank says the water power is tremendous, one of the greatest in the country. It seems quite probable that something will be done at once toward improving the power. He regards it as a comparatively easy and inexpensive matter to improve it and thinks there will be far more water than is needed when it is done.

Company A Won.

Saturday was a bad day at Glen Avon for the rifle teams from A and G companies of the Third regiment, but the winning team, A company of Duluth, made a good score of 212 points out of a possible 300, defeating the West Duluth company who only scored 170. Two weeks ago G company defeated A company's team in a close contest. The individual scores were as follows:

Company A: Quade 35, Brunner, 36, Thompson 29, Coons 30, King 39; Eide 34. Company G: Clarkson 30, Payne 31, Gethell 38, Pomeroy 20, Murphy 30, Zelzer 21.

NYE AND JEFFERSON

William Gets His Interesting and Original Information on the Statesman from the Actor.

Jefferson Was Admitted to the Bar at Twenty-four and Was a Great Success.

An Answer to a "Timid One" Who Confesses That She is to be Married.

[Copyright, 1894, by Edgar W. Nye.]

Few remember that near the quiet little city of Charlottesville, in Virginia, on the wooded hillside, lies the dust of Thomas Jefferson. Almost 280 years ago his Welsh ancestry settled in Virginia. His father, Peter Jefferson, was a surveyor and planter and was known throughout the new south as a man of great muscle. He introduced the early red eye china bean and the grapevine overcast catch-as-catch-can "wrastle holt," which meant eight weeks in the hospital and curvature of the spine.

Peter Jefferson was also one of the first colonels in the south and for 10 years had little competition in that line. He was also a member of the legislature. He married Jane Randolph, and nine children were born to them. He died when the youngest child was 22 months old, leaving 1,900 acres of land and 30 slaves.

Thomas at this time was 14 years of age, with thick red hair. He attended William and Mary college two years and then studied law four years under George Wythe at Williamsburg.

At the age of 24 he was admitted to the bar. George Wythe, under whom he studied, also gave Chief Justice Marshall and Henry Clay their clear and accurate notions of law.

Thomas Jefferson also studied the violin, and after reading that "law is a rule of action, prescribing what is right and prohibiting what is wrong," he would turn to his violin, expectorate on the keys to keep them from slipping while tuning up, and then practice, so his biographer says, for three hours at a time.

And yet he got votes enough in after years to elect him president of the United States.

Thomas Jefferson was eminently successful at the bar for eight years, starting in with 68 cases the first year and gradually working up to 430 cases in his fourth year of practice. He studied hard at the law even then, and it is said that his industry as a student was something truly remarkable all his life.

When his father died, Jefferson went at once to the store and bought 20 gallons of midnight oil. I get this information from Joseph Jefferson, who has given me many of the points and considerable of the data used in this little sketch of the early life of Jefferson, the statesman.

Thomas earned at the bar as high as £500, which was regarded in those times as a great income. He was very economical, and out of this income he managed to save enough for the purchase of 5,000 acres of land, according to James Parton, in addition to what he already owned.

Mr. Jefferson in 1772 married Martha Skelton, a young, beautiful, wealthy and childless widow, who died the following year, and thus doubled Mr. Jefferson's income.

In 1769 he entered politics, having been elected a member of the house of burgesses. These burgesses were men who met occasionally to discuss the previous question. He was noted for his liberality and for his disapproval of slavery. He was not so ultra antislavery as John Brown, whose soul is at present engaged in marching on, but he regarded the institution with grief and solicitude for the future.

Though strongly attached to the mother country, he united with Patrick Henry and the Lees in denouncing the course pursued by Great Britain toward the colonists. He expressed himself many times both by voice and pen relative to this matter in no uncertain tone, and the same spirit actuated him in his early efforts as is breathed in such glowing language and soul stirring sentiments as we find in the Declaration of Independence in later years.

It is said that Jefferson's ill feeling toward the mother country originated in 1770, when a representative of King George visited this country and was introduced to Jefferson at a plain Virginia dinner of fried chicken and beaten bread. The Englishman's name was Sir George Alderney, and he had a pompous way which Jefferson did not like and could not tolerate.

At the dinner, in conversation with Jefferson, Sir George, who had turned up his nose at the simple food offered him by his colonial friends, referred to his ill health, and Jefferson asked him what his ailment was. Sir George replied that he suffered a great deal from insomnia.

"I used to have that a good deal myself," said Jefferson, "especially while in college, but one day I went to bed and slept it off. Did you ever try that, Sir George?"

It is said that Alderney wrote home to one of the papers in London regarding the above incident, giving it as an illustration of colonial ignorance. This made Mr. Jefferson so mad that throughout his long and useful life he never forgave the mother country.

After the dinner was over it is reported that Sir George actually took Jefferson aside and said to him: "I beg pardon, Mr. Jefferson, but you know I couldn't go away without telling you that you made a terrible ass of yourself at the table just now, and rather than see you repeat it, you know, I thought I would call your attention to it.

"You know, I understand, of cawse, that you have had few advantages here among the savages, and so you know very little of the use of words, and so you made a very serious crraw just now. You remembah that I referred to the fact that I was troubled with insomnia, dear boy, and you told me that once you had it in college. And, me Gawd, Mr. Jefferson, you said you went to bed and slept it hoff!

"Don't you know that the very trouble with insomnia is that you cawn't sleep it hoff?"

"Is that possible?" said Jefferson, with well assumed horror. "Why, I thought it was something like colic!"

Ever after this Mr. Jefferson was found upon all questions to be bitterly opposed to a monarchy in any form whatever.

Mr. Jefferson was a poor orator, though many people at this date put him along with Patrick Henry, forgetting that Jefferson was a student and not an orator. His greatest work was with the pen and as an authority upon all questions of law and statesmanship. Though Patrick Henry was a most eloquent man, he left nothing to be compared with the Declaration of Independence. There is a magnetism peculiar to the orator which is marvelous for the moment, but it perishes with the voice that awakened it.

On the Fourth of July, 1776, the draft of the immortal Declaration of Independence was completed, and in that document will forever live the unquenchable spirit of the redheaded student, while the spontaneous but unconsidered outbursts of Henry have dwindled down to a line and died away in the remote corners of the echoless past.

Jefferson instituted the abolition of entail and primogeniture and did a good deal in the matter of reconstruction after the government fell into the hands of "the rebels." He also encouraged religious freedom, and to him is due the religous liberality which New England so sadly lacked at that time. Jefferson had rather "advanced" ideas regarding religion, and it is said that he died without the hope of a literal hell for those who disagreed with him.

Jefferson is also responsible largely—more than any other man, in fact—for our decimal currency, the only proper method of arranging money so that it may be rapidly computed. No one can fully appreciate this until he has labored with pounds, shillings, pence and farthings.

In 1782 his second wife died, leaving three children, and crazed with grief Mr. Jefferson accepted the position of minister to Paris. He was asked if he would replace Franklin at that place. "No," said he. "I succeed him. No one could replace him."

He pitied the French, who were then priest ridden and little more than slaves, plundered by the nobility after the church had taken everything it could get hold of. He returned to act as General Washington's secretary of state, residing at 57 Maiden lane, New York city. He and Alexander Hamilton were bitterly opposed to each other on most political questions, Jefferson sympathizing with the French revolutionists, while Aleck did not. Jefferson was a plain republican, while Aleck was more of an aristocrat and ate pie with a fork till the day of his death.

In 1796 he was elected vice president and in 1801 became president. He succeeded himself and declined a third term in order to retire to his beautiful home at Monticello, where he died on the fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, a few hours before the death of his contemporary, John Adams. He is buried at Monticello, where I recently visited his grave. One reaches it by diligence over a corrugated road. Monticello is visited annually by quite a number of people, who pay a quarter of a dollar each to an old darky. This money is said to go toward the repair of the roads, but as the roads get deliberately worse, and as the darky at the box office rode back to town with me and spent the money paid him by our party in the purchase of gin at a colored hell in Charlottesville, I am in favor of an investigation.

"Timid One," Delhi, Ind., writes: "I am to be married in October, and I write you to settle a trifling question for me—at least I presume that you will regard it as trifling, but it has worried me a great deal. I am of course preparing my trousseau, and there is quite a lot of it—in fact, there is a whole assortment of linen for my own wear, and I will have to make it. Should I make it with my own maiden name or the surname of my intended?

"I ask this because I was engaged four years ago to a young man who took advantage of the low rates and excellent traveling facilities over the Big Four and Santa Fe routes to strike out for California on the day set for our marriage. Since then I've been almost ashamed to send my clothes to the wash with his name marked on them. I have barely worn out those garments, and they have been a perpetual reproach to me. Now I am again engaged to a gentleman friend. What should I do?"

I need hardly write you, "Timid One," that you have no claim on the name of your intended at the present time. You did very wrong before in utilizing the name of your betrothed, and possibly he heard of it in some way, flecing like a bird to the mountains when he got the information. Possibly he feared that you might be running up little accounts at the stores in his name also.

You should remember that a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, but you must not help yourself to it until the parson has given you permission.

"Timid One" also asks in a postscript whether it is proper or not for her to ask her intended to break off some bad habit before they are married. Certainly you might try it, but you will have to be the judge of how much influence you have at this stage of the game. It might be well to ask him to break off stealing horses or any other noticeably bad habit, of course, now while you are both in the heyday of bloom and fluff of life's young morn, but you always run the chance of arousing his ill temper and prejudice. You must be yourself the judge of this. Some young girls under such circumstances also pave the way for criticism and are a little nonplused to be asked if they will not break off a bad habit, such as saucing their mothers or allowing their fathers to go looking sad and seedy in order that the daughter may wear "wash goods" in warm weather and run up a tall laundry bill while the old gentleman wears a colored shirt for economy.

"Judge not, that ye be not judged," is one of the best maxims that Shakespeare ever got off, "Timid One," and you will do well to remember it all through your life, which seems to be opening so auspiciously.

Some grooms are glad to have their errors pointed out to them seven or eight times per day, while others are a little sensitive about it. I cannot give you advice without knowing the person quite well. For my own part, I make a specialty of pointing out the shortcomings of others and shrink from criticism myself almost invariably. Mark your clothing with your own name and go easy on your criticism for the first six weeks at least. A girl friend of mine had her clothes marked in a singular way before her marriage. She became engaged to a petted and spoiled darling whose parents were wealthy, and she had promised to marry him in order to reform him, for he was a sort of rouey, as the French say. One evening he called upon her as she was just returning from a seaside resort, and in a playful mood he shot twice through her Saratoga trunk, which stood near the door, packed for the journey. Then he pointed the weapon at her, but she hit it with her parasol and knocked it out of his hand. In falling it was exploded, and the ball passed through his person just below the cigarette pocket.

She went home and patched the places where the bullet had marked her trousseau and lives cheerfully with her parents now, while o'er his sudden grave the bumblebees are bumbling.

A Slight Error.

A young actress who is as well known for her literary work as her histrionic talent had a rather embarrassing experience recently.

She had promised an article for the next issue of a New York dramatic paper and was a litlte late in writing it. The editor, becoming somewhat alarmed lest it should not be ready, as advertised, for his Christmas number, wrote her a note asking if it would surely come on time. She replied with a telegram: "I am thinking. I do not want you to get worried."

By the next mail she received a special delivery letter from him. "I can make neither head nor tail of your incomprehensible telegram. What do you mean by 'I am thinking I do not want you to get married?'"—Boston Budget.

THE PIANO'S FLEETING TONE.

No Instrument In Use Can Hold Its Best Tone Longer Than Six Months.

"This instrument," said the piano dealer as he ran his fingers lightly over the keys, "is uneven in tone. It is somewhat worn. You ask $300, but I cannot give you more than $150."

"An absurd offer!" exclaimed the owner of the instrument indignantly. "That piano is not yet a year old, and it cost me $400 when new. As regards its tone, it is better today than it was when I bought it."

"There is where you are wrong," responded the dealer. "Why, there is not a piano made that holds its tone for longer than six months if it has been used to any extent. Of course you, having heard this instrument every day, cannot detect any difference in its tone. As it has gradually deteriorated in quality your ear has gradually deteriorated with it. All musicians know that the ear can be educated down as well as up. An artist, or a competent piano salesman, for that matter, could tell immediately that your piano was the worse for wear—a trifle worn."

"But I have a written guarantee that this instrument would last for five years, and do you mean to tell that it is worn out already?"

"To all intents and purposes it is as good as new and will probably remain so as long as your guarantee holds good, and longer. But it has lost its original tone nevertheless, although the change would be perceptible only to an educated ear. Pianos are said to last a lifetime, and for ordinary uses good ones do, but for artistic purposes they last but five or six months, as I have said. No first class pianist would give a public recital on an old instrument, nor will an artist use an old piano even for practice. When Paderewski was in this country, he used up a new piano in practice every month. He realized that even an ear as educated as his would lose its fine perception of tone if he accustomed it to the gradual changes that time and usage effect in a piano.

"The ear for tone is such a very delicate sense that it can be deteriorated without the knowledge of its possessor. Custom exerts a powerful influence in the matter. To employ a familiar illustration, you have observed that those in daily intercourse with the sick fail to mark any material change for weeks at a time. But the changes have taken place nevertheless and are plainly noticeable to outsiders.

"It is exactly so with pianos. Those who play upon them every day fail to mark the gradual falling off in their tone that time effects. The deterioration has taken place in such imperceptible degrees that the ear has failed to distinguish it. Hence a piano 5 or 6 years old is as satisfactory to the ordinary player as it was when he first bought it and it was new.

"Pianos are at best but imperfect instruments," continued the dealer. "The chamois skin caps that cover the hammers in the middle octaves are worn down sooner than those in the upper and lower, because they are brought into play of tenor, and an unevenness of tone in the instrument results. Even the sounding board wears out in time. The constant vibrations of sound to which it is subjected cause a disintegration of particles in the wood of which it is made, and it becomes porous, losing its resonant quality. So you see that when I offer you $150 for your instrument I am making you a fair bid, especially when you take into consideration the fact that I shall have to sell it for $200 or more to recompense me for my pains."—New York Sun.

Greatest Air Pressure at the Sea.

At the level of the sea the pressure of the atmosphere on the piston of an engine is about 15 pounds to the square inch, but decreases at higher altitudes. As this atmospheric pressure must be overcome by the steam pressure before any work can be done, it is evident that at the diminished air pressure of high altitudes more work can be obtained from a given pressure of steam than at the sea level, or, in other words, an equally effective pressure of steam can be obtained with the expenditure of less fuel. The difference, however, is not great enough to be of any practical importance.—London Illustrated News.

A THEATRICAL REVIEW

Three Failures Are Recorded at the New York Theaters in But a Single Week.

"A Way to Win a Woman," Which Was Produced by Sothern, is Declared Insipid.

Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor," Presented by W. H. Crane, Who Appeared as Falstaff.

The second play which E. H. Sothern produced during his annual engagement at the Lyceum theater is a failure. It is entitled "A Way to Win a Woman" and is from the usually dainty and entertaining pen of Jerome K. Jerome, whose delightful "Stageland," "Three Men In a Boat" and "On the Stage and Off" have been read with enjoyment wherever the English language is spoken. Mr. Sothern's first venture this season at the Lyceum was Paul M. Potter's "The Victoria Cross." This fell so flat that it was found necessary to replace it with "A Way to Win a Woman," which had previously been tried out of town. The result has been markedly unsatisfactory. The next attempt will be "Bonnie Prince Charlie," by Miss Marguerite Merington, the author of the charming "Captain Lettarblair," in which Sothern was seen to such excellent advantage. "Bonnie Prince Charlie" is said to deal with the adventures of the "Young Pretender" in an interesting manner, although none of the details of the story has yet been allowed to get beyond the walls of the Lyceum. Mr. Sothern is known to be very enthusiastic over his part in it, and he generally knows pretty well what will fit him. It is a bit singular that Mr. Sothern's only two failures should have come one immediately after the other, and at the beginning, too, of his annual season in New York. It is enough to discourage a veteran, but the young and plucky star does not appear in the least depressed by this untoward circumstance.

MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR—PAGE'S HOUSE AND GARTER INN.

"A Way to Win a Woman" is scarcely worth criticising. The "hero," Harry Halward, is a detestable rascal who permits his desire to wed a good-for-nothing, mercenary little snip to overcome whatever honesty he may have once had, and he appropriates the fortune which his dear dead friend in Mexico had bequeathed to him in trust for his son. In the end Halward, after dispelling suspicions which have cropped up, tells the whole story himself, having called in most of the important people of the play, that his long speech may be effective. Then he takes prussic acid—in a glass—and talks to it while the "other one" (save the mark!) sneaks back, whispers "Harry," and then telling him that she really loves him, and that what he did was all her fault, asks him to marry her and take her away, or something of that kind. As he hugs her just as the curtain falls, it is presumed that Harry consented.

Up to the present time Mr. Sothern's acting in each new play has been a distinct improvement upon what has gone before, but in the case of "A Way to Win a Woman" he is seen at his worst. The part is in great measure an emotional one, and Mr. Sothern's features, adaptable to comedy as they are, are unsuited for depicting protracted grief or remorse. To be brief, he is out of his element, and if he grasps the significance of the character of Harry Halward he is at least not able to portray it. The same may be said of Miss Grace Kimball as the "heroine," Madge Carruthers. This lady, not overstrong in comedy, is almost ridiculous in the serious work demanded by the leading female role of "A Way to Win a Woman." Mr. Sothern's supporting people were fairly good, but none of them seemed quite at home in Jerome's misfit play, of which, strange to say, the third act is the only one possessed of the slightest merit.

Still another failure to be recorded! For the nonce that sterling comedian, William H. Crane, has abandoned the lighter modern roles in which he is without a peer and is appearing nightly at the Star theater as Falstaff in Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor." The production has been made on an elaborate scale, and Manager Joseph Brooks has evidently spent money liberally in providing his star with thoroughly appropriate surroundings in the way of scenery, properties, extra people and other accessories. The company, too, is an excellent one, so that Mr. Crane's first appearance before a New York audience as the fat knight was certainly made under the most auspicious circumstances. But the star, funny though he be in the line of work in which his reputation has been earned, is unable to make Falstaff appear humorous. He reads the lines in a faultless manner, the business is carried out carefully according to the best authorities, the obesity and the peculiar strut are all there, but the unction, the oily jollity and the unequivocal and omnipresent complacency were lacking. The audiences, too, have not been as large as usual during Crane's annual engagement at the Star. The best bits of work contributed by the excellent supporting company were the Master Page of Boyd Putnam, which was a masterly impersonation of a not commanding role, and the Mistress Ford of Miss Ffolliott Paget, which was always carefully poised between earnestness and merriment.

And now for the third failure of a single week! "Lem Kettle" is the title of the play, the author of which is Henry Guy Carleton, the brilliant writer who gave us "The Butterflies," "The Gilded Fool," "Ye Earlie Trouble" and "The Lion's Mouth." The star is Tim Murphy, whose remarkably clever work as Maverick Brander in Charles H. Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" won for him some of the most complimentary criticisms I have ever seen given to a character of that sort. It is said that Mr. Carleton wrote "Lem Kettle" to fit Mr. Murphy, but that seems scarcely possible in view of the fact that he has not succeeded in getting anything like the measure of the new star, who is accordingly handicapped with a part with which he is unfitted to cope. Besides the story of the play is an absurd hodge-podge about an inventive country lout who seems to think that money is certain to follow in the wake of his patent. And it does—in the play. The piece is awkwardly constructed as though it had been slaunned together inside of a month. Most of the characters and their acts and words are illogical and absurd. Tim Murphy, with a vehicle suited to his peculiar abilities, ought to succeed as a star, for he is unequaled in his particular line, but in "Lem Kettle" I really don't see how he can possibly avoid failure.

I hear that dainty little Marie Tempest, the "Dresden China" prima donna, is having a comic opera written for her, and that at the close of her present contract with George Edwardes of London she will return to this country as a star at the head of her own company. It is stated on the authority of the same gossip that Miss Tempest will play a male part, not appearing in female attire at all. She will have no manager, except one employed by herself on salary. The libretto is to be written by an American and the music by a well known Londoner, said to be Edward Solomon, Lillian Russell's second husband. She will only appear in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Cincinnati during the first season. The money for the venture will come from the other side of the water, and a magnificent production is promised. This may all be true, but it may be a Rialto vaporing. At any rate, the plan, if carried out, ought to result in financial success.

The days of "New Blood," Augustus Thomas' drama of American life at Palmer's theater, are numbered. It will be withdrawn to make way for Miss Olga Nethersole, the latest "English Bernhardt," to come to this country. She will open her tour in "The Transgressor," the play which first lifted her from comparative obscurity on the other side of the water. It was Miss Nethersole's original (announced) intention to make her initial bow to New Yorkers in "Romeo and Juliet," and the change in her plans was decidedly sensible. We have had some pretty good Juliets here, and the comparison which would inevitably be drawn might have proved awkward, unless indeed this most recent "English Bernhardt" should really turn out to be a veritable histrionic marvel. This may be the case, but if the leading newspapers of her own country are to be believed, it is not. Still there is a woeful dearth of juvenile female stars in this country, and if Miss Nethersole is more than a good leading lady, her ability, coupled with the indiscriminate booming which she is getting just now, ought to make her tour a reasonably successful one.

There is to be another theater in this city, and if the present intention of the prospective builder should be carried out it will be the handsomest place of amusement in New York city. The location has been decided upon and will be not many hundred feet from the Broadway theater. One rumor has it that the place will be run upon the same lines as the Casino during its baleyon days, with an operatic stock company producing original musical works as often as they may be required. A high grade company, devoid of stars, will be got together, and every member will be obliged to sign a long term contract, so that the management may be enabled to derive some benefit from the work it will do to popularize its artists. It was the absence of such contracts that "broke up" the Aronsons and temporarily their connection with the Casino. First they lost Francis Wilson and Marie Jansen, then Lillian Russell and afterward a host of smaller fry, nearly all of whom had been inoculated with the stellar virus. Another report with reference to the proposed new theater is that it will have an ordinary dramatic stock company to compete with those of the Frohmans, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Daly. There is not a word of truth in this, however. If the place is built, it will be dedicated to comic opera.

At the close of Miss Nethersole's engagement at Palmer's theater it is possible that Augustus Thomas' latest play, "The Capital," may be produced by the stock company. On the other hand, it is more than probable that Sydney Grundy's latest, "The New Woman," will precede "The Capital." Mr. Grundy, doubtless intoxicated by the unexpected success of "Sowing the Wind" and its problem of the sexes, has delved deeper into the subject, and is rumored that its treatment in "The New Woman" is frank to a hitherto unparalleled degree. It is a great success in London, and much is expected of it in this country despite the fact that Manager Charles Frohman, who owned the American rights, has agreed to permit Manager Palmer to present "The New Woman" at his theater. This will, of course, kill it for the Empire theater stock company as far as New York is concerned, and it suggests the thought that perhaps the little "Napoleon of managers" may be just a trifle afraid of its rumored unblushing candor. Americans will stand a good deal, especially if the people of "dear old Lunnon" have set upon it the seal of approval, but beyond a certain or rather uncertain point they refuse to be driven. The New York critics are anxiously wondering on which side of that vague point Mr. Grundy has landed with his play, "The New Woman."

New York. E. H. E.

In Venice a performance is being attempted which, if successful, may make the round of the world. The subject of the performance is "Marino Faliero." The artists are of wood, the work of two Italian sculptors, who have spent months upon it. The theater itself is also of their construction and is portable.

TALES OF THE TOWN.

Never Judge a Man by the Clothes He Wears.

C. M. Vance tells a rather good story, which illustrates the adage that appearances are sometimes deceitful. The other night he and a couple of friends were talking in the Spalding hotel. It was quite chilly and a soft-coal fire was sputtering in the grate. Near by stood a man with his back toward the group. One of his legs was drawn up in such a manner that one of the trouser legs was drawn up with it, exposing a hole in the back of his shoe and also a hole in the corresponding place in his stocking, showing the bare skin underneath. The holes were only small ones, but they loomed up in the flickering firelight until they looked as large as a house, and the observant trio of friends fell to moralizing on the sight.

"There," said one of the trio, "is a man who has seen better days."

"Yes," said another, "he has probably met with reverses and is struggling hard to keep up appearances."

And so they talked for a moment or two until the man suddenly changed his position and faced them and he proved to be Mr. Scott, the well known Omaha railway official, a man who is reputed to be worth $500,000 and rapidly getting richer. The group of moralists recognized him then at a glance and all had sudden and pressing business elsewhere.

Last Friday the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic train conductor had shouted "All aboard;" the train was slowly moving out of the depot when a woman with an armful of parcels and waving an umbrella frantically in the other hand, rushed madly down the stone steps and toward the train, past the gatekeeper, who did not stop her to punch her ticket. The conductor saw her and gave a quick jerk at the bell cord, thinking he had a belated passenger. The train stopped at about the end of the train shed. The woman came on with a good run past the sleeper and midway down the next coach, where she stopped.

"Hurry up," said the conductor, who had alighted and was about to help the passenger aboard with that politeness which the 'Bow-String" railroad men are famous for, when the woman remarked:

"Oh, I don't want to get on board; I only forgot to say good-bye to a friend!"

The conductor glared at her for an atom of time, then jumped on his train again and gave the bell cord a couple of savage jerks, and the train resumed its way amid an oppressive feeling that could have been cut with a knife.

Two or three days ago a member of one of the Republican committees called on Arthur Lahey, the basso of the Arion quartet and asked if the quartet could be engaged to sing at a Republican gathering. Mr. Lahey intimated that it certainly could, provided the committee had the price.

"How much do you want?" was asked.

Mr. Lahey named the figure. The man reflected a moment and then said slowly, as he considered the matter:

"Let me see, how many singers have you in your quartet?"

"Five," responded Mr. Lahey gravely, but with a decidedly humorous twinkle in his eye. Mr. Committeeman never "tumbled," however.

A little incident occurred immediately after the football game on Saturday which was hugely enjoyed by those who happened to be in the vicinity. One of the interested spectators at the contest was "Jimmy" Murphy, who is as clever a man at 135 pounds as there is in the Northwest, and very much of a gentleman. In the crowd which rushed to the already well filled car after the game was a big rough looking fellow who forced his way regardless of the comfort, to say nothing of the gowns, of several ladies. Murphy, who is nothing if not gallant, grasped the car railing so as to retard the fellow's rush until the ladies could mount the platform.

This angered the man who spoke of "smashing somebody's nose." Murphy mildly dissented and the big fellow let go his right but was met by a tap on the point of the jaw. Now he was in earnest and waded in to do mischief. A second facer brought him up standing and between gasps he sputtered:

"Who the devil are you?"

"I'm Jimmy Murphy," quietly responded the little fellow.

"I'm only a lightweight and I'm representing the Whitely exerciser here in Duluth. It's the best, the lightest, and most compact apparatus you"—but the man had fled.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. IS NEARING THE END

The Work of the Methodist Conference is Almost Finished and It May Adjourn Tonight.

Faribault Was Chosen as the Next Place of Meeting of the Southern Minnesota Conference.

The Presiding Elders of the Minnesota Northern Conference Will Select Its Place of Meeting.

Rev. A. W. Spencer led the devotional services at the opening of the Methodist conference this morning. On motion the place of the meeting next year of the Minnesota Northern conference was left to the presiding elder and they were empowered to arrange the matter. Faribault was chosen as the place of meeting of the Southern Minnesota conference. The reports of the presiding elders will be received and printed without reading. The report of the division devoted to the superannuated clergy was adopted. Dr. Brooks, of Minneapolis, gave a short talk on his career in the ministry and bade the conference good bye. On motion Rev. John W. Powell, who completes his 50th year in the ministry in a few weeks, was invited to preach a semi-centennial sermon before both conferences, commencing in the Minnesota Northern during the coming year. Rev. Dr. Chaffee introduced to the conference a large list of new members who had been added to the conference during the year. Fourteen candidates were admitted on probation to membership in the conference. On a roll call to ascertain the amount which the members would contribute toward the cost of publication of the minutes, a sufficient sum was raised.

Bishop Foss stated that he had received a number of petitions for the division into four districts of each of the new conferences. He has decided to so divide the conference, which will give the state eight presiding elders.

A little vein of political feeling was shown when one of the clergy arose and said that he hoped the conference would adjourn to meet in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, as he understood there was a distinguished visitor in Duluth today who was going to make a speech at 2 o'clock, and he further understood that a local Methodist preacher was also going to make an address about the same time and place and he wanted to hear him. This brought out a broad smile from the bishop and a vigorous clasping of hands from the clergy. As soon as the speaker sat down and the clasping of hands subsided Rev. Dr. William McKinley, of Minneapolis, gained the floor and said, amid some cries of "There's McKinley now:"

"Thanks, my brethern, for the inference in connection with the name I bear, but there is another side to the question. It would be a pleasure at all times to hear Ohio's honored and gifted son—[applause]—but we are Methodist preachers and our duty calls us here. Though Governor McKinley is a noble Roman, and most of us sympathize with him in many things—[applause]—yet we must not forget our duty."

It was finally decided to ajourn until 2:30. The afternoon session was given over to reports of various conference committees. If no unforseen delay occurs the conference will probably end its labors late this evening, in which event the appointments will be announced, but it is not improbable that the final adjournment may be postponed until tomorrow morning.

On Saturday three charges of breach of discipline were heard. J. J. Waymer, who was accused two years or more ago of deserting his family, was expelled, and Revs. Harris and Deets were completely exonerated from charges preferred against them.

Mulchey is Sensational.

James Mulchey, the individual who has sued Sheriff Sharvy, ex-Chief of Police Dan Horgan, and other people for $70,000 damages for false imprisonment, is in the city and gives a highly sensational story which has the effect of bringing him into some prominence if nothing more. He talks about knowing that Fritz Holler and Chris Swineford who were supposed to have been drowned in Partridge lake, were in fact murdered and says he knows who the murderers are. That he is not laboring very hard in the interests of justice is shown by the fact that he wants $250 before he will tell who they are or give any clew.

The Madagascar Question.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The authorities here do not consider the Madagascar question, which looked so ominous during the last week, as settled, but merely postponed until the latter part of the month. The French official, who has been authorized to take summary steps to maintain France's position in Madagascar, will not arrive there until Oct. 15.

Duluthians Abroad.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—[Special to The Herald.]—R. R. Briggs and J. C. Howard of Duluth are late arrivals here.

Smoking hot from the printing press comes one of the daintiest, breeziest, most artistic and most entertaining little brochures that any railroad ever issued entitled "Comfort in Travel" and issued by General Passenger Agent O. W. Ruggles, of the Michigan Central railway. This attractive publication contains about fifty colored views of interior views of modern "palaces on wheels" and the best scenery traversed by the Michigan Central through its great fruit and lumber district of Michigan and some splendid views of the great falls of Niagara over which this road passes on its own great bridge.

if the representative of the Commercial club of London that banqueted Mr. Wilson can be relied upon, the law of 1894 has stimulated English industries.

Factories Shut Down.

"A week ago every tin-plate factory in the United States closed down. Why? Because the tariff law of 1894 had so reduced the duty upon the foreign product as to make it impossible for those manufactories to produce and pay the scale of wages they had been paying under the law of 1892, and 10,000 men last Saturday night were put off on the streets as the result of the law of 1894. Not only the 10,000 men engaged in the immediate industry, but the 10,000 more men that were making the steel ingots and rolling them into the sheet steel to dip them for tin-plate were reduced in their employment by reason of the shutting down of those mills.

"Better than the law of 1890? Why, under the law of 1890 we collected from customs and from internal revenue enough money every day of the two years and a half it was in operation to pay the expenses of the government, the interest on the public debt and pensions to the soldiers of the country. And since 1892, when the new administration went in, and the decree had gone forth that the policy that had been in operation for thirty years, under which our industries had been builded up and to which every delicate fabric of enterprise had been adjusted, from that time down to this hour, the government of the United States has not collected, any day of any week of those nineteen months, enough money to pay the every day expenses of the government. And it has been compelled to go out and borrow $50,000,000 and issue the bonds of the government—which has not been done since the days of resumption. Not only been compelled to go out and borrow $50,000,000 of money, but it has drawn upon the gold reserve in the treasury—that has been sacred ever since John Sherman established it down to the inauguration of President Cleveland, and $50,000,000 of that gold reserve has gone to meet the current expenses of the federal government.

But it is only history repeating itself. The last Democratic administration before the war was an administration of loans and deficits and distress in business, and the first full Democratic administration since the war is an administration of loans and deficits and of universal distress to the country.

Mistakes Were Patriotic.

"Better than the law of 1890? There were mistakes in the law—no great bill with 3000 items could be passed without having some mistakes—but my countrymen, whatever mistakes were in the law, whatever errors crept into that law, every one of them were in favor of the American home, the American citizen, the American factory, the American farm. (Great applause.) But of the 860 blunders discovered in the law of 1894 not one of them is in favor of the American people. They have not even, by accident or blunder, made any mistakes in favor of American enterprise, American industries or American homes.

"Ah, but they say: 'Our tariff law is better than the Republican law because it reduces duties. So it does reduce duties. What does it reduce duties for? Why, it tells you—the title of the bill tells you—they reduce duties to increase the revenue. And no one will dispute that we need the revenue just at this time. Well, now, if you reduce the duty upon a foreign product and increase the revenue you must multiply the importations, musn't you? If you cut the tariff down on a given product and expect to increase the revenue you must increase the volume of the importation of that product, musn't you? Supposing, for example, by way of illustration, the protective tariff on this glass that I hold in my hand was 60 per cent. The present tariff is, say, 30 per cent—60 under our law, 30 under theirs. Now if you want to collect as much revenue from a 30 per cent tariff as you collect from a 60 per cent tariff you must import just twice as many tumblers, musn't you? You'll see that. And did it ever occur occur to you that every additional tumbler you import you diminish just that much production at home? Do you see that? And when you diminish production at home you diminish the labor employed at home, don't you? And when you diminish the employment of labor at home you diminish the wages of the labor that is employed, for where there is one day's work and two men to do it neither of them will get as much as though there were two days' work and only one man to do it. When you diminish the tariff you do it for only one purpose—that is to encourage importation. That is what it is done for. That is the objection they make to the law of 1890, that we discouraged importation. Well, we did.

Encouraged Home Industries.

"We discouraged the importation of every product that we could produce at home. And we did it that we might encourage the making of the product at home, that we might find employment for our labor at home, and give to the farmers of the United States' consumers of the products of their farms. They reduced the duty on tin plate, as I said a moment ago, and you see the effect. Ah, but they say we get things a little cheaper. Is there anybody in this country who wants things any cheaper than they are now? Does the farmer want less price for his wheat, or his corn, or his barley, or his sheep, or his stock? Are not prices low enough, farmers of Minnesota? Does the merchant want the prices of the articles he sells reduced? Does the workingman want less wages? Who wants these cheap things?

"My fellow citizen, nothing is cheap—nothing is cheap that comes from abroad to the American people if it enforces idleness among the American people. [Applause.] No product of agriculture is cheap from abroad if it leaves the American product to rot in the ground. No manufactured article is cheap to this country if it takes from the workingmen of this country a day's labor. And the old men in this audience, if they will let memory sweep back, will recall that when things are the cheapest men are the poorest. And when the prices of articles are lowest they are the hardest to get, and that is the trouble now, as my friend suggests. But there are a good many people living now who did not live under the old Democratic revenue free trade tariff prior to the war. The old men had the experience, and the young men have to have it, and—are now enjoying it! And experience, my fellow citizens, after all, is a form of instruction the most efficient and enduring. Sometimes we have to go through the school of adversity. We have all been attending that school for the past eighteen months (Laughter.) The tuition has been free, but the ultimate cost has been very great. It has been a sort of compulsory education. But I believe its lessons will be practical and permanent.

"But what duties have they reduced? Let me give you just a few of them. I cannot stop to go through the entire bill. Now, they are reducing duties not alone to increase the revenue, but to lift the burdens from the shoulders of the poor people of the country. That is another one. Now, let us see how they have done it. They have reduced the duty on leaf tobacco and Havana cigars $1,434,000—articles of necessity that go into the homes of the plain people of the country. They have reduced the tariff on liquers and French brandies $1,132,000. They have reduced the tariff from $2.50 a gallon, as we put it in the law of 1892, upon foreign liquors, to $1.80 a gallon, so as to give the poor men and the farmers of the country a chance. They have reduced the tariff on laces and imports $1,587,000; on silk dress goods, plushes and velvets, worn by the masses, $2,720,000. Now, this will be cheering news.

Luxuries Made Free.

"They have reduced the duty on artificial flowers and ostrich feathers $265,000; on chinaware, $2,233,000; on paintings and statuary, $432,000; on pearl buttons, $224,000; on plate and cut glass, $215,000; on opium for smoking, $400,000, and on imported jewelry, $80,000. What a comfort this will bring!

"Well, now, of what does their free list consist? These are a part of their reductions; what does their free list consist of? They put on the free list articles which, according to the importations of the preceding year, would amount to $41,000,000, and $18,000,000 of this was the farmers' wool, or nearly one-half; $9,000,000 of it was lumber, $3,000,000 or more of it were manufactured articles and $1,000,000 or more of it was paintings and statuary. Your statuary is now free. An article of necessity! But your sugar, an article of luxury, is taxed.

"This is not all, my fellow citizens. They have destroyed the splendid commercial treaties made by the administration of President Harrison with the Southern and Central states, made under the provisions of the law of 1890, which opened up that market to the flour, and the bacon, and the hams of the farmers of the United States; a trade with Cuba that increased $14,000,000 in a single year, principally agricultural products; and with Brazil that increased nearly $6,000,000 in a single year, principally agricultural products. All these are cut off, but they were very careful to put a provision in their law that the treaty with the Sandwich islands was to be kept sacred. I suppose after the failure of the administration in the Sandwich islands in another matter they thought they would be very generous in this other—the matter of sugar. (Laughter.) We had a treaty with the Sandwich islands made in 1867, and under that treaty their sugars were admitted free in consideration that they admitted certain of our products free, and that treaty stood without modification until the tariff law of 1890; and when we made sugar free up to and including No. 16 Dutch standard, we made sugar free from all the countries, so that the Sandwich islands had no advantage over any other sugar growing country in the world. And the treaty went on. When the Democratic party put a tariff of 40 per cent on sugar they made an exception, that that tariff should not apply to the sugar coming from the Sandwich islands. And the result of that is that the 40 per cent tariff from which they are exempted payment goes into the pockets of the sugar producers of those islands as a direct bounty, because the sugar coming from the Sandwich islands is no cheaper to the American consumer than the sugar coming from Cuba. The people of the Pacific states pay just as much for the free sugar from the Sandwich islands as we pay in Minnesota and in the East for the tariff sugar that comes from Cuba.

Cut Off Pensions, Too.

"Not only, my fellow citizens, has this administration interrupted the prosperity of the country, but it has to some extent interrupted the patriotism of the country. It has not only had the effect of interrupting our prosperity, but it has been cutting off and suspending the pensions of the soldiers. I never have advocated excessive pensions; but I believe every man who served in our war and was disabled is entitled to have a pension from the government of the United States. (Applause). And I believe that when a soldier has once been put on the pension roll of the government—put there by competent authority—he must not be put off until after the fullest investigation, in open, broad daylight, permitting the pensioner to meet face to face his accusers and the witnesses against him, and then if he is unworthy to be on that roll every patriotic citizen and every patriotic soldier would approve. But there must be no presumption of fraud against him. Why, they sometimes talk about our soldiers as though they enlisted in the service of their country for greed and gain; as though they entered the army for the pay and pensions that were in it. Why, there is not an old soldier before me who, when he took an oath to serve his country in war, ever thought of a pension. And certainly he didn't enlist for the paltry pittance that was paid him. He enlisted from the purest and the highest motives of patriotism—that no harm might come to the republic. And I indignantly resent, with all the earnestness of my nature, any attempt to put the taint of dishonor upon the men who preserved the Union and saved the flag.

"My fellow citizens, no party can long stand in the way of the prosperity of this matchless country. With our splendid resources, with the genius and enterprise and skill of our people no party can long obstruct the pathway of our prosperity and progress. They may retard it, they may check it, as they have done and are now doing, but the party that interferes with the prosperity of the country must get out of the way of its prosperity. That is the work we are engaged on today. That is the work we are engaged upon at this hour. And every Republican victory means a step nearer to that business confidence and that restoration of prosperity which we left in 1892."

BIG BUSINESS IN WHEAT.

A Large Increase in the Visible caused Values to Drop.

The wheat market opened stronger today at ½@⅝c above Saturday's close and ruled firm until the visible report came, when prices eased off. The early strength was based on stronger cables, higher domestic markets and a generally better feeling among operators who seemed inclined to look for some reaction from the depression which has so long ruled. But the enormous increase of 2,200,000 bus. in the visible—exceeding all expectations—was a damper on bull enthusiasm, and early buyers turned sellers and all the advance was lost.

Trading in futures was of large proportions, the early business being in very large lots. Cash stuff was active, shippers and millers taking all offerings. The close was ½c lower than Saturday, except December, which was ⅛c lower. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 58¾c; October, 58¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 57¼c; October, 57¼c; December, 57c; May, 60½c. No. 2 northern cash, 54¼c; No. 3, 48½c. To arrive—No. 1 northern, 57¼c; rye, 45c; flax, $1.47½; No. 2 oats, 32c; No. 3 oats, 31½c; barley, 45@51c.

Empty Stomachs Count.

Anoka Herald: Maj. Baldwin who made that touching and elegant reference to the power of men with hungry stomachs will find, as will all other aspirants of congressional honors at the hands of the Democracy, that men with empty stomachs and pocketbooks in the same condition can and will count. The people have had enough of this tariff reduction talk. What they want now is employment at good wages. Other affairs will adjust themselves readily if our workingmen are provided for.

Piling Up the Pyramid.

Delavan Enterprise: The Republican pyramid for 1894 now stands:

MAINE
CONNECTICUT
RHODE ISLAND.

Even the Sheep Bleat.

Two Harbors Iron News: A Democratic paper in the western end of the district says that even the little birds in the woods are chirping "Baldwin, Baldwin." It might have added that every sheep in the agricultural district is mournfully bleating "Baa-ldwin, Baa-baa-ldwin." Democratic free wool compels the sheep-raiser to abandon the shears and adopt the razor for gathering his wool, and the prospect of a close shave is not glittering to the victim.

All for Towne.

Vermilion Iron Journal: Capt. Smallwood, after his return from his trip to the ranges, is reported as saying, "it is astonishing, but a fact all the same, that very few Democrats up there will vote for Maj. Baldwin. They are not saying a word but to one who can read between the lines, that condition of affairs is most apparent. There are, too, bold members of Maj. Baldwin's party who declare in a loud voice that they will not support the major this fall." This virtually gives Charles A. Towne the entire vote of the range as Kittel Halvorsen will not poll votes enough to make a mark on the tally sheet.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The Figaro today throws cold water upon the reported intention of France to annex the island of Madagascar, saying that "the result obtained since 1885 is not brilliant and scarcely sufficient to make us desire to annex the island. The heavy expenses of the annexation can easily be forseen, whereas the advantages are very problematical.

FIVE PERISHED.

Explosion in the Luke Fiedler Colliery in Pennsylvania Caused the Death of Four Men.

Carpenter Irvin Buffington, Whom the Colliery People Hold Responsible For the Disaster, is Dead.

Lighted a Naked Lamp in the Air Course For the Purpose of Testing the Air.

The Mine Now a Mass of Flames and Cannot Be Approached From Any Direction.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 9.—One workman dead and four others inclosed in the mine, with all avenues to escape cut off, and the most disastrous mine fire ever known in the Western anthracite coal fields now raging at Luke Fiedler colliery, is the result in brief of a carpenter's negligence. Fifty-five other workmen who were employed in the mine at the time of the accident had thrilling escapes, as they were compelled to grope their way through smoke and noxious gases in order to reach the fresh air and safety.

The four men who are still missing have been smothered before this, as all parts of the big mine are certainly filled with smoke and deadly after-damp. The fire started in the airway of No. 1 shaft late last night and Irvin Buffington, whom the colliery people hold responsible for the disaster, is dead. His body was not burned, as death was due to suffocation. George Brown, a miner, and his Polish helper, Anthony Bobberto, a driver boy from Luke Fiedler and another Polish laborer whose name is not known by the mine officials, are in the mine and no hope is entertained of recovering them.

The mine is now a mass of flames and cannot be approached from any direction. It is feared that the inside workings will have to be flooded, which means many months of idleness to the 900 employes. Superintendent Morris Williams, of the Mineral Railroad and Mining company, informed an Associated Press representative that while Irvin Buffington, John Anderson, Jr., and others were engaged in retimbering No. 1 shaft, the former disobeyed orders by lighting his naked lamp in the air course for the purpose of testing the air.

A spark set fire to the timber that was as dry as powder and the current carried the flames up and down the shaft like lightning. Buffington was advised by his fellow workmen to make good his escape, but he neglected the warning and returned to the bottom of the shaft in order to exchange his gum boots for his shoes. This delay cost him his life and his dead body was recovered in the tunnel about 5 o'clock this morning.

Superintendent Williams, Mine Inspector Edward Brennan, Inside Foreman August Hehr and Arthur Kennedy and all of the under bosses at the Fiedler and Cameron mines formed three relief parties and entered the mine to rescue the sixty imprisoned workmen by way of the coal run workings through No. 3 air-way on the mountain and down the new shaft. The latter opening proved a God-send to the men, as it is to this channel that most of them owe their escape.

The smoke spread through the inside workings with great rapidity and alarmed the men and boys doing night duty in the mine. While the imprisoned men were rushing through the inside workings in search of an air shaft for an outlet, hundreds of their friends gathered about the mouth of the shaft and as the fan house was destroyed by the flames the cries and moans of the mothers, wives, sisters and children of the imprisoned employes sent chills through the hearts of many hardy miners, who were waiting for an opportunity to assist their doomed comrades.

Two of the men were overcome by the smoke while making their escape, but the coal run rescuing party succeeded in carrying them out and restoring them to consciousness. The gangs of workmen cannot get to any point near the fire on account of the smoke and gas so that the flames cannot be fought with any success.

This mine connects with the Hickory Swamp colliery of the Union Coal company, and it has to be drowned out, which will compel both mines to shut down for a year or more. The Luke Fiedler colliery is operated by the Mineral Railroad and Mining company, and gives employment to 900 men and boys.

ROW OVER AN ESTATE.

The Guardian of an Insane Widow Accused of Mismanagement.

DENVER, Oct. 9.—A special to the News from Cheyenne says: Judge Lacey, attorney for W. A. Robins, the guardian of Mrs. Nagle, the wealthy widow who some time ago was declared mentally incapable of attending to her own affairs, denies the allegations in Mrs. Hibbard's petition asking his removal.

Judge Lacey says Mr. Robins' management of the estate has been in the interest of the estate and there has been no mismanagement or misappropriation of the funds or property.

The trial of the case promises some sensational developments as Mrs. Hibbard's attorney, W. R. Stoll, declares that every allegation is a matter of record and that the appointment of Robins as guardian was upon the application of Daniel S. Swan, an entire stranger to Mrs. Nagle and was done at the request of Judge Lacey, Robins' attorney. The Mrs. Hibbard who brings the suit is a sister of Mrs. Nagle.

It is reported that the Japanese have captured Che Foo.

THE CONFERENCE

The Methodist Episcopal Conference of Minnesota Brought Its Annual Session to an End Today.

Full List of the Appointments of Presiding Elders and Pastors Made By Bishop Foss.

As Expected Rev. W. A. Shannon Was Again Made Presiding Elder of the Duluth District.

All the Present Pastors of the Churches in Duluth Remain in Their Old Places.

At the opening of the morning and closing session of the last Minnesota conference embracing the entire state, Rev. J. M. Bull lead in the devotions and Bishop Foss presided at the business session. The committee on missions reported the apportionment of $9040 for missionary work in both conferences. The report of the board of stewards showed the receipts to have been $5,223.25, and recommended that $3000 be apportioned to each conference by the presiding elders for the ensuing year. The receipts came from the following sources: Collections, $3087; percentage on salaries, $312.25; book concern, $1456; Hamline estate, $142; Dreibbelbies estate, $221; chartered fund, $25; total, $5223 25.

The thanks of the conference were extended to the daily newspapers of Duluth for their fair accounts of the proceedings of the conference, thanks were also extended to the people of Duluth, and especially to the people and pastor of the First Methodist church for their generous hospitality and perfect arrangements for the transaction of business.

The following pastors have been received into the conference by transfer: J. W. Hill from Montana; L. A. Willoughby from West Wisconsin; J. H. Sheckler, from North Dakota; E. L. Watson, Baltimore; W. E. McAllister, East Ohio; W. Fielden, South Dakota; W. C. Sage, South Dakota; W. C. Evans, East Ohio.

The following were transferred: H. H. French to New Hampshire; L. E. Pessigee to North Dakota; J. C. Gullitie and J. W. Davids to Michigan; G. H. Marvin to North Dakota; W. C. Evans to East Ohio.

Bishop Foss followed in a fine address to the clergy, sustaining the system of clerical appointments, comparing it with the different usage in other churches.

He outlined at length the duties of the presiding elders, showing how it was impossible for the church to get along without them. He wanted to hear from both the conferences that at least 2000 conversions have been made. His the duty, he said, for the clergy to tell their congregations about the work of the presiding elders and extol the advantage of their performance of their duties. To the laity he would say that the system of appointments places the highest moral obligation on the laity to properly recognize the self sacrifice of personal desire which leads men to go where they are sent and not to places of their own selection. If the Lord was here today he couldn't prepare a list of appointments which could give every man his choice or preference. Some brothers may feel disappointed but they must remember that they are Methodist preachers, and God overrules all, even the matter of appointments. I wish all my appointments would turn out well, but I don't think one of my appointments has ever taken the Methodist preacher out of the hands of God who remedies all mistakes.

The conference joined in singing Hymn 816 "And let our bodies part," etc., all standing. Sunday, Oct. 28, was set apart as a day of prayer and fasting that the 2000 conversions may be secured. The eight selected presiding elders were called up to the chancel rail and Bishop Foss read a short extract from the Bible. Elders Chaffee and Stafford led the conference in prayer, all kneeling, Bishop Foss closing, after which one verse of "Just as I am" was sung by all present.

The Presiding Elders.

Minnesota conference—St. Paul district, W. K. Marshall; Mankato district, John Stafford; Marshall district, H. C. Jennings; Winona district, E. P. Robinson.

Northern Minnesota conference—Duluth district, W. A. Shannon; Minneapolis district, J. F. Chaffee; St. Cloud district, R. N. McCaig; Willmar district, R. R. Atchison.

THE CAPITAL GOSSIP.

An Order to Discontinue the Practice of Placing Due Stamps on Advertised Mail Matter.

Decision Made By Commissioner Lamoreux That Will Probably Be a Precedent in Other Cases.

Evidence That the Trout Placed in Inland Waters in Alaska Last Year Were Frozen.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Acting Postmaster General Jones has issued an order discontinuing the practice at all postoffices of placing due stamps on advertised mail matter before collecting the required fee. The second assistant postmaster general has issued circulars calling the attention of all postmasters to the importance of promptly notifying the department of changes of schedules on any railroad, whereby mails reaching their offices by star routes are delayed. Frequent complaints have been made to the department of the neglect of postmasters at railroad points in this respect.

Postmasters have also been notified to make prompt disposition of mail sacks used in transporting public documents from Washington, and their attention has been called to the necessity for a closer scrutiny of the name of the state in the address on mail for offices of similar names in different states. Unusually frequent complaints have been made in the latter case of missent mails for Cleveland, Tenn., and Cleveland, Ohio; Cincinnati, Iowa, and Cincinnati, Ohio; Detroit, S. D., and Detroit, Mich.; Quincy, Iowa, and Quincy, Ill., and St. Paul, Neb., and St. Paul, Minn.

Considerably more than 500,000 bushels of potatoes weighing 31,745 tons were brought from Scotland to the United States in nine months ended in June, and this, too, notwithstanding a protective duty of 25 cents per bushel on imported potatoes. This fact is set out in a report to the state department by United States Consul Savage at Dundee, Scotland. Nothing but the best potatoes, magnum bonums and Bruces, are shipped to America. The price at the beginning of the season was $11.55 per ton f.o.b., exclusive of the cost of sacks—13 cents each. The freight from Dundee to New York was $2.85.

The consul reports that the outlook for this season's business is uncertain. The Scotch acreage is smaller than last year, less of the [illegible] export brands having been planted and the crop has suffered from frost and rain, all pointing to higher prices. On the other hand the reduction of the tariff on potatoes by our new tariff act from 25 cents to 15 cents per bushel and the expected rise in price of potatoes owing to our own short crop may largely increase shipments from Scotland.

Commissioner Lamoreux of the general land office has rendered a decision which will probably be regarded as a precedent in a number of cases yet to follow. It was in the claim of Peres A. Tisdel, of Nebraska. He was living on a pre-emption entry when the war broke out, when he enlisted and served three and a half years. Tisdel did not return to the land and subsequently made application for another tract. This was denied by the local officers, but the commissioner holds that the man lost no rights by enlisting even if he did not return to the land at the close of his service.

Fish Commissioner McDonald has received from Commander Drake, of the fish commission's steamer Albatross, which has been patrolling the Bering sea since May 1, the report of her movements and observations up to June 30. The report covers principally meteorological and hydrographical observations and contains little of special interest, nothing, in fact, relating to the seal question, as the period covered was the "closed season" before the seals left the Pribyloff islands. Only five seals were seen at sea up to June 30.

No trace of the trout which were planted last year in the inland waters of the islands were discovered. This left no doubt that the lakes had been frozen to the bottom and put an end to further

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

experiments in that line. According to a telegram received this morning from Port Townsend, Capt. Drake left there yesterday with the Albatross for San Francisco where he will prepare his report on the observations made in Bering sea during the closed season. This report probably will be of a confidential nature and will, with future reports on the same subject, serve as valuable information in any future negotiations with Great Britain as to the limitation of the prohibited zone.

The secretary of the navy has ordered the Miantonomom out of commission. With the men gained by this change the department will be able to put the Minneapolis in commission for which the Messrs. Cramp report that she will be ready by Oct. 15. She will have a crew of 400 men. The department is now engaged in making up a list of officers and men to be assigned to her. The three officers most prominently mentioned for the command of the Minneapolis are Captains James O'Kane, H. B. Robeson and J. B. Cronwell. The general concensus of opinion seems to be that Capt. Cronwell will obtain the assignment.

DEPRECIATED A MILLION.

Heavy Decline in the Value of Wheat Stored Near San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The Examiner says: There are 200,000 tons of May wheat lying at Port Costa and its vicinity, the first cost of which was $1,000,000 more than the price which it now commands in the market. Add to this interest, insurance, storage and other expenses, and the difference between its cost and its value will not fall short of $1,500,000.

This great mass of grain is the outward visible sign of the great deal which began a year ago, and the purchases for which only ceased on June 1 last. Its owner or owners has been a matter of conjecture for twelve months. No one has yet stated with authority who he is or who they are, but the concensus of opinion for a long time fixed on ex-Senator James G. Fair.

Of late this idea has been modified. Mr. Fair is still credited with being one of the unfortunate manipulators of this year's wheat market, but it is now believed that he had a partner to share his losses. The exterior evidence points to a pool of men in control of ready cash, and the rumor has spread on California street that either George Whittell or Luning Camp are the partners.

The deal began a year ago with prices at about $1.10, which descended to $1 and varied from that figure to $1.16½ options on the produce exchange until late in May, owing to dry weather causing a belief in the shortness of the local crop.

PORTLAND LAWYER ARRESTED.

Charged With Complicity in the Murder of Gen. Sayers.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 9.—Another arrest has been made in connection with the assassination of Gen. W. Sayers whose body was recovered from the Willimette river a few days ago. It was that of N. N. Steves, a well known lawyer and, jointly with "Bunco" Kelly and Bob Gathorne, he is charged with murder. Steves was held without bail.

Chief of Police Minton, declined to disclose the nature of evidence against Steves at the present time but intimated that he had good reason to hold him. During the examination of Kelly, Burns, Mehan and the others now in jail, Mehan and Burns testified that Steves had been at Kelly's sailor boarding house to see him on private business and that Kelly also visited Steves at his office. The latter statement Kelly did not deny.

Later Steves was taken to the Central Police station, and when questioned by Chief Minto and District Attorney Hume as to what business called him to Kelly's house and as to why Kelly visited him, the lawyer denied that he and Kelly had ever exchanged visits. Mehan and Burns though, when they confronted Steves in the chief's office, identified him as the man they had seen in Kelly's house. Despite the identification Steves was allowed to depart but he was constantly shadowed by a detective until his arrest.

A Duel to the Death.

HENDERSON, Ky., Oct. 9.—Two farmers, Raymond Martin and Robert Rye, at Hebardsville, Ky., 14 miles from here, quarreled yesterday about a woman. Martin got two axes; handing one to Rye he proposed a duel. They fought until Rye had both arms severed and fell dead. Martin received horrid gashes about the head and breast and is dying.

The Czarewitch Will Rule.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 9.—It is understood here that if the czar decides, as it is fully expected that he will, upon a form of regency during his absence from Russia, the czarewitch will not be appointed regent; but he will be entrusted, by a special declaration of the czar, with the direction of state affairs. The title of regent will be carefully avoided in his appointment.

WAS WON BY THE GIANTS.

The New York Team Defeated the Orioles Four Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Temple cup has been won by the Giants. Four well contested games have been played for its possession, the final one at the polo grounds yesterday afternoon. The aggregate receipts of the four games will amount to about $25,000. Of this the Giants will get $16,000.

As the expenses are not heavy, each of the sixteen New York players will receive as his share nearly $1000. The Baltimores will have about $9000 to divide up amongst the fourteen players, after the expenses are paid.

There were 12,000 people present to see yesterday's game. In the sixth inning Van Haltren met with an accident which caussd him to retire from the game. He collided with Jennings while trying to steal second base and was knocked unconscious. When he recovered his nose appeared to be broken, but later it was found to be only an abrasion. On account of darkness hostilities were ended in the eighth inning. Score:

New York...	1	0	1	3	0	1	5	4	1	—16	20	5

Hilton, Hughes & Co., of New York to Close Their Wholesale Branch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The World this morning says: The wholesale business of Hilton, Hughes & Co., the old house of A. T. Stewart & Co., is to be closed out. In its palmiest days it sold $40,000,000 worth of goods in a single year and made A. T. Stewart the best known of all merchant princes. Since his death the firm has experienced various mutations but this change is the most radical of all.

All the employes of the wholesale department have been notified that that branch of the business would be closed as speedily as the stock on hand could be disposed of, and they were advised to seek positions elsewhere. There are about 400 of these employes with a salary list of several hundred thousand dollars a year. The manager is James L. Thayer, who was formerly a salesman for the firm.

Eight German Soldiers Became Mutinous and Were Imprisoned.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received here from Berlin says that during the Hessian maneuvers near Hofheim, eight reserve soldiers attached to the Eighth regiment mutinied and attacked the others with swords.

The mutineers are said to have been disarmed by a party of their fellow soldiers and they were aiterwards interned in the fortress of Mayence, preparatory to being tried by court martial. The prisoners are liable to be sentenced to death.

A CASHIER HAS SKIPPED.

Said to Be a Defaulter to the Extent of $150,000.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 9.—Fred Filgiano, cashier in the Grand Trunk railway freight office here, has suddenly disappeared. Until the auditors working on his books have completed their labors the amount of Filgiano's alleged defalcation cannot be stated, but it is understood this will reach nearly $150,000.

Filgiano had been cashier for fifteen years. Over $1,000,000 annually passed through his hands.

Rate on Canned Goods.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The Southern Pacific announces a new rate on canned goods shipped to the East. The old rate was 50 cents per 100 pounds on car load shipments of 30,000 pounds to New York, which was the only terminal point. The new rate will be 75 cents per 100 pounds on car load shipments of 24,000 pounds to New York and Easter seaboard; common points, such as Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Portland, Me. The rate to Chicago and Missouri and Mississippi river common points will be the same.

AN ANARCHIST PLAY.

Herr Most and Fifty Other Anarchists Made Their Appearance As Actors in New York.

It Was a Historical Realistic Drama and There Were Five Tearful and Agonizing Acts.

Most Was an Old Weaver and Looked Like a Blending of Weary Raggles and Diogenes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—"Die Weber" (the weavers), a historical realistic play in five agonizing acts, by Gerhart Hauptman, the apostle of dramatic realism, was performed at the Thalia theater last night by Herr Most and fifty anarchists who had never acted before. The house was filled, packed, crowded, jammed; the audience fairly stuck out at the doors and windows—and the applause was tremendous.

The object of this performance was to raise money for the literary fund of the anarchist society of New York—to help Herr Most's paper, Die Freiheit. The performers had carefully rehearsed their parts, and with true anarchistic fervor had mastered the woes of the characters in the play until they almost looked upon them as their own. The acting was remarkably good, but nothing else could have been expected, for they were merely reciting upon the stage the grievances that they have for years been shouting in meeting halls, and when they demolished the residence of their employer they probably did it with a secret satisfaction that was not set down in the book.

The play opened in the delivery room of Herr Dreissigers, the merchant whose clerks were paying the weavers the pittance that they had earned. Herr Most was one of these weavers and when he appeared upon the stage there was a loud roar of applause. His make-up was excellent. In his tattered garments and his frowsy gray wig, the gray hairs of which mingled with the shaggy ends of his own true whiskers, he came slouching upon the stage with a strange blending of Weary Raggles and Diogenes.

Throughout the first act the weavers told the merchant's clerks of all the suffering they endured in the week just passed. In the second act Herr Most and two other actors went through the whole catalogue of human woes, from leaky roofs, through which the rain pours, and heartless landlords, to starvation and the diseases that come from poverty.

In the third act the whole crowd assembled in a tavern and pointed up a list of grievances against their employer that was positively frightful.

In the fourth act they went to his house and smashed everything they could lay their hands on, particularly the mirror, the demolition of which seemed to give them a fiendish pleasure.

In the fifth and last act they went to a neighboring town, fought with the soldiers, killed a weaver by accident and demolished another manufacturer's home. Then the curtain fell and the agony was over.

ECZEMA From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of this disease. I visited Hot Springs, and was treated by the best medical men, but was not benefited. When all things had failed I determined to try S.S.S., and in four months was entirely FROM cured. The terrible Eczema was gone, not a sign of it left; my general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. I have since recommended S.S.S. to a number of friends for skin diseases, and have never yet known a failure to cure. CHILDHOOD

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas default has been made in the condition of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Alexander Fraser and Lydia Ann Fraser, his wife, mortgagors, to Samuel H. Adulterated Wine

Is injurious, but nothing gives strength, and tones up the stomach like a pure old port wine. "Royal Ruby Port," so called for its royal taste and ruby color is on account of its purity, age and strength, particularly adapted for invalids, convalescents and the aged. Sold only in bottles (never in bulk) while cheap wine is sold by the gallon and gives a larger profit to the seller but less to the user. This wine is absolutely pure, and has the age without which no wine is fit to use. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby;" quart bottles $1. Sold by S. F. Boyce, druggist. 2

Announcement.

At the request of many voters of the Second district of St. Louis county, who think that I have tried to do my duty as county commissioner, I present my name as a candidate for county commissioner of the Second district of St. Louis county at the election Nov. 6, 1894, asking the votes of all who think me worthy of same. I am yours truly,

C. POIRIER.

ALL THE STRENGTH and virtue has sometimes "dried out," when you get pills in leaky wooden or pasteboard boxes. For that reason, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are sealed up in little glass vials, just the size and shape to carry about with you. Then, when you feel bilious or constipated, have a fit of indigestion after dinner, or feel a cold coming on, they're always ready for you.

They're the smallest, the pleasantest to take, and the most thoroughly natural remedy. With Sick or Bilious Headaches, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Dizziness, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach, and Bowels, they give you a lasting cure.

Headache; obstruction of nose; discharges falling into throat; eyes weak; ringing in ears; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility—these are some of the symptoms of Catarrh. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has cured thousands of the worst cases,—will cure you.

Gossip.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, Room 107, Chamber of Commerce.

Everything was against the bulls in wheat this morning and after making a feeble effort at the opening they gave up and for the balance of the day the bears had everything their own way.

Corn and oats have been dull, the business being of a scalping character. Receipts are light but are expected to increase soon. Crop prospects are growing brighter daily. Provision dull and neglected.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Tremont Billiard Hall.

W. N. Kelley, manager of the Tremont hotel, has opened the Tremont billiard hall at No. 5 East Superior street. The place is elegantly fitted up with nice new tables and furniture and is a pleasant place of resort for gentlemen.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat can be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50-cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by all druggists.

Those who yesterday heard the old, stale speech of Governor McKinley, the champion of the money power and the plutocrats, should hear the answer to it at the Temple Opera this evening by that brilliant orator, Willard J. Hull, of New York.

Yesterday's Session.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the state Methodist conference was devoted principally to routine reports, and after a little discussion the following resolution was passed:

"Whereas, we are informed that the Protestants and non-Catholics in the South American states of Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador and perhaps other states, labor under grave disabilities as to the expression of their religious faiths, the exercise of their divine worship and the enjoyment of certain civil liberties, as for instance, the inability to marry legally unless they renounce their non-Catholic faith.

"Resolved, that we suggest to the head of the Roman Catholic church that he so exert his influence and authority which are paramount in the countries named, that residents therein may be enabled to enjoy the same rights which are enjoyed by Roman Catholics in the United States."

The board of visitors, as appointed, for Hamline university was as follows: H. C. Jennings, S. N. McAdoo, Thomas Hambly and R. N. Avisons, of the Minnesota conference, and E. S. Pilling, J. H. Dewart and J. M. Thoburn of the Northern Minnesota conference. The visitors to the Grant Biblical institute for the year are H. J. Harrington and Benjamin Longley, of the Minnesota conference, and F. M. Rule and Charles W. Lawson, of the Northern Minnesota conference.

All Were for Towne.

In his address in Duluth yesterday Governor McKinley made a strong plea for the election of Hon. C. A. Towne to congress. It is a plea that will undoubtedly have a good effect throughout the Sixth district and will add greatly to the large plurality which Mr. Towne will receive at the polls next month. After showing that the election of a Republican house of representatives would put an effectual stop to further unfriendly tariff legislation, Governor McKinley said:

"We cannot reinstate what we have already lost, but we can insure no further loss from the unfriendly legislation of a Democratic congress, and I am here among you today, as I have been in other states of the Union, appealing to the people to see to it that their votes shall be given to the Republican representatives. And you are most fortunate here in this city of Duluth, and in this congressional district, to have a man so worthy of carrying the Republican banner as your candidate for congress, my friend C. A. Towne. We need just such men in the house of representatives, men who not only have right convictions of public duty but who can present those convictions with the brilliancy and eloquence of your candidate for congress."

The enthusiastic applause with which the mention of Mr. Towne's name was received and the still greater demonstration which followed the remark that men of Mr. Towne's brilliancy and eloquence are needed in congress to present their right convictions of public duty showed that the immense audience was thoroughly in sympathy with the speaker, so far as the election of Mr. Towne is concerned. If Maj. Baldwin had been present and seen the many thousands of St. Louis county voters who heartily applauded this appeal and manifested by their actions that they intended to vote to send Mr. Towne to congress, he would have found cause to wonder where his own vote in this county is coming from because among the thousands who thus expressed their feelings were hundreds who two years ago voted for Maj. Baldwin, but will never do so again. Yesterday's demonstration in favor of Mr. Towne was a plain notice to Maj. Baldwin of what he may expect from St. Louis county on Nov. 6.

The Return of Prosperity.

While some campaign orators are howling about the awful business depression through which the country has passed and are talking in lugubrious tones about the present state of affairs, the people should remember that they are talking merely for political effect. The fact is that they are talking of what is past and gone. About that the people generally care little. They are more concerned about the present. And they know that the conditions that prevail now are a great improvement over the conditions of last spring. Business has materially improved, and in every direction can be seen the rays of the sun of prosperity breaking through the clouds. The improvement which has taken place in business cannot be successfully disputed, and even the political talkers will be ready to admit—after election day—that an era of prosperity has again set in.

To the doubters the following statements by the Philadelphia Ledger, a staid, conservative, thoroughly independent journal of the highest class, are commended. They were made in an article criticizing partisan periodicals for endeavoring to perpetuate the depression by false statements. The Ledger said:

"Dispatches and correspondence from all parts of the country tell of the revival of industrial enterprise; of works which have been shut down resuming operations; of others, which have been operated on reduced time or with a lesser number of operatives, running upon full time and with an increased force of employes, and of capital providing new plants in all those industries which are as props and pillars of mercantile success. The great transportation companies, which probably suffered as much as, or more than, any of the representatives of important business interests during the late prolonged period of depression, are daily showing the assured increase in the volume of business. The statements of the banks in all the large financial centers are equally satisfactory as indisputable testimony to the return of prosperity."

In view of the above indisputable facts the "calamity howler" must change his occupation.

The Morning Caviller.

The smouldering jealousy of the News Tribune at the superiority of The Herald as a newspaper broke out this morning in a senseless triade, because The Herald had the audacity to publish last evening the greater portion of Governor McKinley's speech, leaving nothing for the morning paper to add to the account of yesterday's demonstration. The Herald did not pretend to give Governor McKinley's speech in full, and in the haste incident to reporting it and putting it in type within a short space of time a few minor errors may have crept in and some of the governor's phraseology may have been slightly changed. But, on the whole, it was a very accurate report, and The Herald received many compliments on its enterprise.

All this was gall and wormwood to the dyspeptic morning paper, which reprinted The Herald's report nearly in its entirety and made a few additions and then claimed it had a verbatim report. Possibly this is true, because it followed The Herald's report very closely. The people had read the speech twelve hours before the morning paper appeared, and what good was its "verbatim report" then?

The whole incident well illustrates the oft repeated statement, which everyone knows to be true, that the day of the morning newspaper has departed. Beyond an account of a few small happenings late at night it is practically a reprint of the evening paper of the previous day. The people long ago recognized this fact and hence the greater popularity and the much greater circulation and advertising patronage of the evening paper.

As a recorder of ancient history the morning paper is all right, but when it comes to publishing the news when it is news, it is decidedly not in it with the evening paper. And this is why the News Tribune indulges in caviling criticism of The Herald's enterprise.

A volume just issued by the war department, showing the strength and cost of the armies of other nations, states that France's army on a war footing numbers 2,850,000 men; Germany's, 3,700,000; Russia's, 13,014,865; Austro-Hungary's, 1,194,175; Italy's, 3,155,036; Spain's, 400,000; Switzerland's, 486,000, and Great Britain's, 662,000. The annual army expenditures of Europe aggregate $631,226,825. The annual cost of the Russian army alone is put down at $186,349,000.

Phil D. Armour offered $1,000,000 for Jekyl Island, to hide in of a summer, but the offer has been refused by the members of the club named after the island, which is off Brunswick, Ga. This is perhaps the richest outing club in the world, its 100 shares, of a par value of $600 each, being now held and sold at $4700. There are eighty-six members, many of whom have built splendid homes on the island.

In his address of acceptance of the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor of New York, Senator Saxton stated the issues tersely: We have written upon our banners these mottoes: "Good government in state and city," "Destruction to corrupt political machines," "An honest, untrammeled ballot," "Adequate protection to American industries."

A letter received in Washington from a gentleman who is very close to Senator Hill says that the senator will unquestionably resign his seat in the senate before election and that this resignation is likely to reach Governor Flower's hands this week. This will at once silence the carping criticism of political opponents who have been accusing him of being afraid to let go of the senatorship lest he be defeated for governor. The resignation will add to his strength with the the people. It will also force greater harmony in the Democratic party, because the senatorship will also be at stake.

Peffer's Road to the White House.

Chicago Tribune: It appears to be John Swinton's opinion that Senator Peffer might have taken a short cut to the presidency by way of the barber's chair.

Only Difference in Degree.

Truth: Robbie—I'm going to be a pirate, like Capt. Kidd, when I grow up.

Charlie—I'm going to be a train robber, like Jesse James.

Johnnie—Well, I ain't. I'm going to keep a summer hotel, like Uncle Jack.

No Doubt About It.

Chicago Tribune: Hearing a faint rustle in the darkened hallway below, the elder sister, supposing the young man had gone, leaned over the balustrade and called out:

"Well, Bessie, have you landed him?"

There was a deep, sepulchral silence for some moments.

It was broken by the hesitating, constrained voice of the young man:

"She has."

Strictly Accurate.

Truth: "I almost died when my wife eloped," said the solemn man. "She was an angel, so kind, so loving, so patient. I fairly worshiped her, and she was idolized by everyone who knew her. She was the best woman in the world."

"It seems, then," said one of his hearers, "that she was too good to be true."

JOE SHEEHY ACCEPTS.

He Wants to Fight Dan Callahan, of Denver, Next Sunday.

If Joe Sheehy has been silent he is no longer. He wants to "lick" the world now. Joseph announces as follows:

"I can whip all the heavyweights in the Northwest, if they want to fight with their fists instead of their mouths. I don't care if it is my grandfather that gets into the ring with me, I will knock him out if I can. I can whip any man these people here in the Northwest can produce, including this man Callahan from Denver, Col. I know he is a giant in size but he cannot put me in the dry-dock nor can any other man without trying it. If I did not accept his challenge people would think I was afraid of him. Now I will jump into the ring next Sunday, if weather permits, and fight him twenty rounds, the best man to take everything in sight. I do not think the sports can produce a man who can whip me. I don't care whether there is one or 1000 people on hand. I want to show the people of the Northwest that I am not afraid of any man."

IS A KNOW NOTHING.

Insane Young Man Who Cannot Even Tell His Own Name.

A peculiar case came up in probate court yesterday afternoon. The patient is a fairly bright looking, good natured young man, and his name appears on the information blank filled out by Michael Drennan as William Smith. That is not his name, however, nor does anyone know what it is, he less than anyone.

All he knows is that he found himself on a sidewalk in Duluth about three weeks ago. For all he knows about his residence, parentage or occupation he might have "just growed," like Topsy. Before the time when he found himself in Duluth he has not the vestige of a memory. There are no means of identification around his clothes except a torn card on which appears the name "William T. ——," the last name being torn off, and he thinks that is his name.

He does not know whether he has ever been to school or not, or whether he has ever worked, but he does not think he has. Aside from these peculiarities he is all right, and appears to be at least ordinarily bright. He was examined as to his sanity before Judge Ayer yesterday afternoon. There was no doubt as to his his case and he was ordered to the asylum for the insane at Fergus Falls, where he will be taken this afternoon.

Making Yard Changes.

The Eastern Minnesota is feeling the pressure of the returning tide of prosperity, and is making changes in its Duluth yards made necessary by its increased business. The present track room has become wholly inadequate and three new tracks will be put in.

To make room for them the freight house is being moved up beside the old passenger station, after which the new tracks will be laid.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Olives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interup tion and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Max Worth's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

A THRILLING TALE.

Terrible Experience in the Coal Regions.

A Life is Saved by the Most Timely Interference.

A Person Who Knew Just What to do and Did Not Hesitate.

There is no happier or more surprised person than Mr. Peter W. Meredith, of 338 West Savory street, Palo Alto, Schuylkill county, Pa. He has been at death's door and and knows how to value life and health. He suffered the most frightful agonies from dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and neuralgia.

When the stomach is weak or diseased the blood becomes bad, the nerves weak, the kidneys, liver and bowels inactive, and the whole system is soon out of order. Complete prostration often follows such conditions. The following letter from Mr. Meredith will explain the surest way to recover your health:

"I had been sick for the past six months with dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and neuralgia of the chest. I was in dreadful misery and suffered most intense pain. The agony I endured was terrible. I thought to put an end to my life and sufferings, for I was a burden to my family and myself.

"I could hardly eat anything, and what little I did only gave me the greatest distress. I had a bad taste in the mouth and my tongue was coated. I would be awake all night and could get no sleep at all. I was attended by several doctors but without benefit.

"They prescribed medicines for me and took all my money, but did me no good.

MR. PETER W. MEREDITH.

"I was feeling terribly discouraged and thought I should never get well. One day a neighbor came in and advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I commenced using it and very soon began to perceive wonderful improvement. It did me more good than any medicine I ever took. One day my family doctor came in and seeing the bottle on the stand asked me what I was using.

"I showed it to him and he said it was a very good medicine. 'Yes,' said, 'it has done me good and I intend to continue its use.' I continued taking it and was gradually cured. I consider Dr. Green's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a wonderful medicine and the best one there is. I recommend it to all my friends and advise everybody to use it."

If you are suffering from indigestion, constipation, kidney or liver complaint, neuralgia, nervousness, sleeplessness morphine or liquor habit, or any form of nervous, chronic or blood disease, take that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and you will surely get well.

Take it now and be cured. It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York city, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

PAINT cracks.—It often costs more to prepare a house for repainting that has been painted in the first place with cheap ready-mixed paints, than it would to have painted it twice with strictly pure white lead, ground in pure linseed oil.

Strictly Pure White Lead

forms a permanent base for repainting and never has to be burned or scraped off on account of scaling or cracking. It is always smooth and clean. To be sure of getting strictly pure white lead, purchase any of the following brands:

"Southern," "Red Seal," "Collier," "Shipman."

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 25-pound keg of Lead and mix your own shades, and insures the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.

Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

FRATERNAL FEELING.

It Was Thoroughly Exemplified at the Gathering of Duluth and Ashland Masons Last Evening.

Banquet and Fine Toasts Followed the Exemplification of Degree Work By Ionic Lodge.

Eloquent Address By R. E. Denfeld, Dr. Forbes and Others—Music By the Arion Quartet.

When the Duluth Masons visited Ashland on that memorable Nautilus trip a few weeks ago it established a fraternal feeling which bids fair to prove permanent and to be one which will grow more and more in strength from year to year. A most cordial invitation to visit Duluth was extended the Ashland brethren and yesterday they came. To the great delight of the Duluth Masons, not only did Ancient Landmark lodge of Ashland respond by sending a fine body but Washburn lodge, of Washburn, and Bayfield lodge, of Bayfield, Wis., also sent representatives. In all there were eighty visitors.

The visiting brethren were escorted to the lodge room by a delegation of Masons. Ionic lodge exemplified work in the third degree the candidate being Mr. Eckman. It was about 11 o'clock before the degree work was concluded and then the visitors and hosts repaired to the banquet room and seated themselves around the board.

It was a gathering good to see. There sat 275 men as fine as the Northwest can produce all joined in the spirit of unity and brotherly love with the golden rule as their guiding principle. There were young men just entering the temple of Masonry and seated at the head of the board was Dr. Ellison, of Ashland, a Mason gray with age who dates his initiation into the mystic order from 1848. Two grand lodge members were there, T. W. Hugo, of Duluth, and ex-Governor Fifield, of Ashland. It is seldom that such a widely representative Masonic gathering is seen. It was a jolly crowd, too, and the speeches were full of funny stories and the room rang with shouts and laughter.

At the Banquet Board.

W. E. Covey presided and expressed his pleasure at the fine attendance. He called on I. E. West, who made a happy speech of welcome, inviting the visitors to "rob our hen roosts, kiss our girls and do anything else they liked." He asked Mayor Lewis to let them have full sway and closed by saying, "accept brother Masons the most hearty welcome our hands and hearts can give you."

Eminent Commander Lamoreux, of Ashland, responded. He said that often in one's life incidents occur which the tongue is powerless to describe or do justice to. "This is one of them. I am unable to express my feelings now. I feel that nothing has been left undone to reciprocate for the entertainment we gave you. It is said that the chief thing to be obtained is happiness. One of the things which goes more than all else to make happiness is hospitality. We have that here and we appreciate it heartily."

The Arion quartet sang a selection and responded with an encore number to the tremendous applause.

Mayor Lewis was asked to tell the Masons what to do with themselves after they left the banquet hall. He did not adhere closely to the text but extended a warm welcome to the visitors. Next summer when the Duluth Masons visit Ashland again they will have to get the North West, he said. He spoke of the excellent fraternal feeling which springs from these gatherings and hoped there would be many of them.

Ex-Governor Fifield, of Ashland, told how he had often wished to see the Masons at the head of Lake Superior brought together, and although not present was greatly pleased when he learned that the Masons of Duluth and Ashland had touched flesh. He spoke of the strength of Masonry in Ashland and expressed the wish that when Boston is visited next year the men from the head of the lakes might march in the same ranks. "I am glad to be here," he said. "I am glad the Masons have got together. Come down next year with the Nautilus packed from hold to deck and we will give you a royal welcome. We'll fill you so full of whitefish that you will not be able to pull your shirts over your heads." A shout of laughter followed this.

Frank Lazier paid a fine tribute to the sentiments of Masonry—brotherly love and the golden rule. On behalf of Ionic lodge of which he is past grand master, he extended the hand of fellowship with the hope that they might soon again meet around the festive board and cement more and more the bond of fellowship in the grandest constitution the world has known outside of the Christian religion.

The Ashland quartet sang "Talk About Your Moses" and in response to a hearty encore C. A. Lamoreux sang "The Song That Reached My Heart."

A Venerable Brother.

Mr. Smith, master of Ancient Landmark lodge, spoke a few words and the venerable Dr. Ellison was called upon. He has been a Mason since 1848 but bears his years well and does not look his age. He spoke eloquently of Masonry and the principles it inculcates which cannot but prove of good in every community where the fraternity exists. He spoke of Masonry on Lake Superior and said that he could not be satisfied unless these fraternal gatherings continue.

The Arion quartet sang "Oft in the Stilly Night," and the tremendous applause which followed was more than merited. In the Arions Duluth has a quartet of which she may be proud. Their singing is artistic in every sense of the word and shows conscientious and thorough training. The four voices blend perfectly and the most accurate appreciation of the demands of each selection is shown. A double encore was given, a comic song and "Appear, Love, at Thy Window" being given.

R. W. Denfeld in a 5-minute speech presented the whole idea of Masonry in all its loftiness, simplicity and grandeur of spirit in a most eloquent manner. Education brings character, he said. Where can it be found more clearly set forth than in the tenets of this organization of which we are members. Masonry is always appealing for the elevating, ennobling and strengthening of mankind. It elevates the spiritual side of man, teaching him through the works of nature that there is a beyond, that there is a God whom we trust. It is always the foe of ignorance and the champion of education.

W. C. White spoke wittily of the junior warden's duties and was applauded.

Dr. Forbes' Eloquence.

Dr. Forbes was then called and was greeted with applause as he arose. Dr. Forbes is an ideal after dinner speaker. For ten minutes he kept the banquet hall ringing with the shouts of laughter and applause which followed his witty sallies. He told story after story, each better than the first. Then he grew eloquent and for a few moments the guests listened to an oratorical flight, which because of its grand sentiment expressed in a most simple and earnest manner, stirred the heart of every man who heard it.

"This is a big world we live in," he said. "There are a lot of people in it. There have been many people before us and there will be more after us. We are not to be here long. Like Superior's waters rolling up on the shores down here, does the great wave of humanity roll on. We cannot afford to do anything but live in unity, making allowances for each other. The same world is open to all of us, the same future is before us in which to work out our destiny. What is the width of the bay, or the lake, or the ocean that it should stand in the way of the unity and humanity of man? We all belong to the same great family. Let us dwell together in unity, bearing with each other and extending sympathy, bearing each other's burdens and throwing over all the broad mantle of a Mason's charity.

The Arion quartet gave another selection and W. E. Richardson, eminent commander, was called upon. He expressed the pleasure the Knights Templar felt in welcoming the Ashland brethren and hoped more such gatherings would follow.

T. W. Hugo was reserved for the last. He gave a very instructive address in Scottish Rite Masonry and was heard with close attention.

The visiting Masons returned to Ashland on a special at 5 o'clock this morning. Among the visitors were Mayor Hubbell, Chief Scott of the fire department and others.

OFFERS THREE PER CENT.

Duluth Trust Company Alone Makes That Rate on Monthly Balances.

The council meeting last evening was very short and sweet. Alderman Harwood did not have a single kick coming, Alderman Cox was pacific, and President Howard was suffering from a "mal de stomach," so the session lasted a scant forty minutes.

Mayor Lewis sent in a notice signed by R. P. Edson that August Rehbein had hurt his foot somewhere in the vicinity of a road roller on Sept. 7, and he wanted satisfaction in the shape of damages, but forgot to say how much.

A communication from Page Morris, city attorney, stating that the matter of employing Judge Himebaugh to the exclusion of Judge Winje should be left entirely with Judge Powell, was received and will be sent to the municipal judge today. Himebaugh is getting $2000 a year for doing nothing.

Communications were received from all the city banks asking that they be appointed depositories of the city cash. They offered 2 per cent interest on daily balances or 3 per cent interest on minimum monthly balances, the latter to be reckoned on the last business day of each month. The Duluth Trust company offered 3 per cent on daily balances. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

A petition was received from a number of Ironton people asking that several barns and outbuildings which are situated on the public highway too near to the wooden bridges be removed in order to lessen the danger from fire. P. Drumme, an expressman, broke one of his wagon wheels in some defective planking on Railroad street and wanted the council to pay him $8 for the damage. These matters were referred.

Noble Sampson, city sealer of weights and measures, sent in his report for the month of September. He had weighed 101 loads of coal, finding 99 of full weight and 2 deficient. Out of 50 sets of scales tested 43 were all right and 7 were inaccurate. He tested 28 measures and discovered 10 that were not correct. General Manager Herbert Warren, of the Duluth Street Railway company, sent in a letter asking the city to erect substantial retaining walls on both sides of Miller's creek between Superior and First streets. Referred. Reports of the city treasurer, finance committee and building inspector were received and filed.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the construction of the fire hall on Duluth Heights at a cost of $1349. The fire department and general city bills for September were approved. The committee on fire department authorized two extra fire alarm boxes, one at the corner of Seventh avenue west and Superior street, and the other on Third avenue west between Superior and First streets.

An auctioneer's license was ordered issued to W. D. Gordon and a saloon license to M. J. Dahlssen. The street sweeping bills for September were allowed. The list of appointed judges of election was read and one or two changes in the Populist judges made.

SHOWS AN INCREASE.

Lake Receipts and Shipments Last Month Average Larger than in 1893.

The custom house report of shipments and receipts for September shows a larger increase in nearly all respects over that of the same month in 1893. The report of the Sault canal business, which has already been published, shows also a large increase, so something of the kind was to be expected. The figures for 1894 have not been officially reported by the custom house, but the following figures will vary little from the official report. The figures include only Duluth and Two Harbors. Superior's shipments would largely increase the figures for wheat and flour:

Receipts: Coal, 123,699 tons in September, 1893, 185,100 tons in September, 1894; increase, 62,401 tons; sugar, 19,146 barrels in 1893, 12,741 barrels in 1894; decrease, 6405 barrels; salt, 6400 barrels in 1893, 12,961 barrels in 1894; increase, 6561 barrels; cement, etc., 3015 tons in 1893, with 2175 barrels of cement and 1140 tons of lime and stone in 1894; general merchandise, 24,002 tons in 1893, 23,988 tons in 1894; decrease, 14 tons; total tons received, 183,151 in 1893, 209,804 in 1894; increase, 26,753 tons.

In shipments the increase is much larger, the total amount of stuff shipped in September, 1894, being more than a third larger than in September, 1893. Two Harbors alone last month shipped nearly as much ore as both ports did the same month last year. They were as follows:

Shipments: Wheat—1,434,000 bushels in 1893, 1,584,200 bushels in 1894, increase 150,200 bushels; flour, 435,200 barrels in 1893, 298,126 barrels in 1894, decrease 137,074 barrels; ore, 163,425 tons in 1893, 323,463 tons in 1894, increase 160,038 tons; lumber, 14,200,000 feet in 1893, 17,721,775 feet in 1894, increase 3,521,775 feet; merchandise, 3122 tons in 1893, 3428 tons in 1894, increase 306 tons; total tons, 279,152 in 1893, 405,455 in 1894, increase 126,303 tons.

Of the ore shipments 138,095 tons were shipped from Two Harbors, and 185,368 tons from Duluth, making a difference of 47,273 tons in favor of the Mesaba range.

The custom house officials are kept busy these days taking care of wheat shipped from Manitoba by the way of Duluth. Saturday 138 cars were received, and 200 came in Monday. Every day an equal number of cars come in. Last month 250,000 bushels were received and three times that much will come in this month. There was more the first week of October than all last month. It is estimated that about 3,000,000 bushels will be handled this fall all from one firm, and there is another firm starting operations.

This is the first year that Manitoba wheat has come into Duluth in any great quantity, and it will be a large consideration hereafter.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Creation."

Tomorrow evening "The Creation" will be produced at the Temple, and the public will be permitted to see what Mme. Augusta Ohrstrom Renard has accomplished after several weeks of severe labor. Haydn's grand oratorio is known the world over, and its beautiful and inspiring selections are more frequently sung than those of any similar work. It is grand and imposing and yet not severe, but is melodious and pleasing. It elevates, lifts one up, as it were, above the paltry things of earth. The production will be entirely in keeping with the grandeur of the work. The solo parts are all in thoroughly competent hands. Mark C. Baker will sing the part of Uriel and brings to it a ripe experience attained in the East, where he frequently sung the role. Miss Bessie Hunter, Mrs. Cora Aspinwall and Mme. Renard will sing the soprano parts.

The great feature will be the appearance of the young basso, J. Armour Galloway. He has not been in this country but a short time but has created a sensation everywhere he has appeared. The New York Herald, which is rather conservative in musical criticism, has said of him: "Thorough schooling has given his magnificent bass a flexibility as rare as it is delightful."

The chorus will contain 100 voices. The orchestra will be the largest ever brought together here, consisting of the Temple and Philharmonic orchestras. It will be placed on the stage with the chorus.

A. C. Anderson, the florist, has kindly promised to bring his tropical plants from Glen Avon and make a decoration such as has never been seen here before.

A souvenir program containing cuts of the principal singers together with the full poem will be given.

"Rush City."

"Rush City" is the best farce comedy that has visited Duluth in many moons. Gus Heege has been charged with plagiarism, but be that as it may, "Rush City" is the best thing which has come from its pen. The wit is keen and sharp and not of the sledge-hammer sort which usually prevails in farce comedies. The situations are clever and the scenery good. The cyclone scene was most excellent. The whole piece is full of go and there is no dullness in it.

The company is excellent. J. Sherrie Mathews as Rush, the boomer, Harry Bulger and James Coyne as Chumley were all fine and particularly in their specialties. Frank O'Brein's eccentric dancing was a decidedly clever exhibition. M. J. Gallagher, as his name would indicate, made an excellent Irishman. Merri Osbourne is a dainty, plump, kissable little piece of humanity with a very fetching way about her which caught the crowd. The Claflin sisters gave a highly sensational dance, exhibiting a wealth of petticoats, much on the French quadrille order. Miss Randall as the grass widow was good. There was a good audience.

DULUTH PRESBYTERY SESSION.

Rev. Mr. Semple of Glen Avon Elected Moderator for the Ensuing Year.

The Duluth Presbytery commenced its semi-annual session yesterday at the Lakeside Presbyterian church. The address last evening was delivered by Rev. S. A. Jamieson, the retiring moderator. Rev. Semple, of Glen Avon, was elected moderator for the coming term. This morning the session began with a devotional service, after which the business meeting took up the remainder of the time.

The business session was continued this afternoon. At 7:30 tonight Rev. Semple will speak on "The New Testament Idea of the Church in the Community." Rev. Keithley will speak on "The Church and Her Faith" and Dr. Cleland on "The Church and Her Instrumentality."

The reports of the various churches in the presbytery and the reports of home and foreign missionary societies were received. The session is not expected to continue longer than tonight.

Don't Offer a Reward

For your lost appetite. All know that it is a valuable piece of personal property, but why go to the expense when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will restore it to you. A course of that unparalleled tonic and corrective not only induces a return of the relish for food, but confers upon the stomach the power to gratify appetite without unpleasant sensations afterward. For the purpose of quickening digestion, arousing a dormant liver or kidneys, and establishing regularity of the bowels, no medicine can exceed this genial family cordial, in which the pure alcoholic principle is modified by blending with it botanic elements of the highest efficacy. Avoid the fiery unalloyed stimulants of commerce as a means of overcoming inactivity of any of the organs above mentioned, and use, instead, the Bitters. This professionally sanctioned medicine remedies malarial and rheumatic ailments.

Tomorrow, Millinery Opening Day!

THE THOUGHT of Millinery and its "slavery to art" is a serious one. The unwritten law that governs art, mocks abortive attempts in Millinery with its strongest derision. The unknown elements that are possessed by the artist, the painter, the poet, the musician, are requisite in the milliner. Art varies; millinery varies—as the aptitude for refined conception varies. It has been our privilege to bring out a great variety of what Paris considers its best creations. We have been very liberal about it—perhaps extravagant—but we realize how much is expected of us, and we climb to almost any point you say. The principles that have created this great Millinery business here are that our "great and growing industry is to increase the standard and variety and lessen the price." Today the fashionists' mysteries in Millinery are disclosed, and there is throughout our Millinery room that atmosphere of thoroughness peculiar to success in anything. It's our Autumn Greeting! Hands of the most expert are at your command; art creations, you or anyone else never saw excelled, no matter who you are or where you come from. We shall be proud to have the honor of your presence and patronage. Very respectfully,

HOWARD & HAYNIE.

SHE DANCED TO HER RUIN.

Professor Walker Accused of Seducing His Landlord's Daughter.

The Minneapolis papers are telling the following story about Professor Walker, the Scotch dancer, who managed "The Gathering of the Clans" in Duluth not long ago:

J. A. Walker is the man who organized and produced the "Pageant of Nations" at Lake Harriet last summer, and at the exposition recently, when it was performed for the benefit of the Hinckley forest fire sufferers and has also been prominent in the city in other exhibitions. He is now in Winnipeg arranging for the production there of a new edition of the "Pageant of Nations."

During his sojourn in Minneapolis Walker boarded at the home of William Gallon, 413 Lyndale avenue north. All of the persons taking part in Walker's spectacles were amateurs and of local residence. Miss Ella Gallon, the daughter of his host, is a young woman of much talent, and was conspicuous in the presentation of the "Pageant" as a dancer of much grace and merit. She is a pretty girl and nature has given her a charming figure.

While performing at the exposition, Miss Gallon one evening fainted upon the stage. It became necessary to convey her home in a carriage, and the family physician, Dr. Charles M. Kistler, of 642 Sixth avenue north, was called to attend her. It is claimed by Mr. Gallon that his daughter was then discovered to be enciente, and that Walker subsequently confessed her seduction, promising reparation.

Immediately thereafter Walker decamped to Winnipeg and now refuses to take any action tending to atone for his crime. He also owes his host $250 for his board and declines to pay it.

Mr. Gallon is a clerk for Janney, Semple & Co. He says that during Walker's residence at his home he dominated the household and appeared to have the entire family beneath his influence. A letter from Walker to Mr. Gallon, received on Saturday, the latter says, jeered at the heart broken father's appeal that the wrong be righted, and intimated that any exposure would be more hurtful to Miss Gallon than to her seducer.

Additional particulars relative to the above story were furnished by Mr. Gallon himself:

"My little girl was only 16 years old," said he. "I don't think she ever really cared for that fellow Walker, but somehow or other he got her under his wicked influence just as he did the rest of the family. I wouldn't allow him to marry her even now.

"Shortly after we went to Winnipeg my daughter wrote to him, nearly in despair asking him what he intended to do. His last letter to me, referred to in your account of the matter, was in answer to both her own and one that I wrote to him. In mine I told him that unless he did something to square matters, I would publish him wherever he went. In this last letter of his he told me that if I wanted anything out of him I was going about the wrong way to get it and that if I would only be patient until he could make some money he would make things all right with me. That was always his cry when he stopped at our house and did us out of $250 for his board. He is a smooth talker and a thorough scamp and I knew just what to value his reply at, so I wrote at once and told him that if matters were not squared up between us by the 10th of this month I would publish him in Winnipeg, where he is going to put on his show and wants to secure young girls. I don't think any parents will gratify his desire in that respect after reading my story, and they ought to run him out of town.

"It will kill my poor wife," the sorrowing father murmured as he sadly turned away.

What Mr. Suit Knows About Politics

OUR CANDIDATE.

REPUBLICANS believe in protection and duty; Democrats believe in free trade; Populists believe that the rich men ought to divide up, and plenty of money; Mugwumps believe in not much of anything but themselves; and we believe in them all. We believe in protection, (from cold); duty, (your duty to buy from us); free trade, (the right to trade where you please); plenty of money, (so you can spend it for clothes); and plenty of offices, (so that every man who wants one can get it); and we also believe in Minnesota and Wisconsin, for the reason that a good many of the inhabitants are patronizing us. Maybe we're selfish about these things, but a man who don't look out for himself is pretty apt to get lost in the shuffle.

We're selling protection at $5 a protect, in the shape of a winter overcoat that is worth $6.50 or $7.00. We're selling protection for $6.50, and we think it is our duty to warn you against paying $10.00 for the same sort, as you can easily do and not half try. We're selling Fall Overcoats for $8.00, and if you're free to trade where you get most for your money, you will trade here and save $4.00 on this style. We're dealing out Overcoats to all classes of political people, and are showing some special designs for the successful candidates.

NINE ARE DEAD.

A Five-Story Building in New York Fell With a Loud Crash Early This Morning.

Houses on Each Side Were Crushed and Some of Their Occupants Buried in the Ruins.

Four People Have Been Taken Out Dead and Thirteen Have Been Found to be Injured.

There Are Several Others Still in the Ruins and Their Voices Can be Heard Plainly.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—At 3:20 o'clock this morning a 7-story building in course of construction at No. 74 Monroe street was blown down by the gale. It crashed through a 2-story building at No. 72, demolishing it completely. Two families with boarders lived at No. 72. They were all buried in the ruins. So far four have been taken out dead and nine badly injured. Only one dead body has been identified. It is that of a woman, Bertha Krons, aged 40. The other bodies are of a man, a woman and a boy. Workmen are still digging in the ruins. The building that fell was defective. Frequent complaints had been made about it.

The list of injured thus far recovered from the ruins is as follows: George Robinotiz, 29, back sprained and ear cut; Louis Abarahams, 72, left leg broken and many contusions; David Kronis, 24, badly cut about head and body; Fanny Kronis, 22, badly cut about the body; Joseph Brady, 14, head crushed and left leg broken; Timothy Dolan, cuts and bruises; Bessie Abrams, 40, cut about head; Lewis J. Abrams, 20, contusions of head and body; Maurice Abrams, contusions of head and body.

The building which fell has been in the course of erection for the past two months. It was to have been occupied when completed as a foundry. Ever since the foundation was laid, there have been complaints on every side that the structure was a weak, flimsy affair and many had expressed the belief that it would fall before the roof could be put on. These were certainly not far wrong, for the roof had not been completed ten hours when the building crushed in.

It was at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon that the last nail was placed in the roof and then there were great rejoicings. The workmen put five or six flags up so that the bright stripes would hang over the street, and two kegs of beer were taken up to the top story to add to the general rejoicing.

To this morning's disaster there have been two witnesses and the story they tell agrees in every particular. Thomas Walsh is the watchman at Hecker's stables, in the rear of the house which fell. It was just 3:30 o'clock when the disaster occurred. It was a wild night. The rain fell in torrents and the wind blew a gale. The watchman says that there was a sort of mysterious half light in the air which he cannot describe. By it, through the blackness of the night, he saw, as he was preparing to make his round of the stable the side wall of the big new building and the slanting sheets of rain as they beat down upon it.

"I'll never forget that sight" says Walsh. Even as he looked there came a change in the appearance of the side of the wall. It seemed to the watchman that a big black line suddenly appeared diagonally across it from the top to bottom. Before Walsh could realize that the dark line was a crack in the wall, there was a low rumbling sound and the seven stories of the building crumbled before his eyes. For a moment Walsh stood amazed. A cloud of dust went up, but the pelting rain blotted it out before the watchman could recover himself enough to re-enter the stable.

Walter J. Bryan, of 77 Monroe street, was returning to his home, and he stood at the corner of Pike and Monroe streets, 50 feet away, when the building fell. He saw the big crack in the wall too, and saw the building topple for an instant before it fell. "That building," said this witness, "was more badly put up than any that was ever put up by Buddensiek." Buddensiek is the man who went to state's prison for eighteen years for using sand in the building of houses instead of mortar.

Later—There are still six persons missing in the buildings crushed by the fall of the new structure on Monroe street. Voicer coming from beneath the debris can be heard. Four bodies have been recovered and thirteen persons have been taken from the ruins more or less severely injured.

The list of dead is as follows: Mrs. Bertha Koones, aged 46; Abraham Koones, aged 9, her son; Mrs. Jennie Steinman, aged 60; Meyer Steinman, aged 31, her son.

Later—Nine persons are now known to have perished by the collapse of the building in Monroe street. The names added to the list already given are: I. I. Abrahams, aged 40; Mrs. Bessie Abrahams, aged 40, wife of A. H. Abrahams; Solomon Korones, aged 21, son of Michael Korones; Rose Abrahams, aged 18, daughter of I. I. Abrahams; Ell Abrahams, aged 7, son of I. I. Abrahams.

AFTER DAMAGES

Miss Maggie O'Rourke Suing Ex-Mayor Willey, of Sioux Falls, for Damages for Injuries Received.

She Was Struck in the Leg by Wadding from a Cannon and Severely Injured.

Distressing Accident to a Three-Year-Old Boy in Minneapolis, Run Over by a Buggy.

Chief of Police McPherson, of Virginia, Had One Foot Crushed by a Moving Train.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 10.—Ex-Mayor W. E. Willey was yesterday sued by Miss Maggie O'Rourke for $7000 damages. In the fall of 1889, after the special session of the legislature had elected R. F. Pettigrew United States senator, a grand celebration was held here. A big cannon was rolled out and after dark, when it was being fired by Gen. Jeffers, Miss O'Rourke was struck in the leg by the wadding from the gun and severely injured.

She sued P. P. Peck, marshal of the day, and Gen. Jeffers for $10,000. The case against Mr. Peck was dismissed, but a judgment was secured against Gen. Jeffers for $9500. The latter was confined in jail for several weeks pending an investigation as to property. Suit is now brought against Mr. Willey, who was then mayor, on the ground that he abdicated his office as mayor for the day and allowed the discharge of cannon contrary to a city ordinance. It is rumored that other suits will be begun by Miss O'Rourke.

A Little Boy Run Over While Playing in the Street.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 10.—A distressing accident occurred about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Fourth street and Tenth avenue north, which resulted in the serious, if not fatal, injury of 3 year-old Lenert Johnson, living at 107 Tenth avenue north.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—A small gathering of loving friends and a few words of impressive import from the lips of a life-long companion and co-worker, marked the simple rites over the body of Dr. Oliver Wendell Homes at Kings chapel this noon.

At 12 o'clock the procession bearing the body of the deceased poet filed into the church with Edward Everett Hale at its head. Upon the casket rested a laurel wreath, which nearly covered it.

The Bohemian club, of San Francisco, sent a large basket of white chrysanthemums, with maiden hair ferns. The pall bearers were all members of the family.

MONTHLY CROP REPORT

The Government Report Indicates a Larger Yield of Wheat Than by Last October's Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The October returns to the statistician of the department of agriculture make the general condition of corn as not materially different from that of last month, it being 64.2 against 63.4 in September, a gain of eight-tenths of one point.

The returns of yield per acre of wheat indicate a production of 13.1 bushels, being 1.8 bushels greater than last October's preliminary estimate. The rate of yield by states is as follows:

New York, 14.8; Pennsylvania, 15.3; Ohio, 19.4; Michigan, 15.8; Indiana, 19.4; Illinois, 18.3; Wisconsin, 16.5; Minnesota, 12.9; Iowa, 14.8; Missouri, 15.6; Kansas, 10.4; Nebraska, 6.5; South Dakota, 3.4; North Dakota, 11.2; Washington, 16.6; California, 11.3. The indicated quality for the country is 93.5.

The quality in some of the principal wheat states is: For New York, 93; Pennsylvania, 95; Kentucky, 95; Ohio, 100; Michigan, 93; Indiana, 98; Illinois, 97; Wisconsin, 90; Minnesota, 94; Iowa, 96; Missouri, 97; Kansas, 83; Nebraska, 78; South Dakota, 86; North Dakota, 93; Washington, 99; Oregon, 94; California, 95.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10.—The twentieth annual convention of the American Association of Bankers convened at Ford's opera house at 10:30 this morning. Every section of the union is represented. Secretary Giese, of the association, says that the crowd's check for $150,000,000 would be cashed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 10.—The Cumberland park association has arranged a match race between Robert J. John R., Jentry, Halbraden R., and Joe Patchen here Oct. 19 for $4000.

Held to the Grand Jury.

The case of the state vs. John Brennan for the larceny of $30 in current money, four boxes of cigars and a sack full of ancient coins worth over $100, two revolvers, three bottles of whisky, etc., was held without bail to the grand jury.

The bastardy case of the state vs. Otto Miller, who is charged with being the father of Mary Bernhardt's unborn child, was the next action. The complaining witness, who is a rather pretty 17-year-old girl, said that she was enciente by the defendant and that the affair took place in a barn near Fourth street and Seventh avenue east. The case is still on trial.

Duluth Firm Gets It.

Maj. Sears, government engineer, today opened bids for 2800 lineal feet pier revetment work on Lily pond in the Portage lake ship canals. Competition was sharp, thirteen bids being offered by firms from Duluth, Milwaukee, Marquette, Mainstee, Houghton and Minneapolis.

McKenzie, Somerville & Millburg, of Duluth, were the lowest bidders, their figure being $7.45 per foot. The highest bid was $13.

A SEVERE STORM

New York and the New Jersey Coast Visited by a Storm that Did Great Damage.

All Night Long There Was a Heavy East Wind, Accompanied by Torrents of Rain.

Sea Running Mountain High and the Tide Completely Submerged the Meadows at Cape May.

Life-Saving Crews Cannot Launch Boats to Aid Five Vessels that Are in Danger.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The storm which broke upon this section shortly after midnight has done great damage on sea and on land. The tracks of the New Jersey Southern railroad between Seabright and Highland Beach, N. J., have been covered with sand washed upon them by the waves. The fishing smack Louise was driven ashore at Highland Beach and is a total loss. Her crew of ten men were taken off by the life-saving crew.

A steamship apparently in distress was sighted soon after daylight at anchor some distance off Long Branch. While the sea was running so high, no effort was made to establish communication between the steamship and the shore. At 10 a. m., the wind shifted and the storm somewhat abated. The steamship does not seem to be in any immediate danger.

In Seabright and vicinity a number of buildings were unroofed. At Long Island city the big iron tank belonging to the East River Gas company was blown down to within five feet of its foundation. The tank was 200 feet high and 185 feet wide. The police wires were all blown down, and small boats all along the shore from Long Island to Bowers Beach were broken and thrown upon the beach. Telephone wires were broken and twisted and at North Beach a number of of boats were wrecked. The trolley wires of the Brooklyn railroad at North Beach were all broken and cars are not now being run.

The ferry boat Harlem, of the Ninety-second street ferry, was disabled on entering her slip at Long Island City. The new engine house at the corner of Steinway and Flushing avenue, which had reached a height of one and one-half stories, was blown down. In Jersey City the damage is confined to the telegraph, telephone, trolley and electric light wires. In three instances horses were killed by coming in contact with live wires. Many shade trees were uprooted.

The storm still continues, with a very heavy sea on. An unusually high tide washed the east end of Staten island, doing considerable damage to several small yachts, which lay at the anchorage, close along shore. The wind blowing heavy squalls, created a very high confused sea. The only steamers reaching quarantine this morning were the Manitoba from Rio Janeiro and the Teutonic from Liverpool.

There probably are several other steamers of the inward bound fleet near port, but the wires between New York and Sandy Hook having been rendered useless for the time being by the gale, no word of them can be received until they reach quarantine. The vessels due today are: Alesia, from Naples; Havel, from Bremen; Kron Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, from Naples; Mobile, from London; Scandia, from Hamburg; State of Nebraska, from Glasgow, Willehad, from Bremen.

Several steamers from Southern and Western Indian ports due today are no doubt receiving the full force of the gale, their course bringing them almost in the teeth of it, as they would in such a storm keep well off shore. They are the Caribbe, from Barbadoes; El Mar, from New Orleans; Neuces, Galveston; Yucatan, Havana. The passengers on the Staten Island Rapid Transit company for New

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The Commission to Investigate the Alleged Assessment of Government Employes in the Philadelphia Mint.

Arrival at Brussels of First Car Load of California Wines Ever Shipped Direct to Belgium.

Decision of Chinese Authorities to Impose a Transit Tax on Goods is Creating Uneasiness.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The civil service commission is awaiting a reply from the Philadelphia press to a letter sent asking information regarding charges of assessment of government employes in the Philadelphia mint for political purposes made in a recent editorial. Commissioner Roosevelt returned today from his Dakota ranch and with Commissioner Lyman will take action in the matter as soon as any definite data is received. The commission is also expected to take early action in the case of the alleged assessment of federal officeholders in San Francisco by the Democratic campaign committee. President Proctor, of the commission, is now out of the city, but the assessment charges probably will soon be under investigation by the full board.

In a letter just received from Col. C. J. Murphy, one of the agents of the department of agriculture in Europe, he refers to the arrival at Brussels of the first car load of California wines ever shipped direct to Belgium from this country. He also advises the department of extensive purchases by a leading commercial house in Belgium, which maintains 311 stores in the principal centers of the country, of various sorts of American corn and cereal products, such as hominy, cerealine, cracked wheat, oatmeal, etc.

From another agent at Berlin the department has received a report on the growing use of maize in Europe for food both for man and beast. A thorough examination of the feed rations of animals employed by twenty-six street car and omnibus lines of the leading cities of Europe shows that in every case maize is used to a considerable extent for horses, the rations consisting of from one-fourth to two-fifths corn. The popular European prejudice against corn is rapidly disappearing, the use of maize in Germany alone having increased in the last ten years from about 12,000,000 to 25,000,000 bushels. Much of this corn comes from America, but a great deal of it from Roumania.

In a recent order N. M. Brooks, superintendent of foreign mails, calls attention to the circumstance that the delivery of correspondence destined for places in the republic of Salvador is frequently delayed by reason of being addressed "San Salvador"—the name of the city—instead of "Salvador" or "El Salvador," the proper name of the republic.

This erroneous practice has given rise to so much annoyance to residents of Salvador that the postal administration of that country has requested the post-office department to give public notice that in order to insure the prompt and correct delivery of articles sent by mail to Salvador the address should be written distinctly and should contain (1), the name of the postoffice of destination; (2), the name of the department in which the office is located, and (3), the name of the republic written either as "Salvador" or "El Salvador" but not as "San Salvador."

It is said at the state department that American and other commerce is more seriously menaced by the decision of the Chinese government to impose a transit tax on goods than by anything that has occurred since the war began. This tax is well known to diplomatists under the name of lekin. It is a species of internal revenue tax and is levied on all goods, imports or exports, passing through China. It is a terrible restraint upon commerce, for it is levied repeatedly at every town through which the goods pass, and accumulates with rapidity to a total that is actually prohibitive upon a large class of goods which our merchants have just succeeded in introducing after painful efforts into interior China.

For fifty years all of the commercial powers have been united in the effort to secure its abolition. They finally obtained from the Chinese government an arrangement by which imported goods should be taxed only once, upon entry, and the lekin was abolished to the great benefit of trade. If it is again imposed, fear is expressed that it will be almost a permanent tax as, even in the event of a speedy restoration of peace, the revenue derived will be needed by the Chinese government to pay the enormous war duty that will certainly be exacted by Japan.

A CAMPAIGN OF WOMEN.

Tammany Hall and Municipal Corruption to be Fought.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The great campaign of the women against Tammany hall and municipal corruption will open on Friday afternoon. Many of New York's most fashionable, most influential and richest women have been enlisted in the cause. The first meeting will be held on Friday at 3 p. m., at Association hall, where Dr. Parkhurst will deliver an address.

In his address Dr. Parkhurst will tell just what reasons prompted him to urge women into the fight. He will say that a debased and rotten municipality is a menace to the home and the honor and virtue of woman.

There will be a council committee of seven, consisting of one from each assembly district. Col. J. J. Gifford, "Brick" Pomeroy and W. H. Shriever were appointed on the committee last night. There will also be a general committee and it is hoped to secure 100 women from each assembly district in this city, making at least 3000 in all. Mrs. Cynthia Leonard, who is the mother of Lillian Russell, made the only speech at the meeting. She spoke of the relation of women to the movement against Democracy.

In the Tenderloin precinct, women have decided to work for purity in municipal politics. A number voted to do so at a meeting of the Young People's Social Culture club held last evening in the home of Elizabeth B. Grannis.

A THIRD TICKET NAMED.

The Shepardites Nominate Everett P. Wheeler For Governor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The third ticket party at a meeting held last evening at the offices of E. M. Shepard, decided to nominate the following ticket: For governor, Everett P. Wheeler, of New York city; lieutenant governor, Daniel N. Lockwood, of Buffalo; judge of the court of appeals, Charles F. Brown, of Orange county. Mr. Wheeler has announced his acceptance of the nomination. Mr. Shepard said that Messrs. Brown and Lockwood would also accept the nomination.

New Coal Combine.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 10.—The gigantic coal combine, which has been in process of formation for some time past between the Dunsmuirs and their old-time rivals, the New Vancouver Coal company of Nanaimo, is reported to have been consummated. The output of the mines at Wellington and Nanaimo is to be limited, so that the price of fuel can be raised. Coal now stands at $7 a ton in Victoria, only 80 miles from the mines, and any rise would be a great hardship.

Yale Students Resolve.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 10.—A mass meeting of students of Yale university was held in old Alumni hall last night to pass resolutions on the death of Oliver Wendell Holmes. Roswell P. Mason, class of '95, of Chicago, chairman of the board of directors of the Yale Daily News, presided. Several speeches were made by upper class men and resolutions of regret were unanimously adopted by the meeting.

Supposed to be Drowned.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 10.—Much excitement prevails at San Pedro over the supposed loss by drowning of a party of four citizens who left that harbor last Saturday in the sloop Leon, bound for San Nicholas island. The party consisted of Postmaster James R. Dodson, N. O. Anderson, a business man, a laborer named Brant and Capt. Alexander Smith.

WALKER WILL FIGHT.

The Dancing Teacher Proposes to Return to Minneapolis.

A special dispatch to the Minneapolis Journal from Winnipeg says that J. A. Walker, who left Minneapolis recently under a cloud, and who is charged with the seduction of Ella Gallon, at whose parents' house he boarded in Minneapolis, is in Winnipeg arranging his big spectacle. When shown a telegram from Minneapolis yesterday announcing that he was charged with seduction, Walker declined to do any talking until his business partner, McCoffey, was present.

Then he talked pretty freely, and admitted that he had lived in the Gallon family, and seemed to make no bones of the fact that he had been criminally intimate with Ella. He charged, however, that she was not what she should have been before he met her. He said that the girl had threatened that she would catch him, and he regarded the present turn of affairs as a game of bluff merely. He said that when all the facts were known there would be a different aspect to the matter.

Walker said that a friend was on his way from Duluth to look after his interests in Minneapolis and he did not have a lawyer. He stated that he knew nothing of the affair till about a week ago. He did not even know that Ella was enciente and he was quite sure the child was not his, as his intimacy with the girl began only last April. He had done his best, he said, to defend the girl's character, but when he found her friends were inclined to act ugly he deemed it necessary in self defense to tell the truth and had written a full statement to them detailing how Ella had confessed previous slips to him. One case that he remembered was with a plumber, who lived near Lake Harriet.

Walker says Ella's friends wanted to get money from him and he might have been inclined to help the girl through, but he would not be under such a charge and keep silence as to the true facts. He says he will return to Minneapolis and fight it out.

An Officer Suspended.

Last Saturday evening there was a dance at the corner of Fourth street and Eighth avenue east and among the callers were several hoodlums from West Superior who commenced to make themselves obnoxious. The floor manager called Officer Fritze in to preserve order but the gang of toughs jumped on the officer and knocked him senseless. At this juncture Officer Allen was called in to take Officer Fritze home and he had got the insensible officer to the foot of the stairs when the toughs again attacked Fritze and chased Allen away. After giving the injured policeman a terrific beating they left and Fritze was taken home and put to bed. Captain Thompson called Officer Allen up before him yesterday and suspended him pending investigation.

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try

THE FOREIGN FIELD.

The Annual Meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions Opened in Madison Today.

Marked Progress Has Been Reported at Nearly Every Point in the Great Missionary Field.

Female Delegates Given Equal Voice and Vote as Men on Questions Concerning Their Work.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—The American board of commissioners for foreign missions opened its annual meeting here this afternoon at the Congregational church. About 1000 delegates are in the city and more will come by later trains. President C. K. Adams, of the state university, delivered the address of welcome, to which Richard S. Stores, D.D., LL.D., of Brooklyn, N. Y., made response. The first business was the annual review of the work of the board for the year ending Aug. 31, 1894, shown in the reports of the treasurer and foreign and home secretaries.

The report of Treasurer Langdon S. Ward shows expenditures during 1894 to have been $733,051, of which $578,168 was for cost of missions. The indebtedness, which Aug. 31, 1893, was $88,318, has increased $27,918 to $116,237. The items of expenditure beyond cost of missions are: Salaries and traveling expenses of district and field secretaries and of missionaries visiting churches, $14,897; net cost of publication $10,566; cost of administration, $20,418.44.

The itemized cost of missions is: West Central Africa, $11,661; East Central Africa, $8435; Zulu, $27,827; European Turkey, $31,951; Western Turkey, $67,605; Central Turkey, $31,474; Eastern Turkey, $54,908; Mavathi, $54,121; Madura, $54,202; Ceylon, $18,752; Foo Chow, $17,542; South China, $6116; North China, $70,344; Shansi, $16,52; Japan, $93,888; Sandwich islands, $5377; Micronesia, $38,496; Mexico, $17,506; Spain, $12,585; Australia, $11,717.

The receipts during the year were: Donations, $483,108; legacies, $183,768; from the legacy of Asa Otis, $30,952; interest on general permanent fund, $7303; total, $705,132.

Foreign Secretary N. G. Clark, D.D., of Boston, in his annual survey of the board's work, reports marked progress at nearly every point in the great missionary field, with a steady growth and enlargement, so far as means would permit. Lack of adequate means to improve the opportunities is the one drawback. Peculiar difficulties have been encountered in Japan, but 670 new members have been added to the churches. Rev. Judson Smith, D.D., the second foreign secretary, says of the work in China that it has ever been the case that missionary interests have been found to be most closely connected with the movement of political events, and while no attempt is made to forecast the outcome of the present struggle, hope is expressed. He says:

"While at the present moment we cannot avoid anxieties as to the personal safety of our missionaries and the security of the institutions that they have established, we may look with all confidence beyond these present tumults to a great and decisive advantage soon to be realized in our Christian work in behalf of this empire."

The summary for 1894 shows the number of missions among unevangelized nations to be 20; stations 100; out stations 1107; places for stated preaching 1429; average congregations 69,151; American laborers employed 571; native laborers 2870; total 3441; number of churches 421; church members 40,187; added during the year 3055. The whole number under instruction in the educational departments is 50,406; native contributions of money amount to $89,145.

Dr. C. H. Daniels, of Boston, secretary of the home department, reported that forty-four new missionaries have been sent to the field during the year, of whom thirteen were men, including three physicians and one printer, eleven wives of missionaries and twenty single ladies, including one physician. Twenty-three missionaries home on furlough have returned to their fields.

The prudential committee, by authority of the last annual meeting, have adopted a rule giving female delegates equal voice and vote as the men on questions concerning their own work. The financial difficulties, Secretary Daniels says, are not wholly explained by the cry of hard times. The gradual exhaustion of the large legacies on the one hand and the natural expansion of work on the other have not been met by sufficiently large gifts from individuals and churches. It is a problem which can only be solved by an increased number of donors and donations.

The board is confronted by two necessities, either to retrench the work or to secure from churches and individuals larger donations. He urges a series of contribution in each church and securing a speedy enlargement of gifts.

STILL MORE VICTIMS.

Two More Bodies of Fire Sufferers Found at Hinckley.

HINCKLEY, Minn., Oct. 10.—The body of Joseph Parish, before the fire an employe on A. Greenfield's farm, five miles north of Hinckley, on the line of the St. Paul & Duluth railroad, was found yesterday morning. The last seen of him in life was the day of the fire, hanging on to an ox's tail and running in the direction of a small lake. Today the ox was lying dead in front of the charred bones of Parish.

Another body was found in the mill yard of the Brennan Lumber company yesterday morning by a crew cleaning up debris.

A Receiver Appointed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Elias A. Summerfield was appointed receiver for the American Debenture company today. The action was taken at the request of the stockholders and directors of the concern. The obligations of the company are said to amount to $1,500,000, and its holdings of stock considerably larger than that sum.

Race Arranged for This Afternoon Between O. J. Simonds' Buckskin Bill and A. J. Filiatrault's Flyer.

Fifty Dollars a Side is Up and the Owners and Friends Anticipate Some Sport.

Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, of the Woman's Suffrage Association, Will Deliver Two Lectures Tomorrow.

O. J. Simonds a short time ago purchased a buckskin nag of the gypsies called Buckskin Bill. According to the gypsies' story the animal is famed as the pony upon which Buffalo Bill took his first ride. Mr. Simonds thinks his new horse can run. A. J. Filiatrault also has a speeder which won the blue ribbons at the Barnum fair and which his owner is ready to back with money, chalk or marbles. Considerable bantering has been passed the last week in regard to the relative fleetness of the two pacers which finally resulted in the usual phrase "put up or shut up." Arrangements were made for a race this afternoon, on Grand avenue from Second street southward. The stakes of $50 a side have been deposited with Tom Hayes.

Mrs. Nelson Will Lecture.

Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, of Red Wing, president of the State Woman Suffrage association will meet the ladies of West Duluth at 3 p. m. on Thursday at the Congregational church. Mrs. Nelson will also give a lecture at the People's party hall in the evening at 8 o'clock. She is a candidate for county superintendent of school of Goodhue county on the Populist ticket.

West Duluth Briefs.

The young ladies of the Congregational church will give an autumn tea in the church parlors on Friday evening from 6 to 10 p. m. An entertaining program has been provided for the occasion.

Charles Goodell, of Barnum, is in the city attending United States district court.

Business is booming with the longshoremen these days, an even dozen of boats being loaded at the various lumber docks in West Duluth yesterday.

The Knights of the Maccabees will hold their fourth annual ball on Friday evening. A large number of tickets have already been sold and the success of the entertainment is already assured.

The American Protective association has rented the Great Eastern hall and will hereafter use it for their weekly lodge meetings.

Charles Nelson, of Anoka, is visiting with Gus Swenson.

Clay Prescott has returned from a Western trip.

Charles W. Hoyt went to St. Cloud today with the Towne excursionists.

Dr. Forbes has been assigned as pastor to the West Duluth Methodist church again for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Goodsill will lecture on Friday afternoon on the "Aristocracy of Health" at the Methodist church.

J. Adam Bede held a whispering conversation with prominent West Duluth Democrats yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wallace entertained a party of friends at their home last evening.

Editor Mackey of the Barnum Advocate, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mrs. Enright, formerly of the Sherman house, is to open the Tremont. The house has been refitted and newly furnished, and hereafter will be known as the Summit house.

A Beautiful Display

The event in local retail circles was surely the millinery opening at Howard & Haynie's store this morning. The ladies had been anticipating the event for weeks and the store was crowded all the morning and after dinner was literally packed. As was to be expected of Howard & Haynie they have outdone all previous efforts and that is saying a great deal. The millinery department is a veritable bower of beauty and it would be beyond the limits of an ordinary newspaper article to describe the various elements which go to make up the harmonious whole. It is entirely needless to mention that all of the very latest novelties in the millinery line are to be found there.

WHEAT DULL AND LOWER.

The Expected Government Crop Report Had a Bearish Effect.

Wheat ruled dull today and averaged lower. There was nothing important in the way of news, but some of the factors seemed rather encouraging. Cables were steady to firm, the deliveries in the Northwest were lighter and the primary receipts were smaller. But speculation was slow and narrow, and above all was the impending government report, which held the trade in more or less supense. The point was that the report would be very bearish. The market here opened ⅞@¾c lower and ruled steady and dull, with small business in May and cash, and closed ¼c lower all round than yesterday. Following were the closing prices:

Gossip.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker. Room 107, Chamber of Commerce.

About the only feature to the wheat market today was the extreme dullness. The trade has been of an evening up character in anticipation of the government report this afternoon. It is expected the report will make the total yield of 1894 450,000,000 bus. against an estimated crop of 395,000,000 bus last August. It will probably estimate the amount of wheat being fed to live stock. This may cut more figure than is generally supposed. Cables report foreign markets dull, prices unchanged. Receipts heavy. Clearances today were light at 350,000 bus. Government report: Condition of corn 64.7 against 63.4 last month. Wheat average 13.1 bus per acre, being 1.5 greater than last October.

Corn and oats showed considerable strength, but the trade is very narrow. Conditions have been so favorable to corn we do not see how the government report can help but show an improvement of 10 or 15 points. Provisions strong.

BANK WOULD FORECLOSE.

American Exchange Bank Wants the Gill & Wright Property Sold.

The American Exchange bank has filed its complaint in a suit against Henry P. Gill et al., to foreclose two mortgages on the Gill & Wright flour mill. There are two causes of action, the first for a note of $8000 negotiated by A. S. Davis, and the second for $38,300 for outstanding indebtedness bought up by the bank at the request of Gill & Wright. Both debts are secured by mortgages, the first on the lots on which the mill stands and the second on the mill.

In the complaint it is said that as the lots are occupied by the mill it will be to the interest of both parties to have the whole sold together. Judgment is asked for foreclosure and the sale of the property.

Judge Lewis has filed orders in the cases of Leonidas Merritt against the Missabe Mountain Iron company and the Biwabik Mountain Iron company for the defendants to allow Merritt or his attorneys to look over and copy from the books of the companies for three days after Oct. 11.

The Duluth Realty Investment company has sued John Monaghan, et al, for for $1200 on a promissory note. The same company sues Robert Crombie for $279.95 for a note and unpaid stock.

Findings have been filed in the lien case of the Zenith City Manufacturing company against Irving A. Spear et al. Judgment is rendered for $254.20 for the plaintiff, $120.78 for the Duluth Hardware company, $134.20 for N. C. Harvey & Co. and $126 for P. K. Peterson. The judgments are made liens upon defendant's property.

In the case of Robert and Annie Crowley against the C. N. Nelson Lumber company et al, Judge Moer has made an order making the Auburn Iron company a party defendant.

L. W. Philbrook & Co. have sued Celia Hoff for $218.90, for goods.

Nearing the End.

The September term of the district court is nearly at an end. The tax cases have been finished, those in which answers were put in being taken under advisement and default judgments being entered in the others. The old case of G. F. Mackenzie against the Phoenix Manufacturing company was taken under advisement by Judge Moer this morning.

Dollars or Kicks

for women, according to whether they do, or don't do, their washing in a sensible way. If they use Pearline, it means good, hard dollars saved. Pearline is economy. All that ruinous rubbing that makes you buy linens and flannels twice as often as you need to, is spared, to say nothing of your time and labor.

See the troubles that women have to endure with other ways of washing. There's that hard, wearing-out rub, rub, rub, or the danger of ruining things with acids if you try to make it easy. Washing with Pearline is absolutely safe.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 418 JAMES PYLE, New York.

RUSH DOES NOT COME.

Marine Business Has Developed No Particular Activity and Will Not.

The expected fall rush in marine business is slow in arriving, and some interested men go so far as to abandon hope that it will arrive at all. The failure of the attempt to uphold coal rates has somewhat disheartened many. As a result of the failure, the coal rate has dropped from 50 to 35 cents, and though the agreement of the vessel brokers to hold the rate at 50 cents was only temporarily suspended and not abandoned entirely, when the fifteen days are up it is not likely that the rate will go back.

Coal cargoes are somewhat scarce, even at 35 cents, and but little is to be hoped for from that branch of the marine business. Ore is falling off considerably, and the rate remains stationary at 85 cents, though fairly strong. The 90-cent rate has not materialized, and is farther off than it was before.

Duluth is perhaps as fortunate in the matter of business as any other port. While the rush has not shown itself here, business is fair, and while some agents complain of dullness others admit that they are doing a good deal of work.

Flour, wheat and lumber, in the order named, are the most profitable staples just at present, and they are moving out of the port at a fairly good rate. Rates are unchanged, except that several charters in wheat have been made at 3 cents for vessels to load the last of the month. The supply of tonnage is as large as the demand, and everything that has been offered at 3 cents has been taken. No charters have been made in lumber to Chicago for some days, but the rate would probably be between $2.25 and $2.50, with a probability that the latter rate would be realized.

In spite of the many ups and downs of this checkered season, it will average up well, and a comparison with preceding years of Duluth's marine business with a thought of what might have been done under normal business conditions, is surprising. Notwithstanding the adverse conditions which have prevailed the greater part of the season, each month's business of the port of Duluth is much larger than for the same month last year.

REPLY BY GRAND ARMY MEN.

Mr. Towne Warmly Defended from an Unjust Attack.

One of the disappointed candidates in this district for the Republican nomination for the legislature recently sent out a circular letter to Grand Army men throughout the Sixth congressional district attacking Mr. Towne, claiming that he had controlled the legislative and county conventions here and had deliberately turned down the Grand Army men who were candidates for places on the ticket. When this circular came to the notice of the Grand Army men in Duluth they promptly prepared an answer, and it is now being sent to every Grand Army man in the district. It is as follows:

"It having come to our attention that certain rumors have been circulated in some parts of this district, where Charles A. Towne is not personally known, to the effect that he ought not to receive the votes of old soldiers in those localities because, first, he is not supported by the veterans living in Duluth; and, second, because he was unfaithful to an old soldier in the recent contest for legislative and county nominations in St. Louis county, we, the undersigned, members of the G. A. R., residing in the city of Duluth, voluntarily and because of the esteem in which, in common with the whole community of Duluth, we hold Mr. Towne, say:

"First. Mr. Towne now enjoys, and has for four years past, covering his whole residence in Duluth, enjoyed the friendship and support of the members of the G. A. R. of this city. He has been the officially invited speaker for the posts on every Memorial day, except one, since he has resided here, and has ever been ready to render them every courtesy and service in his power. These opportunities have familiarized us with his character and with his sentiments toward the veterans of the war of the rebellion, and we unhesitatingly and emphatically declare that Mr. Towne has the personal esteem of every member of the Grand Army, and is, in our opinion, incapable of betraying either a private trust or a public duty.

"Second. Mr. Towne publicly and privately declared all through the contest preceding the primaries in St. Louis county, that he would not use the influence which his position gave him to advance the interest of any candidate for the numerous nominations on the county and legislative tickets, but would leave such nominations to be decided by the duly chosen delegates of the people. That he religiously kept his pledge is well known in this community, and it is our opinion, that nobody would stoop to allege the contrary who had not fruitlessly tried to secure Mr. Towne's influence contrary to his pledged word."

The above circular is signed by the following: H. C. Helm, T. H. Pressnell, Thomas Magill, A. N. Hopkins, F. H. Barnard, E. G. Chapman, B. H. Smith, Joseph Western, N. A. Gearhart, R. W. Mars, J. D. A Cape May dispatch says: The severe gale which struck this city last night continued until daybreak this morning. All night long there was a heavy east wind accompanied by torrents of rain. The sea is running mountain high and the high tide has completely submerged the meadows. Five vessels are in sight of the beach and are rolling heavily in the trough of the sea. The life saving crews cannot launch their boats to make even an attempt to board the vessels. The heavy wind has shifted to the northwest but is still blowing a gale.

The Cause of His Ire.

The editor of the News Tribune is very much riled over several things, and is venting his spleen by attacking The Herald. As this seems to give him considerable satisfaction and apparently relieves his feelings, while it does not injure The Herald, probably no serious objection should be offered. The editor of the News-Tribune had several experiences on Monday that were decidedly unpleasant, and if he is not now in good humor the fact may be ascribed to those very annoying incidents. In the first place, he was given a very severe snub, and in the second place The Herald's enterprise in reporting the McKinley demonstration, leaving nothing to be added by the morning paper, had anything but a soothing effect on his outraged sensibilities.

The editor of the News Tribune is the editor of "the only Republican paper in Duluth." He has preached Republicanism in season and out of season and swallowed the most noxious doses that the party managers have prepared. In return he has received nothing. Others have secured the plums, while he has done the work. An eager applicant for office for six or seven years past he has been regularly turned down, and has had the melancholy satisfaction of seeing others who did little or nothing for the party given fat offices. Other men would have resented this and possibly bolted the party, but the editor of the News Tribune is not made of such stuff and has preferred to endure the ingratitude of the party managers rather than cause the defeat of the party by deserting it. He has steadily swallowed his disappointment and then got rid of his bile and choler by attacks on The Herald or some other object of his displeasure.

While The Herald's very complete report of the McKinley meeting aroused his jealousy, this was not the real reason of the display of bad temper. The actual cause of his display of ill temper was the snub which he received when he failed to receive an invitation to the formal breakfast given to Governor McKinley at the Kitchi Gammi club. The Herald does not blame Editor Hays for feeling sore at this slight, and understanding his sensitive character it entertains for him the deepest sympathy. It was eminently fitting that the editor of the "only Republican paper in Duluth" should have been an honored guest upon such an occasion, and the deliberate snub given the editor of the News Tribune naturally rankles in his breast. If the attacks upon The Herald have the effect of distracting his attention from this slight, The Herald is pleased to be the object of his venom. The attacks do not hurt The Herald and they may help to improve his mental condition.

Will Dollar Wheat Return?

The price of wheat is so low and there are so many people who believe that a new basis of values for agricultural products has been established that talk of "dollar wheat" seems almost nonsensical to most people. There are some well informed men in the grain trade, however, who are of the opinion that a large rise in wheat may soon be expected and that dollar wheat may not be a baseless dream, but become a pleasant fact. It is to be hoped that the predictions of these dealers will be verified and that the farmers will reap the great benefits which would attend a return to the higher figures. The prosperity of the farmer would be attended by general prosperity, and the higher the price for wheat the better for all the people of this country.

A prominent Chicago grain firm has recently issued a conservatively prepared circular regarding the countries' crops and the outlook for future wheat values. Their statistical premises are derived solely from standard official sowers, and their conclusion that long before another harvest wheat prices should experience a marked advance, appears to be solidly based upon indisputable facts. This circular points out that the government's September crop report indicated a yield of 1,100,000,000 bushels of corn, the smallest crop since 1874. This smallest of all corn crops is 350,000,000 bushels less than the short crop of 1893, and follows two other short crops that together gave us 850,000,000 bushels less corn than the two crops that preceded the crop of 1892. This will account for our extremely small visible supply, for the empty cribs and elevators at country stations and for the fact that now, two months before our new crop becomes available, Illinois is the only state that has any old corn to spare. The oats crop remains normal at 650,000,000 bushels.

Now while the wheat crop is the only one which was not seriously curtailed by last summer's drouth, what are the real conditions of supply and probable requirement? On the basis of the government estimate, figuring annual food requirements at four and two-thirds bushels per capita on the basis of the latest estimate of population made by the United States department, viz: 68,700,000, the following result is reached:

Wheat in farmers' hands March 1, 1894	111,000,000
Visible supply March 3, 1894	75,500,000
In country elevators, flour, etc., March 1, 1894	36,500,000
Government estimate, crop 1894	415,000,000
Total	661,000,000
Exports from March 1 to Sept. 1, 1894	70,000,000
Spring seed crop 1894	18,000,000
Winter and spring seed crop 1895	52,000,000
Consumption for food for four months from March 1 to July 1, 1894	107,000,000
Consumption for food for twelve months, July 1, 1894, to July 1, 1895	329,000,000
Amount left for export, visible and invisible supply and for animal food	94,000,000

In other words, we have on Sept. 1 at our disposal 94,000,000 bushels of wheat over and above our food and seed requirements. At our present rate of exportation, viz.: 3,000,000 bushels per week, our export requirements for the forty remaining weeks of the crop year would amount to more than our entire available surplus, without making any provision whatever for a visible supply, which should be at least 30,000,000 bushels, or for wheat in country elevators, and flour in dealers' hands, which in our figures just given are estimated at 56,000,000 bushels a year ago, or for a bushel in farmers' hands, or for the amount now being used for animal food variously estimated by those best posted as already from 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels per week, and constantly increasing.

The feeding of wheat, which is the new and undetermined factor in the crop situation has not only assumed these huge proportions, but is rapidly increasing. New England and the Middle states are not only feeding their own wheat but are buying in round lots from the West for feeding purposes. Country mills are busy grinding it into feed and from Kansas to Maine consumers generally are using it as the cheapest animal food available. All this must make a hole in the stocks, and if the depletion of the stocks takes place in accordance with the statistics quoted, $1 wheat may be seen again in the not distant future.

Duluth's Good Showing.

The statistics given in the current number of Bradstreet's regarding the bank clearings for the month of September and for the past period of nine months at the principal cities of the country are quite interesting, especially as they exhibit Duluth in a very favorable light. The grand total of bank clearings throughout the United States for the month of September amounts to $3,183,727,405, the smallest monthly grand total of bank clearings reported within five years with the exception of totals for August and for September, 1893, and February, 1894.

Aggregate clearings for September are trillingly smaller than for July and 12 per cent smaller than for August this year. As compared with the aggregate for September, 1893, the increase is 5.2 per cent, and as compared with August, 1893, the increase is nearly 4 per cent. For nine months of the calendar year bank clearings throughout the country aggregate $32,501,632,826, 22 per cent less than in nine months of 1893, nearly 28 per cent smaller than in a like portion of 1892 and 20 per cent smaller than during the corresponding period in 1891.

The above are the aggregate figures for all the cities reported, and it is worthy of note, as showing how the movement is progressing toward recovery, that there are only ten clearing house cities in which September totals are smaller this year than last. The total clearings at Duluth during September last were $10,731,807 as against $6,031,666 during the corresponding month of last year, showing a very large increase, amounting to $4,700,000. The September total this year also exceeds the total for September, 1892, by over $3,200,000.

When the totals for nine months this year and previous years are considered, Duluth comes still more prominently to the front. Out of seventy-eight cities from which returns are received covering nine months, only eleven show increases this year as compared with last. Duluth is one of the eleven, the increase here amounting to 9 per cent. New York, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Denver showed heavy decreases for the nine months as compared with both the years 1892 and 1893, while Duluth showed an increase over each year. Here are the figures for Duluth for the past nine months of the present year as compared with the first nine months of the three previous years:

Year.	Total Clearings.

All years previous to 1891 show smaller totals. The above table is one to which the people of Duluth can point with pride. The fact that during the first nine months of the present year the bank clearings here have been the largest in the city's history certainly proves conclusively that business has revived to a remarkable extent. In 1892, Duluth stood thirty-first among the leading cities of the United States as regards the aggregate of nine months' bank clearings. The next year Duluth stood twenty-seventh, and this year stands twenty-sixth. This is a good record for a so-called dull year.

Wong Chin Foo, who lives in New York and is the greatest authority on Celestial matters, has written to the New York Mercury protesting against the war in the Orient being called the "Chinese war." The Chinese, he says, have had no control over that empire for the past 270 years. They have struggled for the past half a century to regain their country from the foreign usurpation, but like the Irishmen they have failed. It is no more proper to call this war the Chinese war than to call an English war the Irish war simply because the Irish soldiers fight under the English flag. If anything the true Chinamen hate their foreign emperor more deeply than the Japanese do.

Comptroller Eckels is preparing his report for the currency year 1894, which ended Sept. 30. This report will show a great falling off in the number of bank failures, which leads the comptroller to believe that the national banking system, which received such a terrific strain last year, has about returned to its normal condition. By the way, Mr. Eckels has filled the position of comptroller during a trying period with great ability. Those who thought President Cleveland was making a mistake when he selected him have been agreeably surprised.

Woman's suffrage in Colorado is leading to no end of bickering. When first conferred, it was given out that none but Republican ladies could be considered in the set, but in Denver the Democratic and Populist ladies have rallied, and the petticoat politics of that city are becoming foundations for countless feuds.

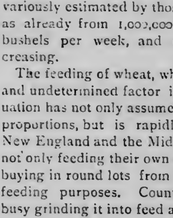

The Deer River Democrat appears this week with Thomas E. Doty as editor. It presents a good appearance, and will no doubt do excellent work for Democratic principles in Itasca county.

Japan states she will not loot Pekin when she takes it. This is good news, but before making such promises Japan should make the capture of Pekin more of a certainty.

FATHER CLEARY'S LECTURE.

Will Talk at the Temple on Friday Evening on "American Citizenship."

Rev. Father Cleary, of Minneapolis, one of the most noted of the Catholic clergymen of the Northwest will speak at the Temple on Friday evening on "American Citizenship." When he lectured in April last at Freeport, Ill., the Bulletin of that city said of him:

"The gentleman's wide reputation as an orator, together with the nature of his subject, which by the way, is one that is attracting universal attention at present, no doubt was the reason of the large and intelligent audience assembled to hear him. Father Cleary is a man of fine presence and possesses a mind of rare culture, and, judging from his effort on this occasion, he must certainly be conceded one of the finest orators in the country today, where he has attained an enviable reputation. In stature he stands about six feet, with a fine build, and is apparently about 45 years of age. He possesses a kindly face aglow with intelligence. His lecture was interesting from beginning to end, and applause was by no means infrequent.

DULUTH PRESBYTERY.

Next Meeting to be Held at Bethany Chapel in April.

The next meeting of the Duluth presbytery will be held at Bethany chapel on Rice's Point on Tuesday, April 9, 1895. Yesterday's speakers were Revs. Semple, Keithley and Cleland, and a resolution was adopted condemning Sunday excursions and amusements as violations of the divine law as well as the laws of man. Rev. James M. Anderson, formerly of Bismarck, N. D., was received into the membership of the Duluth presbytery.

The presbytery now contains sixteen clergymen, and extends over ten counties in which there are forty-two organized churches and sixty-nine Sunday schools. Seven new churches have been organized in the last six months. Rev. T. M. Findley reported on the condition of home missions. Rev. Dr. A. W. Ringland was, at his own request, transferred to the Maumee presbytery, of Ohio, and will be located at Toledo.

THE RECORD BROKEN.

Imperial Mill Ground Out 6520 Barrels of Flour Yesterday.

In a 24-hour run commencing Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and ending at the same time Tuesday the Imperial mill turned out 6520 barrels of flour, exceeding its own record by about 300 barrels and showing the largest run at the head of the lakes. The output is said to be the largest day's production of any mill in the world. The value of the product was a little over $17,000, and considerably over 29,000 bushels of wheat were required. The output consumed the crop of nearly 2000 acres of wheat land.

TALKED PROTECTION.

Congressman Johnson, of North Dakota, Expounded Republican Principles to a West End Audience Last Evening.

Populists Were Classed as People With Large Imaginations from Which They Draw Their Arguments.

George W. Stevens Discussed the Business Side of Politics in an Interesting Way —W. A. Cant's Address.

A large crowd gathered in the United States hall last night to hear Congressman M. N. Johnson, of North Dakota, expound Republican doctrines in company with others. The Republican glee club was present and gave several good campaign selections which pleased the crowd immensely.

Judge Hammons presided, and introduced the speakers. W. A. Cant, candidate for the state legislature, spoke on the importance of voting for Republicanism. "It is no doubt a matter for regret that at all meetings the speakers should discuss national issues of more or less importance, whether the election is for county or national officers," he said. "It is not unfitting at this time, however, that the national questions be discussed, for they are of much more importance than any local issues.

"In the present contest, federal issues reach not only to the congressmen and the legislative candidates who will elect senators, but to the local and county candidates. The contest is not one of men but of policies. It is not a question of liking for one man, but of confidence in the principles he represents. In the local contest there are also reasons why national issues should be followed. There was never before such a pronounced expression of the public will in the primaries. The candidates whom the delegates nominated were nominated squarely and fairly, and they should receive the support of the people for the principles they represent.

"A vote in favor of these candidates is a vote in favor of pure politics. I do not know of one not deserving of your support. I have nothing to say against the other candidates, but the Republican ticket stands for principle, and we should vote for them because they are Republicans." His remarks were heartily applauded.

Question of Protecting Business.

George W. Stevens was the next speaker, and his remarks and original methods of argument kept the audience delighted. "I don't want to make a political speech," he said. "I don't know how. I do know something about business, however, for I am a business man who has suffered in the last two years.

"A few days ago I shipped a cargo of lumber to Chicago, and I got $7 a thousand for it. Two years ago I could get $11.55 for it. There are a great many questions in this election, but none so great as that of protecting business. No class has suffered more than business men as the result of the Democratic attempt at providing better times. There were more failures in the last nineteen months than in any nineteen months in the history of the country. There were more innocent babes that turned their faces to their mothers' and cried for bread in the last nineteen months than ever before.

"There is another set that has appeared in the last two or three years, and they are going to show us how to run things. All they want to do is to gather up a lot of logs and pulp and run it through a machine and make money out of it. What's the use of making $1 bills? Why not make them $1,000,000 bills and make us all rich. I asked a fellow what these pop-the-doodle-doos were. He said that they had drifted from the Democratic party to the Republican, then to the Greenbacks, then to the women's rights, then to the Prohibitionists and then to their new party, and if they don't get elected on that they're going to join the Salvation Army."

His speech took well with the crowd, and the applause was long and loud.

Congressman Johnson was the last speaker. His talk was full of practical points and figures, and he showed himself to be remarkably well informed on the issues of the day.

Are Equal Partners.

"I address you as citizens of the republic," he said. "We are equal partners in this great concern and owners and managers of these United States. We are here as a meeting of stockholders to deliberate on the best method of running our business, and it is is as an equal stockholder that I wish to talk to you.

"The questions at issue have changed greatly, and where but a few years ago the Democrats were as much for protection as ourselves, there is now a sharply drawn line between the parties. Under Cleveland the Democratic party has been forced to its present position on the tariff.

"We have been taught that everything we cannot raise in this country should be put on the free list, because we wish to buy it. So we open our doors to all such articles, and let the foreign merchants sell them as cheaply as they can.

"But when it comes to the large class of articles we can make to advantage in this country, and which we do make in large quantities, we say that it is unnecessary to get them from other countries. We have been taught to protect the home market against foreign competition. We do not want prohibition, but we do believe that foreign merchants should be made to pay a reasonable fee for the use of our markets. That is essentially the principle of our party.

"The McKinley bill exemplified that principle, and we believe that not only is it the foundation of the Republican party but of the business prosperity of the country as well. The Democratic party has taken the opposite stand, and while we praise the bill as the highest wisdom they condemn it as class legislation.

"The Democratic party in the Wilson bill gave us a protective bill written by men who did not understand the principle of protection. It gives up protection in spots." He showed how the bill had been passed by trading concessions, and by figures showed that it is discriminating in favor of the South against the North.

He spoke of the Populists and refuted some of their stories by figures and diagrams. He said that their figures and stories are purely imaginary. His address was a good one and it was well received by the audience. One feature of the meeting was noticeable. A large proportion were laboring men, and none were more appreciative or generous with applause.

Mr. Johnson left last night for Minneapolis, where he will speak tonight.

Club Formed at Woodland.

The Woodland Park Republican club was organized last evening at the Glen Avon rink. Addresses were delivered by Page Morris, George Arbury, Dr. Barrett, Rev. P. Bergstrom and H. R. Spencer. The following were elected officers: President, W. A. Pryor; vice-president, William Cavanaugh; second vice-president, W. A. Salter; secretary, J. H. Nordby; treasurer, George R. Laybourn. About fifty members were enrolled.

Will Speak Thursday.

Willard J. Hull, the Populist orator, missed his train in St. Paul yesterday and consequently no meeting was held here last night. He will speak at the Temple on Thursday evening and at United States hall at the West End on Friday evening.

Political Notes.

The Republican club will meet this evening in the headquarters in The Herald building. W. A. Cant, Ellsworth Benham and others will speak.

Professor Carlson, a Swedish Republican orator, is to deliver a number of addresses in this county late in October.

A meeting of young Democrats who are favorable to Maj. Baldwin and the county ticket is called for Thursday at the headquarters in the French & Bassett building.

RICH PEOPLE

Who Die of Starvation.

Deaths by starvation are probably more common among the rich than among the poor. The emaciation that comes from chronic indigestion simply proclaims an ill nourished body, a starving without from hunger. Every physician in New York, from whatever social circle his patients are drawn, treats many such cases of starvation, usually, however, a cure is very rarely obtained, as dyspepsia is an obstinate disease when established. Very recently, however, a Brooklyn physician has been making remarkable cures by the use of a combination of pure aseptic pepsin, with nitrate of bismuth and several other harmless stomach remedies. The preparation is prepared in the form of lozenges or tablets, pleasant to take and when used after meals seem to digest the food perfectly, giving the stomach time to rest and recover its natural strength. These tablets are sold by druggists, generally under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and while the remedy is very cheap, costing only 50 cents per package, yet no remedy so far tried has made so many cures of dyspepsia. One thing is certain, it is absolutely safe and cannot harm the most delicate stomach. A Buffalo physician recently stated that in all cases of indigestion, sour stomach, gas and distress after eating, he invariably recommends Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and always with the best results. From all accounts it would appear that the remedy is an excellent one and worthy of its good name. It can be found at any drug store.

Serenaded a Member.

About twenty five members of the Bohemian club serenaded Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Stevens last evening at their home on Fourth street. They returned yesterday from their wedding trip. It was an old-fashioned serenade, bass and snare drums, tubas, trombones and tin pans playing a prominent part. The boys were invited in and spent an hour or more singing and making merry.

Benefit for Finnick.

A benefit will be given at the Parlor theater on Saturday evening for Harry Finnick, "The Arkansas Kid," who was to have boxed Jimmy Murphy to a finish but hurt himself while in training. Every boxer in Duluth and Superior has offered his services and there will be some pretty contests.

Positive Cure For Rheumatism.

Price's Rheumadyne will positively cure rheumatism, gout and lumbago. It is a safe, sure and speedy cure. Relief guaranteed in one day. Enquire about it. For sale by Max Wirth, druggist, 13 Superior street.

HELINSKI IN TROUBLE.

By Asking for the Resignation of Two Postoffice Employes He Violated Civil Service Rules.

The Postmaster Received Some Sharp Communications from the Department on Sunday Regarding the Matter.

A Special Agent Said to Have Been Ordered Here to Inquire Into the Subject.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" is a saying as old as the hills, but its application is so frequent that it is (paradoxically as it may seem) ever new. Postmaster T. M. Helinski is one of the latest people to realize this adage in its modern adaptation of "Uneasy is the man who holds a government position," and Theodore is now principally engaged in wondering "where he is at," and if so, why so. Mr. Helinski believes that the postoffice is a political checker board where an employe can be "jumped" just like a checker. Mr. Helinski has apparently lost sight of the civil service rules in his action of asking for the resignation of two valuable and responsible employes—Miss Alma Babb, the head of the money order department, and Charles Peterson, the chief stamp clerk, without assigning, even, any cause for such removal.

Miss Babb has served six years in her present position to the satisfaction of patrons of the office, and no complaints can be specified again her, except, perhaps, the unpardonable sin of being a woman. She was appointed to her present position some time in 1887 or 1888, during the incumbency of John Flynn, serving through the balance of his term to his entire satisfaction. Then came Julius Howard and he, too, had not the slightest cause for complaint, and when he left the office he spoke in the highest terms of Miss Babb's strict attention to duty and the invariable correctness of her accounts. Then came Theodore M. Helinski, and he also has no complaint regarding her official standing except the bare statement that he assumed a "great responsibility" when he took charge of the office. No one doubts for a moment that he has a great responsibility resting upon him, and one of the safeguards which the national government puts about him is the application of the civil service rules to every employe of the postoffice, except the assistant postmaster. "No employe shall be removed without cause!" Can any statement be plainer? But Duluth's postmaster does not propose to be bound by such regulations so he requests a resignation which Miss Babb will not give, demanding that—as she has a right to—her official tenure of office be measured by the only guage which can apply—civil service rules.

Now, look at the case of Charles J. Peterson! What has he done to merit a dismissal from the service? He is a self made young man, working and saving steadily from the lowly position of office boy for George M. Smith to his responsible place behind the stamp window, where he was an able, willing and accurate public servant. He was appointed to the stamp clerkship a short time before Postmaster John Flynn went out of office with the full knowledge and consent of Postmaster Howard. Of Charley Peterson's conduct in office not one word of a derogatory character can be truthfully said. Scrupulously exact in accounts, capable and obliging is all that the government or the civil service rules demand, and Peterson filled the bill in every particular, but his official head was asked for in order that some political debt might be paid—a direct and open violation of the civil service rules.

But though Mr. Peterson does not appear behind his accustomed stand in the stamp window, he is not to be considered as out of the service. He told Postmaster Helinski that he was not willing to resign but would step out temporarily in order that the postmaster might study up on the rules, when (if he was liable to removal) he would accept the final decision from the fountain head of authority—the postoffice department at Washington.

Shortly after Mr. Peterson was removed a committee of responsible business men waited on Helinski and asked the reason of the removal. He told them bluntly that there was not the slightest flaw in Peterson's official conduct and that it was for political reasons alone.

It is understood that some very sharp correspondence from Washington was received here by Mr. Helinski last Sunday bearing especially on these attempted removals and it is also understood that a special agent has been ordered here to look into the matter, and if Mr. Helinski has violated the plain rules of the service he will have to face the music and the tune may not be altogether a pleasant one.

MINNEAPOLIS COMING.

High School Football Team From That City Here on Saturday.

The lusty football men from the Minneapolis high school will be here Saturday to try conclusions with the local schoolboys, and the latter are making appropriate arrangements for the event. Capt. Draper works his men every day and will settle on the positions today. Sutherland is laid up with fever and Applehagen will probably play center. Lemieux is slated for tackle while the balance of the team will play as arranged before.

Manager Hutchinson, of the Athletic association, is working hard to make the game a success, and the high school contingent will be out in force to cheer their eleven to victory. The game will be played at Glen Avon, Saturday, at 4 o'clock, the Minneapolis boys arriving here in the morning.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Creation."

Tonight "The Creation" will be produced at the Temple. The fact that it is given for the benefit of the Bethel ought alone to be sufficient to draw a packed house and with the full knowledge that a most admirable production will be given there is no reason why a single seat should be vacant. Haydn's great oratorio is one of the grandest of musical works and can be understood by any audience although it is classical.

Mme. Renard has given unlimited attention to the preparations and training of the choruses and principals. J. Armour Galloway, a magnificent basso, has been secured at considerable expense to sing the parts of Raphael and Adam. Mark C. Baker will take the tenor role, that of Ur.el. Miss Hunter, Mrs. Aspenwall, Mme. Renard and Miss Shephard will also take solo parts. The chorus will number 100 voices and the orchestra will be the finest and largest ever seen here.

Souvenir programs containing cuts of the soloists and the text of "The Creation" will be distributed.

"Shaft No. 2" will be at the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday of next week. This play made an immense hit in Minneapolis and St. Paul. The Minneapolis Tribune said of it:

"So much has been said and expected of "Shaft No. 2," and so much stress has been laid upon the authorship that the initiated who assembled to see it at the opening performance yesterday went with high ideals in the melodramatic line. While the play could be criticised as having some faults, there is no denying that its owners, Messrs. Losee, Hays and Bixby, have spared no expense to make it one of the scenic successes of the year. And such it undoubtedly is. Its equipment is extensive, interesting and complete. It is full of surprises of a decidedly original nature, and keeps the attention of the spectator fixed upon the unique mechanical devices. The "levels" in the mine scene of the second act are a capable and quite accurate reproduction and furnish the appropriate environment for a substantially thrilling climax. The storm scene of the third act is a wonderful and correct effect, showing first the twilight, then the rising moon with its white beams reflected on the winding river with an excellent distance and perspective. The clouds scurrying across the moon, the thunder and lightning, all heighten the realism and leave nothing to be desired from a point of scenic brilliancy."

Ella Leotta Swanton.

Ella Leotta Swanton will give an entertainment at Masonic Temple hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the Eastern Star. She is an elocutionist of exceptional merit and her posing is highly praised. The Minnesota Review said of her:

"The large audience that greeted Etta Leotta Swanton at the concert hall last evening were delighted with the entertainment. The comical pieces convulsed her listeners with laughter, and again they were moved to tears by the melting pathos of her manner and delivery of certain pieces. Her imitation of singing birds, moaning winds and other sounds was simply remarkable and held her audience spellbound."

Rose Coghlan's Play.

Rose Coghlan will play "Forget Me Not" on her second night at the Temple—next Tuesday—instead of Oscar Wilde's "A Woman of No Importance."

"The Ballot for Women."

Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, superintendent of franchise of the state W. C. T. U. and president of the State Women's Suffrage association, will lecture at the Bethel on "The Ballot for Women" Friday evening, Oct. 12.

Tomorrow at 3 o'clock she will talk to the ladies at the Congregational church at West Duluth. In the evening she will lecture at the People's party headquarters on Central avenue.

Do Not Forget the Lecture.

On American citizenship to be given by Rev. James M. Cleary on Friday evening at the Temple Opera. No citizen of Duluth can afford to miss this opportunity to hear this great speaker. The price of admission is but fifty cents.

SCRATCHED 3 YEARS

Suffered, Scratched and Bled. Doctors No Relief. Cured by Two Sets Cuticura Remedies.

Nothing like CUTICURA REMEDIES was ever manufactured. For three years I suffered with a sore head. I would break out all over my head with pimples which would form a watery matter, and I would have to scratch until I would bleed. After doctoring with two doctors for three years, more or less, I finally made up my mind to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES, with result entirely satisfactory to me. After using two sets I am entirely cured. I have recommended your remedies to several persons, and they all tell me they are No. 1. Our druggist is doing a nice business in CUTICURA REMEDIES, since my cure. I have given him the privilege of using my name as proof of their efficiency. I enclose my portrait.

A SKILLFUL SHARPER.

Diamond Bob, the Man Who for Thirty Years Duped the Pawnbrokers of This Country.

The Remarkable Career of the Rascal Who Preyed Only on the Shrewd Money Lenders.

How He Made High-Priced Stones for a Few Dollars—The Great Watch Swindle.

From a brief dispatch dated San Francisco, received in this city, the police and others learned of the suicide of a famous character in criminal circles known as Diamond Bob. His proper name was Robert Ashmead, and he spent all but 20 years of his life swindling pawnbrokers in the big cities of this country and Europe. So successful was he, strange as it may seem to those who have had dealings with the will money lenders, that at one time he was reputed to be worth $200,000. During the 30 years he was engaged in his operations he was arrested but once, and then he was in custody only a few hours in this city. The pawnbroker who had been swindled failed to prosecute Diamond Bob for he believed it would injure him if it became known he had been successfully imposed upon in lending money on diamonds.

In searching about for some one who knew Diamond Bob well I found the very man who caused his arrest for the only time at the Vanderbilt hotel.

"So Diamond Bob is dead, you say," the detective said when I broached the subject. "Well, of all the queer and peculiar criminals this land ever gave birth to, that fellow Ashmead was the queerest and slickest. Peculiar cuss he was too. Had a heart as big as an ox. What do you think? The man could never get it through his head that he was committing crime by swindling pawnbrokers. No, sir! And he was honest in his belief too. I don't believe he ever willfully wronged or stole from any one but a money lender. No, there was no sentiment connected with his selecting and pursuing pawnbrokers. He was a smart crook and believed he was smarter than nine-tenths of the money lenders, and he proved it. There isn't a pawnbroker in this country or in any of the big cities of Europe who doesn't know Diamond Bob. He has been a sort of Nemesis to the money lenders for a quarter of a century at least. Pawnbrokers' associations have been after him for years, but they never caught him, and his name used to be rung into the prayers of every good pawnbroker's family every night in the year.

"And the poor fellow committed suicide, eh? Well, well! How some people will rejoice!"

"How did he get the name Diamond Bob?" I asked.

"Well, it was just like this: Some years ago he put up one of the most artistic swindles imaginable on all the money lenders of the eastern cities. He met a poor diamond cutter one day who was in the hardest kind of luck, through nobody's fault but his own. Diamond Bob saw a fortune in this fellow if he could only get him to do as he wished, and there was little difficulty encountered, I assure you. The diamond cutter had got so far down he was ready to commit almost any crime to get rum. So, when he was well paid for filling diamond shells with opal in an artistic manner, he didn't ask any questions as to whether they were to be used in swindling.

"By taking the shells of diamonds left by the cutters in the big jewelry establishments and deftly placing opal in the middle of them and sealing the cavity with paste diamonds Diamond Bob had a gem apparently of the first water that shone with wonderful brilliancy. He pawned this 'fake' diamond at night, when it was in its highest state of brilliancy. The money lender could apply all of the tests, as the shell was the genuine article. It would cut glass the same as a good diamond. Well, Diamond Bob turned out hundreds of these bogus gems and pawned them in all the pawnshops of the eastern cities for sums ranging from $25 to $250 before the swindle was detected. As the stones cost him only a few dollars apiece it can be readily seen how great was his profit. It is no exaggeration to say he swindled the money lenders out of a cool $100,000 on his novel game, and when the other smart swindlers heard of it they christened Ashmead Diamond Bob.

"It was Diamond Bob who took about $80,000 from the pawnbrokers of this country a few years ago on what the police knew as the 'watch swindle.' It was an exceedingly ingenious scheme to beat the money lender. It is pretty well known that a man can secure a loan of at least $150, and oftentimes as high as $300, on a certain make of watches. A pawnbroker will take the watch of such a make as quickly as he will take diamonds, the name that is on the works of the watch being the guarantee of its genuineness. One of these firms places its name on the inside of the cover in letters that are cut into the case and enameled over in white. Diamond Bob secured the services of a skillful watchmaker and set him to work. First they bought a number of the watches of genuine make. These can't be had for less than $400 apiece. They then took out the movements, which can be sold back to the manufacturer for three-fourths of the value of the watch, or about $300. They returned the works, only retaining one of them to copy from. Next they bought a lot of ordinary watch works that cost them about $25 apiece, which were fitted into the genuine cases. The name of the manufacturer was forged on the movements, so that it couldn't be told from the original. After this was done the doctored watches were circulated among the money lenders, who took the bait without the least suspicion. Hundreds of these watches were pawned almost simultaneously in all the big cities east and west, Diamond Bob and his companion, whom he had taken into copartnership, visiting one money lender after the other as fast as they could travel."—New York Herald.

Mixed Metaphors.

A mixed metaphor story was told by the late A. M. Sullivan. When he was beginning his practice in Ireland, he was present at a case where a small farmer brought an action against a neighbor for alleged malversation of three bullocks. Counsel, a well known member of the circuit, concluded his speech by saying, "Gentlemen of the jury, it will be for you to say whether this defendant shall be allowed to come into court with unblushing footsteps, with the cloak of hypocrisy in his mouth, and draw three bullocks out of my client's pockets with impunity."—Westminster Gazette.

Big Crowd Left With C. A. Towne Today for St. Cloud.

Hon. Charles A. Towne, the next congressman for this district started for St. Cloud this afternoon at 1:25 under the most favorable auspices. He had just arrived in an Eastern freight caboose from Milaca, where there was a big meeting last night.

Mr. Towne was escorted by the City band of sixteen pieces, the Company A drum corps of twelve instruments, and the St. Louis county Republican and marching clubs, numbering in all about 220 people. The excursionists all wore red, white and blue Towne badges, and carried many colored umbrellas and decorated canes. The train which will run over Northern Pacific tracks, via Brainerd to East St. Cloud was made up of engine 275 and four coaches, including Superintendent Wilsey's business car. The coaches were decorated with gay colored streamers and banners which were lettered as follows:

"Maj. Baldwin represents the South, the Sugar Trusts and the Country's Ruin."

"What Kittel Did in Congress——a goose egg."

"C. A. Towne for Congress. St. Louis County Republican Club." This one was on both sides of the train.

"C. A. Towne represents the People and Good Wages. Kittel isn't in it."

"St. Cloud. C. A. Towne and Protection Suits Us You Bet."

"Duluth. We don't want free lumber, free ore, small wages, hungry bellies and Baldwin."

The train pulled out of the Union depot with C. A. Towne standing on a coach platform, bowing and waving his hat in response to the cheering that speeded him on his way. The train will reach Brainerd about 4 o'clock, and St. Cloud about 7 o'clock.

THE FORCE OF HABIT.

CHAPTER I.

Evangeline O'Glary came home from the ball wearied and distrait. Prior to the ball she had been working all day in the telephone office. Despite the fatigue and weariness which crushed her, however, she felt it would be impossible to sleep with the memory of Archibald Rooney's manly voice ringing in her ears. She had been beautiful that night, she knew, but Archibald had been cold and distant, save for one word of formal greeting in his resonant, baritone tones. Restlessly she thought it over while tossing sadly upon her couch and gazing through the damask curtains out upon the pallid, gibbons moon.

"He loves another," she murmured in an ecstasy of pain, "even though I have ever discriminated in his favor when any one calls up central for his number."

CHAPTER II.

Worn out with fatigue and sorrow and heedless of the fact that she must be at the down town telephone exchange at 8 in the morning, Evangeline did not fall asleep until the onyx and ovoid ormulu clock on the mantel told the hour of 3.

Then she slept.

CHAPTER III.

"Evangeline! Evangeline!"

It was her mother's voice calling her in the morning.

"Evangeline! Get up! You told me to call you up at 7, and it's 7:30."

Evangeline turned uneasily in her slumber. The spoken numbers had dimly reached the innermost recesses of her brain.

Her ripe lips moved.

"Busy now," she murmured mechanically. "Call 'em up again."—Chicago Record.

Practice and Preaching.

"Honesty in politics?" said the man who was dining at the table next the window. "Huh, there isn't any such thing! That's a fiction that was played out long, long ago. Nowadays it is the man with the biggest fortune who gets the offices. I tell you that this country has reached a deplorable state of morals."

"How's that?" asked the man who sat across from him.

"Why, there is no honesty in business, social or political life. The elections are crooked. The vilest sort of schemes are resorted to in order to get votes. Men are openly bribed. Men who get into office steal everything they can get their hands on. It's the same way in business too. You can never tell when to trust a man. People you have dealt with for years do not hesitate to do you up if they get a chance. They sell you poor goods at high prices. They use all sorts of dishonest means to get your trade, and when they get it they at once proceed to get even by cheating you. And in society—why, society is rotten to its core. Honesty is as scarce as purity. There is nothing that is too mean for these people who pretend to be the leaders of the social sets. I am disgusted with the whole business. I had a good mother, who taught me to be honest, and I have always tried to live up to her teachings. I can look any man in the face and say that I am an honest man, but— Let's get out of here and back to the office."

His friend picked up the check and passed it over to him. As he did so he remarked, "That fool of a waiter has made a mistake of 60 cents in our bill."

"Too much?" inquired the honest man.

"No, too little."

The honest man grabbed his hat. "Hurry up," he said, "and perhaps we can get out of here before he finds it out. That's just so much money saved."—Buffalo Express.

Ethel's Alternative.

"Father," she said in a voice that was full of tremulous reproach, "you have allowed Hector to pursue James Gimpington clear to the outer fence."

"I have," said the gentleman grimly.

"And you have urged him to nibble the attire of young Henry Gaggles."

"No doubt of it," and the reply was accompanied by a heartless smile.

"All these are only instances of a long series of such events. Am I to expect this treatment?"

"Certainly, until I have decided upon your future husband."

"Then," she muttered, while a gleam of triumph shot from her eyes, "I know my course."

"What, girl, will you do?"

"I will encourage the attentions of the chief dog catcher."—Detroit Free Press.

"Arms and the Man" is Caviare to the People Who Visit New York Theaters.

Series of Delicate but None the Less Forceful Satires on All Sorts of Humbuggery.

"The New Boy" is Neither New Nor Particularly Funny—Where the Stage Beauties Are.

The most glaring evidence of the hopeless inability of the New York theater going public to appreciate a really good and quiet piece of work is to be found in the comparatively scant patronage accorded Mr. Richard Mansfield at the Herald Square theater in Bernard Shaw's satirical comedy, "Arms and the Man." The play has practically no plot. The story is like the hair in the mortar—barely enough to make it hang together. But it is not calculated to appeal for criticism on the score of consecutiveness or perfection of construction. It is made up of a series of delicate but none the less forceful satires on all sorts of humbuggery to which we daily make obeisance and of which nearly all of us are guilty. These "bits" are strung together in a charming and exceptionally skillful manner. The dialogue of "Arms and the Man" is crisp, direct, entertaining and always witty, with usually an unobtrusive half tone of sarcasm to make the picture stand out the brighter. Mr. Mansfield in "Arms and the Man" is seen as Captain Bluntschli, a Swiss officer who is supposed to be a hero, but who will run at the rustle of a piece of thistle down. It is a part which does not permit of the display of what the melodramatic managers would call "strong work," but it does require a great deal of finesse and subtlety to make it tolerable. When it is stated that Mr. Mansfield is perfect in the character, some idea of the excellence of his acting may be formed. The supporting company this year is better than usual, and the production, comparatively trifling though it would appear to be, has been made with the conscientious attention to detail which characterizes all of Mr. Mansfield's offerings to the public. It really seems that there would be enough lovers of what is best in art in this city to furnish a home for a stock company headed by Richard Mansfield.

SCENE FROM "ARMS AND THE MAN."

"A Gaiety Girl," direct from London and en route to Australia, is at Daly's handsome theater, where it is packing the house to the doors at every performance. This must be gratifying to George Edwardes, the proprietor of the piece, and Augustin Daly, owner of the house, but it is enough to make the old timers weep. Daly's has lost its exclusiveness. It is no longer solely the home of all that is best in the drama. Anything bearing the stamp of reasonable respectability which is also likely to pay can get into that playhouse now. If Mr. Daly's own company and his magnificent, accurate and always thoroughly artistic productions had lost their potency with the New York patrons of the drama, it would be easy to find an explanation for this change of policy, but that is not the case. It is to be hoped that Mr. Daly will hereafter do as has been intimated—play his company six months in his New York theater and six months at his house in London.

But to return to "A Gaiety Girl." It is a flake of semimusical froth interpreted by a company of clever men and women, the latter good looking, as a rule, and clad in some scenes in perfectly proper costumes, which are nevertheless extremely risque. This may appear to be an anomaly, but it is fact. The suggestiveness of the costumes is destroyed by the neat manner in which they are worn. The dialogue of "A Gaiety Girl" contains much that is bright, and the music is always pretty because the composer is evidently blessed with excellent memory and the ability to make use of it.

"The New Boy," a farce by Arthur Law," is the current attraction at the Standard theater. The story of "The New Boy" deals with the adventures of a very small man who is married to a very large woman. An inheritance and all that sort of thing make it necessary for them to dissemble. They always dissemble in English farces. The husband is passed off as the new boy at the boarding school. Naturally he goes through a series of very thrilling experiences at the hands of his companions, who are not aware of the fact that he is old enough to be their father, etc. There is, of course, an alleged side plot concerning shares of the "Dry Champagne" company, with which a supposedly suave villain, Felix Roach, has a good deal to do, but it is not a bit funny and might as well be omitted.

Take the lines of the above "plot" and even some of the broader details. It is an old, old friend. In other words, it is Wills' charmingly written little story, "Vice Versa," combined with another work by the same author. "Little Puck," in which Frank Daniels starred for years, was taken from Wills' books, but due credit was always given on the programme. "The New Boy," in my opinion, is not near as good a farce as "Little Puck." This is probably because the material is now more worn. The thing, however, which is inexplicable is how an astute manager like Charles Frohman could be deluded into permitting such a thing to be advertised as a novelty and boomed in advance out of all proportion to its merits. "Charley's Aunt" was new to us, and it was the first of its kind in this country. That is why it was such a great success. "The New Boy" may also prove to be a winner, but it will not be as the result of its merits.

Augustus Thomas' "New Blood," which appeared to have met with some favor in Chicago during the summer, is the offering at Palmer's theater. Here it has fallen flat as a pancake. Every one is advising Thomas to stick to character comedies like "Alabama" and "In Mizzoura." Mr. Thomas is a very able as he is a very fortunate playwright. It makes little difference to him whether "New Blood" succeeds or fails at Palmer's for the reason that the play which is to follow it, "The Capital," is also from his pen. "The Capital," I hear, deals in an interesting manner with life in Washington and rather exposes to ridicule some of the hollowness of that city of false pretenses. There is a general impression here that "The Capital" is to create a sensation and that it will prove the hit of Thomas' life.

According to Frederick Edward McKay, the bright young feuilletonist, most of the handsome ladies of the stage are located as follows: Fanny Johnson in R. A. Barnet's "Prince Pro Tem," Anna Robinson with "A Temperance Town," Nannette Comstock with "Charley's Aunt," Alice Evans with "A Texas Steer," Percy Haswelt with Augustin Daly, Mary Hampton with "Sowing the Wind," Katherine Florence and Bessie Tyree with the Lyceum stock company, Adele Ritchie and Lulu Glaser with Francis Wilson, Belle Archer with Sol Smith Russell, Edna Wallace and Jennie Goldthwaite with De Wolf Hopper, Elita Proctor Otis and Katherine Grey with "New Blood," Josephine Hall with "Shenandoah," Emma Pollock with Edward Harrigan, Grace Kimball with E. H. Sothern, Annie O'Neill with W. H. Crane, Eileen Jewell with the Bostonians, Lulu Taber with "In Old Kentucky," Dorothy Morton with "The Fencing Master," Sadie Macdonald, Louise Montague and Kate Uart with "Off the Earth," Jessie Carlyle, May Stephenson, Georgie Dennin, Madge Lessing, Belle and May Stewart and Sylvia Thorne with "The Passing Show," Villa Knox and Marie Celeste with Della Fox, Grace Emerson and Nettie Lyford with "Little Christopher Columbus," Juliette Corden with "Rob Roy," Elvia Crox with Thomas Q. Seabrooke, Florrie West with "The Dazzler," Amy Busby with Richard Mansfield and Maxine Elliott with Rose Coghlan.

Comic opera has had a big boom in this country, and the men who concoct this form of entertainment are particularly busy and correspondingly happy. Charles A. Byrne and Louis Harrison, the co-librettists of "The Isle of Champagne," "Venus" and "Princess Nicotine," have just completed another book, which is called "The Bangdoolah of Swat." J. Cheever Goodwin, whose two works, "The Devil's Deputy" and "Dr. Syntax," are now on view in Broadway theaters, was obliged by overwork, as is well known, to give up his contract to do "The Little Trooper," and now I hear that after a very short rest he is to begin another libretto for a well known star. Harry B. Smith has only recently finished "Rob Roy," but has, I hear, started on another comic opera already, and most of the other well known librettists are also very busy, though not to such an extent as the composers. Reginald de Koven has just laid down his pen on the score of "Rob Roy," but his time is pre-empted for at least a year or two. W. W. Furst will follow "The Little Trooper," so it is said, with something more ambitious before the close of the season; Jakobowski has but recently turned out "The Queen of Brilliants" and "The Devil's Deputy" and is now doing two more operas, with still further contracts ahead; Ludwig Englander is finishing a score for Thomas Q. Seabrooke and another, "Cleopatra," for Lillian Russell; Richard Stahl will, I hear, soon emerge from his retirement at Hot Springs, caused by ill health, with a new offering; Woolson Morse has been obliged to refuse work, much of it with large sums offered in advance of royalties; Percy Gaunt, the composer of the "Trip to Chinatown" and other Hoytian melodies, is busily engaged fitting music to a libretto by a well known New York dramatic editor; Otto Langey is completing an opera to which he has devoted his spare moments for more than a year, and Charles Puerner is said to have recently completed a meritorious score, which will probably have an early hearing. Even Sir Arthur Sullivan, despite his split with Gilbert, has mustered up courage to do an operetta.

Walter Sanford, the well known manager of real out and out melodramatic attractions, has a stock company in this city which is supposed to play only here and in Brooklyn. It is a really meritorious organization and is made up of actors most of whom are known throughout the length and breadth of the land. Miss Victory Bateman is the leading lady, while to Charles D. Herrman, for many years with the leading tragedy stars of America, are intrusted the heavy roles. The man who is always the hero is Harry Mainhall. He is not a newcomer by any means. He has been on the stage for a very long time and has played in everything from comic opera up to tragedy. Mr. Mainhall, as the leading man of Sanford's stock company, has had the first protracted opportunity to show New Yorkers and Brooklynites of what he is capable. The result has been eminently satisfactory. Mr. Mainhall is one of the very few really capable juvenile actors in this country. His method is marked by naturalness and ease. In emotional work he constantly gives the idea of suppressing himself, and he never resorts to stage tricks to win momentary approval. Good looking, graceful and possessed of marked ability and force, there is no reason why Mr. Mainhall should not occupy a much better position on the stage than he now does. It is rumored in New York that Mr. Sanford is feeling his way along with his stock company, and that if circumstances should warrant it he will get the lease of a theater on upper Broadway and make it a rival of the Frohman organizations. In such an event many changes would have to be made among the minor people, but the principal members of the company—Miss Bateman and Messrs. Mainhall and Herrman—are good enough to play anywhere.

Men Are Easier to Get But There is Still Plenty of Work.

The employment agencies report that the town is filling up again with laborers. There is still plenty of work for all of them, however, and will be all winter, but most of them do not seem anxious to go to work. The lumber companies near Duluth are nearly all filled up, and but few more men are wanted on the range. Outside, however, there are still plenty of places for work.

Orders are received for men from all through Wisconsin, Northern Minnesota and part of Michigan. In Illinois the Chicago Drainage company is employ-7000 men, and can use more, offering steady work during the winter at $1.50. Wages in the woods are unchanged, but they are still 25 per cent higher than last year, and there is 50 per cent more work.

HIGHTON BOUND OVER

His High Mightiness, the Special Car Traveler, Must Answer to the Next Grand Jury.

He Was Given His Hearing Today on a Charge of Grand Larceny in the Second Degree.

Objection to Chief Armstrong's Testimony Overruled by Judge Powell, Who Also Refused to Dismiss.

The case of the State against A. G. Highton, the high roller who traveled out of Duluth on a special car some weeks ago, and is now charged with grand larceny in the second degree, came up for a hearing this morning before Judge Powell. The court room was well filled with spectators. Attorney Crocker appeared for Highton and Attorney Davis for the state.

City Ticket Agent Walter Whitten, of the Eastern Minnesota road, made the complaint, alleging the uttering by Highton of a check for $109.10, which proved to be worthless. Mr. Whitten was placed on the stand and told the story of Highton's efforts to secure a special train on the Eastern Minnesota road and his subsequent success in getting a special car on the Omaha road for which he gave Whitten the check in question, at the rate of seventeen full fares and $36 additional for the car. This check, which Whitten endorsed was drawn on the Bank of Commerce, of Buffalo, and was made payable to B. W. Summers, of the Omaha and Northwestern lines. The check was presented at Buffalo and was protested and marked with a little pink slip of paper bearing the words "no funds."

Chief of Police Armstrong was the next witness and after a rather sharp lot of objections by Attorney Crocker, in which the chief came out ahead, he told how he arrested Highton at the central police station in Minneapolis, and told how Highton stated that he had no funds in the bank, besides several other stories.

This closed the evidence for the state and the defense introduced none, but asked for the discharge of the prisoner on the ground that the chief's evidence was not admissible under the statute in a criminal action, and that the matter alleged in the complaint had not otherwise been sustained. Judge Powell took the matter under advisement, reserving his decision until later in the afternoon.

This afternoon Judge Powell refused to dismiss the prisoner and admitted the evidence of Chief Armstrong. Highton was bound over and bail was fixed at $500.

They will be here about a week longer.

The work from now on will be in charge of Mr. Holt, who represents the state commission here. Of the sufferers brought here 195 have located permanently. There are about seventy-five widows and orphans and these will be taken care of by different cities.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WILL PLANT TREES.

Park Board Decides to Line London Road With Elms.

The board of park commissioners held a long and important meeting this morning and one in which the people of Duluth are greatly interested. It was decided to line London road for its entire length on both sides with elms set 25 feet apart and midway between the elms some different varieties of quick growing and hardy soft wood trees will be set out. The elms and other trees will range between 2 and 3 inches in diameter when they are planted and they will all be in position early next spring, in fact a car load or so will be put in place this fall.

Portland square came in for a big share of the attention of the board and it will become one of the most beautiful places in the city early next summer. The purchase of a large number of hardy and beautiful flowering shrubs was authorized and many of them will be planted this fall so as to take advantage of the earliest growing period in the spring. The expense of improving the square, so far, has been $5999.45 and the amount was perfectly satisfactory and, in the opinion of the board, has been judiciously expended.

Cascade square will receive early attention in the spring and will be made as beautiful as possible with the limited funds at the board's disposal. In London addition, Washington, Manchester and Grosvenor squares have been cleared of brush and the natural and sound timber left standing. They will also come in for a share of spring work.

Secretary Helm was authorized to visit Minneapolis to observe the system of work in improvement of the city's breathing spots which is being carried on there, after which he will go to Chicago and make his selections and purchases from the extensive nurseries in that city. The monthly bills of the board, amounting to a little over $400, were allowed.

HAS A LARGE FAMILY.

A Beaver Bay Man Whose Son is to Have an Operation Performed.

Joseph Betzler, of Beaver Bay, is in the city for the purpose of having a surgical operation performed on the neck of his son, who accompanies him. The ailment is in the nature of a tumor or goitre growth. One of his daughters will be operated on for a similar ailment later. Mr. Betzler's family, if all were alive, would number twenty-three people, but only sixteen are now alive. Mr. Betzler is 48 years old and his wife 44 years. They settled in Beaver Bay July 9, 1870, and have had twenty-one children. One birth was triplets and all girls, only one of whom is alive. Four births were twins, twice both boys, once both girls, and once a boy and girl. The remaining ten births were single ones. There were ten boys and eleven girls in all, and seven of each sex are alive and well.

Mr. Betzler is also purchasing his winter's stock of groceries and provisions. He reports the Beaver Bay crops as good, and says that there are now about 150 settlers at that point.

JAPANESE FLEET

Chinese Officials No Longer Deny That the Japanese Fleet Commands the Gulf of Pe Chi Li.

Eight Japanese Cruisers Sound the Entrance to Wei Hai Wei Harbor for Three Hours.

The Fort Fired a Few Shots at the Japanese But the Latter Did Not Reply.

Four Spies Arrested at Port Arthur For Cutting Submarine Wires Connected With the Torpedoes.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch received here from Tien Tsin says that the Chinese officials no longer deny that the Japanese fleet commands the gulf of Pe Chi Li. It is added that the Japanese admiral pays a weekly visit to every important station on the gulf and makes his inspection leisurely. Eight Japanese cruisers sounded the entrance to the harbor of Wei Hai Wei for three hours on Saturday last and then went across to Port Arthur, where they made observations without getting within range of the guns of that place.

The Japanese fleet returned to Wei Hai Wei on Monday last in single line, keeping their distances splendidly and heading straight for the harbor. When almost within range, the fleet separated and hovered around the harbor entrance. The fort fired a few shots at the Japanese, but the latter did not reply and continued making observations until Count Ito's flagship, the steel cruiser Hashidate, fired once, whereupon the fleet reformed and steamed away in the direction of Taku.

The Tien Tsin dispatch adds that a Chinaman who was arrested there upon suspicion of being a Japanese spy was tortured until he admitted the truth of the charge. He is to be executed. The same dispatch says that four spies have been arrested at Port Arthur for cutting the submarine wires connected with the torpedoes. It is also said that the fire which occurred at Tien Tsin last Friday was of incendiary origin.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The Tageblatt publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg which says that its correspondent there learns that the object of the leaders of the rebellion in the Chinese province of Mongolia is to secure the annexation of that territory to the Russian empire.

LOST ALL THEIR SAVINGS.

Scandinavians Badly Swindled by a Swedish Banker.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Scandinavian miners and other laborers of that nationality are grieving over the loss of the money they have been saving for years—money that they had entrusted to the care of O. A. Sjostrom, a Swedish banker who has been doing business for years at 27 State street.

The concern has collapsed with liabilities of $30,000 and no visible assets. Sjostrom, it appears, has been doing a general banking business for about ten years. He solicited the savings of the men from the time they landed in this country, promising to pay them 5 per cent on all deposits. The depositors had only receipts to show for their money.

Many Decisions Filed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—An unusually large number of decisions in railroad and land cases have been rendered and placed on record at the interior department during the past forty-eight hours. Over 150 were filed in the assistant attorney's office yesterday and today the number was swelled by fifty-five. All of these have been under consideration for some time and in many cases the rulings were made during Secretary Smith's absence in Georgia.

Two Burglars Foiled.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 11.—A daring attempt was made to rob the postoffice in this city at an early hour this morning by two men who had secreted themselves in the building. They were foiled by the night clerk, Lewis D. Garney, who slammed a door in the face of one burglar, while the assistant night clerk blew a police whistle bringing several officers to the scene.

A Chief Justice Married.

WARRENTON, Va., Oct. 11.—Miss Elizabeth Fairfax Gaines, of Warrenton, was married here last night to Thomas Smith, chief justice of New Mexico. Four clergymen took part in the services and there were twenty bridesmaids. The church was beautifully decorated and was filled to overflowing with friends of the couple.

Deadly Yellow Fever.

OAXACA, Mex., Oct. 11.—There is much excitement among the people of the state of Campeche and the island of Carmen over yellow fever which is causing numbers of deaths. The Norwegian bark Dolly has lost three of her crew and on shore deaths are numerous.

Mexican Bandit Caught.

DURANGO, Mex., Oct. 11.—Juan Coja, one of the most noted bandit chiefs in Mexico, has been captured in the city of Mazatlan. Coja has kept the country district of the Pacific coast of Mexico in constant terror during the past fifteen years. The bandit will probably be shot without the formality of a trial.

Double Tragedy.

GALLATIN, Tenn., Oct. 11.—Jeff Edwards and Wick Henderson, of Black Jack, became involved in a difficulty. Edwards was killed and Henderson fatally wounded. The trouble grew out of the attention of Henderson to Edwards' wife.

NATHAN STRAUSS FOR MAYOR.

A Strong City Ticket Named by the Tammany Men.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Tammany last night nominated the following ticket: For mayor, Nathan Strauss; president of the board of aldermen, August W. Peters; sheriff, William Sohmer; recorder, Frederick Smythe; superior court judge, Charles H. Truax, coroners, John B. Shea and Jacob Mittnacht.

This morning the World prints an interview with Nathan Strauss, in which he declares the nomination for mayor was offered him by representatives of the Grace-Fairchild party on connition that he support William B. Grace for United States senator to succeed David B. Hill. Mr. Strauss said he declined the offer.

"I belong to no political organization," continued Mr. Strauss, "and I do not intend to join any. I have always been an independent Democrat and I intend to remain so, and if I am elected mayor of New York I intend to retain that independence absolutely."

CATHOLIC SUMMER SCHOOL.

Clergy and Laity Meet at Chicago to Make Arrangements.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The committee of the clergymen and laymen appointed to perfect arrangements for a Catholic summer school in the West met here today. Today's session was consumed in hearing the arguments of delegates from various cities regarding the site for the school. The more prominent competitors for the school were Madison, Wis.; Green Bay, Wis.; Mackinac Island, Mich.; and Depere, Wis.

Madison was represented by a very large delegation and the prospects for the success of that city were thought to be bright. St. Louis sent a delegation, but its members declared that they would make no bid for the site. The members of the committee express the belief that no decision will be reached before tomorrow.

Bishop McGolrick, of Duluth, who was present, in an interview denied the story that he had been appointed coadjutor to Archbishop Ireland. He had received no such appointment, he said, and he had heard nothing that would lead him to believe that such action was contemplated.

SIXTY PEOPLE INDICTED.

All Connected With Fraudulent Land Entries at Ashland.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 11.—Strong rumors are afloat that the federal grand jury, in session here, has returned indictments against sixty people for conspiring to defraud the United States, subornation of perjury, etc. The reported indictments are all in connection with fraudulent land entries and swindles at Ashland, Wis., by which millions of dollars worth of pine lands were stolen from the government.

Strong efforts have been made to establish the truth or falsity of the rumor, but it is impossible to do so. The officials, grand jurymen, and all others who know whether the same is true or not, are sworn to absolute secrecy and decline to discuss the matter at all.

Color is lent to the report, when all parties connected with the grand jury refuse to deny that the indictments have been brought except in two cases.

STARTLING DISCLOSURES.

Money Collected from Saloons in Kansas City, Kan., Misappropriated.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 11.—A special committee of the Kansas City, Kan., council, which has been investigating the cause of the falling off of the saloon revenues to the police department and consequent reduction of the city general fund, in its report makes startling disclosures.

It is shown that while $500 was monthly received from the different "joints," but $3200 of that amount was turned into the city treasury. The committee recommended the abolition of the metropolitan police law, under which the steals were made, as being totally inadequate.

The law was inaugurated by the present Kansas state administration and was much commented upon when first put into force. Under it, it is claimed, none of the present offenders can be reached.

ALL ON BOARD LOST.

A Steamboat Loaded with Stone Found Bottom Side Up.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 11.—The steamboat Majella, of Newport, with stone for the new breakwater, which left the west side of Block island yesterday afternoon for a harbor and headed for Newport, is reported bottom side up near Point Judith, and it is believed that all on board were lost.

The captain was James H. Cook and she had a crew of five men. The Majella is owned by W. C. C. Caswell, a contractor of Narragansett Pier.

Poison in a Well.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 11.—In Bourbon county on the noted Ireland stock farm, there is a deep well, noted heretofore for its purity of water. James Rutherford and Tom Campbell have for several months used the water. Monday, James Campbell was suddenly taken sick and soon died. Next Rutherford was also attacked and in a few hours expired in great agony. Now Tom Campbell is dying.

Wrecked by a Boy.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 11.—Grandy Moore, a 12-year-old white boy was arrested at Bells, Tenn., yesterday charged with wrecking the fast mail on the Louisville & Nashville Monday, in which several persons were injured. The boy confessed his crime and says he opened the switch to see what would happen to the train.

No Uneasiness Felt.

The Eastbound Passenger Train on the Soo Road Wrecked at Turtle Lake Last Night.

Fireman Spilman and Baggageman Parry Were Slightly Injured But No One Else Was Hurt.

Supreme Court Issues an Order in Regard to a Republican Dispute in Itasca County.

Dennis Crimmings of St. Paul Arrested For Bigamy on Complaint Made By His First Wife.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—A special from Tomahawk, Wis., says that two flat cars on the Soo line at Turtle Lake were started down grade last night in time to meet the east-bound passenger. The train was thrown from the track and several injured. The wreck on Monday was at Tomahawk Junction and killed one man and fatally injured another. Conductor Farnham, of the train wrecked at Turtle Lake, has made the following official report of the accident:

"No. 8 struck some empty freight cars on the main line east of Turtle Lake. The engine lies on the left side, with the tank partly over. The forward trucks of the baggage car are off the track, and about 200 feet of track is torn up. Fireman P. A. Spilman is slightly hurt about the head. Baggageman Lemuel R. Parry is slightly hurt in the back. No one else was hurt. We want a wrecking car to clear the track and can transfer easily. The agent at Turtle Lake says the Omaha freight must have pushed them out when getting a car from the transfer about 8 o'clock."

THE ITASCA REPUBLICANS.

The Supreme Court Called Upon to Settle a Serious Dispute.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Justices Mitchell and Canty of the supreme court have issued an order to Angus McIntosh, auditor of Itasca county, to show cause why he should not be restrained from putting on the ticket the names of candidates nominated at a mass convention of Republicans held in that county on Sept. 1, the day of the Hinckley fire, and why he should not be compelled to place on the ticket another list of candidates nominated at a delegate convention held Monday. The order is made returnable Monday, as Tuesday is the last day on which county and legislative candidates can be placed on the ticket.

It has always been customary in that county to hold mass conventions, and both the Democrats and Republicans held theirs on the day of the great fire. The Democrats finished their work first and then went over to help the Republicans out. The result was that Grand Rapids got about all the offices and La Prairie got left.

Later the Republicans discovered that the election law passed by the last legislature does not recognize a mass convention, and the dissatisfied Republicans called a delegate convention and put a ticket on Monday. Now they want the names of those candidates placed on the ticket.

Seven of the Republicans named by the mass convention were renominated by the delegate convention, but they turned down H. R. King for county auditor, Chester L. Pratt for county attorney, M. Rasmussen for judge of probate and Dan Rogers for county surveyor, all of whom hail from Grand Rapids. The order was issued by the supreme court, at the instance of Judge E. A. Arnold, of La Prairie.

IS LUCKY TO GET BACK.

A Minnesota Man Who Was on the Peary Expedition Talks.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—An Austin, Minn., special to the Journal says: James W. Davidson, of the Peary expedition, has arrived here, and for the first time has consented to talk of the charges that the men had insufficient food and fuel, and were otherwise mistreated by Lieut. Peary.

It is evident from what he says that the charges are in a measure true, but Davidson does not blame Peary for his action, once Mrs. Peary was taken along. He declares that the mistake was in taking a woman into the Arctic region at all, and after that had been done Peary did for his wife just what any other man would have done under the same circumstances. They had well warmed quarters by themselves with a separate table, while the men had insufficient food and scant fuel.

This, Davidson says, was inevitable and the men of the party would have done anything in the world for Mrs. Peary. He considers that they were lucky to get back at all, and, as the thing is over, the less said about it the better.

TWO A. R. U. DIRECTORS.

They Visit St. Paul and Say That the Order Is Booming.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Two prominent directors of the American Railway union, R. M. Goodwin and James Hogan, were in the city yesterday on their way to the West, the former over the Great Northern and the latter over the Union Pacific road. While here they were met by many of the men of the union and took counsel with them, expounding the lessons of the order to the disciples of united labor.

These gentlemen said that the A. R. U. was stronger now than it had ever been and that it was doing good work all along the line. It has learned much by the experience of the Pullman strike, and it is believed that it has also taught a few lessons to the corporations. Secrecy was now the rule in the order, whereas all had previously been open and above board.

This new rule prevailed as a matter of policy and a necessity, for the employers were inclined to be prejudiced against the railroad men who joined the order. The brotherhoods might not be expected for the present to amalgamate with the union, but the time was not far distant when all the brotherhoods would affiliate together as a matter of necessity.

HIS NAME IS DENNIS.

A St. Paul Man With More Wives Than the Law Allows.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Dennis Crimmings has been arrested for bigamy. Mrs. Mary Crimmings, who lays claim to being No. 1 had Dennis arrested last evening and avers that she married him about a year ago. When the summer began she went back to Wisconsin to visit her folks, and when she returned she found that Denny had consoled himself in the meantime by going over in Wisconsin and marrying another woman.

Mrs. Crimmings No. 2 was installed at 737 Martin street. Dennis makes no denial of the facts in the case and this morning he waived examination and was held to the grand jury in the sum of $500 which was not furnished.

THE PROPERTY VALUES.

Interesting Facts in Labor Commissioner Powers' Report.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Labor Commissioner Powers is preparing a statement of property values of the state, with the mortgage indebtedness and the increase in value for the past ten years in this state.

In the state as a whole the burden of the debt has decreased in comparison with the value of the property 20 per cent. The value of the farms has increased one and three-fourths times as fast as the mortgage debt. The great body of the debt increase in all parts of the state is on city lots.

The coming report gives the value of farm property in this state in 1890 as $340,059,470 as against $103,724,060 in 1880, an increase of $146,335,410.

Sale of Minneapolis Property.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Ex-Governor W. R. Merriam has just completed a real estate deal in Minneapolis by which he becomes the owner of a large block on First avenue north near Third street. It was a part of the Harrison estate and was purchased from Hugh Harrison for $100,000. It is occupied by the grocery jobbers, Winston, Farrington & Co., who have executed a 10-year lease for the property with Governor Merriam at a rental understood to be $8800 per annum.

A Railroad Sold.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—The stockholders' committee bid in the Minneapolis & St. Louis road this morning for $3,600,000. This was the face of the senior mortgage with accrued charges. There was no other bid and the property was knocked down without much ado. The stockholders, besides, bought the equipment and improvements for $450,000 without opposition, making the total amount of cash necessary to close up the transaction a trifle over $5,000,000.

Labor Men Disgusted.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 11.—L. D. Foster was nominated by the Populists of the Forty-fifth senatorial district yesterday for state senator. The town delegates were for a country man, S. P. Roach, of Paynesville, but the country delegates were too many and Foster was nominated by a vote of 14 to 12 for Roach. The labor delegates are disgusted and Foster will be cut by them.

Donnelly for Senator.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Ignatius Donnelly of Nininger was nominated for senator at the Populist convention held at Hastings yesterday afternoon, and Michael O'Rourke, of Rosemount, and Oscar Townson, of Eureka, for representatives. Senator Donnelly spoke in the evening.

Held For Trial.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 11.—The preliminary examination of Frederick T. Day, president of the defunct Plankington bank, charged with receiving a deposit after he had good reason to know the bank was insolvent, was concluded today. Day was held to trial in $10,000 bonds. Oct. 25 has been fixed as the date for the trial.

Flying Bricks, Sheets of Corrugated Iron and the Big Boilers Hurled in Every Direction.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 11.—Four men were killed, two fatally injured and several others were painfully burned by a disastrous boiler explosion that occurred at the Henry Clay colliery early today. The entire steam supplying plant of the mine, consisting of thirty-six boilers, was totally demolished and, in addition to the monetary loss which will aggregate $30,000, the Henry Clay, Big Mountain, Sterling and Peerless collieries will be unable to resume operations for at least a month.

The explosion is the worst of its kind that has ever occurred in this region and its cause is a mystery. The dead and injured are:

Thomas Carr, fireman; leaves widow and three children; one arm and one leg broken off and body cut in two.

William Boyle, fireman; leaves widow; horribly cut and lacerated about body; dead when found.

William Slick, aged 18, neck broken and both hips fractured; died in a few minutes after being found.

Peter Beck, fireman, side of head crushed and severe internal injuries; cannot recover.

Jacob J. Didiam, water boss of Mahoney Valley, married; scalded and crushed about the abdomen and legs; cannot recover.

John McLaughlin, fireman; both legs broken and head crushed; died two hours after the accident.

John Flenkenstein, married; received very serious injuries about head; may recover.

Dennis Brennan, scraper boy; struck in the face with bricks, not dangerous.

William Quimm, lampman, of Springfield; cut on head by flying bricks.

Michael Barris, switch boy, Springfield; injured by flying bricks.

It was about 7:25 this morning when the workmen at the Henry Clay colliery were startled by a heavy explosion. At the same moment a portion of the boiler house was blown into the air and flying bricks, sheets of corrugated iron and the big boilers were hurled in every direction. Several other explosions took place. The air was filled with escaping steam and debris for a radius of 400 yards, and many of the employes narrowly escaped death.

The report of the explosion was heard in this city, a distance of more than two miles. The terrible accident came upon the boilerhouse employes without warning and only one of them, a Pole, escaped uninjured. The others were buried beneath the mass of debris and some of the bodies were not recovered for two hours.

The boiler on the western end of the house is supposed to have been the first to explode and then the adjoining boilers went up in quick succession, the repeated explosions resembling the roar of heavy artillery.

Many of the boilers were torn apart near the center by the terrible force and the two sections would then take different directions. One-half of a boiler was hurled a full ¼ of a mile and lodged in the slush bank northwest of where the boiler house formerly stood. Another that took a similar direction crashed through the side of the breaker and lodged against the scraper line. Another crashed through the tip house and came near killing several employes.

Four collieries will be thrown into idleness by the accident for a month or six weeks, so that the total loss will aggregate $100,000.

OFFER OF MEDIATION

Italy's Offer to China and Japan is Probably a Move of the Triple Alliance.

A Japanese Newspaper Opposes Offers of Mediation Until Japan's Object Has Been Completely Attained.

This Object is to Make Corean Independence Secure and Crush the Power of China.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The cable report that the Italian minister in Pekin, in pursuance of instructions from his government, had offered his services as mediator in bringing the China-Japan war to a close is construed at the legations here as a possible move on the part of the triple alliance—Germany, Italy and Austria—to intervene. Thus far all reports of European intervention in the war have spoken of England, France or Russia as the moving powers, some reports stating that they would act together and others that they would act separately. But the action of Italy is taken to indicate that the three powers which have no territory in Asia, viz: Germany, Italy and Austria, are not wholly disinterested observers, while the powers which have Asiatic possessions, viz: England, Russia and France, talk of intervening with a view to enlarging their possessions if China is dismembered.

A member of the diplomatic corps, well informed on the Japanese question, said: "If the dribund desires to be a factor in any international intervention, it would naturally select Italy to take the initiative. Germany is the moving spirit of the dribund, but owing to the relations between Germany and France any intervention by the former would naturally excite the opposition of the latter. Germany would be most likely, therefore, to have Italy propose the intervention. Any arrangement made would, of course, have the support of the triple alliance, as Italy, Germany and Austria are bound by the alliance to mutual action, offensive and defensive, in international affairs. In view of this alliance, for mutual action on all foreign questions, it seems certain that the proposal of Italy is in fact the result of the triple alliance."

A Japanese newspaper received at the legation here says: "No offer of mediation on the part of a third power should be accepted by Japan until her object shall have been completely attained, which is to place Corean independence on a secure footing and so to crush the power of China as to leave her totally unable for many years to come to attempt a retaliation."

Another Japanese paper, the Kokkai, is afraid that its countrymen may sacrifice interest to empty honor. After the defeat of her forces and the invasion of Manchuria by the Japanese army, the Chinese government may perhaps attempt to conclude a peace with Japan on such terms as are apparently honorable to Japan, but are really advantageous to China. The Japanese, say the Kokkai, are always prone to sacrifice interest for the sake of honor, and there is just ground to fear that their natural propensity may betray them into a false step in the present instance. The object of Japan, continues the Kokkai, ought to be to secure honor and interest at the same time.

These expressions from the Japanese press coincide with the views of Japanese authorities that there can be no mediation which does not give Corea complete independence, crush China's power to further retard the progress of the East, and reimburse Japan, either in money or territory, for her former enormous expenditures contracted by the war.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—It is semi-officially stated that nothing is known here of the report, circulated by a news agency, that China has requested the mediation of Germany in the war between the former country and Japan.

WAR ON INDECENT PICTURES.

Efforts of the W. C. T. U. Forcing Action in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Emilie D. Martin, national superintendent of the National Women's Christian Temperance union, and Mrs. H. S. Pritchard, state superintendent, who are waging war against living pictures and obscene lithographs, have called on police headquarters to see Superintendent Byrnes. Inspector Contin told them that the matter as complained of was receiving every attention. Mr. Contin said that but for the pressure of other business a test case in the matter of exhibiting indecent lithographs would have been made before this.

Mr. Hartman, of the district attorney's office, he said, had the matter in hand, and it was expected that within a few days the police would test the law on the subject. As regards the living pictures, the inspector assured the ladies that the matter was receiving every attention and that some result would follow shortly.

After the interview with the inspector, Mrs. Martin said that she had been assured that the police would act in these matters, which are a great evil. She also stated that she had received a letter from Philadelphia apprising her of the fact that indecent publications and pictures had been removed from the news stands in that city as a result of the efforts of the National W. C. T. U.

WANTED FOR OTHER CRIMES.

A Double Murderer in Jail at Seattle Accused of Two Other Murders.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 11.—Detective Willard has discovered among the police records in this city a notice offering $1000 for the arrest of George F. Rose, one of the murderers of the Fredericksons in Pacific county in 1890, to which a photograph of the fugitive is attached, and this leaves little doubt that Thomas Blanck, alias Frank Hamilton, the double murderer in jail here, is no other than Rose.

A careful comparison of photographs of the two men by Willard and Chief Rogers left no doubt in their minds that they are the same. Rose is given as 19 years old at the time of the murder and this agrees with the age given for Hamilton. Rose confessed that he, his father and two other men murdered Frederickson and his wife and he was held as a witness in the Montesano jail, from which he was rescued by a masked mob several months later.

ATTEMPTED TRAIN WRECKING.

Miscreants Tried to Wreck a Santa Fe Passenger Train.

DENVER, Oct. 11.—Soon after midnight a bold attempt was made 7 miles south of Denver to wreck an east bound Santa Fe passenger train for the purpose of robbery, it is believed. Spikes were pulled from rails, the engine, baggage car, coach, chair car and sleeper ran off on the ties. The damage was trifling and no one was hurt but the track will be blocked five hours.

The ground for the robbery theory is that a man called at South Denver early in the night and intimated that the train was to be wrecked and robbed. Orders were given for it to proceed slowly, but it was not supposed that the attempt would be made so near the city, and the train was running at a speed of 8 miles an hour. There is yet no clue to the miscreants.

ANOTHER "INDUSTRIAL" ARMY.

"Gen." Kelly May Start in the Spring on Another March.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 11.—It transpires that another industrial army is being formed in this city by Gen. Kelly, and if all goes well until next spring another army will commence a tedious march to the capitol.

The present headquarters of the army is a big tent on Eighth street, which is used as a meeting place in the day time, and as a place of rest at night by the overworked mortals and brakebeam tourists that comprise the latest addition to the great body of tramps that infest California during the winter.

The Cloakmakers' Strike.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—One thousand more cloakmakers stopped work yesterday to add to the number of those who have struck for better wages. Joseph Gardones received dispatches from Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Washington, Cleveland and Milwaukee that preparations were making in all those cities for a general strike in support of demands similar to those drawn up by the strikers here.

Another Suspect Arrested.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 11.—Oscar J. Kendall, proprietor of a dye works, was before the grand jury and the police now believe that he acted as agent for Stevens in the negotiations with Kelly for the murder of Sayers. This completes the list of suspects in the case.

Were Not Drowned.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 11.—The yacht Leone, with a party of prominent residents of San Pedro, off on a cruise, and which was presumed to be lost in the gale, since the spread of the rumored drowning, has been twice spoken and when last seen was pursuing her course to San Nicolas from Point Duma.

NOW A MULTI-MILLIONAIRE.

A Mississippi Youth Returns Home After Many Years' Absence.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 11.—H. C. Moore, formerly of Corinth, Miss., has just reached here from Egypt. Eight years ago he left Mississippi a penniless and inexperienced youth, possessing nothing but grit and love of adventure. He returns a multi-millionaire. He has made three trips entirely around the continent since leaving his native state, and finally settled in South Africa.

He drove a trade with an African king for two tracts of mineral land 70 square miles each at a nominal price. Last spring he sold one of them to the British South African Mining company for $1,000,000 cash. He has just sold the other to an English syndicate for $1,350,000 and is en route to England to close the deal. He will take two of his Alabama nieces, Misses Coffee and Moore, with him. He gave them $50,000 each as a present today.

NOW HE WANTS A DIVORCE.

Suit Begun Against One of Teed's Colony in Chicago.

ALAMEDA, Cal., Oct. 11.—Frederick A. Castle has instituted proceedings for divorce from his wife, Ella M. Castle. The pair visited the World's fair at Chicago last year with their 4-year-old boy. There Mrs. Castle and the boy disappeared. Subsequently the husband received a message from her stating that she had joined the Koreshan colony of Teed, whose members swear to lead lives of celibacy.

Five years ago she was Ella M. O'Brien, a popular school teacher, and owing to gossip, was asked by the school board for an explanation of her relations with Castle. Then she produced a marriage certificate, dated several months previous, but her resignation was demanded. The same attorney who drew up the marriage contract prepared the divorce complaint.

ARRESTED FOR ARSON.

MASSILLON, Ohio, Oct. 11.—The entire Preimer family, at Dalton, has been rearrested, new evidence having been discovered. Their examination will take place today. The members of the family are charged with conspiracy to burn the town.

Great excitement prevails. Dalton was recently nearly wiped out of existence by a fire, supposed to have been of incendiary origin. The Preimers were suspected and arrested some time ago, but owing to lack of sufficient evidence were discharged.

CONFESSED TWELVE MURDERS.

The Mystery of a Murder in Michigan Now Cleared Up.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Oct. 11.—The mystery of the murder of Gus Genesemer, on the railroad northwest of this city, was cleared up yesterday when George Taylor, the man's chum, cut his throat and died in jail.

Taylor left letters in which he confessed to twelve murders, but as he was but 22 years of age this is believed to be imagination. He wrote that he had a partner in the Genesemer murder and was glad they did not catch him.

HOWDYISM BY STUDENTS.

A House Was Bombarded and Was Almost Demolished.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A row among the high university students culminated last night in the bombardment of a house, which was almost demolished. A fight occurred between the sophomores and freshmen classes, all on account of a photograph. It is customary for the freshmen class to have a group photograph taken during the first week in college, and last night was the limit set by the sophomores on the time.

Last week a Philadelphia photographer was here and secured a sitting of the hundred or so freshmen. The sophomores, by a bit of trickery, had the plates smashed. The hopes of the freshmen were not so easily shattered. They got a photographer and had his camera smuggled into a house opposite the college campus. They patrolled the place but the sophomores discovered the trick. At once they planned an attack.

Armed with stones and stout sticks, the sophomores made a dash for the house, their object being to destroy all the plates the photographer might have and prevent him from taking a picture. Doors were broken open, windows shattered and then the sophomores poured in.

They made a rush for the photographer, hustled him out of doors and while some of them broke the plates, others ruined the camera. Meantime large numbers of freshmen collected, and a rush of the two classes occurred. The police arrested two students, and then all pitched upon the officers and released the prisoners.

STABBED BY A WOMAN.

A British Columbia Broker Dying From a Knife Wound Inflicted by a Dissolute Woman.

They Were Living Together and He Wanted to Separate and Lead a Different Life.

When He Refused to Call on Her Again She Stabbed Him Below the Heart.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 11.—Fred K. Turner, a member of one of the leading families of New Westminster, is dying from a knife wound inflicted on him by Gracie Irwin, a dissolute woman. Turner was a fast bicyclist and a crack rifle shot and went to Wimbledon with the Canadian teams. Some time ago he entered into a brokerage partnership and his partner prevailed on him to lead a different life. Turner told the woman that they must separate. She called at his office and asked him to call on her, but before doing so she called at a hardware store and purchased a hunting knife. He said he would not go. She then asked him to give her money to leave the city. Turner said: "Here is $10 as earnest of good faith. Call tomorrow and I will give you more."

She took the money and again asked him to call on her. He refused again. "Then — — you," she said, "take it here," and she stabbed him below the heart and drew the knife downward, inflicting a mortal wound. She left the knife in the wound. Turner saw her to the door and called in a jeweler next door, to whom he told the story and then fainted. He has not since been conscious, and the doctors have no hope of his recovery. His mother is dying from the shock.

The woman was shortly afterwards arrested. She is 26 years old, a handsome brunette and is said to have come here from San Francisco about five years ago. She worked in a real estate office here as a typewriter, then went to New Westminster. About a year ago she became acquainted with Turner. They lived in a house which he furnished.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—From information gathered in this city it appears that Gracie Irwin, or Bowman, which is the woman's right name, was a Canadian girl. She was born in London, Ont., and raised in Puyallup, Wash.

YALE AND PRINCETON.

The Date of the Football Match Is Still in Doubt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The date of the Yale-Princeton football match is still in as much doubt as ever. Representatives of the two colleges met at the Murray Hill hotel last evening to decide upon the date, grounds, referee and linesman.

After a session lasting nearly three hours they succeeded in settling one question—that of lineman, and ex-Capt. Ordway, of Lehigh, was chosen to act in that capacity. Regarding the date, the managers are no nearer a decision than after their meeting a week ago.

The Yale representatives refuse to meet the Tigers on Thanksgiving day, giving as a reason that they cannot endanger their chances of victory by playing so soon after the Harvard game. Wednesday, Dec. 5, was suggested, but as Princeton's faculty refuses to allow the game to be held on a Wednesday, that date was given up and Saturday, Dec. 1 proposed. The Yale men would give no definite answer to this proposition.

It is understood that the managers of Ambrose Park, Brooklyn, have made a favorable offer and the selection of grounds will not be determined until other field owners have been heard from. Capt. Hinkey, President Cable and ex-Manager Holter represented Yale, and Capt. Trenchard and President Munn appeared for the Tigers.

WOUNDED BY A FOOTPAD.

A Nevada Town Said to Be Full of Desperate Characters.

RENO, Nev., Oct. 11.—Lee Hawcraft, a young man 26 years old, was shot and fatally wounded by a footpad early last evening. He was waylaid by a man with a handkerchief over his face, who demanded his money.

When Hawcraft said he had no money the man pulled a pistol and Hawcraft grappled with him. The robber shot him through the breast and escaped. The town is full of desperate characters and half an hour before this occurred two ladies were attacked at the depot.

Two Hundred Perished.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A special dispatch from St. Pierre, Miquelon, says a terrible northeast gale raged there last night and this morning. Several ships are missing and are believed to have foundered with 200 lives.

Mercurial Poison

Is the result of the usual treatment of blood disorders. The system is filled with Mercury and Potash remedies—more to be dreaded than the disease—and in a short while is in a far worse condition than before. The most common result is Rheumatism for which S. S. S. is the most reliable cure. A few bottles will afford relief where all else has failed.

I suffered from a severe attack of Mercurial Rheumatism, my arms and legs being swollen to more than twice their natural size, causing the most excruciating pains. I spent hundreds of dollars without relief, but after taking a few bottles of S.S.S. I improved rapidly, and am now as well man, completely cured. I can heartily recommend your wonderful medicine to anyone afflicted with this painful disease.

Wickwire, mortgagee, bearing date the sixth day of June, A. D. 1891, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the seventh day of June, A. D. 1891, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 80 of mortgages, on page 531; which mortgage contained a provision that if any default be made by the mortgagor in any of the provisions of said mortgage, it shall be lawful for the mortgagee to declare the whole principal sum and interest secured by the mortgage to be at once due and payable; and whereas default has been made in the payment of three monthly installments, one by the terms of a bond secured by said mortgage on the first day of July, 1894, the first day of August, 1894, and the first day of September, 1894, respectively, by reason whereof the said mortgagee has elected to declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, to be due and payable, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lot numbered four (4), in block numbered nine (9), in the Fifth Division of Duluth Heights, according to the recorded plat thereof on file of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of St. Louis, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty ($50) dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the fifth day of November, A. D. 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Gray, his wife, mortgagors, to The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, a body politic and corporate by the laws of New Jersey, of Newark, N. J., mortgagee, bearing date the first (1st) day of January, A. D. 1890, and which was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the eighteenth (18th) day of January, A. And whereas default was made in the payment of the semi-annual installment of interest upon said note and mortgage, due July 1, 1894, amounting to the sum of five hundred eighty-five (585 00) dollars, the payment of which was secured by said mortgage, by reason whereof the said mortgagee has elected to exercise said option, to it given by the terms of said mortgage, and has heretofore duly declared, and does hereby declare, the whole principal sum secured by said note and mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, to be now due and payable;

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of eighteen thousand eight hundred seventy-two and 30-100 ($18,872 30) dollars, principal, interest and exchange, and two hundred dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof;

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

WEST DULUTH ITEMS.

A. J. Filiatrault's French Tom Beaten Yesterday Afternoon by O. J. Simonds' Buckskin in a Sharp Contest.

Forfeit Posted For Another Race at the Driving Park to Come Off Within Two Weeks.

West Duluth Citizen Thinks the Park Commissioners Ought to Pay Some Attention to That Suburb.

The race between O. J. Simonds' Buckskin Bill and A. J. Filiatrault's French Tom came off according to program yesterday afternoon before quite a crowd of spectators. The first heat was won by Buckskin, the second by Tom and the last by Buckskin. The race should have come off on Grand avenue, between Central and the Missabe tracks as this thoroughfare between the points named has been set apart for fast driving. The boys were not acquainted with this fact, however, so a different track was chosen. The next one will probably come off on the place assigned by the council.

Lieut. Briggs is something of a humorist and when someone asked him why he did not arrest the participants for fast driving he jocularly remarked that from what he saw of the race he did not consider that it came under the term of fast driving.

After the race a forfeit was put up for another to be paced at the Duluth Driving Park two weeks from next Saturday.

Deserve Some Attention.

"I wonder if the park commissioners know that there is such a place as West Duluth?" remarked a prominent citizen this morning as he read of the decision of that body in reference to the beautifying of the parks and roadways at the East End of the city. "Inasmuch as West Duluth has assumed its share of the payment of the park bonds, it would seem to be pertinent that the commissioners do something in their line of business for the western suburb. If it was no more than extending the boulevard through its limits, it would show that that body has not entirely overlooked us in their aim to beautify the city."

WHEAT DULL AND LOWER.

Business Was Light and Nearly all Confined to the Futures.

Wheat was quiet today and easier. Cables were colorless but seemed inclined to weakness, and domestic markets were generally lower, while trade was light and narrow. Holders seemed disheartened and intimidated rather freely, while there was also generous short selling. The market here opened weak at ⅛c decline at 55⅝c for December and 60¾c for May. Business ruled dull with most of the transactions in the May future. The demand for spot stuff has fallen off. The elevators and shippers took a little, but the mills were not in the market. The market ruled steady to noon and then eased off on bearish news about the Argentine crop, May selling down to 59¾c. The close was ⅛c lower than yesterday except for December which was ¼c lower. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard cash 58c, October, 58c. No. 1 northern cash, 56¼c; October, 56¼c; December, 56¼c; May, 59¾c. No. 2 northern cash, 53¾c. No. 3, 51c. Rejected, 47½c. To arrive—No. 1 northern, 56¼c Rye, 45c. Flax, $1.45½; No. 2 oats, 32c. No. 3 oats, 31½c. Barley, 45@51c.

Gossip.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, Room 107, Chamber of Commerce.

Liquidation of long wheat by holders, who were disappointed in the government report, caused a weak and lower market today. The shorts that covered yesterday, expecting to put their line out at a better figure, were glad to do so at a loss today, thus materially helping the decline. Cables reported foreign markets lower with no demand at the decline. Receipts were heavy. Clearances from the four principal Atlantic ports only amounted to 190,000 bus. We look for a gradual declining market with an occasional rally. We think 50c will be a high price for December this winter.

Notwithstanding a very bullish government report corn was very weak. The condition given by the government would indicate a crop of only 1,167,000,000 bus. This is the smallest yield in ten years, and following as it does the small crops of 1892 and 1893, should have had a more bullish influence. Provisions strong.

McKINLEY IN MICHIGAN.

He Will Address a Meeting at Detroit This Evening.

ADRIAN, Mich., Oct. 11.—For the first time in a week Governor McKinley today was permitted to enjoy his breakfast without interruption. The custom has been to make a speech between each half dozen bites, and the strange experience of today was doubly pleasant.

It was about 7 o'clock when the special train stopped at Wabash depot. A. W. Smith, chairman of the Republican state executive committee of Michigan, accompanied the governor from Springfield. The train stood at the depot until 9 o'clock, when a line of men headed by a band marched down the road and then marched back again with Governor McKinley in their midst.

The speaking was at the fair ground, the audience numbering 3000 or 4000. There will be a meeting at Jackson this afternoon and at Detroit this evening.

Wreck in Oregon.

THE DALLES, Ore., Oct. 11.—The west bound Oregon Railway & Navigation passenger train was wrecked 4 miles east of here today. Fireman Crofton was seriously injured, while the engineer was severely scalded. A tramp riding on a mail car had his shoulder broken. The engine is a complete wreck.

Two Spies Beheaded.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11.—It is reported here that the two Japanese spies arrested in this city have been taken from the Yamen to Nankin, wearing only trousers, bound hand and foot and were carried to the place of execution, where they were beheaded. There were signs of torture upon the prisoners.

The Czar's Movements.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 11.—It is stated here that the czar and his family on Tuesday drove to the waterfall of Schan, near Yoaltan.

Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway companies, which were to have been held today were postponed until some time next week, waiting the return of President J. J. Hill, who is now in New York.

THE ST. PAUL & DULUTH.

Ex-Governor Merriam Chosen a Director at Today's Annual Meeting.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the St. Paul & Duluth railroad was held today. R. Somers Hayes and Thomas Denny were re-elected directors and ex-Governor W. R. Merriam was elected to fill E. W. Peet's place, the latter having refused re-election. The other directors are C. S. Day, A. H. Stevens, R. B. Dodson, John L. Riker, New York; James Smith, Jr., and A. B. Plough, St. Paul.

A majority of the stock was represented. The annual report showed gross earnings, $1,513,393 61; operating expenses, $1,040,527.03; surplus earnings, $463,-866.58. This is a decrease in surplus earnings of $591,881.20, the decrease being due to the general business depression. Greater economy, however, greatly reduced the loss in net earnings, the decrease being only $213,609.82.

A supplement report is devoted to the Hinckley fire, the loss by which cannot yet be accurately estimated, but is mostly covered by insurance. Special mention of the train crew of the limited train is made. The net income of the road from land and stumpage sales is $114,-856.03.

Noted Ejectment Suit.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Oct. 11.—In pursuance of an adjournment, the ejectment suit of Bishop John Shanley vs. the ex-Priest Joseph G. Perrault, which was commenced last week before Justice Millard, was resumed yesterday and attracted quite a large number of Catholic priests from other parts of the state. The matter before the court was the joining of issues, and the case was certified to the district court.

Suicide at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 11.—John Sliker, employed as groom by F. W. Millett, horse breeder, shot himself last night. His parents reside near Grand Meadow. He left a note saying his action might serve as a warning, but of what is not known. He was 25 years old, of good habits and a member of the Baptist church.

Indicted for Manslaughter.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—The grand jury has found indictment for manslaughter in the second degree against Charles C. Leonard for the killing of Luth, the engineer of the Northern Pacific road, who was killed during the strike troubles here. Leonard will be arraigned Saturday.

The Sugar Bounty.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The sugar bounty mandamus suit against the secretary of the treasury brought by the Miles Milling company of Louisiana, will probably be decided by Justice McComas next Saturday.

MATCH MADE AT LAST.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons Will Fight in Florida Next Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Corbett and Fitzsimmons were matched this morning to fight to a finish at the Florida Athletic club, Jacksonville, for a purse of $41,000 and $10,000 a side, any time after July 1, 1895. It will probably take place in the fall of next year, and the date is left to the choice of the club.

Fitzsimmons and Capt. Glori, his manager, with a company of enthusiastic partisans from Philadelphia and Newark, were first to reach the rendezvous today. Soon W. A. Brady, Corbett's manager appeared but Corbett was slow in putting in an appearance. When he did arrive he walked immediately over to the table at which "Fitz" was sitting and, after removing his overcoat, said:

"Well, Fitz, I am here to make a match."

"That is what I am here for," replied Fitzsimmons, defiantly. Then turning to his manager, Capt. Glori, he introduced him to Corbett and said: "My manager will be my spokesman on this occasion."

Capt. Glori sat down at a table, facing Corbett, and Fitzsimmons stood between them. The first words Corbett said were: "Where is your money?"

Glori replied: "Here is $1000 to bind a match."

Corbett immediately pulled out a roll of ten $1000 bills and placing them on the table said: "You people have been talking about $10,000 a side. There is my money. Cover it."

"But, Mr. Corbett, you don't expect us to put up $10,000 right away," said Glori. "You are rich but we are not."

Corbett smiled sarcastically and said: "Where is that $10,000 you have been talking so much about? There is no use in your playing that poverty gag, it is too stale."

Word followed word, and a small cyclone was evidently brewing, but it passed away again as Corbett finally said: "Well, here, I'll put up my $10,000 now, and you can put up yours when you like." Corbett added: "I will fight Fitzsimmons any time after July 1 of next year, and not before. I am making money on the road and will not cancel any of my engagements on any account."

"We think," said Glori, "that you should fight within six months and defend the championship twice a year."

"You do, do you," said Corbett with evident surprise, and then shaking his head slowly, he said: "You are a very much mistaken, and what is more I hold the championship and I have a right to dictate my terms. It is only a waste of words and time to talk of a fight before July, and as for the side bet it don't cut any figure as far as I am concerned."

Fitzsimmons and his manager finally consented to have the fight come off after July 1. The articles will be similar to those signed by Corbett and Sullivan in 1892. As soon as this arrangement was made the question of a purse was considered. There were three men in the room ready to make offers, viz: Capt. Williams, of the Auditorium, New Orleans; P. R. Scholl, of the Olympic club of the same city, and Joe Vendig, of the Florida Athletic club, "Now, gentlemen," said Corbett, "we have agreed to fight, and we want to know who will offer the largest purse." After some bidding, Scholl raised his bid to $40,000 and Vendig went $1000 better and Corbett said he would sign for Jacksonville. Fitzsimmons made objection for a while, but finally consented. The club will allow $1000 to each man for training expenses, and each will train for three months prior to the fight.

WENT BACK TO WORK.

Operatives in Five New Bedford Mills Resumed Work.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 11.—The operatives in five corporations went back to work this morning being on a strike seven and a half weeks.

In the Acushnet and Hathaway mills, which are under one management, the weavers refused to go in, but many of them sought work in other mills. The mills which started up were the Potomska, Wamsutta, Bristol, Grinnell and Pierce mills.

The weavers in the Wamsutta mill No. 7 left the mill on finding they were required to run five looms instead of four. They held a meeting and voted to strike.

FATALLY SHOT HIMSELF.

One of the Indicted School Inspectors of Detroit Suicides.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.—Julius Lichtenberg, one of the school inspectors under indictment for receiving a bribe, probably fatally shot himself this morning. His case was to commence in the recorder's office today.

William C. Liphart, the first of the alleged boodlers to be tried, was convicted yesterday.

Returned With Thanks.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—The Freeman's Journal says that the subscriptions of Englishmen to the Irish parliamentary fund have been returned with a letter of explanation and thanks. It is added, however, that Mr. Gladstone's check for £100, concerning which there has been so much controversy, has been accepted, "because he is no longer a minister and because he is Gladstone."

An Interesting Experiment.

PARIS, Oct 11.—The Gaulois announces that M. Hanatux, the minister of foreign affairs has decided upon an interesting experiment. He has instructed the French consul at Chicago, F. E. Bruwaert, not to send his usual consular report, but to return to France and to make a brief stay in the chief ports of this country, beginning with Bordeaux, in order to acquaint French merchants and manufacturers, verbally, with the present condition of trade in the United States.

Deserted at Sea.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 11.—The British steamer Barbardian reports that she passed the derelict Norwegian bark Ethiopian, Capt. Evansen, from Quebec, for Cork. The bark's bulwarks were partly gone, her main hatches were off and her lower topsail was set. There was no one on board.

Murder at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 11.—The body of William Collins, aged 45 years, was discovered this morning standing upright on the bottom of the Ohio river with his head a few inches below the surface of the water. Terrible cuts on his head showed that he had been murdered before his body had been thrown into the river.

MAYOR GILROY CONFIDENT.

Feels Sure Tammany's Municipal Ticket Will Be Elected.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Mayor Gilroy expressed great confidence today that the municipal ticked nominated by Tammany last night will be elected.

"The issue," said the mayor, "is now clearly presented. It is a Democrat against a Republican for mayor, and there can be no clouding of that issue. I do not believe that 35,000 or 40,000 Democrats in this city are going to vote for a Republican for mayor and it will take a change of that many votes to elect Col. Strong. Democrats in large numbers are already leaving the factions that have allied themselves with the Republicans in this fight.

"The test of Democracy is voting the Democratic ticket. When the Grace faction endorsed a Republican candidate for mayor, they ceased to have any standing as Democrats. In future that faction will have no claim to recognition anywhere as a Democratic organization."

Tammany will name its candidates for congress from the city districts. These will be chosen probably: Franklin Bartlett; Amos J. Cummings, H. C. Miner, William Sulzer, George B. McClellan, John Connelly and Jacob McIntyre.

A Critical Situation.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon from Johannesburg says that the situation of the Portuguese at Lourenzo Marquez is most critical and that their difficulties are increasing. According to this dispatch, 3000 Kaffirs are now threatening the town.

Two Burned to Death.

FORT RECOVERY, Ohio, Oct. 11.—While threshing grain in a barn 6 miles east of here yesterday, a spark set fire to the straw and the barn quickly became a roaring mass of flames. William Greer and Ellsworth McAfee perished in the flames. Nathan Greer was severely burned and may die.

Stole Postage Stamps.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—William B. Smith, of New Jersey, a laborer employed in the bureau of engraving and printing, was arrested today charged with stealing 50,000 2-cent postage stamps from the government. It is believed other employes are implicated.

The Chinese Fleet.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11.—It is now announced that the repairs to the Chinese fleet at Port Arthur will not be completed for at least a week or ten days. A rumor reaches here that another outrage upon a missionary has been committed at New Chwang.

Largest on Record.

CHICAGO, Oct 11.—The largest score ever made by an army cavalryman was made at the Fort Sheridan U. S. A. shoot today by Sergt. Charles Kersten, of D troop, First cavalry. He made forty-seven points out of a possible fifty at 500 yards range.

Russell Sage Escapes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The action of Delia Keegan to recover $100,000 from Russell Sage for breach of promise and seduction was dismissed today, as the action was barred by the statute of limitations.

Chinese Driven Back.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 11.—The Japanese have occupied the south bank of the Yalu river after driving back the Chinese.

Closed Its Doors.

KEARNEY, Neb., Oct. 11.—The First National bank closed its doors this afternoon. There is no special excitement and the other banks are not affected.

Progress of Co-operation.

Co-operation has been tried long enough to allow the accumulation of valuable statistics. The day is past when it can be called an economic theory, an attractive idea, without a demonstration in the marts of commerce of its feasibility.

It may be that every line of business cannot be run on the co-operative plan, although it would appear as though most everything in the line of trade and manufactures had secured its trial day. Some attempts are failures. Still it would be unfair to condemn the principle of co-operation on this account. The failures among our ordinary business pursuits mount into the thousands. Letting out of consideration the fact that men who have engaged in co-operation were largely unacquainted with the field and had few patterns from which to copy, it would still be an unfair basis of comparison to set the percentages of co-operative failures against the percentages of business failures. There is a business prejudice to be overcome in this case, and men are slow to change their customs.

The growth of co-operation in England has been wonderful. Fifty years ago the theory had 28 advocates, but the army has now increased to 1,240,013, or one-seventh of the adult population of the kingdom. Two hundred and fifty-five million dollars would not overestimate the value of the annual trade.

What is co-operation if it is not self help? It has the means in itself of conferring vast benefits through the moral influence exerted. Observers attest to its formative effect in the direction of independence.—Omaha World-Herald.

Labor Condition of English Spinners.

Robert Howard of the Fall River Mule Spinners' association, who has returned from England, where he attended the International Textile Workers' convention, says:

"There is no doubt that the English spinner is better off and happier in his surroundings than the American spinner. The one great drawback there is the number of people out of work. They have more amusement and enjoy themselves far better than the workers on this side, and they can live far more cheaply. Nevertheless the manufacturers are better off and make more money. In the mill in which I worked myself while I was over there the thirty-ninth quarterly dividend was declared at the rate of 10 per cent. That was in Stockport."

Mr. Towne's Election Assured.

The splendid reception given to Hon. C. A. Towne at St. Cloud last evening shows that the Republicans of Stearns county will give a good account of themselves at the polls on Nov. 6. The enthusiasm which was displayed indicated very clearly that Maj. Baldwin will find that the normal Democratic plurality in Stearns county will be cut down considerably, and that Mr. Towne will receive the largest vote ever cast in that county for a Republican candidate for congress. The large meeting last night and the fine impression which Mr. Towne's able and convincing speech created will add greatly to the number of his supporters there. Many Democrats in Stearns county are disgusted with the major's course in regard to local appointments and they will decline to vote for him again, while Mr. Halvorsen will poll many votes that are usually cast for the Democratic candidate.

The ovations which Mr. Towne received all along the line on the journey to St. Cloud were remarkable manifestations of the enthusiasm which his candidacy has created throughout the district. Nothing like it was ever seen before in the Sixth district. At Aitkin, at Brainerd and at Little Falls hundreds of people turned out to greet the next congressman and the hearty cheers with which they received him showed very plainly that they are anxious to rectify the mistake made two years ago and to replace Maj. Baldwin in congress by a Republican who will fully and correctly represent the important and varied interests of the Sixth district.

In an interview at St. Paul yesterday Hon. J. C. Flynn, of Little Falls, said that Mr. Towne is making a fine campaign, and there is no doubt of his ability to sweep the Sixth district. Hon. R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for state auditor, who had just arrived from Duluth, told a St. Paul reporter that he found the Duluth Republicans right in line for Mr. Towne, and that predictions are made everywhere that he will come out of St. Louis county with 5000 plurality. This is the judgment of an outsider who had been investigating the situation in St. Louis county for several days, and it confirms the opinions expressed by The Herald several weeks ago.

Mr. Towne's plurality in this county will reach into the thousands and will ensure his election, even if he does not poll more votes than did the Republican candidate two years ago in the rest of the district. The reception accorded him in the other counties, however, indicates that he will make large gains everywhere and that his plurality in the district will exceed all the expectations which his friends have hitherto entertained.

The Water Question.

The date for the election on the question of purchasing the gas and water company's plant is drawing near. So far the public sentiment seems to be very strongly in favor of purchasing the plant and thus placing the city in a position to extend the water service to many portions of the city that are not supplied at present. While there are many who believe that the price asked for the plant is more than it is actually worth, they at the same time will vote to purchase it, for the reason that it will be the cheapest way out of the situation in which the city is placed. To delay purchasing it would mean that a higher price would be asked at a later date, and its purchase is absolutely necessary to the plan of having a complete water service owned and managed by the city.

To build an independent plant would mean heavy expense for construction, large annual loss on the portions of the new system paralleling the company's system, and a long delay in extending the benefits of the service to those sections of the city that need it most. It the city purchases the plant the work of extension can be begun at once. This will give water service where it is needed without much delay and will furnish employment to hundreds of men.

This is the view of the question taken by the majority of the citizens who have discussed it, and there are apparently few who entertain a contrary opinion.

Hard Times in France.

That the American workingman has not been the only sufferer from hard times is made apparent by a report to the state department from Stephen H. Angell, United States commercial agent at Roubaid, France. He said that the figures of the central labor bureau at Paris show that the labor situation throughout France on Aug. 15 last appeared to be that large numbers of workmen and laborers were without employment, only a small portion of those who have for some time been in enforced idleness having resumed their occupations.

From 645 labor unions, with a membership of 129,235 reporting to the central office, it appeared that 14.1 per cent of the laborers were without work. Of these unions fifty-three report the situation as worse than last year. In the agricultural districts, 67 per cent of the laborers were without employment, and in the wine districts of Cher and Herault this per centage was increased to 75 and 80 per cent respectively, this resulting from the low price of wine. The report gives in detail the per centage of the unemployed in every trade and makes a most startling showing of the extent of industrial depression in France.

Argentine Wheat.

United States Consul Baker at Buenos Ayres has been trying to collect some reliable data touching the wheat crop of the Argentine Republic, one of the great competitors of the United States in the world's markets, but, as he reports to the state department, in the absence of any governmental bureau of statistics, he has met with great difficulty.

The estimates of the area in wheat this year vary from 7,436,250 acres, which is an increase of 50 per cent, over last year's acreage to 5,453,250 acres, which is but a 10 per cent increase. The wheat looks well. The shipments for the first six months of this year were: Wheat 1,029,546 tons, and flour 20,628 tons greater than the entire shipments of any preceding year, and heavy shipments are still being made. No one can tell how much wheat remains in the country.

The News Tribune's tirade against The Herald has developed alarming symptoms. "Greater than the Borden mystery" is the mystery of the actual meaning sought to be conveyed by its discussion of the occult this morning. A careful reading leaves the doubt whether the writer is densely ignorant of his subject, is making a strained effort to be humorous, or is suffering from an attack of paresis.

The Southern provinces of Norway will vote tomorrow for members of the storthing, and the great struggle will be ended. Great interest has been taken in the election and it is said that at Trondhjem there were only fifty absentees among 3000 electors, and in many districts in the country not a single elector failed to vote. The Radicals will probably be victorious.

Tammany has put an exceedingly strong municipal ticket in New York. Nathan Strauss, the candidate for mayor, is one of the most prominent and most highly esteemed business men of the city. He is also well known as a philanthropist, his charities having been of the most munificent and practical character. He would make a splendid mayor.

Mr. Donnelly has been re-nominated by the Populists for senator from Dakota county and will probably be elected again. He intends to be on hand to look after his own interests in connection with the United States senatorship, but a Republican majority in the legislature may spoil his plans.

According to advices today, Prince Bismarck has had a relapse. The "iron chancellor" is evidently very close to the end of his life. His death will remove one of the greatest men of the age.

A New York company is getting out a new telephone which will be furnished to subscribers at $2 a month. This is a cheap rate, but it remains to be demonstrated whether the service will be as good as that furnished by the Bell company.

Judge Willis said he did not tell the Populists to nominate him. Perhaps he did not, but he made a horrible spectacle of a district judge buttonholing delegates like a ward politician.

Bradstreet's commercial reports show that 80 per cent of firms that fail are those that do not advertise.

Fall Time.

Fall time in Georgia
Comes but once a year;
Ketch the 'possum by the tail,
Or ketch him by the ear!

But ketch him!
O ketch him!
An' crost the griddle stretch him!
Be certain that you fetch him,
For it's only once a year!

Fall time in Georgia—
Speakers on the stump!
Ketch the rabbit by the tail,
Or ketch him on the jump!

But ketch him!
O ketch him,
An' skin him quick, an' stretch him!
Be certain that you fetch him,
For it's only once a year!

Fall time in Georgia—
Hear the partridge call!
When the hound dogs bay the buck,
Just ketch him—horns an' all!;

But ketch him!
O ketch him!
An' on the hickory stretch him!
Be certain that you fetch him—

What He Does Not Explain.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Baldwin has been in congress two years and has utterly failed to secure any of the things he is so anxious about. He doesn't explain why he promised dozens and dozens of Democrats in Stearns county an office, and then recommended the other fellow. He doesn't explain why he voted against every interest of the district at the dictation of Grover Cleveland. He doesn't explain why he voted to increase the tariff on fifty-six articles over the McKinley bill. He doesn't explain why he voted to put a tax on sugar, which the McKinley bill had on the free list. In fact he doesn't explain any of the things the people of this county want to know.

The Anti-Democratic Wave.

New York Sun (Dem.): The anti-Democratic, anti-administration wave of public sentiment that started in Rhode Island last April, has reached Georgia. It has swept over every state in which the citizens have had a chance to get at the ballot box, with results hereinafter noted. * * * What does it all mean? It means that the drift is all one way. It means that the people of the United States are getting their first opportunity to record their verdict of good or bad on the second administration of Grover Cleveland. It means that bad is having it by a large majority.

A Thorn.

Among life's thorns, alas, we find
In all too frequent growth,
The girl who neither sings nor plays
And thinks she does them both.

Jim Root's Harvest.

Minneapolis Penny Press: Engineer Root's bravery was not acknowledged at home by any substantial expression on the part of the public, but it seems that he is going to reap a rich harvest in the end. Five hundred dollars a week are not to wiuk at in these days.

Clothed With Power.

Town Topics: The ambassador from a distant court was deeply interested. "I am told," he exclaimed, "that your majesty is clothed with great power." The queen smiled. "You would think so," she answered without constraint, "if you could see those six big maids of honor lacing my stays."

Danger.

Chicago Tribune: "You mustn't come too close to the baby belephant, sir," said the keeper to Algernon Fitz Noodle, who was sucking the head of his cane and leaning agaiust the rope. "It's a-cuttin' of a tush, sir, and will chaw 'most anythink soft it can get hold of."

Has Reached Madagascar.

PORT LOUIS, Island of Mauritius, Oct. 11.—Le Myre Le Velers, the French special envoy who is the bearer of the ultimatum of France to the government of Madagascar, arrived at Tamatative, Madagascar, on Tuesday last. The French envoy proceeded from Tamatative to Antanarivo, the capital of the island.

Don't Offer a Reward

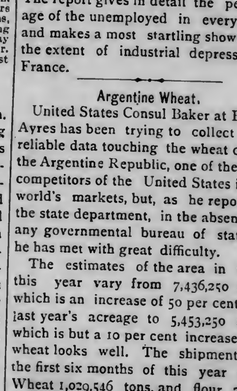

For your lost appetite. All know that it is a valuable piece of personal property, but why go to the expense when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will restore it to you. A course of that unparalleled tonic and corrective not only induces a return of the relish for food, but confers upon the stomach the power to gratify appetite without unpleasant sensations afterward. For the purpose of quickening digestion, arousing a dormant liver or kidneys, and establishing regularity of the bowels, no medicine can exceed this genial family cordial, in which the pure alcoholic principle is modified by blending with it botanic elements of the highest efficacy. Avoid the fiery unalloyed stimulants of commerce as a means of overcoming inactivity of any of the organs above mentioned, and use, instead, the Bitters. This professionally sanctioned medicine remedies malarial and rheumatic ailments.

"THE CREATION."

Fine Production Last Evening at the Temple of Haydn's Great Oratorio.

The Temple was filled last evening and "The Creation" was well received by the large audience. An oratorio is by no means easy to present. It is almost too classical for the average audience and that it was so highly appreciated speaks well for the musical taste of Duluth people.

Taken as a whole it was admirably produced. The chorus work was weak in some places, being especially lacking in life and vigor, but the defects were not such as to mar the production. The music is unusually difficult and that it was so well rendered reflects great credit on the chorus. The orchestra under Prof. Tonning was excellent and added to the finish of the performance.

The solo work was the feature. Greatest interest centered in the appearance of J. Armour Galloway, the Chicago basso, who was engaged to sing the parts of Raphael and Adam. He has a fine bass voice of splendid range. It is thoroughly schooled, and has great flexibility. All of the passages which fell to Mr. Galloway were artistically sung. Especially excellent was the air after Raphael's third recitative. For this the singer received a fine burst of applause and was compelled to repeat it.

Not less pleasing was Mark C. Baker's singing of the part of Uriel. He is nothing if not artistic and brought out the beauties of the tenor role completely. He was rewarded with frequent applause.

Miss Bessie Hunter sang Gabriel's recitative and air, "With Verdure Clad," to which her sweet and sympathetic voice is admirably adapted. She was warmly applauded. Mrs. Dorwin-Aspinwall's brilliant soprano was heard in two trios with Mr. Baker and Mr. Galloway. Her voice is strong, rich and full and under thorough control. Mme. Augusta Obrstrom-Renard was received with applause when she appeared, in recognition of her hard labor in preparing the production. She sang the first air and chorus of Gabriel and the part of Eve and was warmly applauded.

This afternoon a matinee performance is being given at the Temple, Manager Condon having kindly donated the use of the theater.

ROUSING MEETING HELD.

Republican Club Addressed by Several Speakers Last Evening.

Notwithstanding the fact that a good many members of the Republican club went to St. Cloud yesterday, there were enough left for a rousing meeting at headquarters last night. W. A. Cant spoke of the attitudes of the two old parties in the campaign, and said that the arguments of the Populists are based upon misstatements. Judge Himebaugh also scored the Populists, whom he said were not strong enough to make any change in the old parties.

Ellsworth Benham told the history of the two great parties and showed from a Republican standpoint that the Republican party is the only one that has shown itself qualified to run affairs of state.

Before the speakers were introduced a message signed by the president of the club was sent to the meeting at St. Cloud, saying that the Republican club is for Towne and American protection.

A Grand Success.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom," given by the St. Clements' cadets at Normanna hall last night, was a success socially and financially. The large audience present was proof enough that the people of the West End fully appreciate the excellent manner in which the cadets render their entertainments. D. P. McDonald and Miss Rachael Knutson, as Joe Morgan and wife, were at their best, while the acting of Miss Louise Lyons, as the little child, won the hearts of everyone. E. Crowley, as the live Yankee, kept the audience in a constant roar of laughter. All the other members of the cast deserve special praise for the manner in which they took their parts. The musical program was also very good, especially the comic songs by Morris T. Beck.

The Bohemian Musicale.

The program for the Bohemian musicale tonight has been slightly changed since published before. It is now as follows:

Chorus, "Bohemian Song," arranged by C. H. Eldridge ..... The Bohemians
Tenor solo ..... Mr. Maynard

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

A COMPLETE TRIUMPH

C. A. Towne and the Duluth Republicans Took All St. Cloud By Storm Last Evening.

Welcoming Crowds at a Half Dozen Stations Along the Road on the Down Trip.

Immense Meeting at St. Cloud With Ringing Speeches by G. H. Holden, J. A. Boggs and C. A. Towne.

If there was any doubt in the minds of the Stearns county and particularly the St. Cloud Republicans as to the feeling of Duluth Republicans and citizens generally toward C. A. Towne, it was entirely dispelled when the crowd from this city landed there last evening. Everyone was enthusiastic and the demonstration surpassed the expectations of Mr. Towne's most sanguine friends.

The special train left here at 1:25 o'clock over the Northern Pacific and made good time. Exclusive of stops of 6 minutes at Carlton, 13 minutes at Aitkin and 21 minutes at Brainerd the distance of 180 miles was make in 4 hours and 25 minutes, about 40 miles an hour. Most of the distance was made at a better rate than that, one stretch of 62 miles being covered in seventy minutes.

Aboard the train was the Republican Marching club, the Glee club and the City band. The first stop was made at Carlton. Mr. Towne shook hands with the large crowd waiting there and spoke briefly.

At Aitkin a stop of thirteen minutes was made and Mr. Towne spoke from the platform to a large crowd waiting at the depot. Fully 300 people were there. The band played and there was large cheering.

Brainerd was reached about 4:30 p. m. The band of that city was in waiting to receive the party. The town was paraded and Mr. Towne spoke from the balcony of the Arlington hotel. Quite a number boarded the train and went to St. Cloud. Frank F. Davis, of Minneapolis, was booked to speak in Brainerd in the evening.

At Little Falls a crowd was on hand but no stop worth mentioning was made.

Arrival at St. Cloud.

At 6:40 o'clock East St. Cloud was reached. This is a part of the city of St. Cloud and lies on the east side of the river. The Union band of St. Cloud and a large crowd was there to receive the Duluth men and escorted them across the river to the Grand Central hotel. After supper there was a grand parade with fire works. The Duluth men, 150 strong, carried red, white and blue umbrellas and made a fine impression. The Union band and several hundred St. Cloud Republicans were in line while the streets were lined with people viewing the demonstration.

The place of meeting was the opera house. It proved to be inadequate to accommodate the immense crowd. Eight hundred people were packed into it and many were turned out.

Col. William Westerman, ex-receiver of the St. Cloud land office presided. The first speaker was Maj. G. H. Holden, of Duluth. He refuted the statement that the old soldiers had deserted Towne declaring that they were giving him their support believing him to be their sincere and earnest friend.

J. A. Boggs made a ringing speech, giving the lie to the statements that the Kinney supporters are not working for Mr. Towne. He said he was authorized to speak for Mr. Kinney, and declared that he and his friends were united in their support for Mr. Towne. All talk of dissension in the ranks is bosh. The Kinney men are true Republicans, open and above board.

When C. A. Towne was introduced there was a fine demonstration, to which he smilingly bowed his thanks. He spoke for two hours and was at his best. The enthusiasm was tremendous. He scored Maj. Baldwin in a way that must have made that gentleman's ears tingle had he heard it. The major, he said, is dodging the real issues of the campaign and is trying to gain support for what he has done for the deep waterway to the sea and for the opening of the Red Lake reservation. He declared that Republicans were responsible for Indian reservations, having first introduced measures to that effect.

The Republican Glee club sang campaign songs and made a great hit.

The train left at 11:45 on the return trip and arrived here at 6:30 this morning.

DID NOT SAY SO.

W. H. Tripp Corrects an Interview in a Minneapolis Paper Credited to Him.

W. H. Tripp is back from his Twin Cities journey and was shown a copy of a dispatch claiming that he had stated that C. A. Towne was too light a weight to represent the Duluth district and that Maj. Baldwin would be supported by the business men of the district irrespective of party. Mr. Tripp denied the statements and was quite indignant at the misrepresentation of his remarks. He said:

"I saw only two reporters while I was below. One of these was a Globe man and the other represented the Dispatch, but to neither of them did I mention Mr. Towne's name, neither did I say the business men, irrespective of party, would support Baldwin. I said that in my opinion the business interests of this district demanded Baldwin's return and that business men would support him. Mr. Towne is a warm personal friend of mine, and I know him too well to class him as a light weight in any connection, and if a Republican has to be elected, which I don't think will happen, I would rather see Charley Towne get there than any other man I know. I wish you would correct the misstatements for me."

Political Notes.

Tomorrow evening Maj. Baldwin and W. H. Tripp will speak at New Duluth. On Saturday night Maj. Baldwin and J. Adam Bede are to address the people of Tower.

J. Adam Bede and H. F. Greene are to speak at Two Harbors tomorrow evening.

A union labor meeting is announced for Friday evening at the Bethel. Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, of Red Wing, president of the State Suffrage association and superintendent of franchise for the W. C. T. U., will be present and will make an appeal to laboring men and their wives to support the women's candidate for county superintendent.

Last night there was a Democratic committee meeting at the headquarters followed by a meeting of all precinct committees. About 150 were present. Messrs. W. H. Tripp, H. J. Grannis and Oscar Mitchell spoke. The object was to enthuse the workers and get them to hustling.

Tonight the young Democrats are to meet and organize a club. The managers claim that all but a half dozen of the old club will join.

Hull Speaks Tonight.

Willard J. Hull, of New York, will speak at the Temple tonight in the interest of the People's party. Judge Stearns will preside at the meeting and will speak briefly in introducing Mr. Hull.

Mr. Hull arrived last evening from Minneapolis and was at the Populist headquarters. He spoke briefly on the question.

Tomorrow night he speaks at United States hall in the West End.

GOVERNOR NELSON CORRECTED.

The Appropriations of the Legislatures of 1891 and 1893 Compared.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Governor Nelson, while speaking in this part of the state, made certain statements in reference to the legislature of 1891 which contained a minority of Populists, which in common fairness and ordinary truthfulness need correction. He has charged that legislature with making large and unnecessary appropriations and has sought to compare it with that of 1893, and in making such statements he has conveyed a wholly erroneous impression. The official records show the following:

The actual appropriations made by the legislature of 1891 were as follows:

General expenses for 1892	720,896
General expenses for 1893	423,724
Miscellaneous purposes	526,966
Building and improvements	594,800
Roads and bridges	63,500
Total in 1891	$ 2,438,906

The actual appropriations made by the Republican legislature of 1893 were as follows:

Building and improvements	767,460
General expenses for 1894	471,893
General expenses for 1895	362,550
Miscellaneous	686,793
Total in 1893	$ 2,465,718

This shows a balance in favor of the legislature of 1891 of $26,809. Again, take the amount appropriated in 1891, viz.: $2,438,909, from this we subtract $169,043, which, as is shown in the records, had to be provided for to cover deficiencies, also the $150,000 appropriated for the manufacture of binding twine, which is not an expenditure but more a loan, a revolving fund; this leaves $2,119,866 to be expended during the fiscal years of 1892 and 1893.

Then take the amounts appropriated in 1893, viz.: $2,465,718. From this subtract $80,795 of deficiencies, leaving $2,384,923 to be expended during the fiscal years of 1894 and 1895. Compare these figures and you will find a balance of $265,057 in favor of the legislature of 1891.

It will also be noticed that the legislature of 1891 appropriated $63,500 for roads and bridges, while the legislature of 1893, although liberal in their appropriations for state capitol and World's fair, etc., did nothing toward the construction of good roads. So far as the current expense of the legislature of 1891 is concerned it was greater possibly than that of some former legislatures for two reasons which were unavoidable. First. That by the apportionment of 1889 the number of members was increased eighteen. Second. The three parties being so equally represented the Republicans, to whom the loss of power was galling, pursued many dilatory tactics during the first part of the session so that in order to accomplish the business it required a longer session.

It will also be remembered that a deficiency which had to be provided for, and the expense of maintaining the different institutions were obligations incurred under boards appointed by Republican governors.

These are plain simple facts and no other light or further comment is needed on the governor's remarks. One thing we should always remember and that is, to be perfectly fair and straightforward in these discussions and if our friends are not we should set them the example.

WHY NOT BE STRONG?

Do You Know What That Weakness Means?

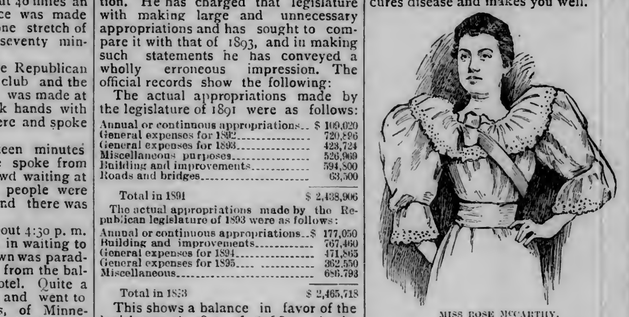

There is a Limit to Your Endurance. Have You Reached It?

Beware of the Last Straw! It Will Come Like a Shock.

Shakespeare says: "When sorrows come, they come not single spies, but in battalions." How true this is of disease? How surely will overwork lead to nervousness, headache, nervous exhaustion, prostration, paralysis and the most terrible nervous diseases.

Bad blood causes humors, stomach, liver and kidney complaints, rheumatism, bad complexion, tumors and all kinds of blood diseases. That tired feeling means exhaustion of the nerves and vital forces—it kills. If the liver is torpid, constipation follows. This clogs the circulation and causes congestion of all the organs.

You must stop these complaints right where they are, if you value your life. The way to do it is to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It cures disease and makes you well.

MISS ROSE MCCARTHY.

The popular Miss Rose McCarthy, of 347 East Eighty-seventh street, New York city, writes:

"For a long time I was troubled with nervousness and violent headaches. I would lie awake nearly all night and was in constant misery. Previous to this my complexion was a very healthy color, but it now became very bad.

"I took three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and was entirely cured. My nervousness and headaches left me, my good complexion returned and I slept perfectly. I can safely say to everybody who is suffering, just give it a trial and you will be cured. I hope my statement will find relief for many people who do not know the benefit of such a wonderful medicine."

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy strikes disease like the lightning's flash, which nothing can resist, and where it strikes it cures. Put it to the test in your own case and see how quickly health and strength will be yours.

Physicians recommend it because it is the discovery of the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York city. You can consult him free, personally or by letter.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Shaft No. 2" will be at the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday next. This play is a melodrama of striking realism. The Minneapolis Times said of it:

"The play is a continuous series of hair-breadth escapes of one sort and another, so that one is compelled to follow the plot with extreme interest and natural sympathy. He can't even get far enough ahead to wonder, like the parrot that was blown up in the steamboat, 'what in the deuce they'll do next.'

"Frank Losee, as Jim Rathburn, stands out so conspicuously throughout, that interest in the other roles is reduced to a minimum. His role is a thoroughly congenial one, however, and it suffers little by being entrusted to his hands. The honors of the most trying scenes are well shared by Miss Jessie West, who assumes the role of Maggie Daly, his sweetheart. Some clever Celtic comedy of a most enlivening sort is introduced by Miss Marion Elmore and J. F. MacDonald. Mrs. W. G. Jones, the veteran actress, and Miss Lelia Hutton, a pretty young debutante of St. Paul, are also in the cast.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundermann, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Max Worth's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat can be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50-cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by all druggists.

AGAIN TRANSFERRED.

McInnis Mine is Released and Transferred to the Fayal Iron Company.

The McInnis mine has changed hands again. Sept. 11 the McInnis Mining company sold their lease of the property from Eldridge M. Fowler, of Chicago, to the Minnesota Iron company. This morning the Minnesota Iron company filed a release of the lease to Fowler, and he in turn filed a 20-year lease to the Fayal Iron company.

The lease provides for a royalty of 30 cents on a minimum annual output of 100,000 tons, 75,000 tons to be mined within a year from April 1, 1894. The Fayal company agrees to mine as much over the minimum as shall be profitable.

The change is probably not very material, as D. H. Bacon is president of the Fayal company as well as of the Minnesota Iron company. The property consists of two lots in sections 5 and 6-57-17.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A VOID TRANSACTION.

The Supreme Court Today Handed Down an Important Decision in a Duluth Loan Case.

George K. Nesbitt and Wife Have Won the Suit Brought Against Them By John Horkan.

Judge Buck, of the supreme court, this morning handed down the first decision of the term, and it is an important one to the loan agents and their victims in this state. The court holds that loaning money through agents who charge usurious and illegal interest under the guise of pretended services rendered the borrower constitutes a void transaction.

The decision is an affirmation of one made by the district court at Duluth, where John Horkan had brought suit against George K. Nesbitt and his wife to recover a balance due on a note of $135 with 10 per cent interest. Horkan, the plaintiff, is not a resident of this state, but his loaning business is managed at Duluth by his brother William.

Nesbitt, it appears, applied to William for a loan of $125, stating that the amount of interest or bonus was no object, as he expected to make big money out of the transaction and only wanted the money for a week or ten days. Horkan told him they did not loan money for less than a month, but that he could have the money for $10.

Nesbitt agreed, and he and his wife signed a note for $135, bearing interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, and gave a chattel mortgage on a piano and other property. Of course, under the arrangement they received but $125. Evidently Nesbitt did not get a lot of money out of the loan, as he had anticipated, for he did not pay the note at the end of the ten days, but paid from time to time an amount aggregating $65, and then defaulted when Horkan sued for the balance.

When the case came up for the trial, the evidence was all submitted by the plaintiff who claimed in defense of his usurious charges, that he had paid the $10 to one Mullarkey for making out the papers. The court finds that Mullarkey was Horkan's clerk and attorney for the agency. Moreover, it does not allow the plea of John Horkan that the charge was made by his agent, and he had nothing to do with it but holds him responsible for the transaction, which is held to be usurious, and consequently void.

The supreme court holds further that there was no such conflict of evidence as would have warranted the court below in submitting the case to a jury, but that it should have been dismissed. Following is the syllabus of the case:

Loaning money through agents who charge usurious and illegal interest under the guise of pretended services rendered the borrower, constitutes a void transaction. Upon the facts in this case held that the transaction between the parties was usurious and therefore invalid. Held, further, that there was no such conflict of evidence in the case as to require the court below to submit it to the jury. Order affirmed.

UNITED STATES COURT.

Old Klaawu Cases Against the Chandler Iron Company Are On Trial.

In the United States court the case of the Lone Jack Iron company against the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines was continued by stipulation yesterday and the defendant given until Oct. 20 to answer. The admiralty cases of B. B. Inman and several others against the tug Lindrup were taken up and a motion to strike out parts of the answer was argued and submitted. The grand jury turned in one indictment which has not been made public. The criminal calendar will probably not be taken up before tomorrow afternoon.

This morning's circuit court session was principally occupied with the examination of Matt Carroll, the first witness in the cases of Abel Kloawu against the Chandler Iron company, which are now having their third heading. Mr. Carroll's testimony was not completed at 3 o'clock. The action is to recover $15,000 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been received by Klaawu while employed by the company. The jury on the former trials disagreed.

MILLER BOUND OVER.

Must Stand Trial Unless He Marries—Judge Winje Holds a Complaint Insufficient.

Otto Miller, who had his hearing in the municipal court yesterday on a bastardy charge preferred by Mary Bernhardt, was held to the grand jury, but in the event of a marriage between the parties, further prosecution will be dropped.

A half-dozen of dark-hued soiled doves, Mattie Joy, Paley Blair, Maud Rivers, Emma Fox, Ethie Brown and Nettie Perkins, contributed a total of $62.50 into the municipal court treasury yesterday for residing in a house of ill-fame.

Before Judge Winje the cases of the city against Peter Butchart and Peter Musolf, charged with keeping their saloons open at illegal hours, was dismissed on motion of the defendants' attorney on the ground that the complaint was insufficient.

Assistant City Attorney Benham was red hot about it and a rather sharp interchange of words took place between him and Attorney T. S. Wood, who conducted the defense. Mr. Benham wanted the men held until the supreme court could pass upon the sufficiency of the complaint and uncorked quite a little loud-toned eloquence.

Mr. Wood remarked that the court couldn't be bulldozed in that manner, and the court evidently was of the same opinion, and said he would not hold a man to appear anywhere if the complaint was not sufficient. Mr. Benham was then informed that all cases would be subject to the same ruling and they were dismissed.

There was not a single drunk or a vag or thief in court this morning.

THE GAMBLING EVIL.

Proctorknott Has it and Railroad Men Are Being "Skinned."

Complaints are being made against the gambling evil at Proctorknott, the Missabe road's town upon the hill. A gang of ex-West Duluth gamblers have been running a joint up there for some time. It is operated for the purpose of "skinning" the railroad men, employed up there, out of their money whenever pay day comes around. They run a "skin" game too as crooked and barefaced as can be found. It is safe to say there is not a pair of dice in the place which are not loaded. Men from there say that about last pay day they roped in over $900 in two or three days.

An accident occurred some days ago showing the extent of the evil. A man living up in that direction who works for the railroad complained to Detective Hayden and Benson, that the gamblers had beaten him out of $97, all the money he had and he did not know what his wife and children would do for the next month. The poor man was in despair.

A day or two later the detectives made a trip up to Proctorknott to see what they could do. The gamblers were not there but later O. J. Simonds, "Gene" Chapman and an individual known to the "profesh" and world at large as "Shorty," were found at the Phillips hotel. They refused to do anything and the detectives started back. At Twenty-fifth avenue west they were overtaken by Simonds and Chapman.

They had weakened somewhat and offered $50 as a settlement. This was their ultimatum and the detectives took the money and turned it over to the railroad man. He was glad to get that much but asserted that he would sue for the rest.

It is probable that some steps will be taken to drive the gamblers out.

Want Liability Enforced.

Two suits were filed this morning to enforce the statutory liability of stockholders in insolvent corporations. The Hastings Malting company, which holds an unsatisfied execution for $547.50 against the Iron Range Brewing company, of Tower, complain that there is but $5000 in property in the hands of the receiver, and the debts are more than $17,000. P. M. Graff owns 596 shares and R. P. Paine and F. H. Frisbee two shares each. The par value of the stock held by them is $30,000, and the plaintiff wishes to have a receiver appointed and the stockholders declared liable for the indebtedness of the brewery.

Samuel Loeb, who holds an unsatisfied execution for $629.43 for rent against the Duluth Drug company, brings a similar action against N. F. Hugo and L. C. Le Richeux, the stockholders in the company, to enforce their liability under the statute. He alleges that the assets are only $4500, while the liabilities are $7500.

LOST FAITH.

Victims of Piles Often Lose Confidence in the Merit of Medicine and Become Hopelessly Incurable.

Why is it? Simply because they have repeatedly hit upon the wrong remedy.

After trying about half a dozen worthless lotions and salves they lose heart, give up and often refuse to try anything else. This is poor policy where future happiness and welfare are at stake. Disease is persistent and he who battles with it must also possess a good stock of pluck. Piles can be cured and without the surgeon's knife. The disease will not succumb to the thousand and one so-called remedies which every druggist recommends. Most all such remedies are merely the experiments of inexperienced drug clerks or unscrupulous doctors who have utterly failed in the practice of medicine and turn to such humbuggery as a last resort. The Pyramid Pile Cure is a scientific remedy for all forms of piles. It cures to a certainty because it was formulated by skilled scientists who are daily curing those aggravated cases of piles and kindred disorders which defy even the highest surgical skill. It is manufactured by the Pyramid Drug company at Albion, Mich., and may be found in any first-class drug store where honest remedies are kept and recommended. No one need fear to use this remedy. It is sound, safe and sure. If your druggist shouldn't have it write to the manufacturers or ask him to write them. The remedy recommends itself when once introduced.

THE RATE ON WHEAT.

It Still Stands at 2¾ Cents—No Lumber Charters Being Made.

Some chartering in wheat is being done at 3 cents to load the last of the month, but the present rate is 2¾ cents. No charters have been made in lumber to Chicago for some time, as boats are hard to get, but the probability is that a better rate than $2.50 could be obtained, as there is a good deal of lumber to be shipped and shippers will be compelled to pay demurrage on their cars if it is not shipped soon.

Ore is still 85 cents and fairly strong, though shipments are not so heavy. Coal is 35 cents and package freight is still 17½ cents. The situation is rather flat.

THE TASMANIA ASHORE.

An Ore Laden Vessel Driven Ashore at Cleveland During a Gale.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—The big four-masted schooner Tasmania, ore-laden and bound for this port, went ashore just east of the east pier during a heavy northwest gale, shortly after midnight last night. The schooner was dropped by the steamer Australasia outside the breakwater and tried to make the harbor under sail. Two tugs went to her, but owing to the tremendous sea running were unable to get a line to the schooner.

The vessel was driven on the beach and the life saving crew succeeded, with much difficulty, in rescuing the crew and two daughters of Capt. Searles who were on board. The Tasmania is owned by James Corrigan of this city and valued at about $35,000. This morning she lies well in on the sandy beach, and in order to float the vessel it will be necessary to pump her out. During the height of the gale the wind blew at the rate of sixty-two miles an hour.

RECEIVER NAMED

William F. Fitch Appointed Receiver of the Duluth & Winnipeg Pending Foreclosure of a Mortgage.

Action Brought by a Philadelphia Trust Company Under a Mortgage Securing $2,000,000 of Bonds.

The Receivership Also Includes the North Star Construction Company, Which Built the Road.

Verdict of Five Thousand Dollars Damages Against the City of St. Paul for Personal Injuries.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 12.—Judge Sanborn, in the United States circuit court this morning signed an order appointing William F. Fitch, superintendent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road, receiver of the Duluth & Winnipeg road, pending the foreclosure of the mortgage. The action was brought by the Guarantee Trust and Safe Deposit company, of Philadelphia, trustee, under the mortgage which secures bonds to the amount of $2,000,000.

The total amount of bonds authorized was $7,000,000 and the issue of a further amount is enjoined. The receivership also includes the North Star Construction company, which built the road. Mr. Fitch will operate the road until the consummation of the foreclosure proceedings. The Duluth & Winnipeg has 150 miles of track built, running from Duluth northwest. The interest on the bonds was defaulted in July last.

THEY REFUSE TO RUN.

Two St. Paul Democrats Decline Nominations for the Legislature.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 12.—Hon. L. E. Reed sent in a formal declination to the Democratic county committee yesterday afternoon of the nomination for the state senate in the Twenty-fifth district. He will be away from St. Paul during the winter and therefor could not accept the honor. It is quite probable that the nomination will be left open. The district is overwhelmingly Republican.

P. H. Kelly is also firm in his refusal to accept the nomination for the house and the committee will try and make one more effort to induce him to reconsider his decision. In case they are not successful, P. D. Scannell will probably be placed on the ticket.

ST. PAUL HIT VERY HARD.

Five Thousand Dollars Awarded George Peck For a Sprained Knee.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 12.—The city was hit very hard in a verdict returned this morning in the case of George Peck against the city of St. Paul. The verdict of the jury was $5000 for the plaintiff, who brought his action for damages for personal injuries sustained by reason of a fall on the sidewalk last March.

Peck was walking along at the corner of Farrington and University avenues, when he stepped through the walk and pitched forward, spraining his knee. He is a bricklayer and lives on Edmunds street. The city will take the case to the supreme court.

The engine and several cars of the latter were badly damaged and traffic interfered with for several hours. A wrecking train was sent out from here.

McKINLEY AT PONTIAC.

Tells a Big Audience That We Want American Conditions Here.

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 12.—Michigan will have two days of Governor McKinley's time. The governor started out at 8 a. m. today, going first to Mount Clemens where a thousand persons gathered about the platform at the station were addressed by him.

Hon. Mark Hanna, of Cleveland, and Governor Rich together with Gen. Alger and F. A. Maynard, Republican candidate for attorney general of Michigan, accompanied Governor McKinley from Detroit, and Governor Rich shared in the speech-making with Ohio's governor.

At Pontiac the opera house was jammed, seats, aisles, stage and every other foot of available space being occupied. Ex-Congressman Brewer introduced Governor McKinley at Pontiac, referring to him as the foremost American and the one who will in all probability be the next occupant of the presidential chair.

"Our conditions," said Governor McKinley, in the course of a somewhat lengthy speech, "are different from European conditions and we want to keep them different. We want American conditions—conditions which will encourage and produce the best and highest citizenship, and we cannot maintain our markets unless we put a tariff on the products which come into this country in competition with our own wages. The wages will have to come down or the foreigner will get this market. If wages are reduced then we lower the American standard, and in my judgment we thereby necessarily degrade American citizenship, and I am opposed to that." (Applause.)

TO BE WEDDED SOON.

Report That the Marriage of the Czarewitch is to be Hastened.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 12.—Another report regarding the matrimonial prospects of the czarewitch is in circulation here. It is now stated that the heir apparent to the throne of Russia will accompany the czar from Livadia to Corfu and from that island the czarewitch will proceed to Darmstadt, from which place he will return to Russia with his fiancee, Princess Alix of Hesse, and the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Sergius of Russia, her brother-in-law and sister.

It is added that the wedding will probably take place at the beginning of November, the supposition being that the ceremony is being hastened on account of the pressure brought to bear upon the czarewitch by his father, who is desirous, in view of his own approaching death, of having the marriage take place as soon as possible, as in the event of his demise, the union of the czarewitch would be postponed for a year at least.

It is officially announced here that dispatches have been received from Lividia saying that the czar yesterday visited Massandria and stayed there an hour and a half. He returned to Livadia through Yalta. The weather was warm.

HILL GIVEN AN OVATION.

First Speech of the Campaign Given to a Large Audience at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct 12.—Senator Hill opened his campaign for governor with a speech here last night. Over 4000 people were present and half as many more were turned away. There was great enthusiasm when Mr. Hill appeared, the people rising from their seats and cheering. He was cool and collected and merely bowed his head to the storm of applause. Chairman Moffit Mowbray introduced Senator Hill.

When his name was mentioned Mr. Hill stepped to the front and stood with his hands on the table facing the audience. For some minutes he waited till the applause had ceased and then began his address. He was listened to with great attention, but was frequently interrupted by most vociferous applause. He spoke in a clear, concise and convincing way and held his audience until the last word. His allusions to Seymour, Governor Flower and the A. P. A. issue caused tumultuous applause.

A FAMILY OF FIREBUGS.

The Reimer Family at Dalton, O., Held For Conspiracy.

This morning Rosa, the school teacher, attempted to burn the very house occupied by the family. The fire was extinguished and the kitchen found to be saturated with oil.

Old man Reimer on the stand denied his former confession that his wife started the fire. Rosa offered to plead guilty to save the family. All will be held.

THE PENSION FRAUDS.

These Frauds are Regarded at the Pension Bureau as Among the Most Important Investigated.

Board of Naval Bureau Chiefs Making an Inquiry Into the Merits of Submarine Boats.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Steps will be taken by the pension bureau to mete out punishment to the remaining members of the boards of pension examiners involved in the Van Leuven frauds. Indictments against his physicians have all already been returned. It has been found that one of those involved in the frauds, Dr. Pegg, is dead and prosecution of another has been dropped, owing to advanced age and probably ill-balanced mind. There were five boards involved in the corrupt methods, and several members of these yet remain to be prosecuted, probably half a dozen. The action against them will probable be based on sections 5501 and 5541.

The reports of Special Examiner Waite and his corps of assistants, now at work about Dubuque, will be forwarded to the department of justice with a recommendation for prosecution, and the department will call the attention of district attorneys who have jurisdiction to the case with the purpose of securing indictments. The Van Leuven frauds are regarded at the bureau as among the most important that have been under investigation, though not involving as much perjury and forgery as the cases filed by Attorney Bown Moore, of Buffalo, now serving a sentence. The number of cases filed by Van Leuven probably reaches 700 or 800 and, about one-third of these have been investigated. Fifty per cent of them, at least, are believed to be fraudulent.

The postoffice department has given notice that all parcels and post packages for Newfoundland should be forwarded to New York city postoffice for dispatch to destination by steamer sailing direct from this country. An official order cautions the public against forwarding such publications to Canada direct, as there are no provisions for their transmission to Newfoundland via Canada.

Secretary Carlisle has issued a circular letter to all custom officials calling attention to Section 3 of the act of Aug. 18, 1894, making an appropriation for a government exhibit at the cotton states and international exhibition to be held at Atlanta. The secretary directs that so far as practicable the regulations which governed the free importation of articles for exhibition at the Chicago exposition shall be applied to the cotton states and international exhibition.

The civil service commission will hold an examination on Oct. 22 to fill two vacancies in the position of nautical expert, one at Cleveland and the other at Chicago. The subjects of the examination will be letter writing, pure mathematics physical geography, nautical definitions and navigation. Persons desiring to compete should write to the civil service commission for application blanks. Residents of the District of Columbia will not be admitted. Examinations may be held in cities outside of Washington if applications are filed at once.

The board of naval bureau chiefs is prosecuting steadily an inquiry into the merits of submarine boats and is taking steps to procure one for the navy. The French naval authorities have been particularly active in experimenting with these craft. They have already built one that has given satisfaction and are now engaged in the construction of a second and smaller boat on the same lines. Our naval board now has before it two designs and it is only a question of making a selection. Both plans are of American origin and each of the inventors has already built and operated a crude model craft.

These designs are submitted by the Holland Torpedo Boat company and by the baker company. The Holland design had already been carefully examined and approved, but the Baker boat having been entered late for competition a final decision has been withheld pending the examination of its plans. The two boats do not present many new features of difference. Both are propelled by direct steam power on the surface of the water and by electricity from storage batteries charged by the boat's engines, when running under water.

The difference is found in the means of submergence. The Baker boat has a propeller swiveled on either side, so arranged that they can be turned upward to drive the boat below the surface and then turned at the proper inclination to drive her ahead under water. The Holland boat is of the diving type and is to be sent under water by a pair of supplementary propellers operating in vertical wells in the hull. The board would like very much to construct one of each type for purposes of comparison were the $200,000 available sufficient to do so.

The boat to be built will be 150 tons displacement and will be armed with a torpedo tube in the bow. Careful experiments have been made by the naval officers to ascertain whether such a craft could explode a torpedo against a ship 30 or 40 yards distant without destruction to herself, and it was found that it would be perfectly safe to do so. Some of the naval experts are therefore calculating that the new submarine boat will be of great service, if for no other reason than because of the moral effect it would have upon a hostile fleet, for no commander would feel at ease when near a port where one of these ugly customers, against which all known methods of warfare are useless, might be cruising around.

THE SUGAR BOUNTY CASE.

Judge McComas Denies the Miles Sugar Company's Application.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Judge McComas, of the district supreme court, today denied the application of the Miles Sugar Manufacturing company of Louisiana for a mandamus to compel Secretary Carlisle to appoint inspectors to ascertain the sugar production of the company.

The object of the suit, it is understood, was to test the legality of the recent repeal of the sugar bounty provision of the McKinley law, and also to lay the foundation for an appeal to congress for payment of bounty for the current year.

SHE RAN AWAY TO SEA.

A Schooner Sailing the Atlantic With Not a Soul on Board.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 12.—With all sails set and laden with a full general cargo, but with not a soul on board, a schooner ran away to sea during the severe storm which has been raging along the coast for the past two days, eluded pursuit by another vessel all day and disappeared in the gloom at nightfall, still plowing an independent course, under full headway, with no guiding hand at the tiller or any human agency to control her movements.

Somewhere out on the Atlantic the truant vessel is probably sailing along merrily yet, with all her canvas spread, a rich prize for the lucky skipper who may overhaul her, and a promising subject for the fanciful pen of some future Clark Russell.

The runaway schooner is the Lord Elden, whose commanding officer, before she took to navigating on her own account, was Capt. Harley. He started from here for Guysboro on the vessel, with a full crew. When the Lord Elden was off Canso Tuesday, a stiff gale was blowing and a nasty sea surging. The Canso neighborhood is a dangerous one for sailing craft, under even more favorable conditions, hidden rocks abounding. One of these, the Elden found without difficulty.

With the weather thickening and his vessel hard and fast on the rocks as it seemed, Capt. Harley deemed it prudent to seek a place of greater safety for himself and crew and they put off hurriedly, leaving the Elden with all sails set. Not long after their departure the wind shifted, and under the freshening breeze, the vessel was twisted off her resting place. She evidently had not, as her captain had feared, received serious damage below the water line. She at once turned her head seaward and began to slash along at racing speed.

The schooner Diamond gave chase. Mile after mile the race was kept up, with the crewless Elden always in the lead. Once the Diamond drew near enough for her men to have boarded the runaway, but the sea was so high that the Diamond's boat was smashed in getting it over the side. Still the chase was continued in the hope that the sea would subside and enable the Diamond to come alongside. This hope was not realized and darkness came on. The Elden disappeared. When last seen she was headed out in the Atlantic.

A Shortage Discovered.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Oct. 12.—News has been received from Sitka, Alaska, that Adolphus Meyer, deputy marshal, was arrested for embezzlement of public funds amounting to $2000. When Marshal Porter retired from office he entrusted Meyer to close up his accounts, and while making final settlement with the government a shortage was discovered. Meyer gave bond for his appearance for trial in the district court.

Likely to Be Indicted.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Oct. 12.—Some weeks ago M. B. Savage, superintendent of the government Indian school at Perris, suddenly departed. Shortly afterwards Col. Shelby, special agent from Washington, appeared at Perris and after investigating the affairs of the school went back to Washington with a report charging Savage with peculation and immorality. Savage will now probably be indicted.

Flopped to the Populists.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 12.—Alfred Skeels, secretary, and A. H. Flood, treasurer of the Republican league of Colorado, have resigned and announced that they will support the nominees of the People's party. The reasons given by them are that the Republican party, outside of this state, is opposed to free coinage of silver, and outside of Colorado its candidates are dominated by the A. P. A.

An A. R. U. Appeal.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Eugene V. Debs and the other directors of the American Railway union will today make an effort to revive their organization. They will mail copies of an appeal for reorganization on roads opposed to the American Railway union. The men are advised to organize secretly and promises of ample protection are made by the signers of the appeal.

Prescott, of Toronto, was re-elected president; Theodore Perry, of Nashville, Frank G. Boyle, of St. Paul, and C. B. Lahn, of Chicago, vice presidents, and A. G. Dynamite Explosion.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 12.—The steamer Chilcat has arrived from Alaska bringing news of the explosion of a big dynamite magazine at Taku, 40 miles from Juneau, on Sept. 28. Manager James Avery sustained a dangerous cut on the head and great rocks were thrown in the midst of the workmen, but none of them were injured. Thawing out powder with candles caused the explosion.

Every citizen of this city should hear the lecture by Rev. J. M. Cleary at the Temple this evening.

ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA.

A Russian Paper Urges that Troops be Sent to Annex Manchuria and Corea at Once.

Then Russia Should Extend the Siberian Railway to Seoul and Obtain a Pacific Footing.

A German Report That Russia Does Not Desire to Put a Stop to Present Hostilities.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The St. Petersburg Novosti contends that if the Japanese are victorious they will firmly establish themselves in Corea, proving a constant menace to Russia, while the Chinese will threaten her from Manchuria. Russia, the paper further says, will be compelled to make continued sacrifices to maintain the Siberian frontier, a task possibly beyond her power, while the Pacific squadron will be hampered by the Japanese fleet.

As a means of avoiding this, Russia must immediately send troops to Manchuria and Corea and annex both, extend the Siberian railway to Seoul, and obtain a footing in the Pacific. The Novosti urges Russia to follow the example of Great Britain, which, it declares, knows how to safeguard her interests when they are threatened.

The Cologne Gazette, in an article regarding the action of the powers concerning China and Japan, says that Germany does not belong to those powers which think of staying the Japanese armies. It is reported on reliable authority that Russia does not desire to put a stop to the present hostilities. By Russia's attitude France will be guided. The United States has from the outset made no disguise of her friendly attitude towards Japan. Austria has given evidence of her attitude by entrusting the defense of her interests to Germany. The Gazette says: "It will be time enough to look after our interests when Japan shall have dictated terms of peace in Pekin."

The North German Gazette says the duty Germany has to perform in the present crisis in the East is not only to safeguard the interests of traders, but to take measures for the safety of her missionaries who are threatened. In particular she is to consider the case of the Protestant missions in Southern China and the Catholic mission in the province of Shan Tung. Immediately when war was declared, the German government urged China to see that the provincial authorities were alive to the necessity of protecting the missionaries. This policy will be vigorously followed.

A Vienna correspondent of the Standard says, that according to the Politische Correspondenz, England addressed a note to her agents abroad on Oct. 6, instructing them to open negotiations with the powers to arrange for a joint protection for Christians in China and also for an agreement as to how far Japan will be permitted to advance into Chinese territory.

The paper also says that Russia has received an official intimation from China that owing to the excitement among the Chinese people, the government is no longer able to guarantee the safety of foreigners. This explains the dispatch of ships to Chinese waters and explains the hurried calling of cabinet councils in London and Paris.

A special dispatch from Shanghai says: The two Japanese students who were surrendered to the Chinese authorities by the American consul have been executed by order of the viceroy. The advanced wing of the Japanese army is reported to be seven days march from Moukden. The white fleet holds the northern entrance of the gulf of Pe Chi Li to prevent the retreat of the Chinese, which is expected to take place before long.

A Steamer for China.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 12.—It is reported that W. A. Chong, a Chinese merchant of Seattle, is trying to purchase the steamer City of Seattle, of the Puget Sound and Alaska Steamship company, with the intention of sending her to China to carry troops to Corea. Superintendent Dickinson denies the report.

Going to the Orient.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 12.—Thomas Bailey Aldrich, the well known Boston poet, and Col. H. L. Pierce, an ex-mayor of the same city, are here preparing to leave on the Empress of India for the Orient.

Miss May Chandler Arrested This Morning on Complaint of Beating and Bruising Hattie McArdle.

The Testimony Showed the Existence of a Neighborhood Row—Miss Chandler's Fine was Remitted.

O. J. Simonds Denies the Detectives' Story That He is Interested in Gambling at Proctorknott.

The McArdle family, several members of which have figured in municipal court matters a good many times of late, are in trouble again. They got out a warrant for the arrest of May Chandler, a young girl living at Fifty-eighth avenue west, not far from the McArdle residence on the charge of beating and bruising Hattie McArdle.

Miss Chandler was therefore arrested and appeared before Judge Himebaugh this morning to answer to the charge. Her story of the family quarrel is that Hattie called her bad names and she slapped her face. She denied bruising or beating the girl in any way or otherwise mistreating her.

After considerable evidence showing that there was a good sized neighborly war on hand in that part of the town the judge fined Miss Chandler $10 and costs. The sentence was suspended, however, and Miss Chandler was given her freedom on paying costs alone.

Mr. Simonds Denies.

O. J. Simonds denies that he was at Proctorknott or that he is interested in the gambling industry at that place. He says that he is now conducting a legitimate business and is not running a gambling joint of any description at any place. He cannot understand why or how his name is connected with the affair and wishes to deny the accusation in toto.

The statement that he paid over $50 to settle the case in which complaint was made was given by Detectives Benson and Hayden.

WILL ASK FOR LIGHTS.

Duluth Heights Citizens Will Present a Large Petition on Monday.

At Monday evening's meeting of the council a petition signed by about 200 Duluth citizens will be presented to the council asking for sixteen electric street lamps for Duluth Heights. To get the company to extend its lines up there it is necessary to guarantee a light every 1000 feet. This will mean nine lights between the power house and Cedar street. Seven lights will be distributed over the suburb. At present the Heights is absolutely without light. The few gasoline lamps placed up there some months ago were not lighted for more than a month altogether. The darkness is so intense on dark nights that it is unsafe to be about in the evening.

Palmetto street is nearly all graded for a distance of a half mile. The steam roller must be run over it and then it will be graveled. It will be entirely completed before snow flies. The contractors will begin laying the sidewalk on Tuesday.

The school house will be completed by Nov. 15. The contract called for completion by Oct. 15, but there have been several delays. It is a handsome building and is an ornament to the suburb.

Work on the fire hall is to be begun in a few days. The contractors have already hauled some material.

Bohemian Club Musicale.

The Bohemian club rooms were crowded last evening. The rooms were elegantly decorated with flowers and plants and the corridor was beautifully arranged, being decorated with flags, palms and lanterns. The program was received with great favor. Solos were given by F. W. Maynard, Arthur Lahey and Harry Gearhart. The Bohemians sang chorus numbers. Recitations were given by C. H. Eldridge, F. J. Chipman and F. C. Hartley.

A SURGEON'S KNIFE

gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that

RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

WHEAT DULL BUT STEADY.

Shipping Demand Was Light But the Mills Were in the Market.

Wheat was dull again today and inclined to weakness, but there was good covering by shorts at Chicago on the decline to secure profits and this caused some reaction. There was continued weakness reported abroad, and the sentiment of the professional trade was bearish. But the heavy shipments from Duluth, 703,000 bushels during the last two days and 1,500,000 bus during the last five days, was something of a sustaining factor. The market opened weak at ¼@¾c lower at 56c for December and 59⅝c for May, and ruled very steady and dull, May touching 59¼c but most of the business being done at 59⅜c. Cash business was also dull. The shippers were only fair buyers. There was a good milling demand which was not filled, at ⅛c premium. The close was ⅛c lower all round than yesterday except May which was ⅛c lower. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 57⅞; October, 57⅜c. No. 1 northern, cash, 56¼c; October, 56¼c; December, 56c; May, 59⅛c. No. 2 northern cash, 53¾c; No. 3, 52¼c; Rejected 47¼c. To arrive—No. 1 northern, 59¼c; rye, 45c; flax, $1.45. No. 2 outs, 31½c; No. 3 oats, 31c; barley, 45@50c.

Car inspection today—Wheat 366, barley 40, oats 16, flax 13, rye 2. Receipts—Wheat 216,750 bus, oats, 5769 bus, barley 31,474 bus, flax 18,800 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 371,481 bus, barley 94,37 bus, flax, 8544 bus.

Gossip.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, Room 107, Chamber of Commerce.

Wheat is again treading on new ground and there is apparently no power in sight to prevent it from seeking a lower level. Dealers in the cash article report absolutely no demand from foreign and domestic consumers. New York and St. Louis are selling the same grade of wheat 3c less than is asked in Chicago. Stocks are increasing at the rate of 10,000,000 bus per month. Clearances from the four ports were 475,000 bus of wheat and flour, but out of this only 89,000 bus was wheat, the balance being flour in wheat equivalent. Receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth amounted to nearly 900 cars today. Cables are very weak reporting a decline of ½@¾d.

Corn and oats weak and lower in sympathy with wheat. Offerings of corn from country dealers for December delivery are quite heavy and some new corn, kiln dried has been received at St. Louis and graded No. 2. Provisions, strong and higher.

Labor Circles Shocked.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Vice President Howard of the A. R. U., who was Debs' prime minister in the great railroad strike, shocked labor circles today by reporting to the police the loss of about twenty railroad passes. Mr. Howard was the victim of a pickpocket, and after the operation reported at police headquarters that a score of annual passes and trip passes with other railroad transportation over many roads had been stolen.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. THE LABOR MOVEMENT.

What It Has Accomplished, According to an English Authority.

Fifty years ago, according to all competent observers, says Geoffrey Drage, England seemed to stand on the brink of a social revolution. If any doubt remained on the subject, the numerous parliamentary papers and inquiries of the time would convince the most stubborn mind. Wages were low and paid in kind, the hours were long beyond belief, accidents were common—no regard was paid to human life; the dwellings were hovels unfit for habitation. If the men were treated badly, women and children were treated worse. There is no infamy, no misery that is now related of the unskilled sweated industries that cannot be paralleled and outdone by the condition of the skilled laborer half a century or so ago. It has been written by the highest and most impartial authority that the history of the west of Europe in those times records perhaps no greater plundering of man by man than of the employed by the employers at that time.

The change that has been wrought is chiefly due to the self help of the working classes and to the great sections of the labor movement, trade unions, friendly societies and co-operation. To these movements the workingmen owe infinitely more than to any other cause, much as is to be said for the expansion of trade and the action of some enlightened men in the upper classes. Politicians have done nothing but oppose and hamper these movements by every kind of vexatious restriction.

The trade union exists for the maintenance of the rate of wages, for the reduction of hours, for the enforcement of the law and for educational and moral objects. The latest statistics show that there are 594 trade unions in Great Britain, with 1,237,367 members and an income of £1,790,842. These funds are employed in two main objects—dispute benefits and friendly benefits. Co-operation has for its ideal the elevation of the workingman into the position of the capitalist. This movement has two sides—the distributive and the productive.

Besides the foregoing are the friendly societies, which began with the purely benevolent ideals of mutual self help and ended in practice by the constitution of large business societies for insurance. At the present time there are in England 28,400 such societies, with £22,095,000 capital. The help afforded to the agricultural laborer by the friendly societies as well as by the co-operative movement is of the most important character, the trade unions having hardly succeeded in organizing this class.

The friendly society and co-operative movements now include a great number, and the trade union movement a considerable number of persons who would in any other country belong by interest to the bourgeois class, but who, for all industrial purposes, throw in their lot still with those among whom they were born. They own their houses, have invested in the funds and constitute a part of the moneyed and capitalist class themselves. In 1891 there were 1,624 co-operative societies, with 1,191,369 members and £17,042,104. The sale of goods amounted to £48,571,786 and the profits to £4,774,030. Not content with industrial work alone, they have successfully introduced into farming the principles they believe in and started co-operative dairies, with excellent results.

"HOW ODD COINCIDENTALLY."

Creations of a Novelist's Fancy Might Be Mistaken For Biography.

Cadets Graham and Frazier, in Captain Charles King's "Cadet Days," might readily be regarded as portraits of real people, although they are probably fictitious characters. There is a quality in Captain King's writings that encourages the reader to find himself or his friends in these cadets, or in the more mature soldiers, who, in Captain King's earlier work, move and speak so naturally and are concerned in such stirring occurrences. It does not seem possible that their sole uniform should be the blue and gold or gray and gold of the cloth binding.

But two gentlemen who have recently written to Captain King fancied that they had still stronger grounds for recognizing the originals of characters in "A Wartime Wooing" and "Between the Lines." One of these correspondents, Major Abbott, writes from Salisbury, Va., to say that his family name, Abbott, and incidents in his career as a soldier during the war, his having been wounded when a lieutenant in a Massachusetts regiment at a certain point on the Potomac, and having subsequently been in a hospital near Frederick, Md., his promotion and present title, and even the description of his personal appearance, pedigree, etc., stand in the book as though the author had simply narrated facts drawn from the most interesting period in the real Major Abbott's life. The second of the correspondents referred to writes from Fort Smith, Ark., that Captain King's character of Falconer, in "Between the Lines"—Falconer being a dashing young southerner in the cavalry arm of the service, in love with Miss Armistead of Fauquier county, Va.—was possibly suggested by the correspondent's father, who was a Falconer, a dashing young southerner in the cavalry arm of the service, in love with Miss Armistead of Fauquier county, Va.; that the resemblance ceases at that point, however for there was no want of bravery in the real Falconer's nature, and he loved his Miss Armistead to some purpose.

In reply, Captain King has said that he knew nothing of Major Abbott's career and services when he wrote "A Wartime Wooing" and never dreamed there were Falconers in Fauquier county when he wrote "Between the Lines." The coincidences are very remarkable, but coincidences they are, and nothing more. In "A Wartime Wooing," by the way, occurs a description of the forcing of the passage of the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg, and the hero of the story, Major Abbott, is referred to as "the first mounted officer to cross the bridge"—an affair of pontoons. This led to a letter from an officer, who declared the description so vivid and realistic that it couldn't be intended for fiction, and he felt compelled to say to the author that he, and not Major Abbott, was the first mounted officer to cross the bridge and that he could prove it.—Philadelphia Press.

WHEN THE HAIR TURNS GRAY.

Some Hints as to Its Proper Care—Don't Try to Color It.

Concerning gray hair, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, there seems to be no rational theory for change in the color of the hair, except that of loss of pigment color and presence of gaseous matter in the hair shaft. This may be the result of natural or artificial causes. Probably among Americans the early age at which the hair blanches is due largely to nervous conditions. Mental and physical disturbances undoubtedly often affect the secreting apparatus of the hair, destroying coloring matter, for history records instances of the change of hair from dark to white in a single night through the cerebral excitement of some great loss, bodily or mental anguish. Neither can coloring matter, once entirely destroyed, be restored.

Do not believe the quacks who pretend to restore gray hair to the youthful color in any other way than by dyeing, for science has not yet discovered a method by which pigment, once entirely exhausted, can be renewed. Dark hair may be bleached, but no sane person could be deceived by the dull, lusterless yellow of hair so treated; neither does dye deceive any one, and a woman who would look charming with a head of white hair kept perfectly clean and fluffy with legitimate treatment becomes disgusting when she resorts to such flagrantly artificial means for keeping the hair dark or blond.

When one's hair turns gray, attention should be directed toward keeping it scrupulously clean, toward keeping the complexion delicate and fine with color, the eyes bright and the expression animated, for a brilliant face, framed by snowy hair, has a peculiar charm if the hair be abundant and becomingly arranged.

The Major's Friends Worried.

The St. Cloud Times, the only daily paper in the Sixth district that is supporting Maj. Baldwin, appears to be very much worried about the Populist vote. The strength which Kittel Halvorsen possesses in the Democratic county of Stearns and the certainty that he will poll a large vote there that is usually Democratic, is alarming Maj. Baldwin's organ. It sees in this loss of Democratic votes a probability that the major will have but a bare plurality in the county, possibly none at all, instead of the large plurality which he received there two years ago.

With this fear in its mind, the Times is pleading with the Populists in that section "not to threw away their votes on Halvorsen." It says that upon the tariff and many other questions the Populists are in accord with the Democrats; the great difference between them is upon the silver question, and upon this all parties are of divided opinion. "This being true," it says, "why should Populists aid in electing Republican members of congress by running candidates in districts where they have no hope of election, and where the only result is to divide the vote which is anti-Republican. Every vote cast for Halvorsen is a vote for Towne, an extremely radical member of the party from which the Populists seceded."

This tearful plea for Populist votes for Baldwin shows how badly scared are his managers in the southern end of the district. The appeal will not meet with any response, however. The Populists are not likely to be led away by such a specious argument. While they are anxious to defeat Mr. Towne, they are equally anxious to defeat Maj. Baldwin, and they are not likely to vote for the major in order to defeat the Republican candidate. The Times urges that they should vote for Maj. Baldwin because he is opposed to a protective tariff, but if the editor of the Times will attend a few Populist meetings he will find that the third party men do not consider the tariff much of an issue. The silver question is the leading feature of their campaign speeches and campaign literature. Maj. Baldwin is on record as an opponent of free coinage of silver. How then can any Populist consistently vote for him? It is impossible.

Kittel Halvorsen is the only candidate in this district who stands upon a platform in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, and the Populists of Stearns county, who believe in that platform will vote for him, regardless of his chances for election. They are fighting for a principle in which they thoroughly believe and while The Herald does not support the free silver idea, it honors them for standing by the principle in which they believe. The vote cast for Mr. Halvorsen in Stearns and some other counties will no doubt reduce Maj. Baldwin's vote very seriously, and Mr. Towne will be the gainer. With this feature of the case The Herald has no complaint to make. The tearful pleading of the St. Cloud paper shows that Maj. Baldwin's managers also appreciate this fact and fear that it will result in the major being third in the race.

Troops for China.

The safety of English residents in the Chinese treaty ports is to be insured by the dispatch of a force from British India. This force is to consist of two queen's (white) regiments, four of Sikhs and two of Ghoorkas, 6000 bayonets in all. The first of the four battalions of the Rifle brigade and a battalion of the Northumberland (old Fifth) fusiliers, are the white troops. Sikhs, both cavalry and infantry, have already met and defeated the Chinese, several of the Punjab regiments having taken part in the war of 1860.

Since the time of the Lion of the Punjab, Runjet Singh, says the Baltimore Sun, the Sikhs have shown as high soldierly virtues as are possessed by any people in the world. The fighting qualities of the Goorkhas are proverbial through the British empire. The first real knowledge of the military prowess of this race was acquired by England, when, in 1857, the Goorkha contingent, 10,000 strong, sent by Jung Bahadoor from Nepal, arrived in the British camp before Delhi, to assist in driving the mutineers out of that fortress.

Since then the Goorkhas have had a finger in every fight in or near India, and in the Afghan campaigns they fairly covered themselves with glory. Brigaded in some cases with crack Highland regiments, neither could ever beat the other in leading into a work or in closing at the height of a charge of the enemy. There is any amount more of these splendid fighting elements to draw upon, as both Nepal and the Punjab are thickly peopled.

The Scandinavian Papers.

A great deal of noise is being made by the Democratic and Populist press because Governor Nelson is not receiving the support of all the Scandinavian papers in the state. They would have the public believe that all the Scandinavians of Minnesota were Republicans, and the opposition of some of them this year to Governor Nelson's re election means that they have suddenly deserted the Republican party. This is entirely untrue. It is merely a campaign trick and intended to deceive the people who are unacquainted with the facts.

The Minneapolis Journal explains the state of affairs very clearly. The Scandinavians in this state were Democrats, Populists and Prohibitionists as well as Republicans, and all four parties have their organs in the Scandinavian language. Why the Democratic, Populist and Prohibitionist papers should desert their parties and boom Nelson, the Democratic and Populist dailies do not explain, but, by a characteristic disregard for fact, they announce to their readers that the Scandinavian papers are with common consent following their readers and deserting Nelson's cause. Capital is made of the fact that T. Gulbrandsen's five papers are not supporting Nelson, and that Svenska Folkets Tidning had gone over to the enemy. It is well known that Gulbrandsen has been a rock-ribbed Democrat ever since he entered the newspaper field in Minneapolis and that there is no reason under the sun why he should desert the party of which his papers are organs. As for the Tidning, it is also well known that it never was a Republican paper except during the last campaign, when Mr. Soderstrom, the manager, was a candidate for county treasurer on the Republican ticket in Hennepin county.

This week it was announced with a great flourish of trumpets that the Svenska Amerikanska Posten, of Minneapolis, had come out for Owen and that there was weeping and wailing in the camp of Nelson over this change. The Journal says that it was not known in just what direction the Posten would jump, but it is quite certain that neither Governor Nelson nor any other Republican in the state expected the paper to support the Republican ticket. The paper never was a Republican organ, never advocated Republican principles, and never claimed that it had. It was founded as a Prohibition paper, and, though in late years it has departed somewhat from strict party lines, it has always opposed Republicanism. It claims now to be an independent temperance paper, whatever that may mean. "It would be just as reasonable," says the Journal, "to express wonder over the fact that the Globe supports Becker as to hold a jubilee because Posten does not support Nelson."

The Smoke Nuisance.

Anything that will tend to reduce or wipe out the smoke nuisance is to be welcomed, and consequently a recent experiment made in Chicago has been watched with interest by those who are anxious to secure the adoption of measures that will prevent the air in our cities being defiled. A test of fuel oil on a tug in Chicago was made under the most trying conditions. It was a complete success, according to the report of all who witnessed the trial. It proved that oil is a practical, economical and safe fuel, besides being smokeless. The fact that the expense of the oil fuel is materially less than that of coal is likely to make its adoption general, inasmuch as it is also satisfactory in other respects. It was estimated that the amount of coal necessary for the trial test made in Chicago would have cost $15.20, whereas the oil fuel used cost but $10.70, a very considerable difference.

The success of this experiment is due to the preseverance of Chicago's smoke inspector. Several tests of oil fuel made early in the summer were not successful, but he persevered and has finally succeeded in proving that with proper apparatus oil is an economical and safe fuel and that by its use all the sooty smoke which the tugs belch forth can be avoided. This experiment may be of interest to Duluth in future years, when the number of tugs here is multiplied.

Under our present tariff law, says the Detroit Journal, the Canadian farmers and gardeners can bring their cabbages into our market free of duty, but if a Michigan farmer or gardener wants to sell his cabbages in Canada he finds a tariff of 25 per cent confronting him. So with many other farm products. And yet our free traders say we must go on and open up our markets still further to free foreign competition without even asking for reciprocal favors from any foreign country.

It is strange that the Populists should continue to circulate as campaign literature the so-called "panic bulletin" which was said to have been issued on March 12, 1893, by the Bankers' association to all national banks. This circular appears on literature circulated at the Populist meeting at the Temple last night, yet it has been proven positively that the circular was never issued by the Bankers' association and is a rank forgery. It is well to be honest in public.

Another train robbery is reported from California. It appears to have been well planned and skillfully executed. These occurrences are becoming so common that the railroads may deem it necessary to place armed guards on every train.

The Saturday Herald will contain several special local articles of unusual interest tomorrow. In all that goes to make a first-class newspaper, the Saturday edition of The Herald excels all other Saturday and Sunday papers at the head of the lakes. It is due to this fact that it is the most widely read and has a steadily increasing circulation.

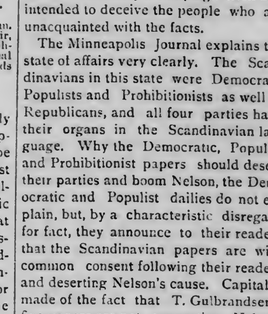

Tammany last night nominated candidates for congress in the New York city districts. The name of Bourke Cochran does not appear, because he positively declined a renomination in order that he might be free to work for Mr. Hill for governor. Tim Campbell was turned down in favor of Henry C. Miner, the theatrical manager, who stepped aside for Tim two years ago. Gen. Sickles is renominated in the Tenth district.

Another rumor of another new magazine is in the air, to be published in New York. The Critic aptly says: "To make a new magazine successful in these days, it must have an excuse for being. It can no longer follow in the wake of others, it must make a wake of its own. And if it can reverse this order of nature and send its wake flashing a path in front of it, so much the better."

President Cleveland has issued a general order forbidding federal office holders participating in the campaign to any extent, and as a result the assistant secretaries and bureau chiefs have been obliged to cancel appointments for speeches. United States Marshal Bede and other federal officials in Minnesota will govern themselves accordingly.

A new college has just been opened at Minco, Oklahoma, and, as is fitting, it has a new college yell, which was kindly furnished it by an entering class of Comanches and Apaches. When Minco sounds the warwoop, says the Boston Transcript, other Oklahoma seats of learning will take to trees.

Senator David B. Hill got a very enthusiastic reception when he opened his campaign at Syracuse last night. This marks the beginning of one of the greatest political contests in the Empire state.

AMUSEMENTS.

Rose Coghlan's Engagement.

The engagement of Rose Coghlan and her company at the Temple Monday and Tuesday will be one of the greatest of this theatrical season. Miss Coghlan has not been here in four years. It was she who opened the Temple Opera house. Upon one of her visits here she was elected an honorary member of the order of Elks.

The program will be "Diplomacy" on Monday night and "Forget-Me-Not" on Tuesday night. The St. Paul and Minneapolis papers have dwelt at length upon the individual merits of the company and the perfect ensemble of the performances. In "Diplomacy" will appear among others, Frederic de Belleville, John T. Sullivan, Cecil M. York, J. W. Shannon, Maxine Elliot, Hattie Russell and Blanche Burton, names that are familiar to the patrons of the drama. It is a noteworthy fact that the prices of admission will not be raised for this engagement, the best seats remaining at $1, while the other prices will be 75 and 50 cents.

"Shaft No. 2" will be at the Lyceum Monday and Tuesday evenings. It will unquestionably be one of the greatest scenic productions ever seen here. The storm and electrical accident in the third act are grand. The shaft scene is an ingenious and clever one. With the true strategy of the playwright, the author introduces the suppressed horror and suspense of an electrocution scene, and though the spectator knows the hero is never to be carried off, suspense well carried out takes the place of really sustained dramatic action.

A St. Paul paper said: "The plot is the usual one in this class of play, of the hero, after passing through trials and tribulations, overthrowing villainy at the end. Frank Losee as the big hearted, loyal Jim Rathburn, was exceptionally good, as was J. F. Macdonald as Teddy O'Rourke, and Ben D. Dean as Tom Wilder. Of Marion Elmore, as Juddy O'Rourke; Mrs. W. G. Jones, as Mrs. Rathburn, and Jessie West, the heroine, nothing can be said but praise, but where all were so good it is hard to particularize. The scenic effects in the second and third acts were realistic, and all in all Mr. Bixby is to be congratulated on having an excellent play and a very clever company to play it."

Ella Leotta Swanton.

Tonight Miss Ella Leotta Swanton, elocutionist and impersonator, will appear at Masonic Temple under the auspices of the Eastern Star. Her recitations are highly pleasing and her posing is especially taking. The Winnipeg Saturday Night said of her:

"Miss Swanton simply captivated the audience, she was good in all that she did, and she did many things. Her statue poses were beautiful, and the pantomime "Coming Through the Rye" was one of the daintiest little pieces of acting imaginable. In her last numbers she was simply draped and looked perfectly lovely."

LAWYER IN TROUBLE.

I. Grettum, of Tower, Indicted By the Federal Court.

I. Grettum, a member of the St. Louis county bar, was arrested by a deputy United States marshal late yesterday afternoon on two indictments charging him with subornation of perjury. Grettum was arraigned, pleaded not guilty and furnished a total of $2000 bail, $1000 in each case. From the evidence adduced before the grand jury it is learned that at Tower, on Jan. 27, 1894, before W. G. Bonham, United States court commissioner, Grettum induced a certain woman known as Ophelia Kelly alias Ophelia Price, to make final proof on certain lands in 24 and 25-67-18 under the name of Cora Benson.

The affidavits of the pseudo Benson woman allege that she had complied with all the requirements of the preemption law, when in fact she had not under any name, done anything of the kind. The allegations is also made that Grettum knew the statements were false and procured them with that knowledge. The Kelly or Price woman was a witness before the grand jury. The charges are very serious ones and if sustained will probably result in the disbarment of Mr. Grettum in addition to the statutory punishment which may be inflicted.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

LYONS, Iowa, Oct. 12.—A fire at Fulton has burned an entire block. The loss is quite heavy, the structures destroyed being: Rhodes' hotel, the Fulton grist mill, the Fulton steam laundry, Snyder's wood and coal yard, the Northwestern freight office. Firebugs were sighted setting fire to the Holleran house, but they escaped.

First Methodist Church.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—A special train, containing many Methodists, left here this morning to visit the site of the old Strawbridge log meeting house on Pipe creek, Frederick. The old church was founded in 1760, and was the first Methodist church in America.

THE POPULIST RALLY.

First Big Meeting of the People's Party Campaign Held Last Evening at the Temple.

Judge Stearns Gave His Reasons for Renouncing His Allegiance to the Republican Party.

Strong Address by Willard J. Hull on the Principles and Ideas of the Populists.

The Populists held their first big meeting in Duluth at the Temple last evening. The lower floor and balconies were crowded making about 2000 people present. Willard J. Hull was the principal speaker, Judge Stearns presided. Applause was frequently given and there was plenty of enthusiasm.

When Judge Stearns came to the front there was applause. He said: "I wish to express my gratitude that kind Providence has enabled me to again stand before a Duluth audience. I have of late classed myself as a man without a political party and I come here privileged to say what I please. As most of you know I have always been a dyed-in-the-wool, black Republican, so black that I served in a black regiment. May be I am not whitened out yet. No party is responsible for my vagaries. I listened to Governor McKinley plead for the industrial welfare of the nation and could sympathize with that but when he slighted the monetary question and said it could wait until the tariff is settled, I felt strong emotions of protest. [Applause.]

"The man who advocates American wages must advocate American money. It would be no more humiliating to go to England and ask what our tariff laws shall be than to go to her and beg her consent to change our money system. [Applause.] I am not here to disavow allegiance to any party, but rather to show my contempt for the Democratic and Republican party positions on the money question. They are evasive and cowardly. Their position is not better than that of the copperheads at the outbreak of the war. They tell you they favor bimetalism but on impossible grounds. I want to express my admiration for the Populist party for coming out flatfooted and honestly on this question. [Applause.]

Cause of Hard Times.

"Considerable reflection has shown me that the primal cause of hard times—well, hold on, I don't know but what I am making a mistake, I don't believe we have any hard times. In an editorial in a Duluth paper the other day the Democratic party was charged with being responsible for them. In another editorial the Populists were called calamity howlers for asserting that there were hard times. [Laughter.] The primal cause, I believe, has been the course of legislation on the monetary question, bringing a condition of affairs which has made money dearer and commodities cheaper. No question now before the people stands equal to this." [Applause.]

Willard J. Hull, the orator of the evening, was introduced. He spoke for nearly two hours. His address was severely classical and clothed in language almost too heavy and flowery for a stump speech. It was scholarly and abounded in metaphors. Some of his perorations were startling. Mr. Hull in opening his address said simply, "Mr. Chairman, men and women." This form is commendable and might be copied to good advantage by many speakers.

Mr. Hull expressed his gratification at the size of the audience. Many were there, he knew, from idle curiosity, some to see what the animal looked like and more to learn something. He was here to help them. He did not pretend to know it all, but did know a few things. He quoted from George W. Stevens' West End speech a few days ago, as follows:

"There is another set that has appeared in the last two or three years, and they are going to show us how to run things. All they want to do is to gather up a lot of logs and pulp and run it through a machine and make money out of it. What's the use of making $1 bills? Why not make them $1,000,000 bills and make us all rich. I asked a fellow what these pop-the-doodle-doos were. He said that they had drifted from the Democratic party to the Republican, then to the Greenbacks, then to the women's rights, then to the Prohibitionists and then to their new party, and if they don't get elected on that they're going to join the Salvation Army."

Roast for Mr. Stevens.

He said that upon reading that he immediately made up his mind that the gentleman was a clever admixture of cunning and piety. "Nobody but an ultra pious person would talk like that," said Mr. Hull. "I learned that my surmises are correct and that George W. Stevens is the president of the Y. M. C. A. That is all the comment I have to make, except to add that by the time the meeting closes he will have found at least one man who is not a pop-the-doodle-doo and a man who has not drifted about very much in political affairs and is in no danger of drifting into the Salvation Army."

Mr. Hull then plunged into his speech. "If we carry our deliberations into nature we find that progress and change is the law of her dominion. From the lower types of life newer and better forms come. If we carry the study further we find nature is never dogmatic. The advance of knowledge always makes nature natural and the supernatural recedes as knowledge advances. Government should be natural and to be so should be founded on expediency. Man has no recourse except to earth to which he turns for his sustenance. There are governments which are not founded on natural things, governments where the distinction of the few represents the welfare of the masses. This is not the theory of our federal government. The constitution of a country is made by and of events. The federal constitution was the outcome of causes that had their effect and settlement in the revolution. It is the organic law of the nation. The fact that the organism is constantly changing has been lost sight of by certain economists. The framers of the constitution recognized it and made a provision enabling the people to get away from it if they wanted to. I believe it is time the people began to exercise some of their reserve rights. It is high time they got their noses off the grindstone.

The Sixteenth Amendment.

"What shall be the sixteenth amendment to the constitution? The initiative and the referendum. [Great applause.] We want the people to say 'here are the laws we have drafted, we command you to enfore them.' But they say the people make the laws. Then may Grover Cleveland help the people, God Almighty never will." [Laughter.]

He asked if the people made the money laws and demonetized silver and demanded "of what avail is the constitution when brought into the maelstrom of monopolistic combination." A constitution requiring defense, he declared is weak. If it cannot enforce the laws it is weak. He referred to certain laws which have failed entirely, notably, the anti-trust law and the interstate law than which "there never was a slimsier piece of pancake legislation." He quoted Congressman Warner to the effect that congress cannot pass a law which the trusts cannot get around as soon as it is in the statute books. "Is this not a dangerous confession from a member of congress, to say that it cannot deal with the trusts combining against the people?" he asked.

Plutocracy has no party and knows no party, he continued. It is the Janus head of the carcass of spoils. Jay Gould was the Jehovah of plutocracy. His idea was the Erie railroad. America ought to be ashamed that it produced such a man.

He ridiculed the tariff attitude of the two parties. They set a decoy in the river of finance and the people flock to see it. Then the pirates in ambush shoot them down. Sometimes there is a change of pirates. Since 1892 the Democrats have been the pirates and the dead ducks have nearly stopped the river. Before that it was a Republican decoy. They set up a 1,000,000,000 dollar congress for the Democrats to shoot at and they did not come far from the mark.

"The generalship of the two old parties is not in either of them. They are but the Punch and Judies dancing on the platform. The brain controlling them is never seen. Lombard street in London is the cerebrum and Wall street the cerebellum. When the wire is pulled the party leaders dance to an audience that climb over each other to pay the highest price to see who gets fleeced the worst. The wheat farms today are producing something besides mortgage securities—the protest of the people."

How to Settle the Tariff.

Figures were quoted to show how the wealth of the West is rolling into the East. "It is not a question of tariff. If it was Wilson would not be hobnobbing in England. He did his job and went over to eat his reward. Did you ever notice how the successful jobber always strikes out for England. I claim this tariff question can be settled in twenty-four words, the difference in the labor cost in Europe and America on imported goods manufactured in both places shall be the tariff on such goods. That will protect labor.

"But this is not the cause of the trouble here. It is a question of usury, of private aggrandizement. Every national bank is a strategic point in the warfare of wage slavery. Did Governor McKinley tell you anything of this. [Laughter and applause.] If he should commit such an indiscretion, his occupation like Othello's would be gone."

The press then came in for a roast. The press associations were declared to be controlled absolutely by the money power. The average paper is a machine run by stolen wealth. The editors are as much slaves as the arabs in the streets. The People's party has the only free press in the country.

George M. Pullman, John Wanamaker and others came in for a good roast. The apostasy of John Sherman he declared was the exact lineage of Nebuchadnezzar. He deplored the fact that consciences are dead. Every man who lives on the work of another or at the expense of his fellow man is a standing monument to a dead conscience.

The census of 1890 shows 71 per cent of the wealth owned by 9 per cent of the people. This he laid to three causes, the contraction of the currency, extortionate interest and the control by monopoly of the production and markets. The declaration of independence is a pretty thing but what defense is it today? "Are not its expressions mere platitudes? I say they are and have but to say one word, 'mortgage.' That word is written on the brows of nineteen-twentieths of the men in this audience."

Volume of Currency.

The money question was then discussed. He asserted that where there is plenty of money there are high prices and quoted political economists to prove this. With high prices comes high wages. Business is said to be recovering, but men are going to work at lower wages. The national banks were roasted. They collect interest on their debts. The government loans them money at 1½ per cent. "Why does it not lend this direct to the people, he asked. Why? Because you don't know how to vote. [Applause.] You'll learn after awhile.

"They say we are anarchists and revolutionists. Whenever a condition exists which causes uncertainty in industrial affairs there is the revolution. When silver was banished in 1872 that was a revolution. When congress gave 211,000,000 acres of land to the railroads that was a revolution. Who are the anarchists? You'll find them among the masters of finance who have transformed the country into a robbers' roost."

To prove that the contraction of currency means depression of business, he quoted the number of business failures each year from the time it began in 1865 up to 1878, which constantly increased each year. The Republican party, he said, was always the wet nurse to this contraction policy. The passage of the repealing clause of the Sherman act placed the final seal on the putrid carcass. He likened Wall street to a gambling den with the people as chips in the game of mercantile faro.

First Principles Necessary.

"There must be a reversion to first principles, those expressed in the Omaha platform. If they fail there is no help for the people. But they are not going to fail. They are going to win."

Roasts the Judges.

Lincoln was a true prophet when he warned labor to be jealous of its rights, he said. Lincoln saw every bullet at Chicago. Lincoln saw Judge Taft, Judge Jenkins and every judge who has smirched his bench with the bribes of plutocracy.

He called upon all to rise and take this oath "I swear by the eternal, that I forever renounce allegiance to the two old parties and do henceforth cast my lot with the principles of the People's party." The greater part of the audience arose and repeated it after him. Judge Stearns was among those who arose.

He spoke for S. M. Owen at the mention of whose name there was great applause. In closing he said. "This is not a campaign for political preferment. It is a campaign for bread; a last clutch at the skirts of the receding goddess men have named liberty."

Tonight Mr. Hull will speak at United States hall in the West End, on Saturday evening in Great Eastern hall at West Duluth.

Two Duluth Men Have Fun at Billiards at Foley's in St. Paul.

Judge Ball, attorney for the Northern Pacific at Fargo, frequently visits St. Paul and invariably spends an evening at Foley's, said the Pioneer Press a few days ago. He plays a really excellent game and enjoys it more than the best attraction that ever graced a theater. He, too, has been a billiard enthusiast all his life. Once while playing at Foley's he ran across C. A. Towne, Republican nominee for congress in the Sixth Minnesota district, and a rattling game was the result, Towne being a very clever player and an enthusiastic one. The good-humored badinage of the learned couple afforded amusement for a large audience, which also enjoyed the game for its actual worth.

It was during that game that Judge Moer, of Duluth, strolled into the room, and, seizing a cue, he entered into the contest. Judge Ball remarked that he had another "soft mark," and so saying rolled off eighteen good billiards, open table play.

"That's nothing," said Towne, rolling up his sleeves and going at the ivories. He stopped on an easy follow when he had made nineteen. Judge Ball's face was a puzzle, and he looked inquiringly at Judge Moer. "I used to run nineteen when I was 10 years old," he said, and catching the balls on the lower rail he ran twenty and quit on a difficult masse. This broke up the crowd. Continuing, the trio played earnestly and long, throwing down their cues at midnight. Which won? Well, Towne and Moer may be addressed at Duluth and Judge Ball at Fargo.

Something has disturbed the few professional gamblers in Duluth since Tuesday. As a class they are not early risers, but for the last four days they have been up bright and early and congregated in small groups between Third avenue west and Lake avenue on Superior street. Thursday morning they were in a very excited state and while they are usually quiet on the public streets they were quite the opposite on the morning in question. It is said that gamblers are all superstitious and that there is a belief among the leaders of the Duluth crowd that the first one who sees a lame horse, one lame in a front white foot, will be the one who will be victorious in the evening sessions. It is also understood that a bold, bad gambler from Chippewa Falls, one with a big roll and lots of nerve, is a late arrival here, and has depleted the cash on hand of the resident fraternity to such an extent that they are alarmed and looking for the horse mascot in order to play even with the stranger.

There is a certain prominent manufacturing firm in the city which has quite a business scheme that the public generally is not aware of. One member is a Republican and one a Democrat and they never "talk" politics together. When they visit their patrons who are inclined to talk politics, if it happens to be a Republican stronghold, why the Republican member of the firm does the talking and the way he scores the Democrats is a terror. If the crowd is Democratic the other member of the firm unloosens his tongue and proceeds to rip the grand old party wide open. But during the present campaign a little obstacle to this arrangement has arisen. There are only two members of the firm and there are three political parties. It is understood that for the present the firm's head bookkeeper, who is a Populist, will do the talking for that political part of the firm's patrons who can swallow Populistic doctrines, and after the election, if the third party makes any considerable showing, why the firm may be reorganized and a Populist partner admitted.

THIRD WARDERS MET.

Republican Ward Club Meeting at Headquarters Last Evening.

The Third Ward Republican club met at the county headquarters in The Herald building last night, and the large crowd present was addressed by Dr. Barrett, G. W. Stevens and Page Morris. Judge Morris said that the Populists are composed of two classes, those who believe in nothing and those who believe in nothing but themselves.

Mr. Stevens made one of his characteristic speeches, scoring the Populists and Democratic misrule.

Dr. Barrett made a speech in his usual witty style, arraigning Democrats and Populists. He said that prayers are called for in the Kansas churches for God to drive out the Populists and give them back grasshoppers.

Young Democrats Organize.

A Baldwin marching club was formed last evening at the Democratic headquarters with thirty members. B. J. Whitcomb was elected president, George Gibson, vice president, and Robert Crombie, secretary and treasurer. Another meeting will be held on Monday when a constitution and bylaws will be reported by a committee.

At the Temple tonight the doors will open at 7 p. m. for all those that wish to secure seats to hear the lecture by Rev. J. M. Cleary.

IT MAY BE A SUICIDE.

Letter Found on a Mile Post Near New Duluth Announcing William A. Delong's Intention to Suicide.

The Refusal of a Young Lady to Marry Him is Given as the Cause.

No Search Has Been Made for the Body and it May be Only a Joke.

A section foreman on the St. Paul & Duluth this morning found the following note pinned to a telegraph pole at Howell, just beyond Short Line Park:

"Oct. 9, 1894.

"To the public:—You will find my boddie straight southeast from here, as I have made up my mind to kill myself for the simple reason that one Miss Palmer, of Old Duluth, will not have me for her husband. I will shoot myself with a 32-calibre revolver, as I think it is the easiest death to die. I am writing this because I do not want it blamed on someone else. I will now sign my full name and I hope my boddie will be found before it is mortified. Hoping God will forgive me for the act, I will now close this life.

"WILLIAM A. DELONG,
"New Duluth, Minn."

On the other side are the following directions for finding the body: "From the milepost go straight past the tall white pine down the hill about a quarter of a mile and there beside a large log you will find me. I picked out the place this forenoon and I have been here ever since. Mother lives in Old Duluth."

The note is written on a scrap of old letter paper which has evidently been carried some time next to a red pocketbook, as the color has come off on the note.

No one had followed the directions this morning, but this afternoon someone will investigate. The letter may be a hoax, or its writer may have found that his nerve would not carry him through or the body may be lying in the place designated. No one live near the place, so it is impossible to tell what it means until it is investigated.

The agent at Short Line Park says that on the morning of Oct. 9, he saw a well dressed young man going in the direction of Howell with a revolver and cartridge belt strapped around him. This may or may not have something to do with the note.

Birthday Surprise Party.

About thirty of G. A. Kline's intimate lady and gentlemen friends assembled at his home last evening and surprised the best, it being his thirty-sixth birthday. He was presented with a very handsome smoking set. The evening was spent in playing games. Some fine musical numbers were rendered by several of the young ladies present.

FOOTBALL TOMORROW.

Duluth and Minneapolis High School Teams to Meet on the Field.

The recent victory won by the ex-collegiates over the Hamline football team has put an edge on the game in Duluth and the game scheduled for tomorrow promises to be played in the presence of a large crowd. The contest will be between teams representing the high schools of Duluth and Minneapolis, and the local players will spare no efforts to make as good a showing as did their elders last Saturday. The last practice will be held this afternoon after which the boys will rest before the game. Their followers have campaigned the event with all the vigor and enthusiasm of youth and will shout themselves hoarse at the game. The Flour City boys will reach here tomorrow morning, when they will be met at the train by the Duluth team.

Family Quarrel Over Some Chickens Tried in Court Today.

A family quarrel was aired before Judge Powell and a full jury this morning and the court and Lawyers Benham and R. P. Edson had a hard time keeping their faces in anything like a peaceful state. Mrs. Daniel Kane, a sharp faced woman, with a strong reminder of Ireland in her talk was charged with indecent exposure of her person. The testimony for the prosecution was all in at noon and Mrs. Kane, in her own behalf was placed on the stand just before the adjournment which was until 2 o'clock.

It appears that the Kanes and Romers used to live close together and that some neighborly squabbles arose, followed by a shooting of the Romers' chickens by one of the Kane boys. On Sept. 18 a Mrs. Rufrange, Mrs. Brenor and Miss Butts were visiting Mrs. Romer and the Kane boy happened along and killed a rooster belonging to the Romer people. The report of the gun alarmed the ladies and they ran out in time to see the boy with the gun in his hand and to hear the mother telling him to exterminate all the rest of the flock.

A war of words ensued and a hair pulling match between Mrs. Romer and Mrs. Kane followed and Mrs. Kane, it is alleged acted in an indecent manner which led to the arrest. Miss Butts, a young lady, who appeared for the defense, nearly paralyzed the court, jury and counsel by her replies to the questions asked her. The case may reach an end tonight.

Views of a Prominent Duluth Democrat on the Troubles in the Local Land Office.

Why Register Taylor has Incurred the Dislike of Baldwin and Some of His Directors.

A Prophesy that Taylor Will be Allowed to Complete His Whole Term as Register.

Speaking of the discontent in the United States land office a prominent Duluth Democrat who likes to see fair play said yesterday: "'Behold how joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity,' is an obsolete biblical adage as far as the United States land office in this city is concerned, and the similitude of the 'precious ointment which ran down upon Aaron's beard' doesn't exist, for some reason, in that vicinity. To the fair, impartial observer, such as I believe The Herald wishes to be considered, there seems to be a desire on the part of Maj. Baldwin's chief dictator to stab Register Taylor in the back or to remove his official head in an underhand sort of a way. But there are 'rifts in the lute,' and the thing lacks absolute harmony. The newspaper readers will remember a St. Paul dispatch which appeared in your paper last Monday stating that steps were being taken to have Register Taylor removed. Register Taylor when shown the dispatch and asked what he had to say regarding it, replied as follows: 'Oh, yes; I've seen the dispatch but have nothing to say about it. If I should say anything I should probably class it as a roorback which may recoil. No; I've nothing to say in the matter, except that I'm in the land office yet, in good health and have not lost my scalp.'

"For some unknown reason Register Taylor appears to have fallen under the disapproval of Baldwin's chief engineer primarily, and secondarily (in the machine order of things) the major and the United States marshal don't like him, but most generally there is a wheel within a wheel in such affairs and if The Herald wants to throw a little light on what is claimed by some good Democrats to be a very marked case of political ingratitude, it has a good chance.

"Some years ago when the Democrats sought for a congressional standard bearer there was a very strong feeling in favor of the nomination of C. d'Autremont, now ex-mayor of Duluth. Mr. Taylor, now the register, urged, with some supporters the candidacy of M. R. Baldwin and he met with the most determined opposition. Now Taylor isn't much bigger than the oft quoted 'pint of cider,' but he has the tenacity of an English bull terrier and he hung on to his Baldwin fad with such strength and resoluteness of purpose that, when Mr. d'Autremont declined to be the candidate, Baldwin was nominated and subsequently elected. The Democratic leaders were surprised at their success, and recognizing Taylor's handiwork, made no demur to his appointment to his present position and at that point chapter one of the 'political plot' ended.

"Mr. Taylor assumed his office and was then, as he is still, a strong opponent of the one man power in politics. He proposed to administer the affairs of his office according to law and without fear or favor, and here the entering wedge of discord appears to have been driven. Shortly after his appointment he sat as presiding officer in the famous O'Keefe contest of valuable lands near Tower and his decision, which was not favorable to Miss O'Keefe or to Maj. Baldwin's dictator who was somewhat interested, was sustained at Washington before the general land office. The action of the general land office shows that Mr. Taylor decided the contest according to the evidence and if he had done otherwise he would have encountered a reversal.

"Then the present ruction commenced in which the former editor of Bede's Budget, at Tower, now United States marshal for Minnesota, took part. The dictator decided that Taylor was not a good exponent of gang rule and that he must throw off his official toga and return to private life, and the Brown-Baldwin-Bede-birch-bark-brigade started in to knife Taylor. The major's star, and consequently his dictator's, is so notoriously in the descendant that his pleadings, which would tend to create strife in his party, will pass unheeded and Register Taylor will probably be allowed to serve out his full term, or until some other and better founded cause for his removal can be presented. You mark my words and see if I'm not about right!"

Inspecting Milk.

The board of health's office looked something like the receiving room of a creamery this morning as Inspector John Rossiter commenced an inspection of twenty-one samples of milk obtained from a number of city milkmen. If any samples are found not up to the standard prescribed by the state food commission the sellers will be prosecuted. Inspections will be held frequently in the future on irregular days and all milk shipped into the city will come under the general testing.

HIS BROTHER'S LIFE.

William Hare Seeks to Recover Its Value from the Eastern Minnesota.

William Hare, as administrator of the estate of Thomas Hare, has commenced a suit in district court for $5000 damages against the Eastern Minnesota railroad. The complaint alleges that Thomas Hare was a fireman on an Eastern Minnesota freight train, and that while passing through Kerrick, Pine county, a switch stand, which, owing to defective ties, leaned toward the track when a train passed by, caught him as he looked out of the cab window and drew him from the window. He was thrown thirty feet and died in an hour.

Hare alleges that his brother was the only support of an aged father and an uncle, both in Ireland, and he wants $5000 from the railroad company.

Thomas Timlin alleges that some time ago he loaned Michael Timlin $400 to purchase the minutes of some government land. It was to be repaid when the land was sold. Michael turned the land over to another Timlin named John with instructions to sell it and pay Thomas. Thomas alleges that John sold the land and kept the $400, but failed to turn it over to its proper owner. He also alleges that he sold John three barrels of whisky worth $385, and he affirms that John never paid for that either. He wants $785.

W. G. Joerns in a complaint filed this morning claims to be the owner in fee of a large number of lots in Ironton worth about $100,000. He says that John Swenson claims some interest in the lots, all but two of which are unoccupied, and Joerns wants the court to render a judgment giving him a clear title.

TRAIN ROBBERY.

Four Sacks of Gold and Silver Coin Secured From an Express Car in California.

Two Robbers Flagged the Train and Walked Engineer and Fireman to the Express Car.

The Messenger Forced to Open the Car and They Took the Sacks to the Engine.

Detaching the Engine, They Run Ahead Several Miles, Reversed the Lever, Sending It Back.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 12.—The train robbery which occurred last night about 7 miles beyond Davisville at a crossing known as Sheep Camp was a daring deed. Four sacks of coin were secured from the express car, and Messenger Jack Paige barely escaped with his life. The loot amounted to about $30,000. Engineer Bill Scott, of the Oregon overland, that left San Francisco at 6 p. m., and his fireman were forced at the muzzle of a revolver to carry the coin sacks from the express car to the engine. There the robbers uncoupled the engine and rode off with their booty.

It was a well planned and skillfully executed robbery. The robbers waylaid the track walker on his tricycle about 9 o'clock, tied him hand and foot, stole $5.50 and left him helpless at the side of the track. The track walker was just pulling out of Sheep Camp and the overland was already in sight. With the track walker's lantern the robbers signalled No. 3 to stop. Engineer Scott slowed up, but did not come to a full stop until the explosion of dynamite bomps under the engine warned him that it was useless to proceed further.

By this time the two robbers were on the engine. They sprang on from opposite sides of the track and began shooting at once. The passengers and train hands say quite a number of shots were fired before anyone knew what it was all about. The robbers made the engineer and fireman dismount and walked them back with rifles at their heads to the rear of the express car, where the victims were ordered to uncouple the train.

This was speedily done, and before the expressman, mail clerk or any of the train hands knew what was going on the engine was speeding ahead and drawing only the two forward mail cars and Wells-Fargo & Co's., express car. They went ahead about 5 miles with the robbers, the engineer and fireman on the engine. The rest of the train remain at the Sheep Camp in imminent peril of being telescoped by the Oregon train in the rear. When the captured cars were halted Engineer Scott and the fireman were marched back to the express car where the robbers made a demand on Messenger Paige to open his door. He refused.

"By God, I'll shoot the engineer and fireman if you don't open in a hurry," said one of the robbers, the tallest of the two, while the other masked man held two dynamite bombs up to the view in the clear moonlight and threatened to blow the express car to pieces unless it was opened at once. Still Paige hesitated and some shots were fired through the glass door at him, one of which grazed his temple and filled it with broken bits of glass. Then the engineer called out to Paige to open the door.

"We're covered with guns and they will kill us if you don't open," said Scott. Still Paige desisted and began firing through the door, but his aim was wild and again Scott, in fear of his life, called on the messenger to open, saying that the robbers would surely blow him up unless he gave up.

The messenger finally opened the door. One robber then covered the messenger and the engineer and fireman with his rifle, while the other searched for coin. He found four sacks, one containing $200 in silver and small change and three small sacks of gold. There was a good deal of treasure on the train, however, which the robbers did not secure. "I was about out of ammunition," said Messenger Paige," and Scott was so badly frightened that I opened the door then to save his life. I am sure they would have killed him if I had held back a moment longer."

When the door opened the engineer and fireman were ordered to jump in the car. The robbers followed them. Train No. 10 was close behind them and the bandits evidently knew that their time was limited and precious. The engineer and firemen were made to carry the booty to the engine and deposit where directed.

The robbers mounted the engine and rode off, leaving the engineer and fireman behind. They went down the road towards Sacramento and then reversed the lever and sent it back to the stalled train. Luckily the steam was low and when the locomotive came in contact with the forward mail car, but little damage was done. Train No. 10, the Oregon express, came along and pushed the three detached sections of Train No. 3 together and then into Sacramento, where they arrived at 12:30 this morning.

Engineer William Scott tells the story as follows: "We were running on time and would have been in Sacramento in about fifteen minutes. The train ran over two torpedoes and I thrust my head out of the window and noticed that we were being flagged. Everything was properly done and I had no suspicion of anything being wrong until the engine stopped, when two men armed with Winchester rifles sprang into the cab.

"They ordered Fireman Lincoln and me to dismount and go with them to the express car which they began to uncouple. They then accompanied us back to the engine and made us pull out about three-fourths of a mile to a point between two trestles. While uncoupling the car the conductor and brakeman got off the train and the robbers shot them. After stopping the engine between the trestles the men made us go back again to the express car.

"They called to the messenger to open the door or they would kill the fireman and myself. The messenger said that was all right, but if he opened the door they would kill him. I knew the robbers were determined and pleaded with the man to open the door. The robbers told him they would not hurt him if he opened it.

"They ordered us to go into the car first, one of them following us. The messenger gave up the keys to the boxes and the robbers opened them, taking out four sacks of money, two of them being so heavy that one man could not lift both. Then they ordered us ahead of them to help carry the sacks of money, and we walked back to the engine. The robbers constantly punched us in the backs with the muzzles of their guns.

"When we got to the engine the robbers jumped on it, opened the throttle and the engine sprang away down the track. When they arrived in the neighborhood of Sacramento they jumped off, reversed the lever and sent the engine back over the track.

"The first knowledge that we had of this act of the robbers was when we heard the engine coming down the track at a high rate of speed. At first we thought it might be some one coming to our aid, but a moment later realized that the engine was running away and stepped aside. We were just in time to avoid being struck by the wreckage as the engine crashed into the train. Fireman Lincoln, who got a good view of the robbers, says there is no doubt of their being men who thoroughly understand railroading."

"The signal used in stopping us complied exactly with the regular form," said Fireman Lincoln. "I think I should know either of the men if I were to ever see them. When the robbers ordered the express messenger to open the car, instead of complying the messenger fired two shots through the door, and came near hitting Engineer Scott and myself. It was then that we asked him to open up or the robbers would kill us."

The backs of Lincoln and Scott are covered with bruises caused by constant prodding of the rifles held by the robbers. The news of the robbery produced the greatest excitement and the city is alive with men eager to assist in the search. Men are already scouring the country in every direction. It seems almost impossible that the robbers can escape as the descriptions furnished of them are good and they must either be in or very near to the city.

An Infernal Machine.

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 12.—A glass tube filled with gunpowder and bullets, charged with chlorate of potash and having a lighted fuse attached to it was discovered outside the Metropolitan bank at Walsall, a town 8 miles from this city today. The fuse was extinguished before an explosion could occur. Walsall will be remembered as the scene of the well known anarchistic prosecutions which occurred at the beginning of 1892.

The Boy Stopped His Whistling.

The mystery of disposition is hard to solve. One man is happy and one man is miserable with no apparent reason for either condition of spirits. A man gets up feeling cheerful and goes to bed "blue." Another gets up in the "dumps," and when the day is over he is as merry as a lark. Those are moods. Moods are, however, sympathetic. A boy was hurrying up Park row with a bright look on his face. He was whistling merrily and tripping along with a light step when he was stopped by a middle aged man of apparent prosperity and good position.

"My boy," he said, "I wish I were as happy as you. I'd give $100 if I could be in your place."

The boy answered that he was sorry for the other, and the two went their ways. But the boy did not resume his whistling, and his face was gloomy.—New York Tribune.

At the Wrong End.

Passengers of the railways tip guards and porters, but seldom give a thought to the engine drivers, one of whom tells this story: A gentleman gave half a crown to the guard, with the request that he would do his best to make up for lost time, as he wanted to catch a particular train at a junction. When the junction was reached, the train in question was steaming out of the station, whereupon the passenger, annoyed, went to the driver and said, "I think, driver, you might have enabled me to get my train." "Ah, sir," replied the driver, "you greased the wheels at the wrong end of the train."—London Strand Magazine.

Margaret of Austria.

Bearded women have been very numerous. The most noted of the number was the famous Margaret of Austria, appointed by Charles V to be governor of the Netherlands. She had a long, stiff, black beard, and conceiving the idea that it added to the majesty of her appearance was very careful of it, and so combed and trained it as to make it seem much greater than it was.

The first newspapers—the Venetian gazettes—were for many years circulated only in manuscript, because the government would not allow their publication in print. Becoming scurrilous, they were prohibited in every part of Italy by a special bull, issued by Gregory XIII.

SEVERAL VESSELS WRECKED.

Disasters on the Lake Caused by a Heavy Windstorm.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 12.—During a terrific windstorm last night the three-masted schooner Hartford, of Clayton, with 24,000 bushels of wheat from Detroit for Cape Vincent, was driven ashore at Woodville, twenty-five miles east of here.

Capt. William O'Toole, wife and child; Richard Seymour, mate, and Michael Purcell, all of Clayton; Dennis McCarthy, a seaman of Oswego, and an unknown man of Grindstone island, were lost.

The body of a child was washed ashore. The beach is strewn with wreckage and the vessel will prove a total loss. Her cargo of wheat was valued at $13,000 and was fully insured. The Hartford was valued at $4500.

THE CHAMPION WEIGHT THROWER.

James S. Mitchell, Who Has Just Smashed His Own World's Record.

One of the best known amateur athletes of the day and one whose achievements in shot putting and throwing the hammer will long stand as world records is James S. Mitchell of the New York Athletic club.

His record is a wonderful one and includes a long series of victories. He has won nearly 350 first prizes and broken over 50 records, many of which were made by himself. In October, 1893, at the annual championship meet of the Metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union, Mitchell sent the 56 pound shot 35 feet 9¼ inches, establishing a new world's record over his own of 35 feet 6¼ inches, made in 1892. This mark he again smashed at the recent fall games of the New York Athletic club, hurling the missile 35 feet 10 inches.

Mitchell holds the world's amateur championship for throwing the 16 pound hammer 145 feet ¾ inch, made Oct. 8, 1892.

He also holds the record for throwing the 56 pound weight for height. This he established at the Amateur Athletic union's championship games at Chicago last year.

Mitchell is an Irishman, having been born at Emly, Tipperary, on Jan. 31, 1865, and is therefore 29 years old. He comes of a family noted for longevity, his grandfather having lived to the age of 102 and his grandmother to 96. His father was noted as a very strong man. Mitchell is laconic despite his nationality and of a modest and unostentatious disposition. Mitchell first competed in America in 1888, when he came over with the famous Irish team of athletes which toured here that year. He is a splendidly proportioned man, standing 6 feet ½ inch in his stockings, has a chest measurement of 46 inches and weighs 210 pounds in condition.

Training For Football.

"There is always a try for heavy men for the rush line, particularly in and near the center. These big fellows, with their aldermanic proportions and over 200 pounds, are generally used up very soon in attempting to do as much work as men who begin in fairly good condition," says James G. Lathrop in Outing. "If they are to be of value in the big games, they must be handled with great care. While they must work hard to get rid of their fat, they should not be put in the line every day. They should be played but part of the time each day—five minutes one day, ten another, back to five the next, and so on, gradually increasing the time as condition improves. Work should be mainly running, not several miles on a stretch or even one mile, but short spurts of about 50 yards, followed by walks of about the same distance. The rate of speed in the run should not be a man's best, yet it should be much faster than a long distance gait. The walk between the runs gives the muscles a chance to rest, allows the exercise to be kept up longer, thus increasing perspiration and the reduction of weight.

"As the special object with these men is to get off weight and as the majority of young fellows eat from one-quarter to one-third more than they need, it would be well to eat less, not paying so much attention to quality as quantity. This can be done without loss of strength and is a great help in reducing."

Princeton's Football Schedule.

President Munn of the Princeton Football association gave out the following schedule for the Princeton team: Oct. 13, with the Columbia Athletic club at Washington; Oct. 15, with the University of Virginia at Baltimore; Oct. 20, with Cornell at New York; Oct. 24, with Lehigh at Princeton; Oct. 27, with the Volunteers at Princeton or Crescents at Brooklyn; Nov. 3, with the University of Pennsylvania (doubtful); Nov. 6, with the Orange Athletic club at Orange; Nov. 10, with Harvard (doubtful); Nov. 29, with Yale (doubtful).

Georgia Cayvan to Star.

Georgia Cayvan is the latest leading lady to weary of the restrictions of the stock company and yearn to be a star. Miss Cayvan will leave the New York Lyceum stock company, of which she has been leading lady for many years, at the end of the season, and next fall will blossom out as a full fledged star under the management of Daniel Frohman. She has long been desirous of appearing in plays which the Lyceum stage is too small to hold.

NOT ALL THE CONDUCTOR'S FAULT.

It Is Best to Sit Beside Your Own Property In Railway Trains.

To mind your own property is good general advice, but to sit beside your own property in railway trains and other conveyances is special advice worth minding.

In the Harlem river suburban train one afternoon a man sat in the forward seat of the car, with a large, compact package beside him, which might have been a dry goods bundle. At Bartow, on the sound, he got off, waving adieu to some individual away in the back and leaving the package behind him. No one noticed it until the train was just steaming out of the station, when it caught the conductor's eye.

Quick as a wink he snatched it, and before there was time to call halt measured the distance between the moving train and the escaping traveler's heels, hurling the package within an inch of them, like a champion hammer thrower, with a big shout of warning.

Then a crash was heard loud enough to make every passenger strain forward and look out. The platform was strewn with fragments of fine china, which might have been portions of a dessert service, and simultaneously the conductor's arm was gripped by a man who rushed forward from the rear of the car.

"You blooming, confounded idiot!" he shouted. "How dare you touch my property! I'll make you pay for this, or else I'll make the company pay. What right had you to assume that my brother had anything to do with it?" And then the true situation dawned on every one present, whose sympathies, however, were with the conductor's reply.

"I'm sorry you lost your property," he said. "I did the best I knew how when I thought I saw the real owner going. I couldn't tell 'twas breakable. Next time you'd better sit beside your own."—New York Herald.

Curious Properties of Glycerin.

One of the great advantages of glycerin in its chemical employment is the fact that it neither freezes nor evaporates under any ordinary temperature. No perceptible loss by evaporation has been detected at a temperature less than 200 degrees F., but if heated incessantly it decomposes with a smell that few persons find themselves able to endure. It burns with a pale flame, similar to that from alcohol, if heated to about 300 degrees and then ignited. Its nonevaporative qualities make the compound of much use as a vehicle for holding pigments and colors, as in stamping and typewriter ribbons, carbon papers and the like.

If the pure glycerin be exposed for a long time to a freezing temperature, it crystallizes with the appearance of sugar candy, but these crystals being once melted it is almost an impossibility to get them again into the congealed state. If a little water be added to the glycerin, no crystallization will take place, though under a sufficient degree of cold the water will separate and form crystals, amid which the glycerin will remain in its natural state of fluidity. If suddenly subjected to intense cold, pure glycerin will form a gummy mass which cannot be entirely hardened or crystallized. Altogether it is quite a peculiar substance.

GOT THOUSANDS.

An Express Train Held Up on the Virginia Side of the Potomac and Robbed.

Supposed the Bandits Obtained Between One Hundred and Fifty and Two Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The Heavy Oak Doors of the Express Car Were Splintered By Sticks of Dynamite.

Cut the Engine Loose, Piled Their Plunder Into it and Then Made Their Escape.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The train which was held up last night on the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad reached the Pennsylvania depot at Jersey City at 8:05 this morning, bringing with it a badly shattered express car. The Adams Express company's messengers left the train and proceeded at once to the headquarters in New York. They reported that all their safes had been rifled by the robbers. It is supposed that the bandits obtained between $150,000 and $200,000.

When the express car, which is one belonging to the Atlantic coast division, was sidetracked, passengers, passers-by and trainmen gathered around to examine a spectacle unique in the history of railroading in this section. It was found that the heavy oak doors had been splintered by the sticks of dynamite forced into the car by the robbers.

In addition to this the marks of revolver bullets were plainly visible. Every pane of glass in the windows of the car had been shattered by the force of the explosion, and fragments of glass were still scattered over the floor of the car. The officials of the Adams Express company in charge of the car at the depot claimed that only the pouches and safes had been ransacked. The other packages in the car remained intact.

Many of the passengers who witnessed the hold-up left the train at Washington and Philadelphia, a few of them completing the journey to New York. The trainmen as usual were reticent about discussing the affair, but Col. J. M. Shackleford, a newspaper man who happened to be on board the train at the time, discussed the incident freely and gave a graphic account of the manner in which the robbers secured their plunder and made their escape. Mr. Shackleford was formerly an editor of the Newark Journal. He is now connected with the Times Enterprise, of Thomasville, Ga. He told the following story:

"About seven or eight miles the other side of Quantico station the train came to a sudden stop. Quantico station is located on the Potomac river, on the Virginia side. When the train stopped the conductor, M. A. Birdsong, was thus addressed by one of the masked robbers, evidently the captain of the gang: 'Throw up your hands or we'll blow your brains out.' From the manner in which they arranged the signals for stopping the train, as well as the manner in which they afterwards made their escape, it was evident that several of the gang were experienced railroad men. That they were desperate men was even more evident, and the conductor and fireman lost no time in obeying their instructions, and wisely too, I guess.

"There were at least six or seven masked. I could plainly distinguish them all in the clear moonlight of the early evening; in fact so near did they come to me that in spite of their masks I am almost sure that I could recognize some of them if I could see them again, from certain little peculiarities of dress or speech. When the alarmed passengers crowded out of the cars to see what was the matter, the robbers fired a perfect fusilade of shots to intimidate them as well as to frighten the railroad men.

"The robbers rifled the express car without loss of time. They put their sticks of dynamite under the door of the express car and blew it open. The manner in which these men got on the train was a mystery, but we afterwards discovered that they in all probability boarded the car at White Brook station, a few miles the other side of Quantico station. They evidently climbed upon the platforms and while the train was in motion worked their way along the tops of the cars until they succeeded in boarding the tender and cab. Then without any ceremony they held up the engineer and fireman. The engineer is named Frank Gallagher. He was an old employe on the road and as brave as could be, the road men tell me, but two or three of the villains attended to the engineer while two or three more attended to the express messengers and another one or two kept guard on the passengers and trainmen.

"Some of the desperadoes even went so far as to converse in a clever, daring fashion with passengers and trainmen. This made us all the more indignant, but we could do nothing to help ourselves. All of the passengers were cool and collected after the first flush of the excitement was over.

"I remember it struck me as being a humorous thing when we found out after an examination of all our pockets that we had only one pistol to the entire crowd and that a little bit of a one, and the mischief of it was that it would not work at all, when the owner of it tried to discharge it at the robbers as they disappeared in the darkness. But that was not half so laughable as was the incident of one woman who had a little diamond studded watch. She tried to get her husband to swallow it in the excitement, but he declined to attempt the preservation of the watch in that fashion.

"The most novel thing in the entire proceeding was the way in which the robbers made their escape. They cut the engine loose, piled their plunder into the cab, and then the whole crowd piled in upon top of it. They turned on steam and started for Quantico station as fast as the engine could carry them. Of course that left us stalled in the middle of the road. The conductor and engineer pursued the engine on foot as fast as they could run for 6 or 7 miles. When they reached Quantico station they found that the desperadoes had turned the engine loose, that it was running wild and that through the cleverness of the operator it had been sidetracked and ditched just in time to prevent a collision with a south bound train.

"Everything seemed to come their way. At any rate they had the thing well planned and well executed. They had a boat in readiness near Quantico station and we all thought that they succeeded in getting across to the Maryland shore with their plunder.

"They overlooked one pouch in the car in their hurry. I don't know just how much they got away with, but some of the train men thought it must amount to at least $150,000 or possibly $200,000. The express messengers did the best they could to prevent the robbers from getting into their car, but the dynamite and the revolvers of the gang were enough to make any man weaken. They threatened to kill the messengers on the spot if they refused to open the safe. The messengers refused to yield until the captain of the gang said: 'I'll give you just thirty seconds to get to work.' Then the men gave in."

The Adams Express company is not informed as to the amount of money secured by the robbers. L. C. Weir, president of the Adams Express company, said to an Associated Press representative today that as the way bills were destroyed they could not judge as yet the amount of money lost. It was probable that all packages received at points south of the robbery were gone, and it will take some time to ascertain the loss. Detectives have been sent from New York, Philadelphia and Washington to gather clues. Express Messenger B. F. Crutchfield, who came to the general offices here this morning, left with the detectives from New York. It is the belief of Mr. Weir he has gone South with the detectives to help them in their work.

SEVEN IN THE GANG.

The Bandits Were Evidently Men of Experience in Railroad Business.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Details of last night's hold-up at Quantico of the north bound express train on the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad add to its daring character and also tend to show that several of the robber gang were men of experience in the railroad business.

Seven men composed the gang and their demand for the way bill when the express messenger declared that the safe was empty, and a remark they made to the fireman cautioning him about disconnecting the air brake tubes when he uncoupled the engine on their demand, show that some members of the gang had been railroad hands at some time or other.

Besides, after the engine was uncoupled it was boarded by the robbers and run by them until near Widewater station, a short distance from the scence of the hold-up, where they abandoned and sent it ahead running wild. Express Messenger Crutchfield thinks the booty secured was $150,000 or more. He gave this account of the robbery:

"But one robber entered the car. He was of heavy build and dressed like a farmer, although he seemed to thoroughly understand the express business; he had a red bandkerchief over the lower part of his face. When the train was stopped I opened the door of my car. The robber fired and shot at me. I fired back and closed the door. He called, 'Open the door.' I did not do it.

"'Open that door or I'll blow the whole car to pieces with dynamite.'

"Then he threw a stick of dynamite. It struck the door and shattered it and the casing. The force knocked me off my feet. I then opened the door. One robber came in and made me open the safe. He took everything. There was one package which he must have thought contained only papers for he threw it into the box. It contained $6000. Then he said, 'Open that other safe.'

"'That is simply a deadhead safe,' I said.

"'The hell it is,' he roared, 'show me your waybill for it.'

"I started to get the bill and he said, 'Keep your hands up. Show me the paper, I'll get it.' He looked at the bill and was satisfied that the second safe contained nothing, which was true. The man was very cool all the time. We had seven or eight through express pouches, each containing packages of money; how much I can't guess. The man cut a small slit in each pouch and took every package."

HILL SPEAKS AGAIN.

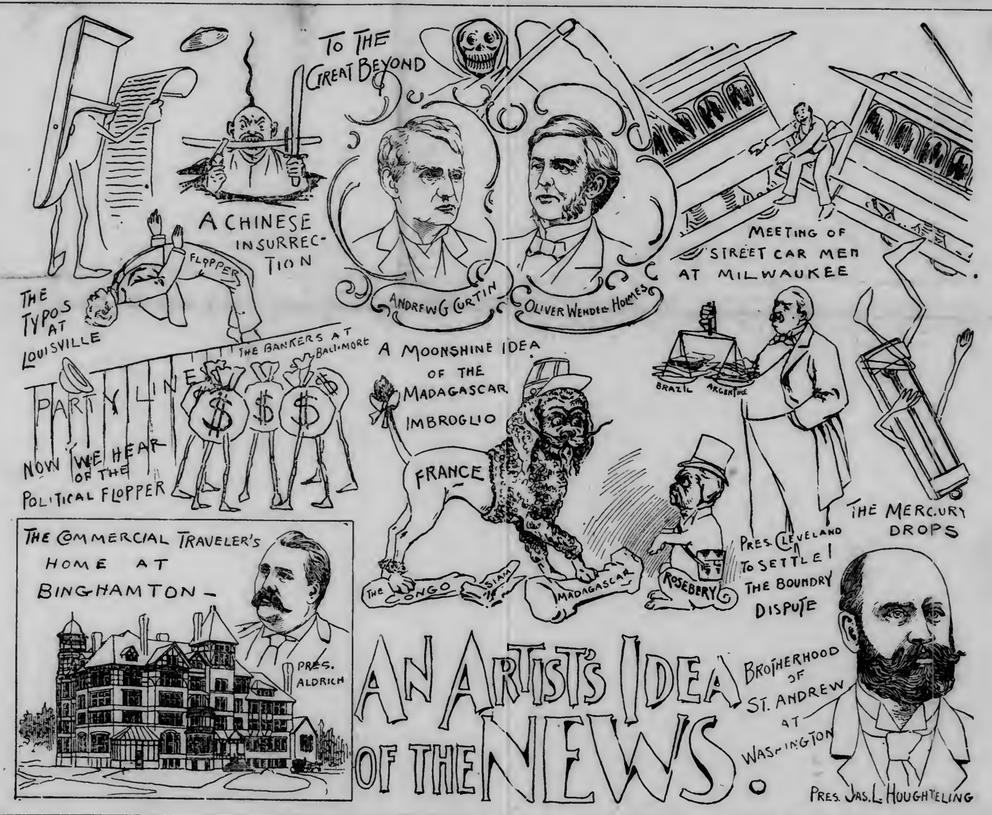

A Large and Enthusiastic Audience Listened to Him at Binghampton.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Senator Hill spoke last night to an audience equally as enthusiastic and as large as that at Syracuse Thursday night. Senator Hill took occasion to score those members of the Democratic party in New York and Brooklyn, who were making trouble in the party.

He complimented the Democrats of the rural districts and said they were never more united and earnest than they are at this hour and afford an example which might well be followed by their party friends in the great metropolis and its sister city.

Grocery House Burned.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 13.—Fire early this morning destroyed the wholesale grocery house of Moellering Bros. & Millard, corner Layfayette and Hanna streets. Loss on stock $40,000; on building $5000, fully covered by insurance. Origin unknown.

REED TO SPEAK.

Hon. Thomas B. Reed Has Promised to Speak in Minneapolis on the Evening of Oct. 24.

Joel Heatwole Has Begun a Libel Suit Against a Chicago Paper Asking $100,000 Damages.

Gen. Morgan, Indian Commissioner Under Harrison, Made a Violent Attack Upon the Catholic Church.

A Farmer at Sleepy Eye Suffers Heavy Loss By the Burning of His Barn and Contents.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 13.—A message was received at Republican headquarters this morning stating that Hon. T. B. Reed will speak in Minneapolis Wednesday evening, Oct. 24. Preparations for his reception will be begun at once. Mr. Reed has said that he could speak but once in Minnesota, but if he gets out of this state with one big speech he will be getting out of it a good deal easier than is expected. Trains will be run from all parts of the state and probably from North Dakota as well. Efforts will be made to have him speak in St. Paul as well as Minneapolis.

A Dakota Surgeon's Death.

HURON, S. D., Oct. 13.—Dr. G. W. Moody died at 4 a. m. today from rupture of blood vessel of the brain. He was one of Dakota's earliest settlers; a prominent man in the state, and was president of the territorial board of health. He has been surgeon for the Chicago & Northwestern railway in Dakota since 1880.

BUILDING AT SANDSTONE.

All the Residents Will be Housed Before Next Month.

HINCKLEY, Minn., Oct. 13.—Reports of great dissatisfaction having been heard from Sandstone during the past few days, your correspondent made several investigations in that place. There was dissatisfaction, but it was caused by delay in getting lumber on the scene.

Through the negligence of the agent at West Superior, lumber was delayed for some days but during the past week everything has been moving very smoothly and six houses are in course of construction, and G. Miller, who has charge of the work at Sandstone, says that he will have all residents comfortably housed before Nov. 1.

Building has been retarded on account of rain for the past ten days; and though the plucky inhabitants are roughing it, they have perfect confidence in Miller to complete the relief work in a satisfactory manner. Everything is working on a business basis, and there are no people who suffered by the fire who are more grateful to the public than those at Sandstone.

GEN. MORGAN'S BATTERIES.

They Are Turned Against the Catholic Church in America.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—Gen. T. J. Morgan, Indian commissioner under President Harrison, in an address before the state Baptist convention on "Rome in Politics," made a bitter attack on the Catholic church, which, he declared, was a political organization. The pope, he said, would soon try to have the ablegate recognized at Washington as an ambassador from a political sovereignity.

He charged the Catholics with securing the defeat of Harrison on account of his administration of Indian affairs. He asserted that ninety-nine out of every 100 Catholics were Democrats, only enough remaining Republican to keep up appearances.

He referred to Archbishop Ireland as a man who carries a United States senator in his vest pocket for convenient use, and added that the archbishops of America were at this moment behind closed doors plotting against free schools and the free institutions of America.

JOEL WANTS BIG DAMAGES.

Joel Heatwole Has Sued a Chicago Paper for $100,000 for Libel.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 13.—One more libel suit has been added to the calendar in the Cook county, Ill., courts against the Chicago Times. This time it is Joel P. Heatwole, who asks $100,000 in mitigation for damages to his character as set forth in a telegram from Northfield some time ago, charging Heatwole with all sorts of political deals.

The main part of Mr. Heatwole's defense will be elaborately set forth in affidavits from Governor Merriam, the city council of Northfield and other citizens. Among other things charged was a statement claiming that Merriam had said he would spend money to encompass the defeat of Joel this year. This the ex-governor will deny.

A Farmer's Heavy Loss.

SLEEPY EYE, Minn., Oct. 13.—The large barn on the farm of Lars Frederickson, of Cobden, was burned about midnight. John Stewart, the renter, lost all his horses, pigs, chickens, cattle and about 400 bushels of wheat. Incendiarism is suspected. A subscription paper is being circulated in aid of Stewart and is generally signed.

FATAL DRUNKEN FIGHT

One Person Was Instantly Killed, Two Were Fatally Wounded and Two Others Seriously Injured.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 13.—As a result of a drunken fight at Maltby a small Hungarian settlement near this city, one person was instantly killed, two fatally wounded and two others seriously injured. The killed and injured are:

George Sivoski, aged 17 years, head blown to pieces.

Lizzie Fosky, aged 15 years, shot in the back and abdomen, cannot recover.

John Jenkins, aged 28 years, shot in the abdomen and left hand blown off; cannot live.

Maggie Moore, aged 14 years, shot in the arm and both legs, will recover.

Thomas Moore, aged 23, shot in both legs, left knee shattered, will recover.

A Slav named Michael Paloski was the cause of the wholesale shooting of human game. Early in the evening Paloski became intoxicated and going to the saloon of John Moore, started a quarrel. He was ordered from the saloon, and becoming enraged at this kind of treatment he started for his home to procure a shotgun. He got the gun, and on his way back to the saloon he encountered Dan Ryan, who was sitting on his porch, together with Lizzie Fosky and Maggie Moore.

Ryan advised Paloski to go home but the latter, who was in a terrible rage, raised the gun and fired. The two girls received most of the shots and fell to the porch shrieking with pain and blood spurting from their wounds. John Moore, who had been attracted by the shooting, quickly picked up his sister, and Ryan gathered up the Fosky girl in his arms and both made a rush for the door to escape the enraged Slav.

Before the men were able to get inside of the door, the drunken fiend emptied the contents of the second barrel into the girls, Moore receiving part of the load in his knee. The shooting attracted a large crowd and Paloski was joined by two of his countrymen who were also supplied with guns. John Jenkins attempted to arrest Paloski when he received a load of shot in his stomach.

The crowd then rushed upon the Slavs and attempted to disarm then, but the three men escaped into their boarding house and barricaded the door. The three men thrust their heads through a window and threatened to kill the first person who attempted to enter the house. The crowd began to fall back, and as they did so one of the three men fired but the shot did not take effect.

People living on the opposite side of the street were attracted by the shooting and had their heads out of windows, one of these was George Sivoski. One of the Slavs seeing the head of the boy took deliberate aim and fired, the full charge striking the unfortunate boy on the left side of the head, tearing half his head and face away. The boy fell dead.

The horror-stricken people closed their windows and barricaded their doors. The murderous Slavs finding no human beings to shoot at turned their guns on lighted windows and trees and anything their fancy suggested.

After all had become quiet, several men armed with revolvers and shotguns went to the house to arrest the murderers. The door of the house was found open, however, and the men were nowhere to be found. They had deserted the house. Two women were arrested at Kingston this morning of having been connected with the shooting. Two guns carried by the murderers were found in a pond near by.

Gen. Harrison's Tour.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 13.—Gen. Harrison appeared at the breakfast table today bright and early, ready for another day of speechmaking. At 9 a. m. the special train bearing him and his party left over the air line for Indianapolis. Stops were made at New Albany, Jeffersonville and other points where meetings had been arranged.

A New Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—[Special to The Herald.]—E. A. Bushey was today appointed postmaster at Malmo, Aitkin county, Minn., vice P. O. Svedberg, removed.

IN RAILROAD YARDS.

Something About the Great Volume of Business and Equipment of American Lines of Railroad.

Growth of the Switching Business at the Head of the Lake From the Earliest Day.

Foreign Cars and the Important Part They Play in the Sum Total of Duluth Work.

In round numbers there are about 225,000 miles of railroad track in the United States and of this immense total nearly 185,000 miles are laid with steel rails, the balance being laid with iron. Few Duluth people, or elsewhere, except they are connected with railroad service or engaged in the compilation of statistics, ever stop to consider anything further in a railroad relation than the price of tickets, freight rates or the quickest route for passengers or freight between certain points, but although the figures are vast and, in some instances, run up into the billions, the general reader can find much to interest the mind in a brief contemplation of this most important means of rapid transit.

Let us stop for a minute and take a round number "census" of the equipment, and we find something like 36,000 locomotives with an average length of 60 feet; some 25,000 passenger coaches averaging 75 feet in length; 8000 baggage, mail and express cars of about 60 feet each, and 1,200,000 box, flat and dump cars which will run about 35 feet each, the whole giving us a total length of equipment of 46,515,000 feet, or a string of cars and engines a little over 8800 miles long. Supposing that all these cars and engines were in one long row and backed closely against one another, the leading engine would travel just about as far as from Duluth to St. Paul before the "slack" would be taken up sufficiently to move the rear car. Passenger and freight trains last year, including those on the elevated railroads, registered about 900,000,000, and there were about 575,000,000 passengers carried and their actual mileage was nearly 13,700,000,000 miles. About 750,000,000 were moved and the freight mileage was something in the vicinity of 84,150,000,000 miles.

What Duluth Yards Show.

But the purpose of this article is not to confuse the reader with a mass of figures but call a little attention to the daily "cosmopolitan" state of the railroad freight yards in Duluth. There are in the vicinity of 600 separate and distinct lines of railway in the United States and during the present year nearly every one of them has been represented by some of its equipment, either freight or passenger at this city.

A few days ago a glance out of one of the rear windows of The Herald office revealed freight cars belonging to sixty-nine different roads, another day thirty-seven were noticed from the same window on four tracks. These cars come from every part of the union. About three weeks ago a "double header" freight pulled out of the yards here on the St. Paul & Duluth railroad. There were forty-one cars in the train and there were no less than twenty-three different roads' rolling stock in the string of cars, and six of these roads had the name Duluth in the corporate title. How different a scene from the year when the first railroad reached here and when a "foreign" car was a regular curio. Lest any person should feel inclined to doubt this statement a glimpse at the books of General Yardmaster D. H. Williams will prove the assertion.

In that one train the following roads were represented: Duluth, Missabe & Northern; Duluth & Winnipeg; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic; Duluth, Red Wing & Southern; Central of Iowa; Burlington & Northern; Northern Pacific; Duluth and Iron Range (six cars of lumber); Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; New York Central; Lake Shore & Michigan Southern; Chicago & Northwestern; Minneapolis & St. Louis; Burlington & Missouri River; Pennsylvania; Missouri, Kansas & Texas; Mobile & Ohio; Southern Pacific; East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia; Louisville & Nashville; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie; Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, and the Grand Trunk.

There's a cosmopolitan aggregation for you! There were deep red and pale red cars, yellow cars and blue cars, a drab colored car and one so dark that it looked almost black and the train, at a little distance looked like a kaleidoscope on a gigantic scale. There have probably been a great many worse mixed up trains than the one in question sent out of Duluth railroad yards, but the one noted will do fairly well for a sample.

Represent Enormous Business.

Those cars represented the business of two oceans and the Gulf of Mexico, to say nothing of her Brittanic majesty's dominion to the northward of us, and they showed to any observing person that Duluth's commercial dealings extend to all parts of the home country as well as to isolated points all over the Old World.

It is not very many years ago since the first toiling locomotive creaked and grunted as it led the first train into Duluth. That locomotive did all the switching in Duluth when there was any to be done—every other day when it arrived from St. Paul, and the train hands used to sit around half the time and fish from the piling between Duluth and Rice's Point stations. By and by business grew so heavy that a daily freight service was inaugurated on the old Lake Superior & Mississippi, (St. Paul & Duluth) road and the road engine did the switching work as before, only every evening and morning. A little longer and six days was not time enough to work in, and a Sunday freight was added, and some of the good old Presbyterians in Duluth—male and female—had conniptions and said that the road would "go to the devil, and all those who worked on such a godless thoroughfare."

Well, the road didn't go to the devil—it built to Cloquet instead, and called its rocky roadway the Knife Falls branch. Business kept on the boom, however, and a switch engine—all for Duluth and—was received, and some of the old early citizens used to go down to the yards to see the engine which they called "their engine," and beg the engineer to give them a little ride. Pretty soon foreign cars began to creep in in great numbers—"Blue" lines, "Red" lines, the old "Merchants Dispatch" and others, and additional switch engines became necessary. Other roads laid their iron highways Duluthward until some sixty switching engines are employed during the twenty-four hours at this end of Lake Superior alone.

Arrivals of Special Cars.

Then came the advent of special cars in large numbers until in 1893 something like 400 special business or private cars visited Duluth, increasing the work of the switchmen and enlarging the total of passenger business until the coach tracks in the Union depot yards began to look truly metropolitan in the number of lines represented. Transfer and terminal railroad companies sprang into being and kept on increasing and the foreign car service became almost as great in volume as that of the local lines.

What do you take medicine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, of course. Then remember, Hood's Sarsaparilla CURES. 8

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat can be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50-cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by all druggists.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

ROYAL, the Superior Baking Powder.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., February 17, 1893.

I have, within the last month, purchased at the leading retail stores twenty-five samples of Royal Baking Powder, in original sealed packages, and have submitted each one to a careful chemical analysis as to its character, purity and efficiency.

They have been found to be cream of tartar powders entirely free from ammonia and all forms of adulterations and impurities, and to be of the very highest leavening power.

I have never examined a large line of samples obtained by purchase upon the retail market which have shown anything like the uniformity of composition and the very high degree of leavening power which is shown by these samples.

Right Arm Paralyzed!

Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine and has gained 31 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."

SPORT FOR HUNTERS.

Deer Reported Fairly Plentiful in the Wisconsin Woods But Somewhat Hard to Get At.

A Large Party of Eastern Men Who Recently Started For Morris to Hunt Ducks.

A True Story By the Real Estate Man About a Shooting Trip Up the River.

The duck hunters are having fairly good sport on near by lakes and more birds will be found as the weather grows colder. Out on the Dakota shooting grounds the sport is all that could be expected. Deer are reported fairly plentiful in the Wisconsin woods but are somewhat hard to get at, considerable walking being necessary to reach their feeding grounds.

A. C. Steele, Alex Stevens, of Detroit, Mich., and George Powers leave this evening for a duck hunt at Swan Lake.

C. R. Heneage had such a good time on his recent duck hunt he induced quite a party of Eastern men to come up and enjoy a few days' sport. The Columbus & Sandusky Short Line railway car came in last Tuesday bearing W. E. Guerin, president, and H. B. Tourney, secretary of the road, George W. Sinks, president of the National bank of Columbus, O., W. H. Putman, of New York, and J. S. Jones, of Chicago, vice president of the Pennsylvania and Ohio Fuel company. All are interested in the fuel company, Mr. Tourney being president. Tuesday night, accompanied by C. R. Heneage they left for Morris where they will spend several days hunting ducks.

"Why don't you tell us some true hunting stories instead of fables of glittering success and lacking all infelicities?" said the real estate man the other day when the writer tried to interview him in regard to a duck hunt the real estate man enjoyed recently. "Now I'll tell you about one—of course I was not along but a friend told me about it."

"Having read so much about the good shooting up the river a party of three decided to start early some nice morning and get a few ducks and return in time to attend to business as usual. Well, we—that is they—hired a livery rig for $5 and having rented three guns and purchased two boxes of cartridges apiece at an outlay of $3 more.

"Three o'clock the next morning was decided upon as the time to start for Spirit lake. Well, after driving around town for an hour or two the party was gotten together and a start made in the direction of Spirit lake. The horse evidently did not know the way—the driver certainly did not—and it was so dark that morning you could not see the buildings on the other side of the street. In the course of time the rig got down to the West End, but here the street seemed to come to an abrupt end in a big mud hole where sewers were being put in and the street graded. It took another hour to extricate the rig from that mud hole and get onto a solid street, the party having to get out and walk around in the mud until one of them discovered a corner, and with the aid of some boards the horse and buggy were gotten over an open sewer and started on the road to Smithville.

"Arriving at the lake about daylight, after the morning flight of ducks was over, a boat was hired for another dollar and the party started to row around and scare up some ducks. But no ducks were to be seen. While going through the little canal in Spirit Lake island a large owl was observed making a breakfast on a big water rat. A few shots sufficed to break up the banquet and lay the owl out cold. This bird was all the game that country appeared to contain that day so the party took turns in rowing back to the boat house. It was about noon then and as no grub had been provided in the hurry and excitement of the early start, all were exceedingly hungry.

'A train coming along just then, one of the party made a bolt and caught on the rear coach, leaving his gun behind. The other two nimrods put the horse to his best pace and in about four hours got safely back to Duluth and patronized one eating house after another until their hunger was allayed. Yes, we had a good time," said the real estate man, "but I guess I will be too busy to go out again this year." LITTLE IKE.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—Your "Golden Medical Discovery" has proved a blessing to me. It was recommended to me by Rev. P. A. Kuykendall. I have been a sufferer with old sores on my legs for four years. I used three bottles of it, and my legs are sound and well and my health is better than it has been for some time. I had the best doctors of this country treat my case and they failed to effect a cure.

WHEAT WAS VERY DULL.

The News Less Influential Than Usual and the Market Was Steady.

Wheat ruled exceedingly dull and featureless today, with hardly a thing in sight to make any change in values and in fact there were none. There was even more than the usual Saturday dullness and less influential news than usual. Cables showed little change in the markets abroad and the Northwestern deliveries were smaller.

The week's exports were comparatively liberal, being about 500,000 bus larger than the corresponding week last year and led to the expectation that there would only be a moderate increase in the visible supply, probably about 750,000 bus, where there were 2,201,000 bus last week and 1,890,000 bus a year ago. These factors, with the absence of anything especially bearish, kept the market steady, although the dullness was most pronounced. Duluth stocks will show an increase of about 50,000 bus for the week. The close was the same as yesterday, as follows:

No. 1 hard cash 57¼c, October, 57¼c. No. 1 northern cash, 56¾c; October, 56¾c; December, 56c; May, 59¾c. No. 2 northern cash, 53¼c. No. 3, 50¾c. Rejected, 47¼c. To arrive—No. 1 northern, 56¾c. Rye, 46c. Flax, $1.45½; No. 2 oats, 31½c. No. 3 oats, 31c. Barley, 45@50c.

Cattle and Hogs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Hogs: Receipts, 16,000; official yesterday, 21,042; shipments, 10,455; left over about 2500; quality not so good; rather poorer; market only moderately active, feeling weak and prices 10c lower; sales range at $4.70@5.30 for light; $4.65@4.80 for rough packing; $4.70@5.30 for mixed; $4.85@5.50 for heavy packing and shipping lots, and $2.40@4.90 for pigs. Cattle: Receipts, 1000; market dull and weak, though unchanged in price. Sheep: Receipts, 1000; trade slow at unchanged prices.

The Liverpool Market.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 13.—Close: Wheat steady; holders offer moderately: No. 2 red winter, 4s 2½d; do spring, 4s 5d. Corn firm; supply poor; new mixed spot, 4s 3¼d; futures firm; holders offer sparingly; October, 4s 3½d; November, 4s 6¾d; December, 4s 5¾d. Flour dull; holders offer moderately; St. Louis fancy winter, 5s 3d.

New York Money.

Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.87½@4¾ for demand and $4.85½@4⅝ for sixty days; posted rates $4.87½ and $4.88@4¼; commercial bills $4.85½@4¾. Silver certificates, 63¾c bid, no sales. Bar silver 63¼c. Mexican dollars 51c.

The New York Banks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The weekly bank statement shows the following changes:

Specie, increase	675,800

The Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Close: Wheat—October, 51c; December, 53@53c; May, 58¾c. Corn, easier; October, 49c; December, 47¼c; May, 49¼c. Oats, easier; October, 28c; December, 29¾c; May, 32¾@32¾c. The Minneapolis Market.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—Close: Wheat steady; October and December, 55¼, May, 58¾c. On track: No. 1 hard, 57¼c; No. 1 Northern, 56¾c; No. 2 Northern, 55c. Receipts 521 cars.

Gossip.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, Room 107, Chamber of Commerce.

A dull, featureless market with the fluctuations ranging within ⅜c during the entire session tells the story today. Everybody had evened up and the majority of the traders did not come near the pit today. Exports for the week amounted to 3,200,000 bus against 3,100,000 last week and 2,862,000 bus last year. Clearances today were small, aggregating 210,000 bus. Receipts amounted to 750 cars at Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago. The Ohio state crop bulletin says that 16 per cent of the crop of 1894 is still in the farmers' hands. Figuring other states at the same proportion there would be enough to feed the live stock all winter and have a small surplus when the next crop is ready to harvest.

Corn and oats opened strong but the offerings were too heavy to sustain the advance. Provisions lower.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 14, Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How Christ helps in our daily tasks. Col. iii, 12-17.

One of the blessed things about Christianity is that it does help us in our daily tasks. It is true that many Christians do not receive the help that they ought to receive because they have neglected this fact. If a great trial or affliction comes to them, they go at once to Christ, and He helps them, but they do not think of taking the little worries and cares of everyday life to Him, and what needless pains they bear, because they do not carry everything to Him in prayer.

This is a lesson that we all need now to learn. Christ can help us and will help us in our daily duties and cares if we only go to Him with them. How does Christ help us? The Scriptural reference may suggest the following ways:

1. Christ helps us in our daily tasks by giving us a right spirit (Col. iii, 13, 15, 16). The performance of our daily tasks depends perhaps more than anything else upon our frame of mind. If we are in good spirits, it is not difficult to perform these duties pleasantly and satisfactorily. Christ gives us this right frame of mind, this true Godly spirit, and in doing so helps us with these tasks. We should seek this true spirit from Him, as Paul implies it in these verses a spirit of kindness, humbleness of mind, long suffering, the peace of God in the heart and the word of Christ dwelling in us richly, teaching and admonishing us. With such a spirit we are well able to begin our daily tasks.

2. Christ helps us in our daily tasks by giving us right actions (Col. iii, 13, 14). The true spirit will lead us to true action. In our dealings with others Christ calls upon us to have forgiveness and charity. If we would act upon these and other Christian principles, how much easier it would be to perform our daily tasks! How unfit we are for the duties of life if there is a feeling of hatred or unkindness toward our friends or our neighbors! In helping us to act right in our relations to others Christ helps up to perform our daily tasks.

3. Christ helps us in our daily tasks by placing a right motive before us (verse 17). "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God." If we only remembered that even in the seemingly unimportant tasks of our daily lives we should do all in the name of Jesus and for the glory of God, how we would be helped in the performance of these tasks!

Bible Readings—Mark xi, 25; Rom. xiv, 17; I Cor. x, 31; Gal. v, 22; Eph. iv, 2, 32; v, 2; Phil. iv, 7; I Thess. iv, 9; II Pet. iii, 18; I John iii, 23.

Worthy of Emulation.

At the Cleveland rally devoted to the Senior Christian Endeavor society one of the speakers described the home department of the prayer meeting. This is a new line of church activity, and one that we think is capable of wide and profitable use.

To belong to the home department of the prayer meeting it is only necessary to pray for the success of the meeting when you are unable to be present yourself. In this way the entire church may be set to praying together, even though only a part can be present in the one room.

This home department will not detract from the interest in the meetings and the attendance upon them, but will rather increase both. People who pray over a matter will become more and not less faithful with regard to it. Is there not here an idea worth at least a trial?—Exchange.

Christian Endeavor Flowers.

A Methodist C. E. society in Toronto for a long time had been faithfully distributing flowers among the sick. Among those who received them was a young man stricken with consumption. He was not a Christian, and no member of the society had seen him personally, but a clergyman, talking with him before he died, learned that he had been brought to Christ through reading the texts that came with the Christian Endeavor flowers.—Exchange.

Seek God For Peace.

True peace is found only in the possession of God, and the possession of God here on earth consists only in submission to faith and obedience to law. Resign every forbidden joy, restrain every wish that is not referred to this will, banish all eager desires, all anxiety, desire only the will of God, seek him alone, and you will find peace. You shall enjoy it in spite of the world.—Fenelon.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

The number of delegates registered at the convention from Cleveland and the state of Ohio was 21,210 and from outside the state 18,790, a total of 40,000.

Better a society with a small active membership than a society with a large inactive one.

A Canadian Christian Endeavor topic card contains on the back this suggestive quotation: "Don't look around every time some one comes in. Study to be quiet" (I Thess. iv, 11).

During the past year the Christian Endeavor movement in England has spread largely among the Welsh, rendering it necessary to publish portions of the Christian Endeavor literature in that language.

The famous author, Rev. Josiah Strong, D. D., recently made the statement, "I am more and more convinced that one of the best ways to haste the coming of the kingdom in the earth is to build up the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor."

Christian Endeavor is the battering ram which is going to break down the walls of division between churches.—Rev. F. E. John.

"Interdenominationalism is the John the Baptist of the nineteenth century. Christian union is the Christ of the twentieth century."

THE CALIFORNIA HOLD UP.

Over $50,000 Was the Value of the Booty Secured.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 13.—Over $50,000 was the value of the booty secured by the two train robbers who held up the Central overland between this city and Davidsville. It is doubtful whether a richer haul was ever made by robbers in this state. The daring and intelligence shown by the highwaymen were such as to lead the officers to expect a long hard chase.

Wells, Fargo & Co., and the Southern Pacific Railroad company recognize the fact that they have no ordinary criminals to deal with. The two corporations have offered a reward of $2500 for the capture of the robbers each, and $5000 for the recovery of the coin. This is in addition to the usual state reward.

The rewards are sufficiently large to put the most skilled detectives and bravest officers on their track. They are beginning to gather and take the trail. Every clue is being followed, every mark examined, every theory given a hearing. As yet, however, the robbers are free. They secured four sacks of coin. Three were full of gold. In one was the less valuable white metal. Two of the sacks contained $20,000 each. In the third was the sum of $10,000. The fourth sack was full of silver and it is presumed the full booty of the robbers was between $51,000 and $53,000.

The weight of the plunder was so great that it is supposed the marauders must have cached it near the place where they left the engine. The detectives are working on three different theories. All of these theories agree that the men are ex-employes of the Southern Pacific and reside in this city. One of the theories is that one of the robbers buried the money in the woods, and after disposing of their arms, masks and linen dusters crossed the bridge into Sacramento.

Those opposed to this theory claim to believe the money was buried somewhere in the neighborhood of where the engine was reversed and sent back, but that the robbers crossed to the Sacramento side of the river in a boat, which they had either stolen for the ocasion or which was furnished by a confederate.

The other theory, and the one that seems to have a large number of adherents, is that the men had a buggy standing near by, into which they loaded the money and then drove up the river to a spot where they had a confederate in waiting with a boat, by means of which they could row across and enter the city from the north or the east side. Traces of a buggy in the soft ground near the track have been discovered. Another circumstance in line with this theory is that a buggy has been missing from a stable in this city since the afternoon preceding the train robbery.

A WYOMING SENSATION.

Charges of Gross Fraud in a Land Deal Made by a Victim.

DENVER, Oct. 13.—A special from Cheyenne, Wyo., says: A sensational alleged fraud has been uncovered here. It is in connection with the purchase of a tract of 546 acres of land adjoining the city, by a syndicate of Eastern investors in 1890, the Wyoming Land syndicate, afterwards changed to the Wyoming company, by J. F. Moffet, of the firm of Moffet, Hodges & Clark, water works contractors of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. M. Whitney, a real estate broker of Denver, and C. B. Davis, of Chicago, who were elected president, secretary and treasurer of the company.

J. Hood, treasurer of the Syracuse Savings bank, who is out $7500 on account of his investment in the enterprise, arrived today to look up evidence to begin prosecution of Whitney and Moffet, whom he claims have victimized the shareholders out of $50,000. Mr. Hood says that Whitney came to his office in Syracuse ostensibly to sell him some property in Denver. In the course of conversation Whitney mentioned that he knew of a tract of land in the vicinity of Cheyenne that could be purchased for $250 an acre, which he represented was a nominal price.

It was agreed that Whitney and Moffet should come to Cheyenne to look over the property and if satisfactory close the deal. They reported that the property could be purchased for $99,999. The company was organized with a capital stock of twenty shares, which on the $99,000 basis represented an outlay of $4545 each. Mr. Hood became the possessor of two shares. In addition to the purchase of the tract of land which it was proposed to lay out as an addition to the city, it was represented that the street railway of Cheyenne could be purchased for $24,000, one-fourth of which was to be paid in cash.

It is now said that the officers of the company never intended to purchase this property. Mr. Hood and other shareholders became suspicious and started an investigation. They discovered, it is alleged, that Whitney had secured options on nearly all the property at a figure less than one-half of what he had represented it to be worth. Hood says that Whitney and Moffet have now transferred the property to L. A. Liel, of Chicago, as trustee, for a small consideration, leaving the stockholders absolutely nothing to show for their investment.

Hood claims that the tract could not now be sold for $5000. Whitney and Moffet are now in New York.

A Women's Ticket.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 13.—The women of San Bernardino met in convention and nominated a full county ticket, selecting candidates from the four tickets in the field. It purports to be non-partisan, but the temperance element predominated and candidates were chosen with that qualification in view.

THE PROPOSAL DECLINED.

This Country Will Not Interfere in the Oriental War.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A special from Washington says: The United States has been invited by the quadruple alliance, composed of Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia, to join it in a friendly intervention in the war between China and Japan.

The proposal will be declined. The declination is based on the time honored policy of this government to avoid any entangling alliances with foreign powers. Acknowledgment is made of the truth of what the invitation has to say about the desirability for peace, but in the polite language of diplomacy it is pointed out that this country has so far thrived very well attending to its own business, and so long as it continues to prosper by that policy it will not depart from it.

Censured the Jury.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Ada Weiner, who shot and killed her husband while he was sleeping was today sentenced to life imprisonment. The jury found her guilty of murder in the second degree and recommended her to the mercy of the court. The judge, however, declared she was guilty of murder in the first degree, censuring the jury for its verdict and gave Mrs. Weiner the extreme penalty of the law.

The Major's Defense.

Maj. Baldwin's chilly reception at New Duluth last night was not astonishing. It was but a reflection of the general feeling throughout St. Louis county. There is nothing in the major's account of his stewardship to arouse any applause, and therefore when he trotted out for inspection what he considered the great triumphs of his career in congress, the audience failed to enthuse to any great degree. What he paraded as features in his favor were regarded by his hearers as specimens of broken pledges and unfulfilled promises.

It is possible that the major might have made a better impression had he refrained from using vituperative language in regard to the Republican candidate. Mr. Towne has made a clean campaign, free from all personalities, and Maj. Baldwin had no provocation for adopting the style of campaign which he pursued last night. Mr. Towne is neither a "carpet-bagger" nor a "toy soldier," as Maj. Baldwin called him. He has lived in Duluth for years and has so conducted himself as to earn the esteem and respect of his fellow-citizens. Honored by an appointment on the governor's military staff, he has endeavored to carry out the duties of a judge advocate general to the best of his ability. If he is a "toy soldier" then all the members of the National Guard come under the same head. They will no doubt thank the major for his complimentary language.

The major thought it necessary to defend his record on the iron ore question, and what a weak and labored effort it was! Because some Michigan men told him that the Mesaba could undersell all the other ranges, he at once concluded that free ore was advisable! Was any more weak and flimsy excuse ever invented? He would expose the Vermilion range and all other iron mines in this country to the competition of the cheap labor mines of other countries, merely because some Michigan men said the Mesaba properties could undersell all others! This, he said, "was to the best interests of the district and according to a pledge he had made to the Democracy of the district." The Herald does not know what the major told the Democrats in other parts of the district, but here in Duluth he very specifically promised not to vote for free iron ore, and after he was elected, after congress was in session and but a brief space of time before he announced himself in favor of free iron ore, he wrote a letter to a Duluth Democrat who was interested in the question, promising to oppose free iron ore. Certainly he has peculiar ideas about keeping promises, when he can now stand before a St. Louis county audience and talk in such a strain as he did in last night's speech. It is a speech to which The Herald will have occasion to refer again. Its tone was apologetic and explanatory and it indicated very clearly that the major now perceives the crushing defeat which awaits him on Nov. 6, although he bravely declared he would be elected and vainly tried to look as if he believed it.

The Situation in the Northwest.

As the control of the next house by the Republican party depends largely upon the result of the election in the Northwest, some facts about the situation in this section, as furnished to the Republican and Democratic national congressional committees, and obtained from them by The Herald's Washington correspondent, may be of interest. The nature of the reports is rather discouraging to the followers of Jefferson and Jackson. At the Republican headquarters the opinion is confidently expressed that the g. o. p. will make a clean sweep in the North Star state while even the Democrats are forced to concede the election of at least five Republican congressmen in Minnesota. The only districts looked upon as doubtful are the Third and Seventh. The Sixth is regarded as certain to go Republican. The Seventh district is claimed by the Populists, and owing to the split in the party in the Third the Democrats have strong hopes of re electing Congressman Hall.

There is considerable divergence of opinion as to the result in Wisconsin. Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, before his departure from Washington for Wisconsin, expressed the opinion that the election in his state would show a large gain for the Republicans in the various congressional districts. The Democrats claim that they will carry five districts in the Badger state, but this estimate is considered rather extravagant. The Populists make no claims whatever in Wisconsin.

There has never been the slightest doubt expressed that Representative Johnson would fail to carry North Dakota by a good round majority. He has always kept in close touch with the people of his state and has made a very good record for himself in the house. The candidacy of Budd Reeve is looked upon simply as a humorous incident. Some uneasiness is felt at Republican headquarters, however, as to the figure the Populists will cut in North Dakota in the November elections. Very little information has been received about the state ticket and it is feared that the Populists may poll a larger vote than they have done in previous years.

Little doubt is expressed as to the result in South Dakota. Pickler will be re-elected and Gamble is also certain of two years at least in the house of representatives. The Populists are making some rather wild assertions about this state, however, and declare that the result will be a surprise to the old parties when the votes are counted in November. The election of the next legislature is of particular importance, as that body will choose a successor to Senator Pettigrew. The Republicans claim the legislature by a large majority.

The Democrats are rather modest in their claims in Iowa. They only expect to elect one congressman. Judge Hayes in the First district is conceded to have a fair prospect of re-election. Every other district in the state will be Republican.

Montana is classed as a very uncertain state. Representative Hartman informs the Republican congressional committee that he is certain of re-election and expresses confidence that the legislature will be strongly Republican. Both parties, however, are putting up a stiff fight to capture the legislature, as this body will fill the vacancy that now exists in the United States senate from that state.

Railway Receiverships.

The appointment of a receiver for the Duluth & Winnipeg road adds another to the long list of receiverships and foreclosures which has marked this year in the railway world. The year 1893 witnessed the passing of an unprecedentedly large number of railway companies into the charge of receivers appointed by the courts and 1894 seems likely to stand second in that bad pre-eminence.

Since the Railway Age's statement for the first six months of the year nine roads, with 2266 miles of lines and representing bonds and stock to the amount of over $101,500,000, have undergone that process, and these added to the list reported for the first six months make a total for the nine months from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1 of thirty-two roads, aggregating 6254 miles in length, with a funded debt of $185,078,500 and capital stock of $176,578,000, or a total of $361,656,500, for which receivers have been appointed on account of default in payment of interest on their bonds.

The work of reorganizing bankrupt roads by means of foreclosure and purchase for new organizations has gone on very rapidly this year. During the last three months fifteen roads, with 3187 miles of line and over $180,000,000 of bonds and stock have passed through this process, nine of them going toward making up the new Southern railway company which is founded on the ruins of the Richmond & Danville and East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia systems. Added to the previous figures for six months they give a total of thirty-one roads, aggregating 4593 miles and representing nearly $257,000,000 of securities which have appeared under new names and ownership during the nine months just past.

The foreclosure record of the entire year 1893 is already largely exceeded in number of roads, mileage and capitalization by that for the nine months of 1894, and the total for the twelve months is likely to surpass that of all but two or three years in the last twenty. It is to be hoped that the reorganized companies will fare better than their unlucky predecessors, and they probably will. It would be a good thing if all the roads which are staggering under the load of huge debt and inability to pay interest on the money invested could be placed in receivers' hands and sold under foreclosure proceedings, so that they might take a fresh start free of all incumbrances. The move made in regard to the Duluth & Winnipeg is therefore no serious calamity. The mortgage will be foreclosed and the road will be purchased by the Canadian Pacific people. That they are making this move at the present time may be taken as an indication that the extension of the road northwesterly will be resumed next year.

Duluth's Wholesale Trade.

The interviews with Duluth's wholesale men in relation to the condition of business, which are published in this issue, will be read with interest. They will also be read with a great degree of pleasure and by many with astonishment, because they tell of a condition of prosperity that is really remarkable in the face of the experience of business men in other cities during the past eighteen months.

Every one of the managers who was interviewed told a story of growing business and extending territory. New wholesale houses have been added during the year and they report a very satisfactory beginning, while the older houses say their trade has been greatly extended and that the outlook is much brighter for the future. Not a single wholesaler had a word of complaint to make. All are well satisfied with the year's business and look forward with confidence to even greater prosperity during the coming year. Where is the city that can show as good a record as this?

The St. Paul Globe touched dangerous ground when it eulogized Osee M. Hall's record as a member of the committee on patents. This is a very shady portion of Mr. Hall's congressional career. He was most persistent last session in trying to secure the repeal of a law regarding the expiration of patents, the repeal of which would have extended the grip of the Bell telephone monopoly. The Bell company does not ask congressmen to do its dirty work for nothing.

The United States government has declined to join Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia in a friendly intervention in the war between China and Japan. This is a very sensible course to pursue. While this country desires to see peace re-established, it is the best policy to attend to its own business and not meddle in affairs on another continent. This is the policy that has been pursued in the past and it has resulted satisfactorily.

Bradstreet's weekly review of trade reports an accentuation of favorable features this week. While advices as to the most marked improvement come from the West and South there are some encouraging features also reported from the East, and the net result of the week's business has been further progress in the direction of enlarged distribution.

Duluth's bank clearings for the past week again show a healthy increase over the corresponding period of last year. The increase amounts to 26 per cent. Minneapolis shows an increase of 13 per cent and St. Paul an increase of 25 per cent.

Ex-President Harrison is now making a trip through Indiana and as usual his speeches are models, judged from a Republican standpoint.

No Doubt of His Election.

Wadena Pioneer: There is now no doubt of the election of Hon. C. A. Towne, of Duluth. The only thing now to figure on is his majority. Mr. Towne is making many friends during his canvass, and when he goes to congress he will not disappoint his many admirers.

This Man's Sin.

New York Herald: Stand in the public thoroughfare gazing at anything real or imaginary and the dozens who gather round you will multiply soon into hundreds and it you stick to it perhaps thousands. A crowd as big as the street could hold for a block gathered round a sign painter at One Hundred Twenty-eighth street and Third avenue the other day. They rallied in curious excitement and dispersed in disappointed disgust.

"My Sin" in huge flaming letters was what the painter had already printed. If ever a crowd was bent on anything it was on the discovery of what that sin was. They asked each other what it might be and hazarded guesses while the man laid by his red paint pot and brought forth a green instead.

What would the next word be?

The crowd grew so excited they called to the man: "What is it?" "Tell us," "Go on," "Hurry," "Paint quick if you won't talk," until it seemed he might grow too bothered to print anything. But he did.

He printed out in small, green letters, added to the gigantic "Sin" the syllable "gle," and when the sign was done it read: "My single aim is to sell at nominal profit."

The Model Wife.

She rises every morning,
Just when the roosters crow;
She gently splits the kindling—
Makes the old stove puff and blow.

She puts the breakfast on to cook,
And sings, as if at play;
And while the batter cakes are made,
Her husband snores away!

The children show her gentle care,
Their wishes all she numbers o'er;
She dresses half a dozen,
An' she whips a dozen more.

Then to the room she doth repair;
Her husband hears her say:
"I've almost worked myself to death!
Are you going to sleep all day?"

Best He Ever Heard.

Sauk Center Herald: "The best political speech I ever heard; and while I did not agree with all he said, yet I will give him credit for perfect sincerity and the utmost courtesy,"—is the tribute of a life-long Democrat to Hon. C. A. Towne, after listening to his speech.

A Railroad the Best.

Superior Telegram: The Minneapolis Journal writing on the proposed Superior-Mississippi canal suggests that a double track air line railway might answer the same purpose. While the canal idea should not be abandoned yet until further information is at hand we think that the railroad idea will yet prevail. The enormous investment in a canal would absorb all of the saving in operating expenses unless the canal were operated at a loss which it could not be for long. The canal scheme is all very well to talk about but for practical purposes the railroad project is likely to attract attention when the time to act is at hand.

Wadena Journal: Mr. Towne is a man who will prove an honor to the Sixth congressional district, and he is one whom every Republican (and many others) can earnestly and loyally support, for in his hands the interests of the people will be safe. He is young, although so well equipped, and his diligent, studious habits, as well as strong and active mind, will be of excellent service and increasing worth to the district.

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Bohemian Club Musical on Thursday Evening Was the Only Formal Event of This Week.

New Winter Club Has Secured the Former Saturday Club Rooms on East Second Street.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Patrick to Give a Dancing Party Thursday Evening For the Bachelors.

The musicale given by the Bohemian club at its rooms in the Woodbridge building on Thursday evening was the only formal event of the week and society was present in liberal numbers. It was the first time the club had entertained the ladies in its present quarters and they were delighted. The members proved themselves capital hosts. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and plants. The corridor was gracefully arranged, flags, palms and gaily colored lanterns giving a charming effect.

The rooms were filled and social people turned out in larger numbers than anticipated. It was in every way a happy affair and will result in an increase of interest in the club.

The program was excellent, worthy in every particular of the Bohemians. The choruses by the members were bright and catchy and were received with favor, F. W. Maynard gave a tenor solo, De Koven's "Where Ripples Flow," a delightful selection which was finely sung and warmly applauded. Harry Gearhart sang "Off to Philadelphia," a fine number. "Last Night" was Arthur Lahey's number. It is admirably adapted to his voice and displayed its excellent qualities. F. J. Chipman recited "Othello's Denial" with fine dramatic effect and warm approval was given his effort. F. C. Hartley gave "Wolsey's Farewell" in a highly pleasing manner and C. H. Eldridge recited "The First Settler's Story" in a natural and interesting way.

Mrs. Day's Pupils' Recital.

The pupils of Mrs. D. H. Day gave a recital at the residence of Mrs. Henry A. Smith Tuesday evening. The performers ranged in age from 3 years up to 20 and all showed the result of perfect training. The playing of Miss Dora Eva and Miss Lynn was excellent, showing the result of careful and conscientious work. The little ones in particular showed remarkable proficiency for such wee bits of humanity and interested the audience fully as much as the difficult work of the more advanced pupils.

Those taking part were: Natalie Smith, Josephine Sattler, Josie Olson, Edith Stewart, Florence Howard, Florence Olson, Katie Watterworth, Julia Hunter, Katherine Ensign, Florence Halling, Irene Silberstein, Elizabeth Frazer, Dora Eva and Theresa Lynn.

Birthday Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given G. A. Klein on Thursday evening by his friends, it being his thirty-sixth birthday. He was presented with a handsome smoking set. THE NEW WINTER CLUB.

Former Saturday Club Rooms on East Second Street Have Been Secured.

The new social club, which for want of a name—its title not having been selected as yet—is known as the Winter club, has secured the former rooms of the Saturday club on East Second street, opposite the High school and is fitting them up as a headquarters. A large fireplace is being put in and the whole building is being overhauled. A stage is also being put in. It is not the club's intention to give any elaborate entertainments. Socials, musicales and possibly dramatic entertainments will occasionally be given.

The club has elected as officers, W. B. Silvey, president; D. G. Butler, vice president; M. O. Brooks, secretary, and E. C. Jones, treasurer. Maj. C. B. Sears is chairman of the house committee and William Barton Chapin of the entertainment committee. Another meeting will be held next week when a name will probably be selected. At that time the date for the club's opening will also be decided upon.

Turn Verein Opening Ball.

Invitations for the opening ball of the Duluth Turn Verein, an event which is being anxiously looked forward to, will be out in a few days. It will be given on Wednesday evening, Oct. 24. That it will be a great success goes without saying. The interest already manifested assures that. Muhlbaur's orchestra has been secured. A fine supper will be served by the ladies and everything will be in the finest of taste.

Good Templars' Entertainment.

The literary and musical entertainment given by Northern Light lodge No. 42, I. O. G. T., Wednesday evening at Svea hall, was a splendid success. The way in which the little ones performed their drills and marches and the performers carried their parts gave excellent proof of the ability of Mrs. L. J. Smith, of Minneapolis, and Miss Rosetta Nelson, of this city. Tableaux, dialogues, recitations and vocal and instrumental selections were given.

The Chautauqua Circle.

The following program is to be followed at the regular meeting of the Chautauqua circle on Wednesday evening next:

WAS COLDLY RECEIVED.

The Good People of New Duluth Failed to Enthuse Over Maj. Baldwin Last Evening.

He Tried to Explain Away the "Hungry Bellies" Statement and Called Towne a Carpet Bagger.

Had to Fall Back on His War Record to Get Any Applause—W. H. Tripp's Talk.

Maj. Baldwin "tried it on the dog" in New Duluth last night. Of course New Duluth is a growing and thriving village, but it must be confessed that it is quiet and the good people are often driven to extremes for amusement. So there was a fair gathering in the hall in which the meeting was held. But the enthusiasm aroused by the major's elequence was of a rather pale, sickly hothouse growth, and was confined most of the time to the feeble applause of the local committee, who felt that something of the kind devolved upon them.

The train which carried the major was met by a band at the depot, but there was no outpouring of the enthusiastic masses such as greets the next congressman on his tours. Aside from the band and the regular employes of the depot there was no one there. In the hall there were about 300 people including the band. The major's speech was largely of an apologetic, explanatory and personal character.

After expressing his pleasure at meeting the citizens, complimenting the band and speaking of the growth of New Duluth, he said: "Under the Democratic tariff system I predict a growth in this section unknown in any other part of the country. The shores of the St. Louis river will be lined with iron factories and furnaces within ten years. [No applause.]

"Gen. Towne, at Cloquet, announced for me that I would address the people on the opening of the Red Lake reservation and on deep waterways. That was true and it was kind, but then his interest in me ceased, and he predicted that he would defeat me by 5000 plurality. I don't think he would bet on that.

"I Shall Be Elected."

"Enough I have made no boast, I wish to serve notice as I did two years ago, though I am opposed by corporate interests and pine land rings I shall be elected. [No applause.] The fight is now on between Kittel Halvorsen and M. R. Baldwin. Gen. Towne is not in it."

He then made an explanation of his vote on the iron ore tariff. He said that he thought it his duty to place it on the free list. It was to the best interests of the district, and according to a pledge he had made to the Democracy of the district. He told how members from Michigan and Wisconsin came to him and said that the Mesaba range with its advantages could sell ore at a price that would close the Michigan and Wisconsin mines. He told them that that was enough to convince him that free ore was advisable. He expected under free trade to see Duluth rival Chicago and the output of the Mesaba range with deep waterways control the iron market of the world. In answer to McKinley's "calamity howling" and to his question of "how do you like the change now you have it," he wished to answer in behalf of the Democracy and of the people of the country that they liked it beyond measure. [No applause.] "They like it because it has removed the burdens from the poor to the rich by the income tax, because it has started the wheels of industry all over the land."

He disputed Mr. Towne's statement that the most prosperous people are those of highest protection, and instanced China, Mexico, Japan, and Italy as protective countries. He then started in to "give an account of his stewardship." He said that his election marked a change and that the district would hereafter elect Democrats to go to congress in spite "of this Demosthenes, this boy orator, who has lived in the state only four years, who has made no attempt to identify himself with any commercial interests."

He told how many bills for the district he had put through, and gave details of several of the most important ones, telling how hard he had to work to get them through. His desire for re-election, he said, was that he might put these measures through. He said that Mr. Towne was not capable of carrying them through in a Democratic congress as the next one was sure to be.

That "Hungry Bellies" Statement.

He branded the statement that he had said that "hungry bellies do not count" as a lie. He said that during the discussion on the tariff bill he understood that a petition signed by 6500 people of St. Louis county was sent to Washington in the hands of the secretary of the Duluth stock exchange, "an organization that had as its object gambling in stocks and dealing in iron lands." He complained that he was ignored and insulted, and that it was passed by him and given to Congressman Haugen and then to Congressman Tawney. He said he had scored the secretary of the stock exchange for this and he thought that in his anger the man had given out the statement to the papers.

He next explained his stand on the pension question and his statement that the war was a protracted picnic. He qualified this by saying that it was a picnic for some soldiers who didn't happen to get near the enemy's guns. He objected to having these men on the pension list. He went over his war record, told feelingly how many times he was in engagements, how he rose from the ranks to the command of his company, and beseeching the pity of the audience told how he was wounded twice. "Can it be," he said almost tearfully, "can it be that such a man could be the enemy of the worthy soldier?" He was rewarded for his talk in this strain by his first applause.

"It galls me," he said, "that this carpet bagger, this toy soldier, who has risen in one year to the rank of brigadier general, should try to injure me with my old comrades. Shame on him." He made a few remarks in closing commendatory of the state and county tickets in general and of Gen. Becker and Mr. Tripp in particular.

W. H. Tripp made a good speech and was well received by the audience. He called the Republicans calamity howlers, and said that Mr. Towne was a mere stringer of adjectives and a faint reproduction of the McKinley bill.

Called Towne a Jawsmith.

He went into personalities somewhat and characterized Mr. Towne further as a jawsmith. He also spoke depreciatingly of the manner in which his opponent for the state senate made his money. He said of national issues that the Democratic party in the past eighteen months had done more than any other party in the history of the country, and deserves more credit than any other party. He said that as a result of Democratic rule the mills of the country are resuming, business is picking up, wages are higher and the number of unemployed has diminished.

He said that the country got more benefit from the one item of free wool than "from the whole blasted McKinley bill put together." The reduction of the sugar tariff was also beneficial. The Populists, he said, go the Republicans one better on calamity howling, and have one panacea for all ills—free silver. The Democratic party, in short, was the only party that stood by the common people.

He touched up state issues to a considerable extent. He charged the Republicans with all the pine ring and school land stealing that has occurred. The Republicans promise nothing in the way of state issues except the election of Washburn as senator, while the Democrats expect to make thorough reforms it they are put in power, and to overhaul everything and see that no more stealing is done.

When Mr. Tripp had finished Maj. Baldwin made another short speech. He said that he did not think Mr. Towne any more fit for the house of representatives than the lower regions are for a powder house. He condemned Mr. Towne for characterizing his Red Lake reservation and deep waterway schemes as will-o'-the-wisps, but excused him on the ground that he knew no better.

In the afternoon Maj. Baldwin was at Fond du Lac and was received by one single supporter, Charles Gaspar.

FOR THE TEETH

constant care is requisite, but care that is ineffectual is labor thrown away. Mere brushing will not suffice, and much more than that is necessary. The use of the brush needs to be supplemented with our Floraline. Its use will give to the teeth a pure whiteness and keep them absolutely free from all adhesive and injurious accumulations upon the surface. All such matter hastens decay and entails a premature loss of the teeth. Save yourself from the penalty of toothless gums by using our Floraline and avoid the unpleasantness of unsightly teeth and an offensive breath. We have a full line of tooth brushes from 10 cents up.

THE WORLD OF LABOR

A Good Condition of Finances Shown By the Report of the Labor Day Committee.

The Horseshoers' Union Awarded the Prize For Making the Best Appearance in the Parade.

Profit Sharing Labor Unions of Antwerp Men Who Do Actual Labor Control the Business.

Labor day committees reported at the regular meeting of the Trades and Labor assembly meeting. An itemized report of the receipts and expenditures of the big celebration at the Pavilion was given and showed a good condition of finances. The Horseshoers' union was awarded the prize for making the best appearance of any labor organization in the parade and a committee was appointed and given authority to secure a set of officers' badges to be presented to the union in recognition.

Reports were received from the unions represented in the assembly as to the condition of the men in each and were not entirely satisfactory. The coopers, longshoremen, street car employes and tinners reported favorably and the bakers are fairly well satisfied, but the other unions report a continued dullness.

The attendance was not as good as usual and nothing but routine business was given any attention. Emil Appelhagen was admitted as a delegate from the cigarmakers' union.

LABOR CO-OPERATION.

Antwerp's Profit Sharing Unions of Longshoremen.

Professor James H. Gore, commissioner general for the United States to the International exposition at Antwerp, has written for the September number of Arena a most interesting contribution on "The Profit Sharing Labor Unions of Antwerp." After opening with a general statement on labor in European countries Mr. Gore gives the following interesting account of the Antwerp longshoremen's "nations:"

By the enactment of laws favorable to the free importation of foreign wares Antwerp early in the fifteenth century became an important port, as can be learned from the reports of the embassies sent by various courts to attend the royal festivities which frequently took place there. But the delays in discharging vessels and the frequent loss to merchandise from unskillful handling threatened to outweigh beneficent legislation and advantageous position. The deckhands and porters became careless, in the belief that plenty of work would always await them, but an awakening came when some of the united traders erected buildings of their own, where they could not only store their goods, but house their workmen and horses as well. Two of these structures are still standing—the Maison Hanseatique and the Maison de Hesse. The result of the awaking of the laborers to a proper apprehension of the danger of the loss of work and the consciousness that sooner or later it would fall into the hands of strangers was the establishment, in 1582, of a company of longshoremen, who assumed the name "Les Grees," a name which, with merely those changes incident to change of language, the society has borne from that year to the present time. This was the first of the 50 "nations" now in active existence at Antwerp.

A "nation" is a corporation of workmen, forming a limited society, in which every member is also a stockholder. The society is not only limited in membership, but it is restricted also in functions. First of all, the "nations" work only at the docks, loading or unloading vessels or hauling merchandise to or from ships; secondly, each "nation" will handle only certain articles of commerce, and, again, only those articles which come from or are destined for a certain port. For example, the "Katven nation" will unload wool that comes from Buenos Ayres, but a vessel charged with wool from Australia can secure the services only of the "Zuid nation." One "nation" puts on board ordinary Belgian sugar, but if the sugar is specially refined and intended for candy its loading is the work of another "nation." The underlying principle of this elaborate differentiation of labor is that a society with restricted lines of work can become especially proficient in those lines, can acquire the best implements and appliances for their performance and thus give to their employers the best possible service. In no instance has this monopoly given an excuse for extortionate charges or forcible increase of prices.

Every one of these societies, upon its organization, must give bond to abide by the regulations prepared by the port officers, and a special rule fixes for a term of years—usually 10—the tariff of charges, and any attempt to violate this rule would result in an immediate abrogation of the society's privileges. On the other hand, every vessel entering port is obliged to employ the appropriate society, but this compulsion is evidently in the best interests of shippers, as can be seen from what follows as well as from the fact that the maritime trade of Antwerp is increasing at the rate of 100,000 tons per year. Every "nation" is a stock company, but no one can hold stock who is not an active working member. As a member he obeys implicitly the orders of his superiors and profits by his own labors as well as by the labors of his associates.

The officers are a dean and as many assistant deans as may be necessary, there being one dean in the smaller societies of 20 or 30 members, and two or three in those of 50 or 60, and a secretary and such additional officers as are found essential in each society. They are elected annually and are eligible for re-election, but serve without extra compensation. Every organization has its own bylaws; but, since they are not published and dismissal would be the penalty of their promulgation, very little is known about them. The "nations," however, appear to be very wisely governed regarding the duties and obligations of the members to one another, for it is known that fines are imposed for certain offenses. For instance, if a member fails to report each morning, unless sick, he pays 80 cents. If the absence occurs twice within a month, the fine is $2, while the next repetition would result in dismissal. Again, if one member summons another, against his will, as a witness, he must pay an honorarium of $4 for every day, and the same amount is demanded in case one member causes the arrest of a colleague.

The nearest approach to an authentic financial statement is obtained from the decennial report which each "nation" must submit to the local authorities showing its nominal assets and liabilities. From the accounts rendered in 1890 it is seen that the richest "nation" had a capital of $180,000, divided into shares of $5,000 each, and the next richest had a capital of $168,000, divided into shares of $4,000. Of the actual assets the world at large knows nothing, except that they consist of a number of magnificent draft horses (perhaps the best in the world), wagons, stables and such appliances as are needed in their work. The Belgian law requiring every firm and corporation to file a balance sheet annually does not apply to the "nations," because they have no standing in the local courts. In their articles of incorporation they bind themselves to submit all differences between themselves and their employers to arbitration. Yielding their right to sue, they become exempt from being sued.

The outward workings of a "nation" resemble somewhat a patriarchal form of government. On every workday morning all the members who are able assemble at headquarters half an hour before time to begin work and receive assignments for the day. This allotment of tasks is made by the dean and is not subject to open criticism or refusal, but he is doubtless guided by a knowledge of every man's special fitness or some consideration of his recent labors. Those for whom there is no work have the day free without suffering any diminution in their share of the society's profits, but they are not allowed to hire themselves to others, the idea being that they keep themselves fresh for the probable duties of the morrow. In the evening those who were occupied report at the office, and a record is made by the secretary of the place and of the character of the work rather as a check upon the work than upon the workmen. When the task is finished, the dean collects the entire amount due the society and places it in bank as a part of the general fund. At the end of the month the net receipts are equally divided among the members, regardless of the number of idle or employed days of each. Usually there is a maximum limit to the sum paid to each member for his share of the month's profits—that is to say, if the receipts would justify a larger dividend, he would receive only $80, the overplus remaining in the general fund to help over those months when the earnings are less. Likewise those who are unable to work because of sickness or injury received in the discharge of duty fare equally with the others. This benefit, however, is restricted to a definite number of months, usually four.

The "nations" sustain individually—or collectively in some cases—orphan asylums for the maintenance of the children of those who die from illness contracted or injury received while engaged at work. As the number of accidents is large and the lives of men engaged in such heavy work are short, these institutions are always well filled. The city, rightly appreciating the contributions that the "nations" make to the mercantile prosperity of Antwerp, assist in the support of these asylums or in educating their occupants.

When a member dies, his share is sold at auction for the benefit of his heirs. Shares in the more prosperous nations command a premium, according to the condition of the society. In this sale no preference is shown a son of the deceased should he be a bidder. Since no member can own more than one share, there is always an evenly distributed power, with no possibility for control on the part of any one except through the weight of personal influence. And, as each member is also a shareholder, when he looks after his own interests by assiduous and well directed labor he is contributing to the welfare of all. With the increase of work they do not add to their membership and thereby risk a loss or at least a depreciation in the value of their stock in case of any untoward movement in trade, but they employ laborers, thus becoming themselves employers, or rather contractors. Those "nations" that also load vessels have their own expert stevedores as well as their own blacksmith and wagon maker, but in no case are these members.

When a vessel passes Flushing, a telegraphic message is sent to the port officer at Antwerp, giving the approximate size of the ship and the character of her cargo. A place at the dock is at once assigned to the ship, and the appropriate "nation" is notified, so that by the time she takes her place at the dock the men are ready to take her in hand. As soon as the first member of the "nation" places his hand upon the cargo the whole "nation" becomes responsible for it as well as for any damage that the ship may sustain through careless discharging. Thus it is that the largest vessel as well as the tiniest craft can confidently ascend the Scheldt, knowing that no delays await her because of strikes or useless bargaining for reduced rates. It is this confidence, together with other exceptional facilities, that is making Antwerp the first maritime city on the continent of Europe and enables her to handle 14,000 tons of merchandise every day.

A COWARDLY BLACKLIST.

A "Conservative Newspaper" Aroused by the Villainy of the Railway Barons.

A dispatch from Omaha reveals a blacklist conspiracy among the railway companies that will receive the hearty condemnation of every American citizen who believes in fair play and frank fighting.

Since the strike the railway companies, it appears, have demanded from every applicant for work a "clearance" paper setting forth the cause of his retirement from his last service. This is entirely proper. It is similar to the "recommendations" demanded by most business houses. But instead of furnishing a frank statement to the workman the railway manager gives him what purports to be an honest clearance, but is really a sign that he is not worthy of employment. The trick is carried out by means of an ingenious watermark. The figure of a "sand hill crane" is worked into the blank form used for the clearance. When the head of the crane is missing, the man will not be hired even when the clearance is complimentary.

This unmanly device is used to the destruction of every unfortunate who took part in the strike or who is conspicuous in any of the interdicted unions. It would be hard to adequately characterize the nature of the sneak who invented this code. As for the railway managers who use it, they certainly are guilty of conspiracy and should be punished in court. They are as lawless as the strikers. They are cowardly as well as lawless. They violate the principles of humanity and outrage the rules of fair play among men. When by means of this fraud they take the bread out of the mouths of women and children, they become far less respectable and quite as dangerous to society as the Debs anarchists.

The country is now suffering the penalty of an alliance with the railway companies, enforced by the requirements of good order. They attempt to use this new found friendship as a cloak to cover practices that in other times would not be tolerated. They were given their inch. They take an ell. So serious has their invasion of rights in one direction, through the complacency of the federal bench, become that the most conservative newspaper of America has felt obliged to sternly call a halt.

We believe a workman blacklisted in the manner described above has ground for both civil and criminal actions against the conspirators. The railway managers must learn that what is criminal in a hired man is criminal also in one of their own class. Felony is not wholly a matter of caste.—Chicago Post.

From the Merchants' Editor.

The decline in retail prices of ready made garments since 1890 has been surprising, even paradoxical, but its principal explanation is found in the continually lower prices paid for making up, the result of the sweating system, aided by the abnormal increase in the competition for work among the forced emigrants from Poland and Russia, unfamiliar with our language, unskilled in other pursuits, and therefore practically at the mercy of the contractors. The breaking down of prices once under way it would not have been possible for any manufacturer to refuse or neglect to avail himself of the opportunity for getting his work done cheaper, as otherwise he would soon be driven out by competition.

As things now are, however, we strongly hope that a general reorganization of this class of labor will be affected by which higher prices can be obtained and maintained. This will not hurt the manufacturer nor the public. So long as employers are substantially on the same level their trade is not injured by increased cost of their goods, while the public can certainly afford to pay and if it should be necessary will pay better prices for ready made clothing than those which have recently prevailed.

But this may not even be necessary. With free wool and a lower tariff it may be that the raw materials of the garment industry may be obtainable at sufficiently lower prices to compensate for the small advance in wages, which means the difference between slow starvation and comparative comfort to the hardworking and unfortunate operatives.—Dry Goods Economist.

What Debs Desires.

"My idea is that the various brotherhoods are in no sense and can in no sense be protective," said Eugene V. Debs in a recent interview. "Railroad companies are always ready to make an agreement with one class of organized labor and ignore the others, thus using one brotherhood perhaps to defeat another. I am contending for one centralized, unified body instead of separate organizations, which are helpless.

"As an organizer of labor for 20 years I am prepared to say that no brotherhood ever won a strike. You will be told that the Grand Trunk strike was a success, but let me remind you that the strikers in that instance were backed up by all the other labor organizations, according to the theory of the American Railway union. I think as much of the section man as the engineer, and all should be protected. The old brotherhoods have all done much good in their day, but conditions have changed, and they are not progressive enough to suit me."

Cry of the White Slave.

One Sabbath night, in the vestibule of my church, after service, a woman fell in convulsions. The doctor said she needed medicine not so much as something to eat. As she began to revive, in her delirium she said gaspingly: "Eight cents! Eight cents! I wish I could get it done! I wish I could get some sleep, but I must get it done! Eight cents!" We found afterward that she was making garments at 8 cents apiece, and that she could make but three of them in a day. Hear it! Three times 8 are 24! Hear it, men and women who have comfortable homes!—Rev. Dr. Talmage.

COMING WEEK'S PLAYS.

"Shaft No. 2" Frank L. Bixby's Startling Melodrama at the Lyceum Next Monday and Tuesday.

For Scenic Splendor and Completeness it is Said to Eclipse Anything Heretofore Produced.

Rose Coghlan and Her Company at the Temple Monday and Tuesday in Two Great Plays.

For all who love realistic melo drama the production of "Shatt No. 2" at the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday will be a delight. The height of scenic realism is reached. The play is by Frank L. Bixby, of St. Paul, and he must be a happy man if the plaudits of the people of his own city upon the production of his new play could produce that result. "Shaft No. 2" was given its initial production at the Grand on the evening of Oct. 1 to an audience that tested the capacity of the house and stamped the play with its approval. At the close of the third act the author was called out and compelled to make the inevitable speech.

The scenery is elaborate and nothing more realistic has ever been seen on the stage. In the first act the office and the electrical workshop of the Phoenix mine is shown, with the machinery in motion.

In the second act the interior of the hero's home is presented in one scene. In act three one of the finest bits of realism ever seen on the stage is shown in the thunder storm, when the plotter is struck by a bolt of lightning. One sees the livid fire descend and strike him in the breast. The company's electrician, J. C. Mayrhofer, introduces a lot of the zig-zag variety and a meteoric thunder bolt, which slides down a wire to the stage and kills the villain at a very trying moment. The storm scene is introduced with extreme naturalness from a pretty lake scene, where the moon rises beyond the rippling waters, and as the villain calls attention to the coming storm the face of the moon is scarred by clouds of gradually increasing intensity.

There is also, of course, "the bottom of the shaft," with its ascending and descending car, the disabling of the machinery by the villain, and the consequent explosion of the dynamite while the stars are in the mine but the explosive merely jars down a part of the scenery and discloses the hero and heroine embracing each other on a ledge on the upper level.

The hero being an expert electrician, whose new invention is destroyed by the villain just before his death, is suspected of having killed him, which gives the scenic artist a chance to throw himself on the dungeon and the electrocution chamber. Both are well done. Of course, the fact that the murderous lightning was providential is discovered, also providentially, just in time for the heroine to save her lover's life by persuading the superintendent of the New York Central to cut an engine off a regular passenger train and arrive at the prison fifteen minutes ahead of time with a reprieve, while the rest of the passengers walk about the platform and kick on the management.

The Minneapolis Times said of the company: "Frank Losee is the ideal of the big hearted, manly hero. Jessie West made a charming Maggie Daly, while the laughter that Marion Elmore and James F. Macdonald invoked was infectious to a degree. In fact the entire company is made of good material. Little Lelia Hulton, a St. Paul girl, made a bit as a blind girl."

ROSE COGHLAN.

With Her Company She Will be at the Temple Two Nights Next Week.

With such a play as "Diplomacy," which stands in a class by itself a masterpiece of constructive art, and so strong an organization as the Coghlan company, anything less than an inspiring dramatic success could scarcely be anticipated. It is such a success that will undoubtedly be realized at the Temple Opera house on Monday evening next, a success not of estimation nor of accident, but one growing out of that conjunction of merit in the play and well-organized and effective talent behind the footlights, which is too seldom seen in these days where any combination of insipid scenes answers for a comedy and millinery actors occupy so much of the public eye.

In simplicity of invention, effective details and sustained interest "Diplomacy" is a master piece of art, the more impressive and convincing from the fact that there is no straining after effect, no effort to provide sensational moments and none of that superheated atmosphere of Parisian intrigue or continental vice which constitute all that is alluring in so many plays of trans-Atlantic parentage. That this comedy has held the stage for more than fifteen years with almost unvarying success and is still a vehicle of dramatic art as fresh and powerful as it was in the first days of triumph, is the highest praise that can be uttered in its behalf.

As the Countess Zicka, Miss Coghlan is seen in one of her strongest roles, and it is said she costumes the part most elegantly. Her supporting company gives the piece one of the best casts it has ever had, while the special scenery and properties will add materially to the production of this great play.

On Tuesday evening Miss Coghlan will appear in "Forget Me Not." Her characterization of Stephanie in this play is said to be a marvelous creation, intensely dramatic, requiring all the powers of a gifted actress to faithfully interpret it.

AT THE LONDON THEATERS.

County Council Refused a Drinking License to the Empire Theater.

(Copyrighted, 1894, by the Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The most notable thing in connection with the past theatrical week has been the action of the county council in refusing a "drinking auditorium" license to the Empire theater and requiring the closing of its promenades. It is an incident of the annual attack upon the music halls' license by the social purity leaguers and the vigilance committees. This year the evidence against the Palace theater is mainly that two anonymous Americans have professed to have been awfully shocked at the ballet, which caused the Pall Mall Gazette to remark: "This reveals Americans in London in quite a new light."

Manager George Edwards, however, will not give in without making a sturdy fight. He announces that he will appeal to the county council and that, failing in obtaining what he considers to be justice from that body, will immediately close the Empire theater, thus throwing 1000 people out of work just as the winter is approaching.

The Palace theater, on the other hand, has succeeded in getting its license, and there was no opposition to the application of the Alhambra for its official permission to continue business as heretofore, although both of these places are considered to be equally guilty with the Empire theater in the charges brought against the latter establishment.

The kaiser has promised to be present at the opening of the Royal theater at Wiesbaden on Tuesday next. No play is produced nowadays but there is rancorous dispute as to plagiarism in connection with the main incidents, but beyond newspaper warfare the matter is not allowed to go. In France, however, they are about to carry it further, and a commission of French authors is to sit, some time in November, to try the question whether or not the plot of Signor Leon Cavallo's successful "I Pagliacao" was borrowed from "La Femme de Tabarin" of Catulle Mendes.

To an outsider the anger of Catulle Mendes seems superfluous, as the incident of an actor killing his faithless wife in full view of the audience is very old. It occurs in "Yorick," which the late Lawrence Barrett made familiar throughout the United States, which, it is well known, was taken from the Spanish "Drama Nuevo" of Tamaito. It also appears to have been the central scene in an old Italian drama called "La Rimania."

Campanini writes that he has made up his mind to settle in London as teacher and concert singer. He has been engaged for the title part in Berlioz's "Faust" at the Royal at Berthall, on Dec. 13.

Beerbohm Tree reopened the Haymarket last Monday with his remarkably successful Grundian comedy "A Bunch of Violets." During his just ended tour, in what the English are pleased to call the "provinces," Viola Tree made her debut as a page in "The Ballad Monger" and fortunately for this 10 year-old leading lady, she had the happiness of making her debut before the queen.

Mr. Tree is seriously beginning debate as to what shall succeed "The Bunch of Violets" when it shall have faded—though of this there is no sign whatever—and he has under consideration, among other manuscripts, one dealing comedy wise with Dean Swift.

Mr. Henschel's ninth season of symphony concerts will commence at the Queen's hall Nov. 1. Four of the nine concerts will be given by Henschel's Scottish orchestra, which will be rehearsed in Glasgow and which will travel up to London for these occasions.

Hayden Coffin will give a short series of vocal recitals at Steinway hall, beginning on Monday next. Admiration for Mr. Coffin's personal appearance is one of the minor cults of London.

Sir Arthur Sullivan has returned to London for the winter with his health restored. He will immediately finish the music for "King Arthur" and will then finish the music for the Empire theater ballet if the Empire is opened. Sir Arthur will then work on the oratorio for the Leeds festival.

Edith Kenward has just accepted a flattering offer to appear at the Ernst theater, Berlin, for two months next summer. She will be the only English member of the cast, which will produce "The Chinaman," Herr Adolph Ernest having bought the German rights of Tresahar's play upon seeing it here at the Trafalgar. Miss Kenward is to play her part of the American circus rider in that broken German English common to the tourist, circus rider or otherwise.

Violet Melnott has been exceedingly busy during the past week attempting to finish the details of the joint appearance of the "Chinaman" and "A Trip to Chinatown" at Toole's. The plain facts of the case are that "The Chinaman" had grown to a popular success, just when previous arrangements compelled its withdrawal—Miss Melnott having leased the Trafalgar for the production of "My Ivanhoe" from Oct. 4. On the other hand "A Trip to Chinatown" was not well enough cast to make it a success. Miss Melnott's idea was that the two could be sandwiched, playing alternate nights, and if it was found that the "Trip to Chinatown" did not pay, the successful "Chinaman" would certainly draw good business to the house.

HER DUTY TO TELL.

One of the Loveliest of Ladies Writes Our Readers a Letter They Will Never Forget. It is a Grand Letter and Well Worth Reading.

MISS E. BURKE.

We have received this remarkably interesting letter, with the accompanying beautiful portrait from Miss E. Burke, of Amoskeag, N. H., and we place them before our readers:

"Soon after graduating from school, I was stricken down with nervous prostration, and no one but God knows what I suffered.

"I was so nervous that the least little thing would cause my heart to flutter and palpitate. I was also troubled with severe headache and dizziness, which unfitted me for any mental work. I tried several highly recommended compounds, but they did me no good.

"At last, I decided to give Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a trial. What a blessing it has proved to me! I can truly say that I owe my present excellent health to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. We keep it in the house, as it cures a sick headache or neuralgia in every case, and gives immediate relief.

"I am so grateful for the good this wonderful remedy has done me, and in order that other poor sufferers may be pointed to the path of health, I deem it my duty to state what Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done for me. My faith is so strong in this grand medicine which has done me so much good, that I urge others to use it and get well. I have recommended it to several, who have tried it and been cured."

Here is the voluntary testimony of a most estimable lady, that she was cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

It is a wonderful tribute to the great value of this medicine in curing disease. There is a large class of people who, while not exactly sick, suffer from extreme nervousness, feel weak and tired, lack their old-time strength and ambition. They do not eat or sleep well, wake mornings tired, with dull-feeling head and no inclination to take hold of their work.

To all such we would recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for it will certainly give strong nerves and vigorous bodies—in fact will make you strong and well.

This medicine is recommended by doctors. It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York city. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that this medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Memorable Week With Addresses By Governor McKinley and Professor Gates.

This week has been a memorable one in the history of the school. Not only was an opportunity given the students to hear one of the greatest political leaders of the day, but also one of the foremost educators in the country.

On Monday morning the students were thrown into a fever of excitement when it was announced that Governor McKinley would probably address them during the day. At about 10:30 the pupils of the grades were marched into the balcony of the assembly hall, and the high school students assembled on the main floor. When the governor entered the scholars were singing "America" with a hearty good will.

After the conclusion of the song, Governor McKinley came forward. He said, the occasion reminded him of a time when he addressed an audience of school children at Galena, Ill., in 1857. Gen. Grant, then a captain, was in the audience, "yet," he continued, "that man, though almost unknown at that time rose until he was the nation's chief; and the way is open to each and all of you to ascend to any position to which your merits entitle you." The governor congratulated the scholars on their fine building, saying that it was undoubtedly the finest in the United States. He concluded his remarks by advising his audience to prize character more than anything else, as it was essential to success and happiness.

The same morning several ministers from the Methodist conference visited the school and Rev. Carver delivered a short address.

"When asked to appear before you this morning, I was told that if I was unable to spare more time, five minutes would suffice, but when a speaker starts he usually considers an hour and a half as a reasonable length for a speech. However, I will time myself by your clock and speak for five minutes (pointing at clock on stage which had stopped at 2 o'clock). While talking about your clock I would like to ask if it represents the spirit of the school in being ahead of the times? Or is it behind the times?

"Now I propose to give you some advice. I suppose you don't care much for advice; most likely you have already more than you are able to carry. But mine will be in such a compact form that you cannot possibly forget it. In fact I will guarantee it to remain in your minds forty years and though the whole of you may be against me in this guarantee I am going to risk it, for I propose to tie my advice in a very small bundle consisting of three words. It is, 'stick to it.' Now let me tell you there is great value attached to those words. The girls of our schools hold out longer than the boys in the matter of 'sticking.' Why, if anyone happens along and offers a boy $15 a month, he is scared out of his wits and dare not refuse. In the schools which I have visited, I find from three to twenty girls for every boy. Let me tell you the girls are coming to the front. Look at our universities and colleges, crowded and besieged with them. The fact is, boys, the women are going to run this world after a while. I am glad ——, was going to say I was glad I would be out of the way, but that would be very ungallant. However, it is a foregone conclusion that women are marching to the front.

"Now, what about this building; of course it is fine, the finest in the Union. But what I want to impress on you is, don't bank on the building. Don't say because I am attending this grand building I must naturally be wise. Allow me to tell you there are student in the backwoods, living in log cabins, who are digging into their books and obtaining more knowledge from them than you are in this grand building. Your beautiful building, industrious city and fine scenery cannot make you wise, you must dig for wisdom.

"We want men of honest purpose, stern integrity and faultless character, who can stand firm and immovable against the mighty flood of corruption, vice and immorality which comes in a lifetime. These are the men we need to run our government. They can place it on a firm and solid basis."

At the teachers' meeting Thursday afternoon it was decided that the usage of the title "professor," referring to high school teachers, was a decided misuse of the title. Outside of a college or university, it is not usually considered an honor for an instructor to have such a prefix to his name.

At a meeting of the joint committee on Friday afternoon the name "Zenith" was selected for the high school annual. The name is characteristic of the city and its schools and will remain permanent hereafter. The board of editors of the Zenith will hold a meeting next Monday afternoon.

The Adelphic society rendered the following program Friday afternoon.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Max Worth's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter county, Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa remedy. For sale by all druggists.

Duluth Jobbers All Report a Fine Increase in the Trade and Good Future Prospects.

Territory is Being Extended Constantly and Nearly Every House is Adding More Traveling Men.

Discrimination Against Duluth By One Railroad is Complained of—Interviews With the Wholesale Men.

That Duluth is rapidly gaining in importance as a wholesale distributing point may not be doubted now, if it ever has been. A glance at the older wholesale and jobbing houses, which have firmly established a business to which additions are being made every day, as the new houses which come in later and are quickly spreading out their lines of trade through the surrounding country, is sufficiently convincing.

Not only has Duluth within the past few years added greatly to her tributary territory, but the country constituting her sole domain has developed greatly. Much of the territory lately added comes from that formerly tributary to Minneapolis and St. Paul, and Duluth is gradually encroaching still further into that territory. Many dealers speak of the importance of having new jobbing houses.

Several wholesalers have reported one difficulty which has been a source of some trouble. One of the railway lines has by defective freight delivery and differential rates made what seemed almost like an attempt at discrimination against Duluth, it is said. The situation is somewhat better now, and promises have been made by the officials of the road regarding changes which will undoubtedly be made, thus removing this apparent discrimination.

How Wholesalers Talk.

Below The Herald gives a few interviews with the heads of some of the wholesale houses of Duluth. If space permitted, many more of the same nature might be given, but the following, chosen at random, should be sufficient to give some idea of the progress that has been made. The times through which we have been passing should be taken into consideration in order to realize the situation in its fullest extent. What the story might have been under ordinary conditions of business it is impossible to say.

All the merchants unite in saying that the territory is constantly enlarging and developing. The Mesaba range, which has lately been added, the Rainy Lake country, the Vermilion range, all of these are regions of magnificent resources yet almost undeveloped, which when settled and yielding the treasures with which the earth and soil are full, will be tributary only to Duluth. Following are the statements of a few managers of Duluth wholesale houses. In the face of the experiences of business men of the country in the past eighteen months, they are remarkable.

Stone-Ordean company, grocers, by F. A. Patrick, manager: We have been making all progress we could expect in these times, and more. All of Duluth's wholesale houses are gradually extending their territory, and I think that is going to be the program for the future. The growth of business within our own territory has been large, and with the return of better times it will be larger. The new wholesale houses which have been established lately are significant. They came without any flourish of trumpets, because they knew the place and its possibilities. The new packing companies with their new buildings show the faith which those outside have in the city.

Outlook is Bright.

Sagar Drug company, drugs and pharmaceutical supplies, by Charles H. Sagar, president: We are a new firm, having been established only since April 1, so we have no comparisons to make. We simply know that business is growing and that there is a much better feeling in the trade. The outlook is much brighter for the future. Of course we have to divert all our trade among the country merchants from other places, but we are doing well and are satisfied that there is no reason why we cannot pull it our way.

Duluth Rubber company, rubber footwear, by C. M. Rice, manager: Our situation makes us better qualified to speak for the future than the past. We are as yet hardly established, but we believe that this is a magnificent field for our line of goods. We are well satisfied with our reception by the trade and the fact that we have established our business here shows that we have faith in the future of Duluth.

Wells-Stone Mercantile company, grocers, by C. C. Prindle, manager: The situation may be summed up in a few words. Our business is growing all the time, and we are constantly adding new territory. We have a great advantage over St. Paul and Minneapolis in summer by reason of lake freights and in winter we are on an equal footing with them on railroad rates. Our trade is growing not only around here but in Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and in North Dakota. The new branch of the Great Northern from Fosston will, if built, open up a large country which will be directly tributary to Duluth.

Increasing in Importance.

Marshall-Wells Hardware company, hardware, by A. M. Marshall, president: We are increasing our business and Duluth is increasing in importance, and we shall increase right along. The more the railroads take this into consideration and grant concessions to us, the more progress we shall make. We have low rates from, and we always shall have as long as the tonnage is greater from here than from the East and they want freight to Duluth as ballast. So Duluth will always be a great distributing point. I think in time the railroads will see that they are standing in their own light and then they will do us justice.

Duluth Dry Goods company, dry goods; B. J. West, Jr.: The dry goods business is in a very healthy condition, and has increased greatly in the past ninety days. Duluth is growing in importance as a wholesale distributing point rapidly, and she is adding new friends every year. Our salesmen tell us that out in Dakota, when the name of Duluth is mentioned, the merchants are all very willing to examine their goods where a few years ago it was difficult to impress them with the idea that there might be other distributing points besides St. Paul and Minneapolis.

More Houses Needed.

Duluth Shoe company, footwear, by R. F. Fitzgerald, president: Talk about Duluth's growing importance as a wholesale distributing point? Well, we ought to; we are one of the growing institutions. We now cover ten states with our goods and have no difficulty in selling. The name of Duluth is well received everywhere, and all are favorable. They would as soon buy their goods at Duluth as anywhere. We have two men in Iowa, one in Nebraska, and we work Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, the two Dakotas, Montana, Idaho and Washington. We have twelve men on the road and 100 in the factory. Our trade is good, especially in custom-made goods, the orders for which are more than the factory can supply. There is a good demand also for all other lines. The expressions from trade are all favorable to Duluth. They ship their wheat here and they like to trade here. What we want is more jobbing houses, especially a hat and cap house. It would be a big advantage if all lines were represented. The sales this year have been much larger though the demand has been for cheaper grades. Our last month's business was better than any month since we started.

J. S. Shinners & Co., confectioners, by George D. Lucore, manager: The country tributary to Duluth is enlarging every day. All the merchants we come in contact with are favorable to Duluth, and we have no trouble in placing goods. In our line we have no fear of competition from St. Paul and Minneapolis, for in reasonable bounds the merchants are as willing to buy in Duluth as in the Twin Cities. Our only trouble is in slow delivery of freight on one of the railroad lines entering Duluth.

Fine Distributing Point.

Armour Packing company, meats and provisions, by James C. Fisher, manager: Duluth is certainly an advantageous distributing point. The advantages for shipping are better than in St. Paul and Minneapolis. The packing houses here cover the ranges, Grand Rapids and La Prairie, Aitkin, Hinckley, and on the South Shore road as far as Nestoria, including of course all the intermediate territory. In that country of course the advantages are vastly in favor of Duluth.

Crane & Ordway company, mining, mill and lumbermen's supplies, etc., by W. H. Blades, manager: Yes, sir, Duluth should be the base of supplies for the whole Northwestern country. There is room and a field for every jobbing interest, and it is only a question of time before they realize it all over the country and settle here. We are receiving more demands all the time from country that has been tributary to St. Paul. A great deal of attention is being called to Duluth, and the more lines we have represented here the more attention will be attracted.

T. B. Hawkes & Co., flour, feed, etc.: Duluth is possessed of immense natural advantages, and is bound to get to the front as a wholesale distributing point.

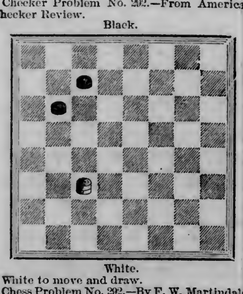

J. J. Hartley & Co., flour, feed, etc.: Yes, the field is increasing. Of course we do not send out much except on the ranges, but shippers from the country prefer when they can to send their stuff to Duluth commission houses because they can get a market here.

By the way, most of these merchants note a steady improvement in business from the late depression despite the bearish plaints of the ubiquitous calamity howler. Nearly all anticipate a fairly good winter, owing to the demand for supplies in the woods, where work will be heavy this year on account of the forest fires of the summer.

IS THERE SMUGGLING?

Government Inspector Will Investigate Stories of Illegal Importations of Opium.

The old story of opium smuggling is again cropping up. Stories are afloat to the effect that somebody is doing a thriving business by carrying opium between Port Arthur and Superior and omitting the formality of informing the customs officials of the fact and of paying the exorbitant price Uncle Sam asks for the privilege of allowing the drug to come within his domains.

The story goes that a Frenchman in Port Arthur, who is supposed to be an honest fisherman, is carrying out a little side issue in the shape of opium smuggling. He takes his little fishing smack out of Port Arthur and goes down to Isle Royale to fish. In a snug little corner of his craft he is supposed to surreptitiously store a quantity of opium. When he gets to Isle Royale he goes on with his fishing and when opportunity offers he conceals the opium in some spot known to himself and his partner in the enterprise.

Over in Superior, so the story runs, there lives a Norwegian who is also supposed to earn an honest living by fishing and who also does his fishing at Isle Royale. He is the other end of the chain, and when he goes down to Isle Royale he gets the opium and brings it to Superior, there to dispose of it as best he may.

The rumors of opium smuggling have been frequent, and the customs officials are always more or less on the outlook for it. While the story is not founded upon any certain basis it is being told in good faith and is probably true, as it is quite plausible. It is understood that a deputy inspector went to Isle Royale yesterday to investigate the Frenchman and his colleague, the Norwegian.

The customs officials have nothing to say about the matter, except to say that such rumors have been prevalent for some time. The case would come in the province of Special Agent Moore.

The Municipal Court.

Judge Powell's municipal court sitting this morning was very brief. Otto Erickson, for being drunk, was given a suspended sentence on account of his large family. Charles Gilbertson, who appeared to be on the verge of delirium tremens, went on the bill for ten days. W. C. Sloop, for begging on the street, had the option of $5 or five days in jail. William Berg, charged with using abusive language, and John Manning, for stealing cinders from the St. Paul & Duluth road were both dismissed without trial.

Custom Officials Rushed.

The rush of Manitoba wheat through Duluth is keeping the custom house officials working night and day. It has been found necessary to remove Deputy Collector G. L. Roberts from the Dixon and place him in the office on account of his knowledge of the work. A special deputy will take his place on the Dixon.

TAKES OFFICE MONDAY

John T. Black Selected as Chief Engineer of the Fire Department By the Commissioners Today.

Chief Jackson Presented His Resignation Which Was Promptly Accepted—His Future Intentions Not Known.

Operating Expenses Will Remain the Same Under Black and No Sweeping Changes Are Expected.

It will be Chief Engineer John T. Black, of the Duluth fire department, after 7 o'clock Monday morning next, he having been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chief Engineer Edward Jackson, which was handed in to the board of fire commissioners at their meeting this morning. The following letter addressed to the board explains itself:

"Gentlemen—I hereby tender my resignation as chief engineer of the Duluth fire department, to take effect Oct. 15, at 7 a. m. Thanking you all for the cordial support you have given me while in office, I remain, yours truly,

EDWARD JACKSON."

The resignation was accepted and Mr. Black was immediately appointed to fill the vacancy. He will take charge Monday and will have absolute and complete control. He will not make any sweeping changes in the department, neither will he increase the operating expenses. It is not known whom he will select for his assistant but any story about importing men to fill positions is clap-trap and nonsense. He will not do so. Chief Jackson's business intentions are at present unknown.

Capt. Kelliher, of the hook and ladder truck, has already left. There is a great enmity between him and Black and the same department would hardly hold both.

WILL START A NURSERY.

Park Board Has Secured the Macomber Place For That Purpose.

Secretary Helm, of the board of park commissioners, leaves tomorrow on his trip to Minneapolis and Chicago to purchase trees, plants and flowering bulbs. In addition to the proposed work of the commission which has already been published, the board has secured the use of about four acres of land on Fifteenth avenue east and between Fifth and Sixth streets where they will start a nursery. The property is the old Macomber place and the expense of preparing it will be almost nothing. It will be enclosed with a woven wire fence and stocked with about 50,000 young trees which will be delivered here next spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground. These young trees will cost the commission not to exceed $1.25 per 1000 and they will be planted in the nursery and kept there two or three years, or until there is a call for them or they are big enough to set out in the parks or along the driveways. Trees sufficiently large for the latter purpose cost from 50 cents to $1 each, so the saving by the proposed plan is apparent.

Another advantage is the acclimating of the trees and the short time in which they can be removed from the nursery to their place of permanent growth thereby greatly lessening the liability to loss from a long exposure of the roots to the sun and air.

PROVIDING LOCKERS.

Police Officers Are to Have Places to Keep Their Accoutrements Safely.

Some very sweeping changes are being made in the upper story of the central police station. In order to lessen the many reports of missing belts, gloves, boots, coats, etc., the chief has ordered a row of lockers constructed across the entire west side of the front room, and each policeman will be given a key to his particular locker and will be required to place both his private and city accoutrements inside and lock them up when not in use. A number of improvements have been made to the reserve officers' dormitory in the rear.

Chief Armstrong has hit upon a happy scheme of having the work done at no expense to the city except the materials. The day operator on the police telephone system is an expert cabinet maker and does the work between the times when the officers make their reports.

W. J. Hull's Speech.

FOR WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

Mrs. Julia B. Nelson Spoke at the Bethel in That Interest Last Evening.

Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, an exponent of the woman's suffrage movement, delivered an address before a Bethel audience last evening. Mrs. Nelson asserted the superiority of women in many things and their equality in all the balance. She aimed to show how great a power woman exercises in social life and based her plea for more general woman's rights on the statement that society and social life must be protected. She urged a general opening of the use of the ballot for women as a protection for her sex.

She claimed that as civilization advanced the rights of woman were more and more recognized and recited a few instances of ancient and semi-barbaric laws and practices in the observance of which women were necessarily sufferers. The speaker pointed out how, in the last few years, women had been more and more recognized and could now be found on an equality with men in many vocations of life. She closed with a flattering allusion to Mrs. Bangs' candidacy for the office of superintendent of schools and in the latter plea Mrs. S. B. Stearns and Hugh Wetmore joined.

THE GAY PROFESSOR.

Additional Stories Are Told About the Scotch Dancer.

William Gallon, of Minneapolis, does not propose to let Professor J. A. Walker off if there is any redress to be had at law.

"I wrote a letter to him night before last," said he to a reporter, "and told him that if he did not keep his mouth shut up there in Winnipeg I should turn his case over to the state and since writing I have about concluded to do it anyway. He has abused myself and family, maligned innocent people and defrauded others, and, if anything can be done to such a man, I think that the law should take its course."

"Thomas Jimerson, the young plumber whom he falsely accuses of intimacy with my little girl, is badly broken up over the accusation and he has called at my house several times of late to see what I was going to do about the matter. I again affirm what I have said before, that the young man to my knowledge has never visited my house within a year and I know him to be entirely innocent of Walker's malicious charge.

"I believe, too, that Walker ruined that young girl whom he took with him to Duluth. Her parents lived in Chicago and she in company with another young lady traveled with him as his violinist. The young lady boarded with Chief Runge's family while she was here, and message after message came to Walker at our house from her mother asking, 'Where is Alice? Why don't you tell me something about her?' Then he went to Duluth with her and the next thing we heard was that Alice was in a hospital up there suffering with what Walker wrote her mother was 'typhoid fever.'

"Does he owe much money to others? Well, I should say so! My wife was bothered to death with callers who rang the door bell from morning till night inquiring for 'Professor' Walker that they might present their bills. His letter to that Winnipeg paper is a barefaced lie from beginning to end. In it he declares he paid my wife $70 on his board bill while in a letter to me he says he paid her $60. He never paid one red cent to her from the moment he entered our house.

"And that telegram to me stating that a friend of his would be down here yesterday to fix matters up was a 'fake' too. The friend he referred to was Simon Clark, one of the most prominent merchants in Duluth, but neither Mr. Clark nor anyone else has shown up as yet.

"The story of my trouble has reached Pittsburg where I used to live five years ago, and let me tell you I have some friends there whom it would not be healthy for Walker to meet should he ever come to that part of the country."

Miss Swanton's Entertainment.

The audience at Masonic hall last evening to hear Miss Ella Leotta Swanton was rather small but the entertainment was excellent. A variety of recitations, humorous and pathetic, together with one or two from Shakespeare, were given and all were warmly applauded. One or two clever impersonations were given. Miss Swanton has a remarkable voice, its range and variety of tones being remarkable. The entertainment closed with a series of posings which were to many the most interesting and pleasing part of the evening's program.

A quartet consisting of N. A. Gearhart, H. S. Moody, J. P. Johnson and Charles McMillen sang several numbers and Mrs. Moody gave a solo.

Father Cleary's Lecture.

The lecture on "American Citizenship" which was to have been delivered last night has been postponed until Sunday evening. Father Cleary was unavoidably detained in Minneapolis yesterday. As an orator he is well known through this and neighboring states and his lectures on temperance and in behalf of the rights of labor have created favorable comment throughout the country. Everyone should hear him.

The ladies of the French church, who have been arduously at work for the past three weeks, have met with much encouragement from their friends and their efforts so far have been crowned with unexpected success, as will be noticed by the grand display of fancy work, useful and ornamental, which will be shown at their bazar opening in Central hall, corner Twelfth avenue west and Michigan street, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 16 and continuing till Oct. 26. A delicious supper a la Francaise, will be served every evening. There will be music and singing and many novel features will be introduced. There will be mirth and enjoyment for all. Visitors will be cordially welcomed and entertained in excellent style, such as the French alone know how to.

Rev. J. M. Cleary's lecture in the Temple opera Sunday evening should be heard by everyone. Miss Anna Farrell and N. S. Murphy will sing.

America Leads the Nations in the March of Progress.

Among the wonders of the World's Columbian Fair the grandest was the exhibit of American products. The Exhibition was, in this respect, an object lesson of the grandeur and glory of the Republic. Among the exhibits from the United States no article of its class stood so high as

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

The Chief Chemist of the Agricultural Department at Washington, backed by an intelligent jury at the Exposition, found it strongest in leavening power, peerless in its purity and beyond comparison in uniform excellence, Received Highest Award At the World's Fair.

The award is a matter of official record.

Nothing could settle so decisively the immeasureable superiority of Dr. Price's over all other powders as the great honor bestowed at Chicago.
